Many of the regular habituees have traded there for years, and their fathers before them. Most of them sell the real stuff—gold watches and chains, silver and pearls beyond question. There are also perfectly legitimate sales of imitations of the genuine article.

Some of the biggest Hatton Garden merchants come to Houndsditch to trade—sure proof of the good business in the district. They pay, too, in hard cash.

Articles are often sold and resold among dealers several times. On such occasions the market looks like the New York curb market on a busy day.

Not the least picturesque part of the market is that pearls and amethysts, diamonds and red gold are lying helter skelter like a Monte Cristo hoard—set against the dirt and squalor of the little carts.

GIVE KNOX COLLEGE TO ANTI-UNIONISTS

Report Says Provision is Made for Concessions By Unionists.

TORONTO, March 27 (Canadian Press).—According to reports in circulation at the Ontario Parliament buildings, provision is made in the draft bill on Church Union, which is being prepared by a subcommittee of the Private Bills Committee by which Knox College in this city is given to the anti-Unionists, and an arrangement made whereby persons adhering to either side in the controversy will be allowed to use the library which will be administered by a joint trustee board. It is stated that Congregational property will follow the congregations on a bare majority vote, and in cases of serious difference, the matter will be referred to an Ontario commission.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

THE SCREEN'S GREATEST LAUGH IN YEARS— YOU CAN'T STAY AWAY

"Lord Chumley" a Paramount picturization of the stage hit, by David Belasco and Henry C. DeMille, is the feature at the Capitol Theatre today.

Viola Dana, Theodore Roberts and Raymond Griffith are featured in the principal roles of the production written for the screen by Bertram Millhauser and directed by Paul Iribe and Frank Urson.

The story is a melodramatic comedy and has to do with the Hon. Lord Algernon Cholomondeley — Chumley for short—who, in one of the funniest pictures you've seen in years, succeeds in solving a mystery, saving a family name and winning the girl he loves.

Theodore Roberts, cigar and all, is back as big as life in this one. He is cast as a retired admiral. An international crook steals some valuble fortifiction plans from his son, a naval lieutenant. It means prison for the young fellow and disgrace to the Butterworth family name if the papers are not recovered within forty-eight hours.

Chumley, in love with Eleanor Butterworth (Viola Dana), sets about the solution of the mystery and his "detecting" lands him in many an uncomfortable position from which he manages to extricate himself in a most amusing manner.

You'll get a big laugh out of the scenes where the horse he is riding sits down on the edge of a fountain and sends Chumley sliding into a fountain. You'll laugh still harder at Chumley's antics with a clever little dog in the production which is forever revealing his hiding place to his pursuers. And you'll laugh your head off at the final scenes which find Chumley and Eleanor "safe" on a navy target far out in the ocean being fired upon by the guns of the Pacific fleet at target practice.

William Boyd has the role of the young lieutenant who loses the navy documents and starts all the trouble. Cyril Chadwick is the Butterworth family lawyer, crooked and in league with an Oriental girl, played by Anna May Wong, who vamps young Butterworth and steals the keys to the navy office from him and makes away with the fortification plans.

AT THE ROYAL

RALPH GORDON, CARTOONIST, AT ROYAL.

Ralph Gordon, the well-known Toronto cartoonist and entertainer, is on the boards at the Royal until Saturday night, with a daily matinee. His offering was well received. Opening with rag pictures, then colored painting effect, he goes into his rapid trick drawings. His talk also is effective and got many laughs. He has a special performance for the children at Saturday matinee.

'IN HOLLYWOOD WITH POTASH AND PERLMUTTER,' CLEVER COMEDY.

Because of the depression in the cloak and suit business in New York, one of the most famous firms has closed its doors temporarily. It is none other than Potash and Perlmutter. These famous partners, heroes of five different stage plays and a score of short stories, have become movie magnates, and their adventures in that field are the subject of the new Samuel Goldwyn's production "In Hollywood with Potash and Perlmutter," which is the current First National picture at the Royal Theatre.

This new field for the business endeavors of Messrs. Potash and Perlmutter, or Abe and Mawruss, as they are more familiarly known, is said to provide them with even greater opportunity for a display of their keen wit than was theirs in the cloak and suit industry. The cast of "In Hollywood with Potash and Perlmutter," consists of George Sidney, Alexander Carr, Betty Blythe and Vera Gordon and other favorites. The picture will remain at the Royal Theatre until Saturday night.

Another clean little feature is 'The Flower Girl,' with Baby Peggy. The settings in this short subject is worthy of the biggest production. Baby Peggy is as cute as ever and the grown-ups as well as the kiddies will like her. "The Iron Man" continues to try to kill himself, at least it takes a lot of chances. A scenic fishing and moose-hunting in the Canadian Rockies is very interesting. Ralph Gordon, cartoonist and entertainer, is reviewed elsewhere.

Sabatini, Famous Author, won the $10,000 Prize Offered to the Best Story to be made into a Photoplay in 1924. Scaramouche Comes to the Royal on Monday next, with an Augmented Orchestra, and the Original Music Score used in its Phenomenal Run at the 44st Street Theatre in New York.

Novarro, young, handsome, a dashing cavalier, has the role of Andre-Louis Moreau, born of nobility, but who dedicates his life to the cause of the oppressed French people when his best friend is killed by the Marquis de la Tour d'Azyr. Lewis Stone is the haughty, philandering, aristocratic Marquis to the life.

Sick at heart because his boyhood sweetheart, Aline, beautifully played by Alice Terry, accepts the attentions of La Tour, Andre-Louis renounces the nobility, and joins a band of strolling players. He becomes Scaramouche, the clown, the idol of the theatre public. In a fit of bitterness, he becomes engaged to Climene, his leading lady, but he separates from her when he learns she has become a plaything of the Marquis. One day from the stage, Scaramouche steps out of his character and denounces the aristocracy and La Tour, who is seated in a box, and is attacked by the populace.

Seven months were consumed in making "Scaramouche," while hundreds of persons, costumers, carpenters, assistant directors and cameramen worked night and day. The massive sets occupied many city blocks, and represent a mammoth fortune. The result has been a super-photoplay that holds audiences spellbound. The story was adapted to the screen by Willis Goldbeck, and photographed by John F. Seitz. Curt Rehfeld was the production manager, and Grant Whytock, editor. The costumes designed by O'Kane Cornwell and Evamay Roth, were executed by Van Horn.

AT THE REGENT

"THE DIXIE HANDICAP" FILM OF RACING AND ROMANCE.

New Reginald Barker Production Promises Fine Entertainment; Has Exciting Story and a Cast Including Frank Keenan, Claire Windsor and Lloyd Hughes.

A racing story that has interest for all is the promise made for "The Dixie Handicap," Reginald Barker's newest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, which is at the Regent Theatre to-day. This picture is said to contain some of the most exciting horse race scenes ever filmed and at the same time tells a beautiful love story.

"The Dixie Handicap" is a film version of "Dixie," a story by Gerald Beaumont which appeared in the Red Book Magazine, and in its screen form is reported to follow the original idea very closely and add an extra thrill by presenting the racing scenes in authentic locations. Mr. Barker took a company all the way from the Culver City studios to Latonia, Kentucky, to film the climax during the running of the International stakes in which Epinard, the French champion, lost.

Johnny Sheridan is saved from imprisonment for stealing a meal by Judge Roberts, when the latter learns he is a well-known horse trainer. Out of gratitude Johnny stays with the Judge through many bitter months of poverty, caring for the Judge's favorite horse, Southern Melody. When Southern Melody is killed while protecting her filly, Dixie, from a cougar, Johnny devotes his time to developing the colt.

Brant Dexter, personal representative of Peter Bosworth (New York millionaire and race horse fancier) asks the Judge to speak favorably of him to Virginia. As his son-in-law, Dexter tells the Judge he can save him from ruin, since Bosworth has bought all the overdue notes and mortgages. The Judge refuses to make such a bargain.

Learning that Virginia has agreed to marry Dexter in order to save her father, the Judge accepts Bosworth's $10,000 offer for Dixie and sends Virginia to Europe. Johnny, who has formed a great love for Virginia, breathes a sigh of relief.

Because of ill-treatment, Dixie is unmanageable in her first race and stumbles over the barrier, pulling a tendon. Bosworth is disgusted, and is all for shooting the horse, but when Johnny offers him eighty dollars for the crippled horse, he accepts and tells Johnny to take the animal out of his sight.

Under the care of Johnny, Dixie recovers and just as Virginia comes home, runs in the great Latonia sweepstakes. This situation is led up to in interesting style, and the climax promises some of the most exciting kind of screen entertainment.

Waldemar Young made the adaptation. Cedric Gibbons was art director, Percy Hilburn the photographer, Harry Schenck was assistant director, and Daniel Gray film editor.

GERARD SAYS HE HAS SECURED IRWIN BAILEY FOR MONTREAL

Expects Signature of Peterborough Right Wing to Maroon Contract.

START IN N.H.L.

MONTREAL, March 27.—(Special to The Examiner).—Eddie Gerard announced at Ottawa last night that he had practically signed Irwin Bailey, dashing right wing player for the Peterborough O.H.A. team for the Montreal Maroons, and Bailey was almost a sure starter in the N.H.A. League next winter. Gerard stated that he had been in touch with the Peterborough flash and that Bailey was willing to sign and that his signature to a contract will come within a day or two, when Gerard meets him at Peterborough. Bailey has been highly recommended to the Montreal owners by club scouts. He formerly played in Toronto, his home city.

Bailey will be the second amateur player from the Senior O.H.A. to be signed within the past three week by the Montreal team, reports from Niagara Falls being to the effect that Babe Siebert had accepted the terms offered by the Montreal club officers. Kitchen of the Falls was also offered terms, and while he stated that if he turns professional, he would aline himself with the Montreal club, so far the State's defence man has not given any further indication of his stand.

GOLF'S MAN OF SCIENCE

Chick Evans So Described Chester Horton, Who Will Write for The Examiner.

Here's great news for golfers! Chester Horton, described by "Chick" Evans as "Golf's Man of Science," is coming to town.

This greatest of golf instructors national sectional and local, says: "The most important thing in adult life nowadays is to learn to play—good golf."

In 25 years of golf teaching, Horton has given 70,000 lessons to learning golfers.

Of the average business-man Horton says:

"Roll this strange bug over in his golf rut and you find invariably that his sense of the golf swing is minus—he needs my straight line for his hips."

The "straight line", the Chester Horton "pull down" and other Horton principals that make good golfers are described in this superb daily feature.

The best part of it, with Chester Horton's ideas, is that YOU can step out to your course and APPLY them. He talks a golf language that you can understand.

GIBBONS NOT SIGNED.

Manager Asks Time to Consider Bout Terms.

Kane gave no indication that he would reject the offer, but pleaded for more time to consider it.

Deforrest said he had offered Kane thirty per cent. of the receipts, which would amount to more than $100,000 as Gibbon's share, provided the gate reached above $400,000. Deforrest figures the match will draw between $400,000 and $500,000.

RUTH SAYS HE'LL BE IN SHAPE

Has Boiled Down From 254 to 230 and Will Reduce Further—Expects Good Year.

BY BILLY EVANS

ST. PETERSBURG, March 27.—Don't take too seriously the reports that are wafted north that Babe Ruth is broke physically and financially.

The Babe is still able to take nourishment, rides around in a car that costs in five figures and at present is not in need of any benefit games.

However, I am far more interested in Babe's physical condition than his financial rating. Prior to reaching the camp of the Yankees I had everywhere been told that Ruth was hog fat, would never be in shape to start the season.

Just as Heavy.

True, after looking Babe over carefully it was apparent that he was far from a perfect 36, but in previous years he has been just as heavy in spring practice.

"You're a little heavy this spring," was Ruth's greeting to me before I had a chance to comment on his condition or talk about it.

"Only 10 pounds. What about yourself. The report is that you are ready to be a sideshow attraction, 50 pounds overweight." Ruth laughed, got to his feet, threw out the chest, pulled in at the waistline, and said:

"Do I look it?" I had to admit that he didn't.

"What do you weigh?" I asked.

"An even 230, which is 15 pounds overweight or 20 if drawn fine." When I kiddingly asked him to prove it he went to the dressing room, got on the scales and did that very thing.

"Every year for the past five seasons they have been counting me out of the running because I am too fat, not a chance to get into shape.

"I'm no featherweight. It's natural for me to be fat and I like to eat. Every year I report about 25 pounds or more overweight in the spring. Little exercise and much food during the winter do it.

"When I went to Hot Springs in February I weighed 254 pounds, the heaviest I have ever been. When I left there I weighed 228. After a few days' work here I was down to 24, then I splintered a bone in one of my fingers and have since picked up six pounds, due to a week of idleness.

Seeks New Record.

"Possibly some day too much extra weight is going to drive me out of baseball but it won't be in 1925. You can tell those interested that I will be fit by April 14 and that my old black bat is all set for a busy season.

"My home-run record of 59 may stand but I sure am shooting at 60."

There you have the low down on Babe Ruth, baseball's most colorful figure, the player who in the last six years has practically revolutionized the style of play in baseball.

CANOEIST NOW AT MARSEILLES

Has Still a Month to Complete Wagered Trip to Rome.

WEATHER HINDERS.

MARSEILLES, France, March 27.—Drenched to the skin but cheerful to a degree George H. C. Smythe the Canadian canoeist, who set out last August from Pictou, N. S., to paddle to Rome, except for the trip across the Atlantic, reached Marseilles on Thursday.

The canoeist arrived in England by steamer from New York, last fall, and proceeded with his boat to Dover, on the English Channel. His first attempt to make the passage across the Channel from Dover to Calais was unsuccessful, but he negotiated the some twenty miles on his next effort.

From Calais, Smythe paddled to Paris and thence proceeded way of Lyons for Marseilles. He left Lyons at 9.30 o'clock, March 22 and averaged more than 62 miles a day down the river Rhone. His progress, however, was greatly retarded once he reached the open sea, where short, choppy waves continually broke over his canoe. He complained that on the Mediterranean the wind was colder than in the Gulf of St. Lawrence during a north easter.

"The weather has been unfavorable," said Smythe on his arrival here. I have been wet through every day and had no time to admire the scenery. If the mistral abates I will leave on Friday for Rome. I have yet thirty days to make the Italian capital in order to win my bet."

DISTRICT SOCCER LEAGUE PROPOSED

Trent Towns May Be Linked Together This Season.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 27.—H. Cubitt and Matt Sargeant, who took an active part in the organization of the Church Football League last year are already taking steps to form a Junior and a Senior team for this season. The league as it existed last year will not be renewed. All those willing to join either a Junior or Senior team are requested to leave their names either with Mr. Cubitt or Mr. Sargeant, and if a sufficient number can be secured, a meeting will be called to organize.

It is understood here that none of the football teams in Peterboro will affiliate with the Ontario Association this year, but will form a city league. Mr. Cubitt favors the idea of organizing in this district a league to include Campbellford, Warkworth, Stirling, Hastings and Havelock, and to put up cups for Juniors and Seniors, the winner to play off with the leaders in the Peterboro League.

ALEXA STIRLING WEDS.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 22.—Miss Alexandra Williamson Stirling become the wife of Dr. Wilbert Grieve Fraser, of Ottawa at the home of the bride's parents here, last evening. Only a few intimate friends of the two families witnessed the ceremony.

Dr. Stirling, former British Consul at Atlanta, gave his daughter in marriage. The bride's only attendant was Miss Josephine Windle of Port Washington, L. I.

After the ceremony there was a reception in the East Lake Golf Club, where the trophy room had been graced by many cups won by Mrs. Fraser while she has been one of the foremost women golfers of the world.

At the reception someone asked Mrs. Fraser if it was her intention to give up golf competition, to which the former national champion replied that she had not decided.

For three years Mrs. Fraser was national champion, and for three years after that she made a very successful business of selling bonds in New York City.

The ceremony was the culmination of a romance which began in 1921 in Ottawa, where the then Miss Stirling was playing in a Canadian championship. She lost the semi-final round, and in the evening she sat next to Dr. Fraser at a dinner party.

TERSE TIPS ON SPORT

The game went 10 innings, Cincinnati winning, 1 to 0. Toney didn't allow a solitary safety during the entire battle and for the first nine frames Vaughn also hurled hitless ball.

Vaughn faltered in the tenth, however, and was consequently credited with one of the toughest defeats in baseball annals.

CARIBOU COME BACK

What has become of the caribou in eastern North America

It wasn't so many years ago that this shy denizen of the barren and muskeg was quite plentiful in New Brunswick, central Quebec, central Ontario and even Maine. We read of the great herds in Newfoundland, the unlimited migrating bands in Labrador and Ungava. Where are those timid wanderers today?

The sight of a caribou band in Maine would command front page comment in the daily paper. They so nearly disappeared in New Brunswick that the government put a closed season on them several years ago. There are some in northern Nova Scotia, but they are not plentiful there. There has also been a scattering group here and there in New Brunswick, but the closed season has not helped.

Twenty years ago, in the Kipawa district of Quebec and in the Temiskaming district of Ontario, caribou were numerous. Just one of these beautiful members of the deer family sighted in those comparatively close-in hunting grounds would be an event today.

Frank Jawbone, noted guide and meat-hunter to the Kipawa-Temiskaming district, told me caribou were there in "droves" 20 years ago. 'Meat nisishin, queek sell," explains matters for Frank's country. Nishishin means "beautiful."

Not so very many years ago caribou were common in Quebec, south of Lake St. John. Today they are far from common, except in the rugged Gaspe peninsula. There the Quebec government has established a game sanctuary to save the remaining remnants who have sought the government's protection. Barring the Indian the balance of Labrador's 3000 souls live along the coast. Seldom indeed to the liveres (natives) enjoy a meal of caribou.

Now comes the greatest of all caribou hunting grounds — Newfoundland—with the admission that the caribou is in dire straits in Briton's oldest colony. Newfoundland has closed its doors to hunters.

Alaska, Yukon, British Columbia, Alberta—there is your real chance for caribou today. Northern Quebec, northern Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan provide fair hunting, but it looks like the animals that formerly roamed the northeast are now far away in the northwest.

FARM FOR APES.

PARIS March 27.—Monkeys and apes are being raised by the Pasteur Institute on farms in French Guinea for experimental purposes in studying typhus, measles, typhoid and other diseases that cannot be transmitted readily to rabbits and guinea pigs. Chimpanzees, called "the nearest relatives of the human race," also are being raised for psychology experiments.

MARQUETTE TO HOLD SPRING GRID DRILL

Spring football practice which has long been in the discard at Marquette University, will be revived next month. Coach Frank J. Murray expects to have a large squad of candidates for the 1925 eleven out. The Hilltopers have one of the hardest schedules in years and Murray is anxious to get a line on his charges.

RADIO FANS PAY TAXES

Costs 2 Marks a Month to Have Receiving Set in Germany.

BERLIN, March 27.— Thirteen million gold marks, about $3,000,000 flow into the coffers of the German postoffice department annually in the form of radio license fees. There are now 550,000 radio subscribers, each paying two marks, almost 50 cents, a month for the privilege of listening in. To set up a radio without a license is punishable by fine.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

BRADENTOWN, March 27.—Many a major league pay check is going to be on the way to Florida shortly after the first and fifteenth of each month this summer.

The real estate germ is in the air and few are immune. After listening to the glib realtor and the immense profits made, a majority of the athletes have fallen.

They talk money in real estate. The other day while watching the New York Giants and Washington Nats in one of their spring games, I overheard a very interesting argument.

One fan was a Washington partisan, the other leaned to the Giants. McGraw's team had won the day previous and was out in front in this game. The New York rooter kept drawing comparison with the last world series and insisting that luck alone enabled Harris to triumph over McGraw.

The argument waxed warm. Finally the Washington mooter, unable to listen any further to the New Yorker, remarked:

"If the two clubs meet again this fall, I will bet you the 10 acres I bought yesterday against the $1000 option you took on that city property, provided you close the deal."

Both were northerners and there was no "kidding" about the wager. However, it was so unsual a betting proposition that it got a big laugh from those nearby and the argument subsided.

The nice thing about being a realtor in Florida is that you don't have to have a fat bank roll. At least that has been my experience.

The idea is to take an option for a very moderate sum. It is possible to open a deal on as low a deposit as five bucks and $25 often gets you into the frenzied finance class.

Once you have got an option, it is up to you by various methods to induce some one to take the property off your hands at a price in excess of the figure on which you took it.

This form of doing business has an appeal to the athletes, who boast none too fat purses after a long winter in which no checks arrived twice monthly.

As a matter of fact, options have taken the place of base hits with some of the athletes. Bill Doak of Brooklyn, for instance, refuses to report at a greatly increased salary because he says he can make more money in real estate.

It is also said that one of the stipulations when Dazzy Vance signed his Brooklyn contract was that Charley Ebebts would back him in any real estate deal he made up to a certain amount.

PLANT HAS NOVEL TRAINING METHOD

Willie Plant, America's greatest walker, is keeping in condition for his coming race with Ugo Frigerio, the Italian celebrity, by walking to and from work everyday. The distance is 12 miles. The two aces will clash over the 10,000-meter route, or slightly over six miles, on March 28.

Money AT WORK

The opportunity to save and invest surplus wealth to further production is something new in the world. Saving used to mean "hoarding."

Saving in the old sense was largely a matter of hoarding. The person most successful in hoarding usually got the reputation of being a miser. Before the days of banks there was no way of investing surplus earning except in land, and land being the badge of overlordship, the merchant, farmer, or artificier, beyond owning the home he lived in and occasionally the farm he cultivated, had to hoard if he wanted to save anything at all. Interest and loans were even held by the respectable folks to be immoral and "against the will of God."

As a matter of fact, modern civilization in its material aspect began with the establishment of banks. The man that made the first draft, bill of exchange or note did as much for the world as the man who invented the wheelbarrow or the pick axe.

PLAN TO HURRY WATERWAY PLAN

Expected That Hydro Commission Will Be Able to Announce Settlement.

SATISFY OWNERS.

FREDERICTON, N.B., March 27—When the International Waterways Commission meets again at Washington on April 7, it is expected the New Brunswick Government will be able to report that the Provincial Hydro Commission have reached a complete understanding for settlement with owners of properties along the Maine side of the St. John River, whose rights will be affected by the construction of dams and other works necessary for the development of Grand Falls.

If that is accomplished the New Brunswick government's representatives will ask for immediate action in the case. Thus, it is expected that before the present session of the provincial legislature has closed there will be a decision by the International Joint Waterways Commission authorizing the development to proceed.

Premier Veniot announced yesterday afternoon that if the International Joint Waterways Commission's order was not made in time, legislation would be presented to the House in any event, giving the government authority to proceed with the Grand Falls development and providing the necessary funds for starting construction work as soon as the Commission's permission is obtained.

The closest the moon approaches to the earth is 221,466 miles.

PORK IMPORTS LESS.

Decrease Heavy Last Year From United States.

OTTAWA, March 27.—A big decrease in 1924 in the amount of pork imported into Canada from the United States is shown in a return tabled in the House yesterday. In 1923 Canada brought in 44,639,867 pounds of such meats from the United States, valued at $5,638,288 while in 1924 the amount dropped to 21,402,231 pounds, valued at $2,412,383. In each year about one-half the amounts were cured and trimmed in Canada and exported to Great Britain, drawback being paid on the duty. It was explained that these exports of American meats are kept separate from Canadian products, they are listed on the British market as "Canadian cured American bacon," etc., and quoted at eight to fourteen shillings per hundredweight lower than Canadian bacon.

A very enjoyable bridge party and high tea was held on Wednesday of this week, under the auspices of the Otonabee Chapter, I.O.D.E., at the residence of Mrs. W. R. Widdess, who kindly threw open her handsome home for the use of the Chapter. The guests were received by Mrs. Widdess, Mrs. R. R. Hall, and the regent, Mrs. F. L. Robinson. High tea at six o'clock was followed by an evening of bridge, fifteen tables being played. The arrangements were out of the ordinary, and the affair was very successful. Decorations of the tables and small individual prizes were in rose pink, with daffodils as floral garniture. Mrs. C.A. White had charge of refreshments. Ladies assisting were Mesdames J. P. Pulkinghorn, Adam Reid, G. L. Stevens, J. Doris, and Miss Margaret English, and young ladies assisting as waitresses were the Misses Jean Wilgar, Janet Stapleton and Bertha Hill. The evening closed with a half hour of music by an orchestra composed of five young players: Miss Margaret Widdess playing the piano, Stewart Widdess the violin, Douglas Widdess the saxaphone,, Billy Widdess the clarinet and Billy Cormack the cornet.

The Morning Musicale Club met yesterday at the home of Mrs. G. E. Porter Gilmour street, for a very interesting session spent in consideration of the work of the composer, Anton Dvorak. A paper on Dvorak, outlining his life and work, was read by Madame Masson, and vocal solos were given by Mrs. W. McKee Bingham and Miss Evelyn Bentley. Other special instrumental numbers were omitted from the programme on account of illness of several of the members. The next meeting of the Club will be held on the morning of Thursday, April 9th, when Mr. Charles Peaker will favor the Club with a Bach organ recital at Knox church.

PRINCE OF WALES SETS SAIL FOR 20,000 MILE WORLD CRUISE AS A FREE LANCE AMBASSADOR

Hast Vast Entourage That Includes Jazz Band and Twenty Cooks.

STRUMS BANJO.

Britain Is Left For First Time Without Leading Royalty.

LONDON, March 28. — (United Press). — The Prince of Wales, British Ambassador at large, sailed from Portsmouth to-day on what will probably be his last trans-Atlantic tour as heir to the Throne.

Travelling with a vast entourage that includes a jazz band, His Royal Highness will visit Africra and South America, returning in September.

This trip will add some 20,000 miles to the 100,000 or more he has travelled during the last six years.

The Prince's departure leaves Britain, for the first time in history, with the four leading members of its Royal House absent simultaneously. King George and Queen Mary are cruising in the Mediterranean, and the Duke of York is touring Africa and Egypt.

Because of the King's ill-health and advanced years, because of the Laborite opposition to Royal tours, and because he will have visted virtually every civilized country on his return in September, it is believed this will be the last long voyage of the Prince as such.

The Prince arose early to-day and breakfasted at 9 a.m. Then he attended to a mass of correspondence. Most of H. R. H.'s 200 odd trunks had already been sent to Portsmouth.

Having become thoroughly proficient with the ukelele, Wales is now learning to play the banjo, and he is taking one along with the idea of strumming it, as his contribution to the Royal jazz band.

The entourage includes a personal staff of six officers, a suite composed of two valets, eight servants, twenty-one cooks, stewards, waiters and twenty Royal Marine bandsmen and a vast retinue of confidential clerks, special service men and printers.

KINGSTON MEN RESCUE DEER CHASED BY DOGS

KINGSTON, March 28. — D. W. Nichols, V. S., Kingston, and Mr. Bruce Saundercock, of Collins Bay, rescued the deer which was driven into the lake just west of the bay on Wednesday, brought it ashore and placed it in a comfortable box stall at Mr. Saundercock's stable, treated its wounds and fed and watered it.

The deer took refuge in the lake from a number of dogs which were running it. It went out on the ice, which was then quite firm, but which soon broke up into small floes, and from one to another of these the deer made its way in its efforts to reach one of the islands of the Brothers group. In this it did not succeed, for the floating ice was constantly in its way and to rest itself between the attempts the animal would climb on to the larger floes remaining on each until it broke, forcing it into the water again.

In the battles for its safety the animal sustained cuts and bruises against the sharp edges and exhaustion was fast approaching when it was towed ashore.

LARGE ESTATE BY LACHINE BREWER

A. J. Dawes Left $1,830,788, of Which $23,230 is in Ontario.

OTTAWA, March 27. — A total estate of $1,830,788, of which $23,230 is located in the Province of Ontario, has been left by the late Andrew Joseph Dawes, the well-known brewer of Lachine, Que., who died on Feb. 11, 1921, and for whose estate application for probate of his will in Ontario has been made at the court house.

The entire estate is left to immediate relatives, there being a provision made for Mrs. Dawes, the widow, and two daughters, Mrs. Rachael Bond, and Mrs. Frances Porteous, both of Montreal.

Among the holdings in Ontario is a half interest in lots on Bank St., Ottawa, valued at $9300; 48 shares of stock in the Standard Chemical Company, $960; and 180 shares of Toronto Railway Stock, valued at $12,960.

In addition to the Ontario holdings there are registered at Montreal, and which therefore go into the bulk of the Quebec estate, are 792 shares in the Ottawa Traction Company, Limited, valued at $56,376; stock in Ottawa Electric Co., $11,000, eand 210 shares in the Ottawa Light Heat and Power Company, which are set forth as being worth $14,200.

ARMENIAN HIS OWN COUNSEL

Raises Question of Handwriting That Impressed Judge for Adjournment.

SMUGGLING CASE.

OTTAWA, March 28.—The trial of George H. Alexander, Armenian, of Galt, Ont., charged with having fraudently conspired with David Mesropian alias Krikir Ossipion, who formerly lived near Boston, Mass., to secure a Canadian naturalization certificate, which continued at the Court House all day Friday came to an unexpected and sudden halt at the Court House last evening through objections raised by Alexander, who is conducting his own defence.

After all of the evidence of available witnesses had been put in and counsel for the Crown was about to make his address to the jury, Alexander, who had spoken out of turn all through the trial did so again, this time addressing Mr Justice Rose and drawing his attention to two Armenian signatures on documents, which had been filed as exhibits.

Alexander contended that the Armenian signature purporting to be that of Kirkor Ossipion on a naturalization paper, was the same as another Armenian signature on a letter which he had received from David Mesropian. To permit of an expert examination of the signatures in question, Judge Rose halted the trial till Wednesday morning.

After Y. A. N. Payne, hand writing expert, counsel in the cast, and even Judge Rose himself had scanned the two signatures, no decision could be reached that satisfied Justice Rose who sustained Alexander on the point he had taken, which was that if the signature on the naturalization paper was the same as that on the letter from Mesropian, it proved he had not known that the person who testified he was David Mesropian had been Kirkor Ossipion.

Father and Son to Merge Companies After Decade Of Rivalry In Business

BUFFALO, March 28.—Ten years of keen business rivalry between a father and a son will end on April 1, with the combination of the Rand Company, Inc., and the Kardex Company, bot of Tonawanda, N.Y., under the name of the Rand-Kardex Company, Inc. The genius and capacity of the father, James H. Rand, Sr., president of the Rand Company, and of the son, James H. Rand, Jr., president of the Kardex Company, developed the merging companies in practically parallel fields and won them recognition as America's two largest manufacturers of visible card record systems.

The Rand-Kardex Company, Inc., will have an authorized capital stock of $10,050,000.

The merger gives the Rand-Kardex Company factories in Canada and Germany in addition to the plants in the United States.

GERMAN NATION OPENS NEW ERA IN SUNDAY VOTE

For First Time In Its History Its Head Will Be Elected By People.

INTO DEMOCRACY.

Seven Candidates Present Themselves—Ludendorff Expected to Lose.

BERLIN, March 28 (Canadian Press).—For the first time in its history of more than a thousand years, dotted with turbulent reigns of margraves, electors, kings and emperors, the German nation tomorrow will be given opportunity of elecing its head through the medium of popular ballot.

The late Friederich Ebert, first president of the German republic had his office by virtue of vote of the National Assembly in 1919, by which he was designated provisional president. It was by act of the Reichstag in 1921 that Ebert's provisional status was changed to a regular one, his term to expire on June 30, 1925. His sudden death advanced this date two months.

The law for the election of a president provides that the candidate must obtain a clear majority of all votes cast to be declared elected. As there are seven candidates in the running nobody in Germany seriously believes that any candidate can obtain a majority. The law therefore provides that a second ballot shall be taken, and this second election day has already been fixed for April 26th. This time, the candidate obtaining the highest number of votes will be declared elected regardless of the majority rule. The president's term is for 7 years.

The Candidates.

Karl Jarres, vice chancellor in the Marx cabinet and now lord mayor of Duisburg, is expected to head the column of returns, as he is assured of the undivided support of the German Nationalists, the German People's party.

Otto Braun, former premier of Prussia has a big fight on his hands in trying to keep intact the Socialist vote, which is menaced by the Communists. He is expected, however, to hold second place in the final count.

Professor Willy Hellpach, Democratic party's nominee, is little known outside of his home state of Baden, of which he is premier and he is presented by a party which in the past has failed to enthuse the German voters.

Dr. Marx, former chancellor and Centre candidate will probably receive the full vote of his party tomorrow.

Ernest Thaelmann, the Communists' nominee, is expected to poll at least 3,000,000 votes, while Ludendorff, who has distinguished himself by not making a single campaign speech, may gather in the frayed remnants of Hitley's former Bavarian Fascist guard. Indications are, however, that the general will trail the other contestants in the race.

FINAL METHODIST YEAR IN MISSIONS

Missionary Society Hopes to Enter United Church Without Deficit.

TORONTO, March 28—Numerous "Swan songs" of Methodism are being sung throughout Ontario in the form of the pageant of a century of Methodist missions. Meanwhile the Methodist Missionary Society, founded 100 years ago, is striving to enter the Union without a deficit and to report to the first General Council of the United Church of Canada that its books balance for the first time in four years. Encouraging activities on many circuits of Methodism are reported by missionary leaders. Last year $1,058,000 was raised for Methodist missions and this year the mark is set at $1,250,000. Nearly 1,200 workers are in the mission fields at home and abroad.

Spring Is Here.

MOTHERS OPPOSE DAYLIGHT PLAN FOR PETERBORO'

REST SPOILED.

Although the opinion of the male residents of the City of Peterboro at least some of them, as expressed in The Examiner yesterday, seems to be almost unanimously in favor of daylight saving, the opinion of some of the ladies, as gleaned from a haphazard list, is not quite so unanimous.

Whether the ladies have given more intensive thought to the matter, whether they are just opposed to the change on principle, or whether it is an example of feminine perversity in disagreeing with the lords of creation, is not explained. Several are quite in favor, and others just as much against the proposed advancement of the clock by one hour, in order to gain an extra hour of daylight.

One lady whose husband is occupied with office work is very much in favor of daylight saving, and avers that her children have never suffered from irregular hours in getting up and in retiring, as so many mothers complain another, whose husband is a millwright and must rise early, does not like the thought of getting up to prepare his breakfast at an earlier hour, and many mothers of children assert that their ordinary schedules are thoroughly disorganized that those children who go to bed can't sleep while their elders are stirring or neighboring children are playing on the streets, and that the children that are playing on the streets don't get their proper rest on account of such lengthened playtime. Here are some of the expressed opinions by the ladies, all of whom were interrogated before they had much time to think about the subject:

Mrs. A. Stevenson, president of the Local Council of Women: I am in favor of it. I think Daylight Saving is a wonderful thing.

Mrs. F. D. Kerr, president of the Women's Canadian Club: It would not make much difference to me. I have heard it is hard on the farmers, but it puts Peterborough in an awkward position to be one of the few municipalities that do not have daylight saving.

Dr. Jessie Birnie: I think it is a very good thing in Summer time. It is better for the health to rise early in the hot weather and go to bed early. I think it is good for the mothers but not so good for the children, as it keeps them out of bed longer at nights.

Mrs. Basil Hall: I like it very much, and am strongly in favor of having it in Peterborough. I can't see that the children are hurt in any way. It is a good thing for a child to lie down in the middle of the day or after dinner and have a nap and then they are not bothered if they don't get to bed as early as usual at night. And I can't see that they stay up later, anyway. They go to bed and get up by the clock, and in that way get the same hours of sleep. For men in offices, it is a great boon to be able to have an extra hour of daylight. It is also very annoying when travelling to find that Peterboro is an hour behind the rest of the world.

Mrs. A. W. Mowat: I don't remember just what I thought of it when we had it. I recollect one thing, however, that I always thought it kept the children out on the streets later at night, and that was not a good thing.

Mrs. Robt. Harstone, president of the Red Cross Society: I think I might have a one-sided view of the matter. It is a nice thing for those interested in sports and games, and up at the Lakes, it was a convenience to have the boats arrive before dark. However, there are many people that have strong objections to it.

In Opposition.

Ladies who hold positions on the executives of the various Homes and School Councils in the city and have a great deal to do with children, are almost unanimously against the proposition. Here are some of their views:

Mrs. S. T. Medd: honorary vice president of the Home and School Council: I think it is a good thing for adults, but bad for the children. They get up earlier, but they can't make up that hour at night, because so many people are up and around and it is impossible for them to get proper sleep.

Mrs. J. J. Pollock, president of the King Edward Home and School Association: I do not like the idea at all. It may be a good thing for men in offices but for men otherwise employed, it is not convenient or practicable. I get up very early as it is now to prepare my husband's breakfast, and it would mean, with daylight saving, that I would have to rise an hour earlier still. One may say that it is possible to go to bed an hour earlier also, but if one retires at ten o'clock by the watch, it is only really nine o'clock, and the sun has gone down only a little while.

Mrs. E. Scott, president of the King George Home and School Association: We are early risers, already at our house and have domestic ways. We do not relish the idea of getting up an hour earlier, and even if we go to bed early, the children who play around the streets at a later hour when daylight saving is general, keep us wakeful.

Mrs. George Worboy, president of the Prince of Wales Home and School Association: I am not in favor of it. It is not a good thing for the children. They get up earlier but you can't make them go to bed an hour earlier, and therefore they lose an hour's necessary sleep. They want to stay out later playing, too.

Mrs. M. T. Breckenridge, president of the Queen Mary Home and School Association: I don't like it. The children don't get proper rest.

Mrs. E. H. Howson, president of the Central Home and School Association: It is a nice thing for adults, but not for children. They wake by the sun, not by the clock, and therefore they want to go to sleep with the sun, not by the clock. They don't make up their hour's sleep.

Mrs. H. G. Walker, president of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association: I think things should be left as they are. These changes upset train schedules and make travelling awkward.

Miss Leta Brownscombe, general secretary of the Young Women's Christian Association, and Miss C. Littlefield, physical directress, of the Y.W.C.A., both expressed themselves strongly in favor of the change, the latter speaking of its popularity with girls in offices and factories who were enabled to enjoy an hour extra at games in the evening.

25,000 British Columbia Indians Will Appeal To King For West Territory

WINNIPEG, March 28.—Representing more than 25,000 native Indians of the allied tribes of British Columbia, a delegation of three reached Winnipeg Friday on their way to Ottawa, where they propose to appeal for consideration of Indian claims to vast stretches of land in the Pacific Coast province... In unsuccessful in their Eastern mission, the delegation plans to carry their appeal to the Privy Council.

Rev. P. R. Kelly, a Methodist minister at Nanaimo, B.C. heads the delegation, which also includes two full-blooded members of the allied tribes. They contend that British Columbia has refused to concede the aboriginal rights of the natives, a principle which they maintain has been recognized by the other provinces of the Dominion.

CHIEF NEWHALL IS NOT TO BE CLERK OF COURT

MET YESTERDAY.

His Honor Judge Huycke is Elected Chairman For 1925.

The City Council's request that the Chief of Police be Clerk of the Court was unfavorably received by the Police Commission at their meeting yesterday. Magistrate Langley was opposed to the change on principle. He said that the Police Chief was not the proper person to be in charge of the records and the present system was satisfactory. The Mayor moved that the Council be advised that the system would not be feasible. It was seconded by Magistrate Langley and carried.

It was thought that the Police Department should have a safe for money and valuables kept as exhibits.

Tag Day.

The Salvation Army was given permission to hold a tag day on May 23 for their self denial fund.

A letter was received from the City Council, stating that the appropriation for 1925 would be $25,000.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

Judge Huycke was elected chairman for 1925.

The statement of payments for January and February was received.

The application of Mrs. Nolan to open a second hand store at 217 Hunter Street was permitted, on a favorable report from the Chief.

A number of accounts were ordered paid.

Systems of traffic signals were discussed. The Chief was favorable to an electric light signal to be suspended over the corner.

TWO BOYS KILL SELVES.

TOKYO, March 28. — Two Japanese boys, one 8 and the order 12, leaped in front of a fast train and were killed. It is believed they committed suicide because their parents, who were relatives, had decided to separate them. They had been together almost constantly for three years.

U. S. RAILWAYS PLAN REDUCTION IN FREIGHT RATE TO NEUTRALIZE BUDGET TARIFF ON SLACK COAL

Montreal Inclined to Believe Report That Freight Charge From Pennsylvania Coal Fields Will Be Lowered 36c. to Hold Trade of One Million Tons a Year.

CANADIAN TARIFF RAISED 36c.

Americans Fear Diversion of Orders to the Mines of the Martime Provinces.

MONTREAL, March 28.—(Canadian Press).—The Montreal Gazette in its news columns to-day carries a local item which says that the United States railroads are planning a 36 cents drop in freight rates to nullify the budget provision increasing by thirty-six cents a ton the duty on American bituminous slack coal, according to a report current in Montreal circles.

The American roads, according to the information that has gained some credence here, will shortly file at Washington an application for approval of a new tariff that would reduce the Pennsylvania-Montreal rate from $4.49 per ton to $4.13 on slack coal. This move is said to be inspired by a fear that the increase contained in the Canadian budget will have the effect of diverting to the Maritime Provinces of Canada many of the orders now hauled by the American roads from Pennsylvania to Eastern Canada.

It is only the "St. Lawrence gateway" that is troubling the United States railroads, it is said, since it is appreciated that in Ontario and other sections known as the "Buffalo gateway," the slack from the Marjtimes could not compete on account of transportation costs.

To the United States roads, Montreal is the distributing centre of a district that consumes almost 1,000,000 tons of United States slack annually, and the reported effort to keep the Eastern Canada market open to the Pennsylvania product springs from a desire on the railroads' part to hold the haulage they have hitherto enjoyed, according to the Gazette.

RAWLINSON OF WAR FAME DIES

Commander of British Forces In India Succumbs After Operation.

IN SOMME BATTLE.

DELHI, March 28—General Lord Rawlinson, commander-in-chief of the British forces in India, died last night. His term in India would have expired in November. His successor, General Sir William Birdwood, who has just been promoted to be a field marshal, was named by the British War Office on March 20.

Lord Rawlinson's death followed an operation for appendicitis on March 25. At first it was thought that the operation was successful, as the British commander-in-chief seemed to be recovering.

General Lord Henry Seymour Rawlinson, commander-in-chief of the British forces in India since 1920, was one of the best known British generals during the world war. He was born February 20, 1864, and was educated at Sandhurst, entering the army in 1884.

He was employed at the War Office on the outbreak of the world war, but was given command of the Fourth Army Corps in October, 1914. He commanded the Fourth British Army during the Battle of the Somme, achieved important successes there, and was promoted to general in recognition of his services.

On August 8, 1918, his troops in conjunction with the French, attacked the enemy in the region of Amiens, and they gained a signal victory which heralded the general advance of the Allies. General Rawlinson's army played a prominent part a few weeks later in the storming of the Hindenburg Line, and in the subsequent victorious advance eastward.

KING'S YACHT IS UNSEAWORTHY; TURNED TURTLE AT LAUNCHING

British Public Sees Danger For Royal Party on Cruise.

CREW OF 340.

By CLIFFORD L. DAY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, March 28 (United Press).—With the commencement of the Mediterranean cruise designed to restore King Georges health, the British Empire is entrusting the life of its monarch to one of the least seaworthy units of the far-flung British navy.

The royal yacht Victoria and Albert is described in nautical circles as the handsomest yacht ever built, but one that would be questionably safe in very bad weather. As a floating residence, she is considered admirable. As a cruising boat outside smooth water, she is far from comfortable, besides being unreliable.

Quen Victoria's idiosyncracies were largely responsible for the deficiencies of the craft. The "V. and A," as the yacht is generally called, was constructed at Pembroke for the late Queen. Laid down in August of the Diamond Jubilee year at the express command of Queen Victoria, she was named and launched in May, 1899, by the then Duchess of York, now Queen Mary.

Queen Victoria, being accustomed to having her own way, insisted on making alterations in the yacht's design to suit her wishes. As a consequence of the structural changes thus made ,the vessel became so top heavy that she turned turtle when an attempt was made to float her out of the building dock. Weights were thereupon cut down and the craft was practically reconstructed. Yet in spite of all that could be done to remedy her inherent defects, it was found impossible to turn her into a really seaworthy vessel.

Her design was the work of the late Sir William White, director of naval construction and when the accident occurred on the first attempt at floating, it was he who had to bear the brunt of the blame. Sir William was severely censured by the Admiralty, and left Whitehall under a cloud after many years of devoted service.

The yacht is 439 feet long, 50 feet in beam and displaces 4,700 tons. Thought fitted with the old-fashioned reciprocating engine, she can still steam at 20 knots, but 17 knots is the usual cruising speed. By Queen Victoria's desire, the constructor's aimed at comfort rather than speed. Great attention was paid to "safety' devices, the bulkheads being exceptionally numerous and strong. Owing to her deep draught, the "V. and A." is able to put into comparatively few Mediterranean ports. She carries, however, a powerful steam pinnace which the King can use to go ashore at any place he wishes.

Not Luxurious.

Compared with the latest ocean liners, the accomodation aboard is by no means luxurious. The royal personal apartments, situated in the after part of the vessel between the state and upper decks, are spacious but are not ornately furnished. They contain a sitting room and a bed room which the King will occupy during the cruise. Adjoining these, are a boudoir and a bedroom for the Queen.

The Queen's sleeping apartment is furnished with satin wood. The walls are white, with panels in water-colors. The Kings bed room is similarly furnished, except for the panels, while the furniture is of a darker shade.

A short passage leads from the King's bedroom to his writing room the furniture of which is upholstered in blue leather.

On the port side of the deck is the drawing room, which is charmingly furnished in Sheraton. Aft of this lies Princess Marys room, furnished in white and gold, and forward of it the Prince of Wales' rooms, very simply fitted up.

There is a private dining-room in the central portion of the state deck, where the motion of the vessel is least felt.

On the upper deck are their Majesties' dining-room, with a seating capacity of 50, and reception and smoking rooms, with a promenade deck above. By spreading awnings, the whole of the upper deck can be made into a pleasant lounge in sunny weather.

A grand staircase leads down from the state deck to the royal apartments, but there is also a passenger elevator.

The lower deck is devoted to cabins for the royal servants, together with the royal kitchen, pantries, etc.

Though essentially a yacht, the Victoria and Albert is listed as a unit of the navy, and her maintenance is defrayed under the naval appropriation. The crew number approximately 340. Service aboard her is still eagerly sought after but it is no longer the short cut to promotion that it used to be. King George was brought up in the navy, and is imbued iwth the idea of advancement by merit alone.

Queen Not Good Sailor.

While the King is thoroughly at home on the sea, the Queen is not a good sailor. The latter knowing the reputation of the yacht, is unwilling to travel in her outside sheltered waters. This fact, coupled with the convalescent condition of the King, accounts for the overland trip of their Majesties to board the yacht in the south of France instead of embarking in England. The Bay of Biscay is particularly treacherous at this time of year.

Only on two previous occasions has the Victoria and Albert been in the Mediterranean. Once the late King Edward used her there, and later she took Queen Alexandra for a voyage.

For the next month, all Britain will be keenly interested in the Mediterranean weather reports. If unusual storms appear imminent, it highly probable the royal entourage will leave the yacht for more secure accomodation on land. But a sudden squall or tempest away from shelter would involve possibly disaster to a craft which behaves so bady in rough weather as does the "V. and A."

VICTORIA COLLEGE AND CHURCH UNION

Is Integral Part of Methodist Church and Enters Union.

TORONTO, March 28.—Victoria College is essentially a college of liberal arts and has been such since its incorporation by letters patent of King William IV. on October 12, 1836. In 1854 a faculty of medicine was added, in 1860 a faculty of law, and in 1871 a faculty of theology. Since 1890, by Act of the Ontario Legislature, Victoria College has been an arts college of the University of Toronto, the faculty of theology being continued separately. Of the 600 students registered, 76 per cent. are taking arts work alone, 14 per cent. both arts and theology, and 10 per cent. theology alone.

Victoria College was founded by the Methodist Church for the education of her youth and is so maintained. Victoria is an integral part of the Methodist Church, and as such goes into Union with that Church. Her primary function is to provide education leading to the degree of bachelor of arts. The original terms of her incorporation, amplified by a Royal Charter granted her by the first Parliament of Canada in 1841, so define her aims and powers.

Other churches may have different principles and policies, but it has been the conviction of Methodism from early days that her duty is for the Church itself to educate her own children in the higher stages. In this she has been strengthened by an unvarying policy of the state, which has never hitherto sought to hamper her or restrict her rights.

Where, then, is the justice to the Methodist people of Ontario in the Provincial Legislature suggesting measures which, while designed to deprive the Presbyterian Church of the use of Knox College, operates to embarrass the work of Victoria College?

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, March 28.—Most of the farmers in this district are waiting anxiously to get behind the plow once more. Mr. Alfred Bennett has made a brave start and has about 3 acres of sod turned over. He says that it ploughs much better now than it did last fall.

PRINCE SUES BUYER FOR 2 REMBRANDTS

Thought He Could Recover Paintings By Repaying Loan and Interest.

NEW YORK, March 28.—(Canadian Press).—Prince Felix Youssoupoff of Russia arrived here yesterday on the Cunard liner Mauretania to testify in the action he has brought against Joseph E. Widener, of Philadelphia, for the recovery of two Rembrandts valued by the Prince at more than $1,000,000. The hearing, he said, was set for April 6th.

It was explained that the two paintings had been sold to Mr. Widener under a contract which the Prince understood would permit him to buy them back. The Prince parted with the paintings in August, 1921, for 100,000 pounds, and he understood, it is said by counsel, that under the contract he could recover them at any time before January, 1924, by repaying the loan and interest at 8 per cent.

A RELIABLE TONIC FOR SPRINGTIME

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Give New Health and Vigor.

Not sick—but not feeling quite well. That is the way most people feel in the spring. Easily tired, appetite fickle, sometimes headaches and a feeling of depression. Pimples or eruptions may appear on the skin, or there may be twinges of rheumatism or neuralgia. Any of these indicate that the blood is out of order—that the indoor life of winter has left its mark upon you and may easily develop into more serious trouble.

Do not dose yourself with purgatives, as many people do, in the hope that you can put your blood right. Purgatives gallop through the system and weaken instead of giving strength. Any doctor will tell you that this is true. What you need in the spring is a tonic that will enrich the blood and build up the nerves. Dr. Williams Pink Pills do this speedily, safely and surely. Every dose of this medicine helps to enrich the blood, which clears the skin, strengthens the appetite and makes tired depressed men, women and children bright, active and strong.

Proof of the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills when the system is run down is shown by the case of Mrs. William Lewis, South Ohio, N.S., who says:—"About a year ago I was badly run down. My appetite was poor, I did not sleep well and my nerves were all unstrung. I could not go upstairs without stopping to rest. As I was a long way from a doctor I decided to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and in the couse of a few weeks I felt like a new person. As an all around restorative I can heartily recommend this medicine."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PLANES AID RANCHERS.

Argentine Cattle Owners Inspect Flocks and Pay Visits By Air.

BUENOS AIRES, March 28 (Associated Press).—Some of the ranches of the Argentine pampas are so large that it takes an all-day trip on horseback for the owner to ride from one boundary to another or to visit a neighbor. But several of these long, tiresome trips, for they are riding on the wings of the wind, having purchased airplanes to take them where they want to go.

One ranch is equipped with a hangar containing three airplanes, one for the owner, and one each for his two sons. They use them not only to fly around the ranch to inspect their herds of cattle, but into Buenos Aires where they have a town house. They do not have to worry about landing places for the pampas is as level as a billiard table. A dozen private airplanes are thus in use on the pampas, according to Ricard Aldao, president of the Argentine Aero Club, and other ranches soon will be similarly equipped.

Campbellford Council

Charles H. Davidson, reeve of Campbellford, has been in municipal life so long that he is, in point of years of service at Cobourg, the dean of the Counties Council since the retirement and the end of last year of George Van Volkenburg of Seymour. Mr. Davidson's public service dates from the close of the South African war, and he has been in the civic harness, with only brief intermissions, ever since. He is also chief of the fire department and holds that position legally, in spite of the fact that he is a member of the Council and is not directly in receipt of a salary from the town, the honorarium he receives for keeping down Campbellford's fire losses being voted him by the volunteer brigade out of their annual grant. He has always taken a keen interest in sports of all kinds and is generally to be found among the first volunteer workers in any plan or movement to advance the interests of his adopted town.

Mr. Davidson, in a recent public address, stated that when he came here from his home in Ottawa he had on his arrival the sum of 25 cents. "And I have that quarter yet," he added. But for his native modesty he might have told his audience that his original had expanded until now he is the owner of a flourishing business.

Every successful public or business man has his peculiarities which his biographers never fail to note. Mr. Davidson was born and raised in a hotel and yet he never in his life has tasted intoxicating liquor, nor has he ever smoked even a cigarette. No matter where he is, whether at home or abroad, he never eats any breakfast, but subsists, a picture of bodily vigor, on two meals a day.

Mr. Davidson is a valued worker in the Methodist Church, and the local unionists who have gone over to that body, or strangers dropping in of a Sunday, receive from no one a heartier or more sincere welcome than from Campbellford's bluff and genial reeve.

WINTER SPORTS IN NORWAY

Norway is the rendezvous for the lovers of the ski this year, and Englishmen and Americans are here in large numbers. In some places every body goes on skis, for the reason that if you move out of your hotel in your boots, in a few seconds you are floundering up to your waist in soft snow. The ski is the boat of this snow world and the miles of mountains and woods and the utter stillness of a white world surpass scores of other known pleasures. Finse appears to be the ski man's paradise. Day after day you can go up over the snows climbing laboriously for hours and then turn and in almost as many minutes you are down at your hotel again.

WEDDING BELLS.

GLOVER—POLLOCK.

WARKWORTH, March 27. — A very pretty house wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Pollock, near Morganston, on Wednesday, March 25, when their daughter, Nellie May, became the bride of Mr. James Clarence Glover, also of Morganston.

At one o'clock the bridal couple took their places beneath an evergreen arch in the parlors, to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Myrtle Hardy, Rev. Geo. S. Hammond officiating.

After the ceremony about thirty guests sat down to a sumptuous wedding dinner, and then the afternoon was spent in music and entertainment. Only the immediate relatives were present, including the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Glover, who is 93 years of age, yet hale and hearty.

The wedding gifts bespoke the esteem in which the young couple are held, and when they left for their honeymoon in Toronto, Hamilton, Niagara and Buffalo, the showers of confetti and good wishes gave them a good send-off.

After their return they will take up housekeeping on the groom's farm at Morganston, and they have the best wishes of all their friends for a long and happy wedded life.

THE MALE VOICE CHOIR.

The Peterboro Male Voice Choir is to be congratulated on the artistic success of its annual concert last night, and to be thanked not only for its own excellent work but for providing local music-lovers with an opportunity of hearing such outstanding exponents of chamber music as the Hart House Quartette and such a splendid vocalist as Mrs. Muriel Magerl Kyle.

The choir each year adds to its laurels, its progress has been steady since the inception of the organization some years ago, and the standard maintained reflects credit not only upon the capable director, Mr. Chenhall, but also upon the individual members, for it is evident that such results could not be obtained without a faithful and enthusiastic attendance at rehearsals.

The Peterboro Male Voice Choir has firmly established itself as a permanent and important unit among Peterboro's musical organizations, and it is doing notable work not only in developing its own abilities but in serving as a means of introducing to this city some of the outstanding figures in the world of music.

TOO MANY GROUPS.

The political situation so far as the Dominion Parliament is concerned is becoming more and more involved.

The latest development by which thirteen of the Progressive party, with W. C. Good of Brant as their whip and leader, have broken away from their former allegiance and set up a so-called "ginger" group of their own, adds another to the list of factions in the House.

At present there are the three recognized groups, Liberals, Progressives and Conservatives, a Labour representation and now the new Ginger group.

Where is this partition going to stop?

If each little coterie of members who happen to have an idea in common is to start up in business as a separate group, the result is likely to be confusion worse confounded.

And if each group were to demand that its existence be officially recognized by it being given representation on the various committees—as indeed Mr. Good's baker's dozen are doing now—the task of government would be made exceedingly awkward.

The general feeling is that there are enough groups in existence now, and this inclination to form wheels within a wheel is a development that can in no way be regarded as in the interest of good government.

THE TARIFF BOARD.

The consensus of opinion seems to be that the Government's plan of a board of experts to advise the Finance Minister on tariff matters is a long step in the right direction.

Parliament would still have the last word in regard to the tariff.

But th esituation simply is that the Minister of Finance must necessarily consult many people in preparing his tariff changes, and under the present system the whole arrangement is more or less haphazard and unsystematic.

That being the case, it stands to reason that better results could be obtained if the information upon which the Minister must base his schedules were secured for him by a board of competent men who would be in a position to estimate the effect upon industry and the country generally of the proposed changes.

There are those who would go further and take the tariff out of politics altogether by turning the problem over to an independent board, functioning like the Board of Railway Commissioners.

The change now proposed is much less radical, of course, but it would be an improvement over the present method of doing business.

THAT THREATENED BOYCOTT.

Grocers who handle the new 4.4 beer are being threatened with boycott, according to reports from several places in Ontario.

It is probable that there is not much foundation for these stories.

If the law allows this beverage to be sold by grocers for consumption off the premises there would not be the slightest justification for the action theatened, any more than there would be to boycott a doctor who prescribes liquor as a medicine or a druggist who handles liquor under the Ontario Temperance Act.

Talk of a boycott under such circumstances is nothing but bigotry.

It reveals not only a narrow mind, but a stupid refusal to face facts as they are.

Why punish a grocer for doing something that the law allows him to do when for several years the spirit of the Ontario Temperance Act has been violated by the sale of malt and other ingredients for home-brewing, in some cases by men who have been leaders in prohibition activity?

Those who have sold these products could have no doubt as to what use they were to be devoted; they must have known that the ingredients were to be used to concoct a beverage that would in all probability have a much more potent "kick" than the new Ontario beer.

If this traffic which, although quite legitimate, does not measure up well when tested with the yardstick of true temperance principles has been accepted without the least sign of complaint, why worry about grocers selling 4.4 beer for home consumption?

TORONTO WANTS JARVIS-SMITH FINE.

One war very often leads to another, and the first move by the city of Toronto to secure the fines paid by Aemilius Jarvis, amounting to $140,000, has led to an intimation being given by Premier Ferguson that the Province will take steps to secure the money on the ground that it belongs to the people of Ontario, says the London Advertiser.

stands at this moment Toronto would have a fairly good claim to the fines imposed on Jarvis and Smith. There was keen disappointment on the part of Toronto civic officials when the fines were stepped down from $600,000 to $300,000, and there was more keen disappointment when the first $140,000 paid by Jarvis found its way to the Provincial treasury instead of to the coffers of the city of Toronto.

Although Toronto has a legal right to the fines under the enactments of 1922, the paying of those fines to that city would have been a peculiar conclusion to the case. It was the Province that was robbed in the first place; it was the Province that had to pay the costs of Provincial and other police who were working on the case, and it was the Province which had to carry on the prosecution, and it is the Province that has to keep the men after they are put in jail, yet there was a good chance of the money handed back going to the city of Toronto because the case was tried there and the offence committed there.

If the Province is going to secure the fines it will be necessary to change the legislation and make it retroactive. Civic Toronto can be counted on to put up a brisk fight against this, and the developments will be worth watching.

THE INCOME TAX.

In view of the fact that Hon. Mr. Robb has announced that there will be no change in the Federal Income Tax this year, it is of especial interest to read the latest bulletin from the Citizens' Research Institute on this subject.

It is the opinion of the Institute that the difference between the Canadian and United States Income Tax is an excessive handicap for Canada to stand up under in competition for population and capital.

At present, where a Canadian pays $40 on an income of $3,000, the man across the line in the same situation is taxed only $7.50, and the difference, of course, continues right up the scale.

Not only that, but it is suggested that it is possible to have the scale of taxation so high or so slightly graded that the revenue received is correspondingly smaller than a lower or less steeply graded tax would produce.

In support of this theory it may be stated that although Canada's population, according to the estimates of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, has increased in 1924 by 3.1 per cent. over that of 1922, there was in that period a decrease in the total number of individuals paying income taxes of 17.7 per cent., and in the number of corporations of 32.7 per cent.

In the case of corporations where a flat rate was levied, as compared with the graded tax for individuals, there was a smaller percentage of decreases in corporations with an income over $30,000 than in those ranging from $6,000 to $30,000.

It has been found, too, that so far as individuals were concerned that the higher the income the greater the percentage of decrease noted during the period.

In this connection the statement of President Coolidge is of much interest. The chief executive of the nited States declares that all experience shows that a larger amount of money can be collected from large incomes at a moderate rate than at a high rate. When the rate is too high large incomes disappear, leaving all the burden of taxes on the wage-earners and people of small means.

Is this the situation that is developing in Canada?

COMBINED HEALTH AREAS.

Public health measures have been made most efficient in our larger cities, thanks to Federal, Provincial and municipal departments and to modern philanthropic agencies, says the Ottawa Journal. It remains for this efficiency to be extended to rural districts and to towns both large and small—indeed the health of the Province cannot be improved except through this extension.

Ottawa, in common with the other larger cities of Canada, has its health department supplemented by many agencies working to the same end. There are hospitals, tuberculosis clinics, venereal disease clinics, school medical inspection, milk stations, and dozens of social service organizations who attend to the health of their clients. Smaller places and the country districts have practically none of these things which the cities regard as essential. The main reason is that the individual expense would be too great in proportion to the population. Such places must depend upon the services of a medical man who is a part-time health officer.

For obvious reasons this has not proven either an economical or "healthy" system. Hence, it is being advocated that Ontario should imitate Great Britain and parts of United States in creating "combined areas" b ywhich several municipalities unite to pay the cost of a public health service. One health officer might give his whole time to a county or to half a county. The cost to the municipality would not be much greater than under the existing system, it is stated.

Inefficient health service in any locality means greater expense to other health departments of Governments, since these, along with private philanthropic agencies, pay the cost of the result in the care of tuberculosis poor or in conditions following any epidemic.

Creation and direction of "combined areas" would make for better health, and for efficiency and economy in the expenditure of public health appropriations.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It is said that Canada exported $162,703 worth of Corsets to Australia last year. So that's where they went!

The Budget displeases the Progressives, but not enough, it is expected, to overthrow the Government.

Mr. Nickle may be right about that 4.4 beer being not intoxicating. But if he is a lot of people are going to be disappointed.

The new beer had a big majority in the Legislature—but the vote in the Province may tell a different story. It all depends on how the policy works out under actual tests.

A THOUGHT.

MY FRIEND.

Is there anything that's dearer
Than a true and loyal friend?
Is there any one that's nearer—
When of sorrows there's no end?

Oh! it lifts my soul from sadness
Till again with joy it sings—
When my friend just smiles in gladness
In which understanding clings.

Have you ever thought your burdens
Made for you a heavy load—
And wondered why God's choicest blessings
Always come—"across the road?"

Then is when a friend is welcome
As the sunshine after rain—
And his hearty handclasp cheers us
And the faith is strong again.

Life has problems for each member
"Some days must be full of care"
But our Shepherd is so tender—
And e'er watches how we fare.

If you value all this friendship
Which is freely given you.
Can you be ungrateful for it?
Will you yourself prove true?

This old world is full of pleasure
Still folks are hungry for your love
Do give of yourself full measure—

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, March 27.— There was little change in cattle prices this week, the general tone of the market being steady, with a little firmer feeling for anything choice in the handy weight butcher class. The best load in this class for the week and perhaps the best load this year, was reserved for yesterdays closing market, when a load of twenty whitefaced Herefords, weighing 1,052 lbs., topped the market for the season for the same weight and class, at $8.75. This splendid bunch of cattle fed by R. J. Finn and Sons ,Moosomin, Manitoba took fifth prize at the Brandon Winter Fair. They were shipped east by Burns Bros., of Winnipeg, to Quinn & Hisey, and sold to the Harris Abatoir Co. With the exception of this special load, the general run of choice handy butcher has been holding steady and firm from $7.25 to $7.50, with a few extras choice lots at $7.75.

There was some disappointment for shippers of heavy export steers in the early part of the week. With the announcement that the export buyers would resume operations after being out of the market for a week shippers had sent in a good supply of heavy finished cattle for Mondays market. Requirement not being so large as had been expected the load proved too heavy for the market. A few loads were sent over the border, and the pressure relieved. Prices recovered to about the former level later in the week. As two boats are scheduled for next weeks sailings, it is expected that there will be a more active export market.

The closing market for the week was steady to strong for practically all grades of cattle.

Hogs weakened the latter part of the week, coming down from their recent high estate, a quarter to fifty cents lower, settling at $13.75, thick

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 27. — Toppling down of prices in the grain markets to-day went to the extent of 7 1-2 cents a bushel for wheat, as compared with 24 hours previous. Uneasiness over possible results of the government investigation about recent sweeping changes which values had undergone was apparently a leading factor in the persistent selling that broke prices anew. Wheat closed heavy, 11-2 to 7 1-2 cents net lower, May 157 1-4 to 157 1-2 and July 142 1-4 to 142 1-2, with corn 1 7-8 to 2 3-4 cents off, oats 1 to 1 3-8 cents down, and provisions showing losses ranging from 10 to 40 cents.

STERLING RATES.

Sterling demand $4.78.

Sterling cables $4.78 3-8.

MONTREAL GRAIN.

MONTREAL, March 27. — There was a good enquiry from foreign buyers for Canadian grain here today and on the decline of prices at Winnipeg exporters were in a position to accept many of the bids with the result that a fairly active business was worked in all positions and the total sales of wheat, oats, barley and rye were roughly estimated at between 600,000 and 700,000 bushels of which the bulk was done with the continent for May shipment from this port. Owing to the foregoing there was quite a good demand in the local market for coarse grains and sales of No. 3 barley were made at seven cents per bushel over the Winnipeg May option, C. I. F. Bay ports, and No. 4 barley at 1-2 cent per bushel under the same option, while No. 2 Canadian Western oats sold at 10 cents per bushel over the May option, C. I. F., Montreal and No. 2 feed at one cent per bushel under, and No. 2 Canadian Western at seven cents per bushel over, C. I. F., Bay ports. The spot market car lots of oats was weak and prices for most grades were reduced1 1-2 to 2 1-2 cents per bushel.

ONTARIO

To Truck Owners and Drivers

Provisions against overloading at this season provided by The Highways Act will be rigorously enforced. Avoid penalty by obeying the law.

To save the highways from unnecessary damage during the wet spring months when foundations are easily fractured and road surfaces broken, The Highways Act provides that during March and April trucks (outside cities and towns)

"shall not be loaded in excess of one-half the carrying capacity of such vehicle as registered with the Department, without obtaining a permit as provided in section 31."

The attention of every truck owner and driver is called specifically to this provision. In their own interest the Department urges their co-operation in obeying the law and thus saving the highways from unnecessary abuse. In view of this public statement of the law, they are notified that rigorous prosecution will follow neglect or refusal to do so.

While the whole of the people of Ontario have contributed to the building of highways in the past, it may be expected that the cost of repairs and maintenance will fall more and more on those who use the roads. The traffic which does most damage, naturally will be expected to pay the most.

Therefore, it is in the interest of every truck owner and driver to see that his loads and speeds are kept well within the legal limit at this season of the year.

An advertisement issued by the Ontario Department of Highways to secure the co-operation of motorists and truck drivers, Automobile Clubs and all other public-spirited bodies, in abating the abuse of the roads of the Province.

The Hon. George S. Henry, Minister; S. L. Squire, Deputy Minister.

A LOVE EPIC OF THE FAR NORTH

The second day, being less hungry and more keenly alive to the hated smell of his enemy, Baree ate less but was more destructive. McTaggart was not as skilful as Pierre Eustach in keeping the scent of his hands from the traps and "houses," and every now and then the smell of him was strong in Baree's nose. This wrought in Baree a swift and definite antagonism, a steadily increasing hatred where a few days before hatred was almost forgotten. There is, perhaps, in the animal mind a process of simple computation which does not quite achieve the distinction of reason, andwhich is not altogether instinct, but which produces results that might be ascribed to either. Baree did not add two and two together to make four he did not go back step by step to prove to himself that the man to whom this trap-line belonged was the cause of all his griefs and troubles—but he did find himself possessed of a deep and yearning hatred. McTaggart was the one creature except the wolves that he had ever hated it was McTaggart who had hurt him. McTaggart who had hurt Pierrot, McTaggart who had made him lose his beloved Nepeese—and McTaggart was here on this trap-line! If he had been wandering before, without object or destiny, he was given a mission now. It was to keep to the traps. To feed himself. And to vent his hatred and his vengeance as he lived.

The second day, in the centre of a lake, he came upon the body of a wolf that had died on one of the poison-r baits. For a half-hour he mauled the dead beast until its skin was torn to ribbons. He did not taste the flesh. It was repugnant to him. It was his vengeance on the wolf breed. He stopped when he was half a dozen miles from Lac Bain, and turned back. At this particular point the line crossed a frozen stream beyond which was open plain, and over that plain came—when the wind was right—the smoke and smell of the Post. The secnd night Baree lay with a full stomach in a thicket of banksian pine. the third day he was travelling westw rdMeer the trap-line again.

Early on this morning Bush McTaggart started out to gather his catch, and whe e he c ossed the st eam six miles f om Lac Bain he first saw Baree's tracks. He stopped to examine them with sudden and unusual interest, falling at last on his knees, whipping off the glove from his right hand, and picking up a single hair.

"The black wolf!"

He uttered the words in an odd, hard voice, and involuntarily his eyes turned straight in the direction of the Gray Loon. After that, even more carefully than before, he examined one of the clearly impressed tracks in the snow. When he rose to his feet there was in his face the look of one who had made an unpleasant discovery.

"A black wolf!" he repeated, and shrugged his shoulders. "Bah! Lerue is a fool. It is a dog." And then, after a moment, he muttered in a voice scarcely louder than a whisper, "her dog."

He went on travelling in the trail of the dog. A new excitement possessed him that was more thrilling than the excitement of the hunt. Being human, it was his privilege to add two and two together, and out of two and two he made—Baree. There was little doubt in his mind. Where was little doubt in hi mind. The thought had flashed on him first when Lerue had mentioned the black wolf. He was convinced after his examination of the tracks. They were the tracks of a dog, and the dog was black. Then he came to the first trap that had been robbed of its bait.

Under his breath he cursed. The bait was gone, and the trap was unsprung. The sharpened stck that had tran fixed the bait wa pulled out clean.

All that day Bu h McTaggart followed a trail where Baree had left traces of his presence. Trap after trap he found robbed. On the lake he came upon the mangled wolf. From the first disturbing excitement of his discovery of Baree's presence his humor changed slowly to one of rage, and his rage increased as the day dragged out. He was not unacquainted with four-footed robbers of the trap-line, but usually a wolf or a fox or a dog who had grown adept in thievery troubled only a few traps. But in this case Baree was travelling straight from trap to trap, and his footprints in the snow showed that he stopped at each.

At dusk he reached the shack Pierre Eustach had built midway of his line, and took inventory of his fur. It was not more than a third of a catch the lynx was half runied, a mink was torn completely in two. The second day he found still greater ruin, still more barren traps. He was like a madman. When he arrived at the second cabin, late in the afternoon, Baree's tracks were not an hour old in the snow. Three times during the night he heard the dog howling.

The third day McTaggart did not return to Lac Bain, but began a cautious hunt for Baree. An inch or two of fresh snow had fallen, and as if to take even greater measure of vengeance footprints freely within a radius of a hundred yards of the cabin. It was half an hour before McTaggart could pick out the straight trail, and he followed this for two hours into a thick banksian swamp. Baree kept with times he waited until the other was so close he could hear the snap of brush, or the metallic click of twigs against his rifle barrel. And then, with a sudden inspiration that brought the curses afresh to McTaggart's lips, he swung in a wide circle and cut straight back fo the trap-line. When the Factor reached the line, along toward noon, Baree had already begun his work. He had killed and eaten a rabbit he had robbed three traps in the distance of a mile, and he was headed again straight over the trap-line for Post Lac Bain,

Neuritis

Neuralgia—Sciatica—Rheumatism

NEURITIS is inflammation of a nerve. The pain is burning and tearing, not darting as in neuralgia, and is increased by movement.

There may be swelling and sensitiveness to touch, and sometimes redness of the skin.

Your experience will tell you that neuritis, like neuralgia and sciatica, only bothers you when your nervous system gets run down.

Restore energy and vigor to the nerves and you remove the cause of these torturing ailments.

The nerves must be nourished back to health and vigor by the use of such restorative treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mr. John Woodward, Lucan, Ontario, writes:—

"I was a sufferer from neuritis for several years, and tried all kinds of remedies, yet never seemed to get any better. At last my nerves and whole system seemed to give way, through not being able to get any rest or sleep at nights for pain which mostly used to take me in all parts of the limbs and feet. Almost at the point of despair, I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I feel it my duty to tell you of the benefit I derived. I am more than proud to say that after taking over twenty boxes I believe myself almost normal again, and for the past year I seem to enjoy my usual health."

Mrs. Wm. Mapletoft, Mount Forest, Ont., writes:—

"For about three years I suffered from neuritis in my right side. I had pains through my back and twitching of the nerves and muscles. I had also been operated on for appendicitis, and it left me a nervous wreck. I was very restless and uneasy, and bothered with frequent neuralgic headaches. My appetite was poor and I sometimes took weak spells. I commenced a treatment of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and in a very short time I found relief. This medicine has done me the world of good and I can recommend it to all suffering as I was."

DETAILED PLAN OF COLLECTING TAX UNSETTLED

Premier Ferguson Says Method of Collecting Gasoline Tax is Under Enquiry.

WANTS BEST MEANS.

Pictures of Statesmen For Public Schools Promised by the Premier.

TORONTO, March 28.—The Liberal opposition in the Legislature Friday afternoon fought the tax on gasoline not in principle, but in the clauses of the act, when it came into the committee of the whole House.

Liberal Leader Sinclair demanded from the government a declaration as to from whom the tax was to be directly demanded ,because the bill did not make any definite specification. He was met with the reply that the tax must come from the consumer, but that the method of collecion was left to arrangement by the government. Although not pressing for a division, the Liberals fought this indefinite part of the act.

During the afternoon, Hon. Chas. McRea, Minister of Mines, introduced a bill whereby the old gas board of three members is replaced by one gas commissioner with judicial powers. Hon. George Henry, Minister of Highways, introduced a bill amending the highway act, whereby the amount spent on county roads in urban districts must be returned to the extent of 50 per cent. in towns and 75 per cent in villages as far as their municipalities are concerned.

Memorials to Statesmen.

In view of the fact that the province of Quebec is erecting a memorial to Sir John MacDonald, Mr. Mageau rose to ask the government if it would not be wise for Ontario as a sister province of Quebec to do the same for the memory of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Premier Ferguson in replying stated tnat it was a splendid act for the province of Quebec, and hoped that Ontario might do the same for his great compatriot, although the matter had not been given a thought as yet. He stated, however, that in the public schools of the province, it was his idea to put pictures of all great men of all parties since Confederation to teach the children something about the statesmen of their time.

In this connection W. Finlayson (Conservative, East Simcoe) suggested that the new building being erected by the government in Queen's Park be known as Whitney Building or by the name of some other Ontario statesmen.

Gas Tax Collection.

The gasoline tax act came in for considerable criticism from the Liberal opposition in its clauses although not in its principle. Mr. Sinclair asked the government where the tax was to be collected. Hon. George S. Henry replied that the tax would be collected by agents of the government.

"From whom?" asked Mr. Sinclair.

"From the purchaser," replied Mr. Henry.

"Yes, the purchaser pays everything, but where is the tax to be collected?" insisted Mr. Sinclair.

"The premier thought such an objection absurd, but Mr. Sinclair replied that the absurdity was in a government imposing a tax when they did not name the people from whom they were getting it.

"We are making inquiries and when decided we will create an organization to collect it," said the Premier.

Looking for Months.

Mr. Sinclair said that the government had been looking around for months to see how they were to collect it, and they hadn't yet figured how to do so, and yet the Attorney General rose and said that the act was constitutional. "The whole matter of constitutionality is in the collection, and the government does not know how it is going to collect the tax," said Mr. Sinclair. "I hold that this bill should remain over until next week. This is a small opposition and could not hold the matter up. But this government today does not know how it is going to collect this tax and yet insist upon us passing it."

Z. Mageau asked that the government reduce auto license fees to prevent the auto driver who only ran a few months a year from paying the equal of the man who ran his car all the year round.

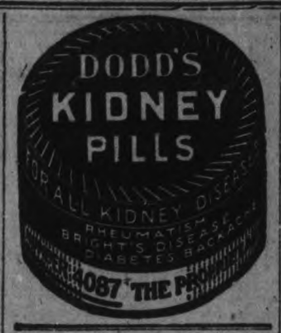
Mr. Henry responded that just now there would be no reduction in licenses, which led Mr. Mageau to the remark that the government apparently wanted to squeeze every dollar out of the public.

The Premier in reply to another question said that the government had under consideration, and intended to form an inquiry into gasoline prices to see that abuses in prices did not arise. The government, he said, would also pay attention to the method of collecting the gas tax and provide the best means for the province.

Bills Advanced.

Second reading was given the bill providing that municipalities may provide for superannuation and annuities under the library board at the discretion of the municipal councils. Second reading was also given to bill allowing police villages to contract for water systems from a neighboring municipality; to allow a return to towns of 75 per cent. of the cost of provincial highways constructed through them, and for 75 per cent. in the case of villages in similar cases.

In reply to questions, the government replied that the contract for the railway into Rouyn had not yet been let and would not until April 6. There are 22 miles of railway to be built in Quebec province. The government also replied that the address of Hon. W. F. Nickle as it appears in booklet form was not paid for by the government.



LIBERAL APPROVES PRINCIPLE OF TARIFF BOARD BUT PARLIAMENT SHOULD MAKE CHANGE IN DUTIES

W. F. Carroll, Cape Breton, Regards Budget as Benefit To Nova Scotia.

HOCKEN DUBIOUS.

West Toronto Member Says Revenue for March Was Padded in Statement.

OTTAWA, March 28. — (Canadian Press). —Approval of the budgett was expressed by W. F. Carroll, (Liberal) Cape Breton, South, who resumed the debate in the Commons on Friday. Mr. Carroll was gratified to find that after the gloomy prophecies that had been made, an actual surplus of nearly $2,000,000 had been established in the country's finances.

He felt sure that the people of Nova Scotia would be gratified over the reduction in taxation on engines for fishermen's boats.

"There is nothing startling or sensational in this budget," said Mr. Carroll.

It was, Mr. Carroll went on to say, a clear and business like statement of the country's finances delivered in a businesslike way.

Mr. Carroll agreed with the Progressive leader that while a tariff board is advisable, responsibilities for tariff changes must rest with the Parliament of Canada. The people of the Dominion would not stand for alterations in tariff regulations unless they had the backing of Parliament.

Benefit of Coal Duty.

Of supreme importance to the Maritime provances was the adjustment of duties on bituminous coal announced in the budget. The Government had already done much to establish a Canadian fuel policy, and this year the duties on slack coal were levelled up to 50c a ton. Nova Scotia's coal sales had declined from 6,164,000 tons 1913, to 4,448,000 in 1924. The line of steamships developed by the Dominion Steel Corporation in 1915 had been commandeered for war service; consequently the Quebec markets for Nova Scoita coal was lost to the United States and had never been recovered.

Smuggling of coal had become an art in recent years, Mr. Carroll said, and United States mine operators and Canadian importers had co-operated in bringing in large quantities of run of mine coal as slack. In this way they had succeeded in evading the duty of 53 cents, merely paying the 14 cent duty on slack coal. After the duty was paid, and the coal was safe in Canada, it was mixed and sold as run of mine coal.

D. F. Kellner, Progressive, East Edmonton, asked how this mixing was done. It seemed a kind of hopeless task to try to mix coal, he said.

"I have done it myself in my career,' said Mr. Carroll. "It is as easy to mix as a Western cocktail.'

Mr. Carroll stated that the people of the Maritime were buying goods from Ontario on which there was a protective tariff of from 27 to 35 per cent ad valorem. The country could stand the increased duty on slack coal.

There was much talk of secession. What had the Maritime Provinces to gain by secession,he asked. They would be ten thousand times worse off than they were at present. So far as Nova Scotia was concerned, the great bulk of people were happy and contended ,and had no dread of the future.

Padded the Revenues.

H. C. Hocken (Cnservative-Toronto-West) said that the policy of the Government in presenting its financial statement in presenting its marzied in the words "wait and see, be we'll not let you see it all."

The Government said Mr. Hocken gave an extraordinary exhibition in arriving at a surplus of approximately $1,500,00 and then adding to this sum $4,600,000 interest on a "frozen loans" Mr. Hocken said. This $4,000,000 was interest on money loaned to Roumania and Greece the Government had not yet received the interest but still it added the amount to the revenue of the country. He feared that the Government was following the financial methods of the directors of the Home Bank, but he doubted whether the people of Canada would be fooled. "I am looking forward to the people of Canada, this year or next, changing its board of directors, and then we won't have any more of this method of financing," Mr. Hocken declared. He charged that the Government had "padded" the revenues for this month in order to improve the statement. He thought the estimates of the Minister was at least $6,000,00 over what it should have been. He charged the Government with having imposed taxation too heavy to be borne, the effect being a material reduction in business done in Canada.

Ten Different Taxes.

Business men of Canada, at least in Ontario, had ten different taxes to pay, Mr. Hocken declared. They were becoming so loaded down with taxation, that it was becoming difficult for them to keep on going in some cases. One of the largest biscuit companies in Canada, located in Toronto, had recently been taken over by the International Biscuit Company of the United States.

"It is not a safe propsiton for a country like Canada to be subject economically to the United States,' Mr. Hocken said. In some quarters, this economic penetration was regarded as merely preliminary to political penetration of Canada by the United States. "I dont want the Stars and Stripes to wave over the Biscuit factories of this country or over any other Canadian industries," Mr. Hocken added.

Advice to Quebec.

He would like to see a policy adopted which would result in bringing American industries to Canada instead of removing Canadian Electrical power to the United States, said Mr. Hocken. He warned members of the Province of Quebec that power development there was largely in the hands of private individuals One result of this might be that excessive quantities of power would be exported to the United States unless there was some control.

A. E. McLean (Liberal- Prince P.E.I.), approved of the export tax on power announced in the budget.

Revenue reduction as shown in the budget was not attributable to the Governments reduced duties but to the decline of import trade

SPRING WEATHER HARD ON BABY

The Canadian Spring weather—one day mild and bright; the next raw and blustery, is extremely hard on the baby. Conditions are such that the mother cannot take the little one out for the fresh air so much to be desired. He is confined to the house which is often overheated and badly ventilated. He catches cold; his little stomach and bowels become disordered and the mother soon has a sick baby to look after. To prevent this an occasional dose of Babys Own Tablets should be given. They regulate the stomach and bowels, thus preventing or relieving colds, simple fevers, colic or any other of the many minor ills of childhood. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

HOW HOT IS A BLUSH?

LONDON, March 28.—Although he had registered the heat of almost everything from that of the moon to a candle four miles away, Professor C. V. Boys so far as failed to determine the amount of heat radiated from a blushing girl's cheeks. He uses a radio micrometer. A few years ago he believed he had succeeded, but then he decided the girl wasn't blushing. Since then he has found it extremely difficult to get a blush. Girls don't blush anymore, he says.

NO TRACE OF STOMACH TROUBLE FOR SEVEN YEARS

Health restored by "Fruit-a-tives".

Mrs. LAURA ALFORD

"For years I was a martyr to Chronic Constipation and Dyspepsia. I tried various Cathartics, salts, and so-called vegetable laxatives, but without relief. Finally I decided to try "Fruit-a-tives", and in a short time found they were all that is claimed of them. They always act naturally, never causing griping, or nausea, nor having that weakening effect which so many other laxatives have. I have been using "Fruit-a-tives" now for seven years and have never had a trace of constipation or stomach trouble since."—Mrs. Laura Alford, 28 Florence St., Ottawa, Ont.

DEATH LIST 51 IN MINE SHAFT

Cage Dropped 500 Feet and Was Crushed by 17 Ton Cable.

OTHERS MAY DIE.

STRASBOURG, Alsace, March 28.—The last of the victims of Thursday's disaster at the Merlebach Mine in Lorraine, were brought to the surface yesterday. There were 82 men in the four-deck cage when it dropped 500 feet while bringing the men from their labors, and 47 of them were found to be dead when the first rescue party descended into the shaft. Thirty-five of the men were injured and four of these have since died, bringing the death list to 51. Many of those injured are in a serious condition.

The cage was a new one. It had only been used two months for coal, and served for the first time for passengers when it fell. According to a preliminary investigation, the accident was due to failure to attach to the other end of the cable a second cage to serve as a counterweight.

The big cage began to slip as soon as the men were aboard, its speed increasing rapidly. It hit the bottom of the shaft, which is a blind pit, 90 feet below the last gallery, the 17-ton cable which has snapped, crushing the cage and the men. It took rescue workers five hours to cut their way with torches through the tangled steel so that they could remove the bodies.

Your BIRTHDAY

SATURDAY, MARCH 28.—If today is your birthday, you will be an extremely hard worker. In later years, the pace you set will endanger your health. You will be successful in business, to which you will devote nearly all your time. If a woman, you will either enter some kind of business or long to do so.

SUNDAY, MARCH 29.—If to-day is your birthday you will have a trait of stern determination that will help you make money, but at the same time make you rather unpopular. You have a military precison about things. You like to discipline people working under you. If you are a woman, one of your greatest faults will be bossing your husband too much.

"VENICE OF THE NORTH."

Bits of Canada, Paris and Scotland Make Up Stockholm.

No matter where I meet a Swede who knows that I travel a lot, but he will say, "Dont you think Stockholm is a fine city?" And I always have to say, "Yes," because it can boasts as picturesque position as any city in this part of the planet. For "honest-to-goodness" beauty, perhaps Constantinople is its only competitor. As Bayard Taylor used to say, it is not Venice, the swan of the Adriatic, but a "northern eaglet nested on island and rocky shores." The waters about it have come from the west, having washed the shores of thirteen hundred islands and on the largest island stands this chaste and majestic city, with its royal palace, one of the noblest in Europe. Max Nordau once tried to express what he saws thus, "A bit of Scottish lake district, a bit of Neapolitan seashore, some of the Hyeres islands, some rocky protuberance of the Urals, a section of Canadian pine forest and a few quarters of Paris—all spread out on a bay in the Baltic Sea."

THE GRENFELL LABRADOR MISSION.

I am glad to have an opportunity to say a word in behalf of the Grenfell Mission. The work which has engaged the interest of this mission is very similar to that in which the Rev. W. G. Walton, of reindeer fame, has been engaged for many years, on the eastern shores of Hudson's Bay. It is fortunate for the native of the Labrador and North Newfoundland coasts that such a man as Dr. Grenfell has been called to look after their spiritual and material interests.

The needs and the sufferings of the natives in that region, as well as inland to James Bay, are such that they only need to be known to appeal to all who care for human well-being. Dr. Grenfell's work has been carried on along lines so wise and so effective as to make known the conditions and to enlist the sympathy and co-operation of many who belong to all denominations, and of some who do not support such work through any particular church. The result has been untold blessings to the needy and the suffering in this most isolated part of our country.

Citizens of Peterborough are helping a good cause when they assist the Grenfell Mission. Personally, I do not believe that gifts to mission work in one direction reduces our gifts in another, but that the more one gives the more the blessing of helpfulness is appreciated, and the unseen riches which "moth and rust do not corrupt."

No. 1. Labrador to The Front.

Britain's oldest colony, Labrador, has been much in the limelight during the past year. At one time that country was thought to be of little value, but people are now waking up to the fact that it has a future. Dr. Harry L. Paddon, in charge of the Grenfell hospital at Indian Harbour, Labrador, says that country is not the chronic invalid some would have us think, but merely needs to be tided over the period between chaos and cosmos, when it will find itself and become an integral part of the British Empire, and a credit to those who had faith in its people.

Already a commission, composed of eminent men from Great Britain, Canada and Newfoundland, is considering a settlement of the boundary dispute between the Canadian and Newfound land Labrador. Whatever apportionment may be made, of one fact we can rest assured, no part will go outside the British Empire. Time was when no one particularly cared where the boundary lay, but the fact that two countries care now, is a significant sign.

The world-fliers caused quite a flutter in Labrador during the past summer. Their flight from Greenland was directly to that colony and much interest centered around the spot where they should make a landing. Many newspaper men and others had gone north for this event and decided exactly where it would be and took up their position to await the event. They were out of luck for the descent was made close by Indian Harbour hospital and Dr. Paddon and staff, who remained on duty, were the only ones to see the fliers alight, to get snaps of them and to extend hospitality, all of which was considered quite an honor.

Not long after the world-fliers came and went, Indian Harbour got another thrill when MacMillan and his party came into port. They came ashore and were entertained by Dr. Paddon, later taking the entire Grenfell staff on board for a meal, when all the curios brought from the far north were on display. Who will dare say Labrador is not to the front just now?

All who are interested in the work of the Grenfell Labrador Mission are reminded that the annual membership fee is only $2.00, which includes the quarterly magazine, Among the Deep Sea Fishers.

Subscriptions may be received by The Examiner or may be sent to Mrs. Gerald A. Wood, local treasurer, Box 990, Peterborough.

TALK ABOUT BACH.

The Knox Church Organist Speaks at Dorothy Park Club Meeting.

A meeting of unusual interest to the Dorothy Park Studio Club took place recently at the Peterboro Conservatory of Music, when Mr. Peaker, organist of Knox Church, gave a splendid talk on the famous composer, Johann Sebastian Bach.

The speaker outlined the life of Bach, from his early days, his many wanderings, increasing fame, and the last days of his life, which were dark and full of trouble, owing much to sickness.

Those incidents of Bach's life were well delivered by Mr. Peaker, who also played some of the fugues composed by Bach.

Those taking part in the musical programme were: Misses Ida McBride, Alice Price, Helen Lytle, Mrs. Parlour, Mr. Maurice Park, all pupils of Mrs. Park.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

BETTER LATE THAN NEVER

Says Quebec Lady, When Sending us News of the Benefits Derived from the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

St. Athanase, Que., March 27.—(Special).—The sterling value of Dodd's Kidney Pills as a kidney remedy is shown by the following testimonial from Miss M. Beaulieu of this place.

"I am a little late in sending in proof of the efficacy of your Dodd's Kidney Pills, but as the old saying goes, 'Better late than never.'

"Yes, only two boxes of your marvellous pills have sufficed to completely relieve me from a complication of kidney troubles from which I have suffered for seven years. I have decided in future not to suffer long before making a call on Dodd's Kidney Pills."

It is statements like this that have built up and maintained the reputation Dodd's Kidney Pills hold today, as the old Canadian kidney remedy.

You will find that Dodd's Kidney Pills will relieve Kidney trouble, no matter where or in what form it is found.

MARRIAGE SCHOOLS.

Proposal at Birth Control Conference in New York.

NEW YORK, March 28.—(Canadian Press).—Schools to give prospective brides and bridegrooms knowledge preparing them for marriage were advocated before the sixth International Neo-Malthusian and Birth Control Conference yesterday by Dr. S. Adolphus Knopf of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis.

Dr. Knopf predicted there would be "standing room only" in the United States by the year 3,000 if the present birth-rate was not reduced, or the population is not reduced by war, disease or famine. He declared birth control preferable to "this trinity of calamities."

Dr. Norman Haire, former medical director of the Walworth Birth Control Clinic, London, forecast an era when infanticide would be practised to relieve the world of defectives.

"There is little doubt but that defective infants will be killed," he said.

CITY MUST INSIST UPON PURER MILK

Eminent Doctor Says New York Settled Question 15 Years Ago.

MONTREAL, March 28. — "In New York we w onder how anyone can think of not pasteurizing milk," claimed Dr. William H. Park, former president of the American Public Health Association, and eminent bacteriologist who arrived in Montreal from New York recently to address a joint meeting of the medical societies of this city, and speak to the Kiwanis Club.

In 1919 by-laws were passed which prevented germs-contaminated milk from being distributed. Those interested in public health began the battle for a purer milk supply by compelling al ldealers who sold milk in which typhoid germs were proved to be present, to pasteurize the supply. When about one-half the dealers were pasteurizing their milk it was an easy matter to secure legislation obliging all to take the same precaution. As a result of the precaution the infant mortality rate had been reduced from approximately 200 per thousand to 68 per thousand.

Disease Prevented.

This means had also absolutely eliminated the milk supply as a carrier of typhoid, scarlet fever diphtheria and tuberculosis. Every municipality should safeguard its milk supply in a similar way, he said. Dr. Park discounted any pernicious effect which might result from pasteurization. The loss of certain vitamines, which might have a tendency to cause scurvy, could be easily made up by giving the baby orange juice.

At the present time Dr. Park is taking an active part in the campaign for diphtheria prevention which is being carried on under the direction of the department of public health and education of the City of New York.

While it is true that since the discovery of anti-toxin much illness from diphtheria has been prevented and many lives have been spared, yet the records of the Health Department of New York still show what ravages this scourge of childhood causes, he affirmed. Deaths take place because diphtheria is often not detected by the parents until it is too late to save the children with anti-toxin. From 1919, to 1923 the mortality was reduced from 1,239 to 547 while from estimates made for 1925, based on the records of the first two months, it is thought that the deaths will be 480, or fifteen per cent. less than 1923, the banner year.

Watch the Children.

In an effort to make New York as free from diphtheria as it is from smallpox, circulars are being distributed in the schools asking parents to allow their children to take the "schick" test which proves whether a child is immune to diphtheria as some children are, or whether, for safety's sake, it should be vaccinated against the disease. In case of vaccination three injections are necessary wihch render the child immune for life. Children are not made sick by the vaccination, as they sometimes are by vaccination for smallpox and typhoid. So harmless is the treatment that Dr. Park vaccinated 2,000 babies at three days old, but found that it did not avail as they were too young to react. Six months is now decided by medical men as the appropriate time.

COWBOYS NOT TOUGH

Missionary Says Early Settlers Were Rough, But of Good Blood.

WINNIPEG, March 28. — A five-weeks' trip from Toronto to McLeod via Duluth and a river trip of 700 miles to the headwaters of the Missouri, thence across country 200 miles to the scene of his future work were described by Dr. John MacLean, veteran missionary of the Methodist Church to the Indians. Dr. MacLean was sent to the West to take up the work of George MacDougal, who froze to death near Calgary in 1876.

Rough-rider stories of the West misinterpret the men who lived there in the early days, Dr. MacLean said. These men were of the best blood of England and Scotland; rough sometimes, but not tough.

HEBREW UNIVERSITY TO BE OPENED SOON

Situated on Mount of Olives —Brings Together Great Men.

The dedication of the Hebrew University on the Mount of Olives April 1st, will bring together as the principal participants in the ceremonies the four men who are chiefly responsible for the re-establishment of the Jewish Homeland in Palestine.

First, there will be Lord Balfour, author of the decisive Balfour Declaration, the official pronunciamento of the British Government, which placed Palestine and the Jewish Homeland on the agenda of world affairs and made the realization of the old Jewish dream one of the points in the reconstruction program after the World War.

Then comes Lord Allenby, the brilliant British general who delivered Palestine from the Turks in one of the most magnificent military strokes that history records. With Lord Allenby's forces fought the famous Jewish Legion helping to wrest Palestine from the grip of the devastating Turk.

The third great figure at the dedication ceremonies is Dr. Chaim Weizmann, the wise and indefatigable Jewish leader, a great statesman who represented a people without armies and navies and won its cause by the strength of its inherent justice and his own persuasive powers.

Finally there is Sir Herbert Samuel, the capable Jewish High Commissioner of Palestine, under whose administration, since July, 1920, the Jews were enabled to make progress in Palestine which has astonished all observers.

It should not be difficult to imagine, hovering over the entire event, the immortal creative spirit of Theodor Herzl, whose genius set in motion the modern movement for the revival of Israel in the land of Israel.

The Hebrew University on Mount Scopus overlooking Jerusalem, the Dead Sea and the Hills of Moab, will, when entirely completed, consist of a group of buildings of impressive architectural beauty. The buildings were designed by Sir Patrick Geddes, the eminent educator, architect and town-planner. Needless to say that this beauty is combined with the latest improvements developed for buildings of that type. The general style of the architecture is Oriental. A number of the buildings have been completed and will be the centre of the dedication ceremonies, which will take place on April 1st.

One of the outstanding facts about the young Jewish pioneers who are rebuilding the Homeland of their people with pick and shovel, is that large numbers of them are men and women of intellectual attainments and university education. A hunger for knowledge lives in them, together with a passion for the cause to which they are devoting their lives.

Many of them will no doubt take advantage of the opportunities which the university will offer them.

Palestine, of course, already has a number of institutions which will prepare students for the university. The Haifa Technicum on Mount Carmel is such an institution. The Herzlia Gymnasium of Telaviv is another. In fact, the entire Hebrew school system, which is maintained by the Keren Hayesod, may be considered as the preparation ground for future students of the university who will be reinforced by the large numbers of the Jewish youth whom the medieval numerous clausus is depriving of educational opportunities in the still benighted lands of Europe.

ALCOHOL AS FUEL FOR MOTOR CARS

Queensland Will Extract It From Prickly Pears, Formerly Worthless Plants.

SYDNEY, Australia, March, 28 (Associated Press).—Use for the prickly pear, of which there are hundreds of thousands of acres in Queensland and other states, has been found by discovery of a process of extracting power alcohol from the hitherto worthless plant.

Dr. William Sinclair, of Adelaide, announced recently that he had successfully extracted alcohol from the pear which might be used for motors, and a company has been formed to exploit the discovery.

LONDON WANTS FOG PREVENTORS MADE

Asks Inventors to Search For Exterminators— Will Finance Tests.

LONDON, March 28 (Associated Press).—The latest effort of science to rid London of its annoying fogs by means of suction fans has been a failure. The fans were attached to a condenser box, which recieved the dirt-laden fog and, by means of heat, reduced it to ordinary atmosphere, which was allowed to escape minus the soot and dirt. The suction mains varied from three to 18 inches in diameter and were powerful enough to handle several hundred cubic feet of fog a minute.

The inventors took advantage of the several dense fogs during the winter to test their exterminator, but they have now admitted its impractibility because it would take they say, at least 750 condensers working together materially to affect even a light fog. The condensers would have to be placed in the streets, on roofs and poles throughout the city, and such installations would cost about $25,000,000.

The London County Council is attempting to arouse interest among inventors to produce a fog exterminator and has offered to finance testing arrangements. The offer of a prize for a successful machine several years ago brought many inventors from Germany and Austria, but they failed to affect the thick mist which wanders into the Thames valley in wintertime.

JAZZ DANCERS BARRED.

London Suburb Forbids the "Wild Body-Wiggling Type" of Dance.

EDMONTON, England, March 28.—Jazz music has been barred at all municipal dances by the Edmonton Urban Council, this being the first London suburb to take such action.

The council took this step because of numerous complaints from citizens who objected to dances of "the wild body-waggling type." T. J. Harrington, council chairman, said jazz would not be permitted hereafter at the town dances chiefly because jazz dancers during waltzes took up too much space, their movements interfering with the orthodox dancers and, besides, "jazzing was neither graceful nor dignified."

"ADVENTURES UP TO YOUR ELBOWS"

Most people know, or did know when they went to school, that Columbus sailed from Palos in Spain, but very few have as yet gone on the little excursion out of Seville to return his call. Many maps do not print the litle place, because the little seaport by the Tinto is now almost deserted, but it is worth discovering. Like so much in Spain, it is one of the unspoiled, unfrequented haunts "of the beaten track." It is still true, as Don Quixote remarked, that Spain is a land "where there are opporunities brother Sancho, of putting our hands into what are called adventures up to your elbow." Here are the vestiges of Phoenician enterprise, Roman majesty, and Moorish elegance—a perfect riot of dignity and gorgeousness. When I want a carefree change I clamber among the cities of old Castile.

A NORTHERN INLAND VOYAGE

For nearly a hundred years this unique inland voyage has waited for me and the accomodations provided for me on the palatial little steamer, the Juno, I think it was called, made the two and a half days from Gothenburg to Stockholm one of the most restful and interesting experiences of my life. Two-thirds of the way use is made of the natural waters of river and lake, but the woodside shores that you can almost touch, the glimpses of Bohns Castle, the waterfalls of Trollhatten, Lecko Castle and hours on lovely Lake Vanern, the third largest lake of Europe, past old Wasa Castle and the ruins on the isle of Visingo, has left me with the memory of a fairyland. At times the steamer was brushed by the trees under which it journeyed, so closely did the land accompany us on the voyage.

RICE LAKE, ICE BOUND, DELAYING TRAPPERS AS SEASON WEARS ON

Water in Lake Reported Lower Than in Years—Crops Look Good.

SAP RUNS SLOWLY.

Roads in Bailieboro District Invite Auto Traffic Again.

BAILIEBORO, March 28.—So far this season the Rice Lake trappers have been having poor luck. The ice up to date is still quite firm on the lake and surrounding creeks, and the trappers can still walk on the Lake while examining their traps. The older trappers claim that Rice Lake rats will not be so plentiful this spring as in former years, as they are being kept trapped too close. It is said that the water in the lake is lower than it has been in years.

Fall Crops Looking Good.

So far the new seeds and fall wheat are looking especially good. It was rumored some time ago that the fall wheat had mostly all winter killed. This remark, however, is ignored by the majority of farmers of this district, and if the weather only turns out suitable from now on, the chances still look good for a bumper wheat crop this season.

Poor Sap Run This Season.

Another good sign that the Bailieboro farmers rejoice to see is a very poor run of sap this year. The problem has nearly always been proven that when there is not a heavy flow of sap the wheat crop is generally much better, and so far this season the run has not been over one-half as much as it was last year.

Quite a number have tapped this season in this district. Mr. Willis Wood has more than six hundred trees tapped.

No Local Floods.

So far this season the spring floods have done very little harm in this locality. The snow has disappeared very evenly off the fields and roads, and on Tuesday it looked quite natural again to see the dust flying after the motor cars as they went speeding along the highway. The roads in general this spring are in a splendid condition, and as yet there has not been any bad bog holes appear. The cars are now travelling almost all of the side lines, and there is very little snow left on any of the roads to prevent a car from passing through. The road gang are keeping the drags at work on the Provincial Highway.

Famous Figures in Wax Gone Forever : London Sad

By W. K. KELSEY.

Mme. Tussaud's wax-works exhibition in London, which was destroyed by fire last Wednesday night, was one of the British capital's most popular entertainments. For a small sum one could gain admission and remain for hours gazing at lifelike effigies of the famous and notorious women of to-day, yesterday and other days. These were a tea-room, a free moving picture show, a large collection of authentic relics, and many another attraction. Because of the amount to be seen and the small price, the place was a great favorite with the "lower middle" class.

The collection was begun by Marie Grosholtz Tussaud, a Swiss, who was living in Paris at the time of the French Revolution, with her uncle, Christopher Curtius, a skilful modeler in wax. Curtius exhibited several models of celebrities, and taught his niece the art; but it was she who, moving in court circles as the instructress of Madame Elizabeth, sister of Louis XVI. came in contact with the well-known people of the time, acquired a reputation for skill, and really began the collection of figures and relics which she brought to England in 1802. This collection, constantly modernized, is now in the possession of the fifth generation of her descendants.

All The Kings.

The Tussaud show included figures in wax, representing all the Kings of England, from the time of the Conquest, and many of their Queens. The Prime Ministers and outstanding personages in cabinets past and present also featured the exhibition. In recent years all the important work was done by John Theodore Tussaud, who exercised extreme care to portray his characters in the most lifelike manner. Frequently the wax figures were dressed in clothing which their prototypes had worn; but when it was necessary to go back hundreds of years, reliance was placed on paintings in the National Portrait Gallery and the works of scholars. Nor were politics and statesmanship the only fields covered by Tussaud exhibition. Hobbs, the cricketer, Carpentier, the pugilist, various prominent barristers and solicitors, doctors and clergymen were also included. Lady Astor appeared at Madame Tussaud's almost as soon as she took her seat in the House of Commons. A few weeks after a financier had made a bold stroke, or some banker had failed, or some rich man's horse had won the Derby their effigies would be advertised as on exhibition in Marylebone Road.

Not only were there single figures, but also tableaux, chiefly drawn from history, and these, of course, were highly instructive to the fishmongers and their families whose schooling was sometimes incomplete.

Some Surprises.

These representations were all behind railings, which prevented people from handling them and breathing too hard on them. But there were other figures in unexpected places. One saw, for instance, a man leaning against a pillar, gazing at one of the exhibits, and one hesitated to interrupt his line of vision, and loitered, waiting for him to pass on, and after a minute's delay, one discovered that he was as lifeless as the post itself. Or one avoided a bench, one end of which was occupied by a gentleman reading a paper—until one found that he had been carved by John Tussaud or his assistants. And just as one peered into the face of another immobile person, admiring the natural red on his cheekbones, one would receive an offended look, and the figure would say: "Well, wot abaht it? Who yer gawpin' at, ennywye?" and move on to stare at the next exhibit.

But the feature of Madame Tussaud's that endeared it to its public beyond all others was the Chamber of Horrors. One reached it by paying an extra fee and descending a dark staircase into a grewsome cavern in half-light. Here were to be seen most of the famous murderers of the past half-century, in the act of perpetrating their crimes, as well as authentic cells from Newgate, a French guillotine guaranteed to have severed many heads from their bodies, and other eerie relics. Ladies used to scream and faint in these precincts, and for a lone time Madame Tussaud's offered a standing reward, never claimed, to anyone who would pass the night in the Chamber of Horrors without food, drink or anything to read.

One of the greatest treasures of Madame Tussaud's was its collection of Napoleonic relics, but it was not these that interested the populace so much as the bloody associations of the originals of the wax figures.

The show had been in the Marylebone Road location since 1884.

MILLBROOK FOLK ARE DRAWING SAP

Many Private Citizens Have Tapped Trees on Their Property.

MILLBROOK, March 23.—The number of sap pails noted attached to maples on private property in the village, gathering the "trees' sweetness," gives evidence of the fact that some local householders have already, and more presently will, enjoy the season's delicacy, fresh maple syrup of their own manufacture.

The question is frequently asked, Why do not more farmers tap their trees and make syrup, as well as its delicious contemporary, maple sugar? The chief items which enter into the cost of production are labor, horse hire, and fuel, but where the owner of the woodlot does the work, the first two have little weight, especially as there is not much else for man or horse to do at this time of the year. Fifteen gallons of syrup may be made with one standard cord of wood, but waste material such as thinnings, light branches, and old dead wood, can be used ,thus reducing cost.

Not everyone knows that Canada produces annually about 20,000,000 pounds of maple sugar. Seventy per cent of this comes from Quebec, and only twenty-five per cent from our own province, the remaining five per cent being from the Maritime provinces.

There is sometimes raised the question, Does tapping injure the trees, and to what extent is harm done? Experience has shown that no marked injury will result if the trees tapped are over ten inches in diameter, and only one or two spouts are inserted in a tree, according to size. Other ill effects may result if the incision is made too wide, or too deep, one and one-half inches being given as the proper size for spout-holes. If deeper than this the extra quantity of sap is small and dark-colored, and makes a poor quality of syrup. Then again larger holes heal over more slowly and give readier entrance to decay.

Most experimental farms advise hanging only one bucket to a tree unless the latter is quite large, when two tap-holes may be made without injury. A first incision is recommended to be but three-eighths to one-half inch, and later, if necessary, this may be enlarged to the size already mentioned.

INSURANCE MEN LIKE DAYLIGHT SAVING CHANGE

THREE ADDRESSES.

The regular meeting of the Life Underwriters' Association was held last night in the Empress Hotel. After dinner had been enjoyed, the first part of the evening's program consisted of addresses by Messrs. Fred. Sedgewick and John Malane on "Industrial Insurance." After this had been thoroughly discussed, J. F. H. Wallace spoke on the ethics of life insurance. John Allen introduced the question of daylight saving, which was heartily endorsed by all present. I. P. McNabb, president of the Association, was the chairman.

Mr. Sedgewick spoke on the "Origin of Industrial Insurance." This he described as a family plan of protection and systematic saving. Nothing, he said, was more misjudged than the life insurance business. He traced the history of industrial insurance down from the guilds and burial clubs which were formed several centuries ago. These clubs had filled a place in the life of the working men but they were unscientific and the safety was unsatisfactory. The British Government had an expert investigate them and he recommended a different system. In 1854 the first industrial insurance company was started, and it soon outstripped the old burial societies. It attracted the attention of Mr. Gladstone, then Chancellor of the Exchequer, who thought that the Government could handle the business more economically by saving the expense of collectors. This system was tried but it didn't work out as they found it necessary to have agents to sell the idea to the people. In 1873 the industrial insurance plan was introduced in Massachusetts, and in 1874 John F. Dryden formed the company which was afterwards known as the Prudential. This was followed by the Metropolitan and other companies, many of which are still doing business.

Mr. Malane's Address.

Mr. Malane spoke on the benefits of industrial insurance. He said that in ordinary insurance a man takes out a policy for one, or two, or five thousand dollars which represents the whole amount the family can carry. With industrial insurance each member of the family, from the baby in arms up, carries a few hundred dollars so that if one is taken away just on reaching an age to help support the younger ones, the check for a few hundred dollars covers the extra expense and helps ease the pain. The industrial companies spend money on literature to educate the policy-holders along hygenic lines. They promote thrift as they encourage people to put away a few cents a week that would be saved in no other way. They help education as the policies issued on children come due just when extra money is needed for high school or business college. The industrial insurance agent, said Mr. Malane, has an opportunity to be a broad-minded citizen as he goes into the homes of all classes of people and understands their troubles and difficulties. Of course, he said, this depended upon whether he was the right kind of man.

The addresses were followed by a discussion which centred on the relationship between the ordinary and industrial agents. A number of the members expressed their opinions on the subject.

Discusses Ethics.

J. F. H. Wallace opened his address with several definitions of ethics. The one which he applied to the insurance business was "Ethics is the science of right conduct to others." He also defined ethics as the moral principles which govern a man in making an agreement with another. Salesmanship had been criticized through the ages. The ancient philosophers agreed that salesman and liar were synonymous terms. It was often found, even nowadays, that business morals and church morals diverged. This had given rise to the law of "Caveat Emptor," or let the buyer beware. Only in the last few years he said, has this condition changed.

Mr. Wallace treated the subject of ethics from four viewpoints. The first was in the agents' relationship to the company. They must be loyal servants devoted to the service of their company. The honor and integrity of the company was in their hands. The people with whom they dealt had no acquaintance with the higher officers of the company. They didn't know that they were honest men of high ideals. By the customers the company was judged according to their salesmen and agents. They must have a knowledge of the company and its methods so they could give a wholehearted loyalty and service to their company. Mr. Wallace summed up the ethics of a salesman's or agent's relationship to his employers in two words, Loyalty and Service.

In his relation with the public the insurance man should always have the prospect's interest foremost. His idea should not be which policy will give me the biggest commission but which one is best for the prospect. The policy issued must cover the needs of the man who was to pay for it. The question that he should ask himself is, "Is the client satisfied?" A man should quit the business if he thought it necessary to cheat, said Mr. Wallace. The man who puts everything into the effort to help others will succeed.

Co-operation was the keynote of the relationship between agents. A dishonest statement or unfair action made things harder for the honest man. Do unto others as you would they should do unto you, was the advice Mr. Wallace gave for their relationship with their brother agents.

Purpose to Do Good.

Ethics of business as it concerned the agent himself was the last of Mr. Wallace's points. The man entering the business should satisfy himself that it was of a character to do good in the world. He must develop in himself a pleasing personality. He must have initiative, perseverance, concentration, enthusiasm, tact and confidence. Right ethical standards were the foundation for all these qualities. He must have the will to do all this and develop character. Reputation, said Mr. Wallace, is not character, as very often a man's reputation was at variance with his actual character. Success would follow all these relationships as a high standard of ideals is necessary.

Mr. Wallace's address was followed by some discussion, after which a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the speakers, and to George Henderson, who acted as pianist, and the meeting adjourned.

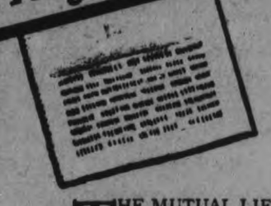
Yearly Profits Grew Until They Now Exceed the Premium



Actual Result Under Policy Still in Force!

THE MUTUAL LIFE OF CANADA exists for the express purpose of furnishing maximum protection at a minimum cost. And profit participating policyholders receive convincing evidence in their yearly dividends that the aims of the company are being fully realized.

Take, for instance, the results of policy No. 729, which is still in force. Issued in 1871 at the age of 20, the first premium was $16.19. Year by year the profits received from the company have increased until today the annual dividends exceed the amount of the premium.

Think what this means! This policyholder is enjoying protection for $1,000 on his life and at the same time receives a small annuity each year instead of paying a premium to the company. This is one of many similar cases.

The files of the Mutual Life of Canada are crowded with examples of the benefits of Mutuality. And the earning power of the company's investments is carefully guarded so that generous profits may be the rule for years to come.

The funds of the Mutual Life of Canada are invested for the most part in government and municipal bonds of the most substantial character. A steady income from these investments is assured for many years to come. The good judgment of the investment committee of the Mutual is attested by the high average interest rate earned by the company's securities and the extraordinary benefits derived by the participating policyholders.

Be a Mutualist. Let us send you "The Mutual Book."

"CASEMENT CUP" WINNERS DINED BY DR. KENNEDY

Manager of Lakefield and District League Title Holders Was Host to Team.

SEASON RECALLED.

Players Present Dr. Kennedy With Pen—Dr. Smith Spoke For Fans.

LAKEFIELD, March 28.—Dr. M. P. Kennedy gave a banquet at the Commercial House on Thursday evening in honor of "Kennedy's Colts" the winning team in the Lakefield District Hockey League. After partaking of the tempting viands served by mine host, W. H. Peacock, a complete toast list was run off with Dr. Kennedy as toast master. After the toast to the King had been duly honored, the toast to the District Hockey League was proposed, and Mr. W. H. Casement, the donor of the Casement Cup, which graced the festive board, reminding the Colts of their victory, replied in a graceful speech, congratulating the Colts on their victory and expressing his personal enjoyment in the games.

The toast to the Colts was replied to by Dr. Kennedy, who recruited and managed the Colts' team for the past two season, and who has taken an active interest in the local league since its orgnization. Dr. Kennedy expressed his pleasure at the victory of the Colts, and also that the race was close, the championship was hardly won as the teams were all well matched and the possession of the coveted trophy remained in doubt till the last night. He regretted the fact that Warsaw and The Grove had not been able to send representatives to the banquet as it would have been a pleasure to have them.

Toast to Firemen.

The toast to the Firemen's team was replied to by Mr. Wilfred Murduff, the manager of the team. Mr. Murduff made a brief speech congratulating the Colts and Dr. Kennedy on their achievement and also expressing his appreciation of the delightful re-union. Mr. Wannamaker, captain of the Rink Rats, replied to the toast to his team, which has had a season of almost unbroken victories in Junior games and which is training good material for the District League and the O.H.A., "Babe" made a manly little speech, which was received with a round of applause from his seniors.

Master Sandy Millage replied to the toast to the "Mascots" team and in what was his first public speech, scored a hit. Both young speakers look forward to hockey in the future and hope in the not-too-distant future to play in the District League.

Referee Remembered.

The toast to the referee was replied to by Mr. R. D. Murduff, who officiated at most of the District games anw whose fair dealing entitled him to the respect of both players and fans. Mr. Murduff replied in his modest manner, paying tribute to the value of the league in training players and in keeping up the interest of the hockey fans. This year the teams, evenly matched, had kept up the enthusiasm till the end of the season.

The toast to the "Fans" was replied to by Dr. J. C. Smith. Dr. Smith, who is enthusiastic on the subject of hockey, spoke in his pleasing manner expressing from the point of view of the on-looker the genuine interest in the games.

All the teams had their partizans, but feeling never went past the bounds of good nature, which added much to the value as a community activity. The games were witnessed by crowds of spectators of all ages who thoroughly enjoyed the sport and also appreciated the fact that the sport was clean and the number of penalties never excessive.

Gift to Manager.

A pleasing feature of the evening was the presentation of a fountain pen to Dr. Kennedy by Mr. E. H. Northey on behalf of the Colts' team, as a slight mark of their appreciation for his services as their manager during the season, and for his unfailing support. Dr. Kennedy, who was taken by surprise, made a fitting reply expressing his pleasure in the gift and the spirit which prompted its presentation.

After three hearty cheers and a tiger for Dr. Kennedy, the party broke up, each one having a pleasant memory of a very jolly evening.

EXCLUDE PIG IRON.

United States' Tariff Act Used to Keep Out Ontario Product.

WASHINGTON, March 28—(Canadian Press).—Anti-dumping provisions of the Tariff Act were applied Friday by the Treasury against the importation of pig-iron from the Province of Ontario.

While there was no official explanation of the action, it was understood that the investigation preceding the order had shown that Ontario manufacturers were able to sell in territory continuous to the Great Lakes on the south at lower prices because of the cheaper transportation by water. Domestic producers serving the same region, it was stated, must meet that competition after paying freight charges by rail, which added materially to the cost to purchasers.

RENFREW RADIO TO LONDON.

RENFREW, Ont., March 28.—(Canadian Press).—R. L. Wells, of this place, is in receipt of a communication, verifying his recention of various concerts from the London, Eng., Station 2LO of the British Broadcasting Co.

FARMERS SPEED LAST DRIFT OF CAVAN'S WINTER

Shovel Brigade Under Wm. Pudsy Attack Barrier on Manvers Boundary.

SAWING "BEES."

Township's Roads Under Supervision of L. H. Gibson, Road Superintnedent.

CAVAN, March 28.—On Tuesday Mr. Wm. Pudsy and a number of men dug out the hill on the Cavan-Manvers boundary between the ninth and tenth lines. All winter the snow had been so high that a road had been used close to the fence. There was a great deal of snow still remaining on the hill. Cars are again in use on the side lines.

"Cross-Cut Bees."

In Cavan Centre the farmers are having cross-cut bees this week. They still have their circular sawing bees yet to come, and are expecting Mr. David White home with his saw to do them very soon. Just now he is sawing in the north of Cavan. He has had a great many jobs this winter, probably between forty and fifty. At one place in Cavan he sawed over a hundred logs for one man.

More Maples Tapped.

During the past week more men have tapped and are going to make some syrup for their own use. Earlier it was thought that as the snow was gone from the woods, that it would not be a long sugar season, but now that it is being prolonged, more are tapping.

It is hoped that the sugar-making season may not last long as this weather (frost at night, followed by strong sunshine) which suits sugar and sap makingg, is very hard on fall wheat and clover.

New Road System.

Road work in Cavan this year will be on a different basis Road Superintendent L. H. Gibson is in charge of the work. He appoints road overseers over the divisions and they will be at liberty to proceed with maintenance work as before, but for new construction work they must wait to be notified.

By this system the Government pays a percentage of the upkeep of the roads, and taxes are supposed to be lowered. Just how, it is not as yet known. Where townships adopt this plan, it will place all other roads as well as highways under Government control.

Car of Oats Arrives.

Mr. Dewart unloaded a car of Manitoba oats at Cavan Station on Thursday. The price paid by the farmers for them was sixty-one cents a bushel.

Young pigs are scarce and are in demand.

Feed was high and the price of pigs not high enough to make the feeding of them profitable last year, consequently many brood sows were sold to the packers.

Mr. S. Fisher, Peterboro, motored out to Mr. T. A. Kelly's on Wednesday.

Campbellford Prohibitionists Are Pleased With Attitude of Major Belford.

HIS PLATFORM.

CAMPBELLFORD March 28.—The prohibitionists are naturally pleased with the attitude of their local representative, Major Belford, who was one of the unterrified quartette of Conservatives who on the second reading of the Stronger Beer Bill voted against the Government. In taking this stand, Major Belford has kept the promise given the temperance people when the announcement that the O.T.A. was to be amended was first made, and is in line with his pre-election speeches and with addresses that he has delivered in the House, in which he has expressed himself in favor of the O.T.A.

Back from Toronto.

Mayor Meyers, Reeve Davidson, Councillors Kingston and Abernethy have returned from Toronto, where they interviewed officials of the Highway Department with a view to securing a Legislative grant for repairing the Campbellford bridge. The delegation was given a patient hearing and were encouraged to hope that a favorable reply would be given to their request.

Canada Imported Apparatus Worth $2,413,687 Last Year.

WASHINGTON, March 28—(Canadian Press).—Canada is the best customer the United States has for her radio manufacturings. The result of a recent survey of foreign markets, announced Friday, shows that Canadians imported radio apparatus from this country during 1924 to the value of $2,413,687, which is by far the largest trade of any country. The survey further shows that Bulgaria absolutely forbids radio broadcasting or the sale of receiving sets.

England ranks second only to the United States in the number of receiving sets installed, having more than 1,200,000.

Belgium fans have the widest range of amusement, it being possible for them to "tune in" German, French, English, and Hollandese broadcasting stations.

MILLBROOK TO PUT CEMETERY IN GOOD ORDER

Burial Places of Pioneers Were Overgrown With Weeds.

FUND RAISED.

Original Plans Lost, But New Scheme Drawn Up and Adopted.

Over one hundred years ago as the pioneer settlers, mostly from the north of Ireland, but including a number from England as well, began to clear the land, build homes, and hew out civilization from the virgin forest in the southern and eastern sections of Cavan township, and in the adjoining part of South Monaghan also, a plot was set apart as "Gods Acre," since the passing of loved ones made necessary such a resting-place.

The cemetery on the 4th Line, Cavan, known as St. Paul's, was the site chosen. Its history dates back for almost a century, and a study of the names on the head stones brings to mind the pioneer families whose self-sacrificing efforts made this the smiling and prosperous agricultural section of country which it is today.

With the passing of the years much underbrush grew up about the graves in the older section of the cemetery, the ground became rough and uneven, many of the families either died out entirely, or the surviving members moved to other, and often to far distant points, so that graves were left uncared for, headstones became dislodged, sometimes broken and overgrown with weeds and coarse grass.

A survey, undertaken two years ago when Mr. T. A. Campbell, of Vancouver, and other "old boys" who have relatives interred at St. Paul's, were home for the reunion held in August, 1923, showed many improvements necessary, and suggested the idea of creating a permanent fund to put the grounds in repair, and provide for proper upkeep during the years ahead.

Unfortunately the original plan, and other papers, were burned several years ago when the large Needler's Flour Mills were destroyed by fire, the late Mr. C. Needler, who was secretary, at that time, having kept the records in his business office at the mill. A new plan was prepared, under the joint labors of Mr. Campbell and Mr. J. J. Clarke, and made as nearly correct as to detail as was possible under the circumstances.

About four thousand dollars has already been collected, and of this two thousand dollars is invested in a twenty-year Victory Bond, bearing interest at 6 per cent. Last year over $800.00 was spent in levelling the grounds, three hundred loads of earth being drawn by voluntary labor for this purpose, old lilac bushes, whose roots had gained deep foothold, were dug out, a new fence was built along the front of the property, a new walk made to the chapel door, headstones were straightened, those lying flat, and occasionally broken, were repaired and put upon a firm foundation, and other necessary changes made. The work of improvement will be continued this season as soon as weather and ground permits.

An energetic committee, with Councillor T. J. Lang as chairman, and J. J. Clarke as secretary-treasurer, and including members from Christ Church, Bailieboro, as well as St. Thomas' church, Millbrook, has been laboring indefatigably to put the cemetery in as good condition as possible, and collect the funds which will provide for its upkeep in perpetuity. Personal subscriptions from all interested because of family burial plots, or relatives of other days interred therein, have been solicited, meeting on the whole a generous response. The highest individual amount contributed was $175.00, and twenty $100.00 subscriptions have been received, together with a number of smaller sums.

There are still, however, a large number who have not yet been approached in the matter, and the committee would gladly welcome additional assistance from this sourc Occasionally, Councillor Lang, or others of the commitee, have encountered members of pioneer families not now living in the vicinity, at Toronto, or some outside point, and when these have learned of the excellent work being accomplished, they have voluntarily offered a generous donation to assist in its completion.

The committee includes Messrs. A. Johnston, Robert and Thomas Wood, W. W. Brown, from Christ Church, Bailieboro, T. J. Lang, J. J. Clarke, H. B. Allen, A. A. Needler, T. H. Bradley, of St. Thomas' church, Millbrook.

W. Elliott and W. Hilton are the caretakers in charge.

SILVER DEMAND INFLUENCED BY WAR AND PEACE

Canada Contributes 10 Per Cent of World's Supply—Russia a Buyer.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 28. — (Canadian Press).—'Tis an ill wind that does not boost the price of silver. Monsoons in India, earthquakes in Japan and economic upset in Russia and China all contributed to the demand for silver, of which Canada contributes ten per cent. to the world's supply. The average price of silver during 1924 was 67 cents per ounce, one and a half cents higher than the 1923 average and 7¼ cents higher than prewar prices.

An interesting statement on post war silver markets was issued on Friday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. It reviews the silver market of the world, showing that India has increased its reserve of coined rupees. In war-ridden China there has been much hoarding of coinage, while there has been an increased demand for silver coins with which to pay fighting men. These two Far Eastern countries absorb from 1-3 to 1-2 of the world's silver output.

Silver Coins Melted.

Some central banks and Government treasuries have increased their holdings of silver. Under the Pittman Act, the United States in wartime was authorized to melt down silver coins and sell them as bullion to the British Government. This was done to the extent of $270,000,000. As prices dropped in post-war years, the U.S. bought up silver to bring its supply back to normal. There will be further purchases soon under this Act of 15,000,000 fine ounces.

But, says the Bureau's report, the outstanding event of 1924 in the silver market was the active Continental buying. The selling of coins had ceased and the change in policy became almost general with the stabilization of currencies. Several countries made considerable purchases for the purpose of re-establishing a subsidiary coinage. Russia was probably the largest purchaser, but Germany, Austria, Roumania and others were also large buyers.

Canada's Output.

Canada's silver output during the last three years has been from 18,000,000 to 20,000,000 fine ounces. The United States and Mexico combined produce 60 per cent. of the world's output. In other words, seventy per cent. of the world's silver comes from the North American continent.

A man with a big heart was found recently in Great Britain, when an autopsy was performed on his body, after a sudden death. The heart weighed nearly two pounds, instead of the usual weight of from 15 to 18 ounces.

In honor of the Port Arthur victory, they christened him Allan.

Crary and K. Cullen were the couples who stopped at the lucky spots and received the chocolates donated by Mr. Ed. Cooney. The prize for the best waltzers on the floor went to Miss V. Edwards and George Robertson, and the second prize was won by Miss Rose Foster and Robert Carney. These prizes were a box of chocolates donated by J. Strickland and a bag of flour from F. H. Dawson. The judges for this event were T. Pritchard of Toronto, C. H. Stewart and S. J. Black of Peterboro. Al. Spencely was floor manager.

Dislocated His Shoulder.

Orley Clarke, a son of Mr. John Clarke, Hamilton Township, met with an unfortunate accident when returning home from Port Hope on Tuesday. The wheels of the milk wagon on which he was riding went into a deep rut and he was thrown to the ground with the result that his shoulder was dislocated and he received a severe shaking up.

Several Excursions Already Booked.

Already several excursions have been booked with the Ontario Car Ferry Company, which operates the two big steamers between Cobourg and Genessee Dock, port of Rochester. On July 11 a large Rochester firm will run their annual excursion here and on the same date the Orangemen of Cobourg and district, accompanied by the Cobourg Citizens Band will go to Rochester to take part in the Orange celebration there. On July 18 the Rochester Commercial Travellers will visit Cobourg. They hold their annual excursion here last year and apparently enjoyed the outing very much. More than the usual number of outings are expected in Cobourg the coming summer.

Fishermen are Busy.

Local fishermen are now engaged setting their nets in Lake Ontario, but report that so far this season the catch has not been good. There are large quantities of fish caught here during the season.

Will Locate at Colborne.

Mr. F. J. Hart, formerly of Cobourg, but who of late has been carrying on a legal practice in Toronto, has decided to go to Colborne where he will locate.

Charge was Withdrawn.

Magistrate Floyd went to Bewdley on Monday where a resident of that village came before him on a charge of assaulting his wife. The counsel for the accused, Mr. A. R. Willmott of Cobourg, said the wife had no desire to have the matter further ventilated in public, and in the interests of her little family she asked to have the charge withdrawn. After some evidence given by the wife of the accused and by Constable Cousins of Cobourg, the request was complied with, the accused paying the costs of the court.

Suspended Sentence.

At Wooler on Tuesday a man named Ellis was charged before Magistrate Floyd with causing actual bodily harm to William Oliver. The charge rose out of a pool room row, is alleged. The accused pleaded guilty and was allowed to go on suspended sentence. Mr. Archie Cochrane of the firm of Kerr & Cochrane, was present representing the Crown.

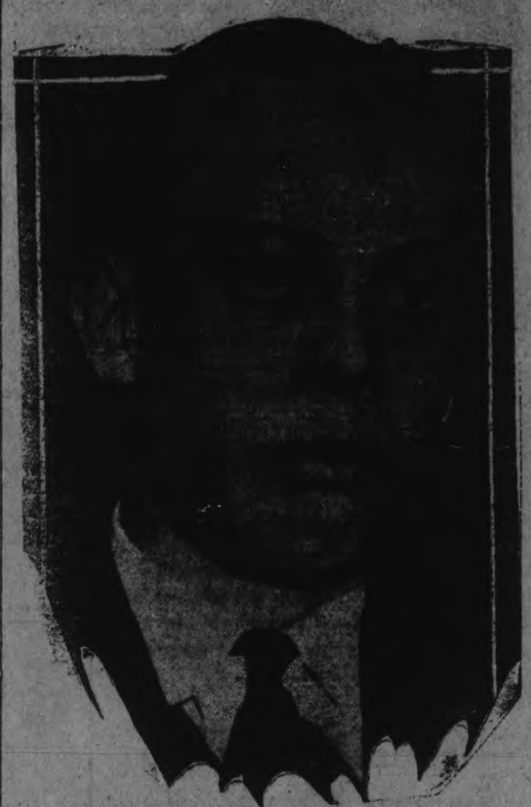
SHOULD BE NO DEATH PENALTY



Russel T. Scott, 32, awaits death on the gallows at Chicago. He once was a millionaire, heading an extensive sales corporation with offices in Toronto. His firm was forced into bankruptcy and Scott lost his fortune. He turned bandit and during the robbery of a drug store in Chicago it is alleged he shot and killed Joseph Maurer, 9. He isto be executed April 1.

By RUSSELL T. SCOTT.

I am sitting alone in the death house. Each day I leave my cot, pace the narrow confines of my cell to stretch my muscles and eat three meals a day.

They are good meals, fattening meals—and I eat them just as a porker would that is being fattened for slaughter.

And I will go the same way as that porker—made fat by the goodness of a law that only abides its time before shunting me down a long barred corridor to take my life.

Each day the shadows that penetrate through the bars grows longer. Soon I will pass entirely through them—the law will have exacted its extreme penalty.

But will the law have served the community—will my death right a wrong?

Two wrongs do not make a right. Capital punishment is diametrically opposite to Christ's teachings.

How those who lay claim to being Christians can reconcile their defense of capital punishment with the teachings of Christ is beyond comprehension.

Capital punishment is not, never has been, and never will be, a deterrent to crime.

I do not make this statement because I am waiting the hangman's noose.

I say these things because I have been placed face to face with a problem that should and can be solved.

If I today had the millions I once had, would I be in death row? Would I be waiting here to suffer the experience all men dread—death?

Most murders are committed on the spur of the moment, with no premeditation or thought of consequences.

For example: Those murders committed during the perpetration of a holdup are certainly done on the impulse of the moment, in defense of the criminal's life or liberty.

That of the wife murderer is done during an uncontrollable fit of anger or jealousy, induced in most cases by believed unfaithfulness on the part of the other party.

Murder is clearly a case of temporary insanity in which the individual loses control of his faculties.

And then there is the danger that exists for the innocent man, enmeshed by circumstances. In a community where he is a stranger, with no money or influence, he is almost sure to be convicted.

In those states where capital punishment does not exist the state has a chance at a later date to rectify a wrong.

I have seen all the bitterness if the world—yet I have tasted liberally of the good things of life.

There was a time when I walked with the wealthy, the influential.

But now I face death, with few friends. All because fate decreed to tear from under me all that which I had built—turning me back from a trail of good to a trail of bad.

When the echo of my feet have faded from the long corridor leading to the death chamber I will be forgotten.

The law will be satisfied. "An eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth" will have sealed my life.

Yet no lesson will go out from that scaffold which will benefit those, sick in mind and soul, who will come to take my place on this cot—to watch the shadows lengthen as they silhouette bars of steel on this cell floor.

DON'T RIDICULE YOUR CHILDREN IF YOU WOULD WIN CONFIDENCE

Nagging Parents, Says Miss Mary Bartelme, Cause Delinquency.

VITAL PROBLEM

CHICAGO, March 27.—Fathers and mothers—if you want to win the confidence of your children, don't ridicule them.

"Too many parents resort to laughs, rebukes and ridicule when their children ask them foolish questions," she says.

"When a child is in doubt about something, he naturally turns to his parents for help. The problem that perplexes him may be silly and insignificant, but no matter how foolish or trifling it is, he has an undeniable right to seek and get sympathetic counsel and information from his father or mother.

"When the parent ridicules him or refuses to help him, the child is hurt. He is discouraged from going to his parents when he needs advice. His confidence in them is broken down.

The Vital Problem.

"Then some day when the child faces a real and vital problem—one that may influence his entire life, he is afraid to confide in his parents.

"He must seek advice somewhere, and when his parents fail him, he naturally turns to other sources. And the information he gets is usually not to his best interest, but to his lasting dertiment."

Parents who lie to their children or who ecourage children to lie about their age when seeking a position set a vicious example, Judge Bartelme believes.

"Many children brought into my court tell me their parents encouraged them to be untruthful," she says. "When I question the parents about it, they say they did not believe a little lie once in a while could do any great harm.

"They don't realize what lasting harm they are doing. The young child observes that parents determine when it is and when it is not all right to lie. And as he grows older, he reasons that he, too, can decide when it is permissible to lie.

"I would not insult a child's intelligence by teaching him to respect some parents who come into my courtroom. Some of them I know to be drunkards, as well as cruel and immoral.

"In many cases I find mothers spend their evenings at cabarets instead of at home. The children sooner or later learn of this practice, and at their first opportunity follow the example set by their parents.

Go With Them to Dance.

"Parents ought not to discourage their children from recreation, for nearly all forms of recreation are beneficial to the growing boy and girls. Decent dancing and good plays do them much good.

"I believe the greatest sacrifice a parent can make for the welfare of his or her children is to 'dress up' and accompany them to a dance.

"Parents might say to this, 'But my daughter does not want me to go with her to a dance.'

"Of course, she doesn't want her mother along if the mother dresses herself in dull clothes and acts as if she were bored.

"The mother should put on her brightest clothes and keep smiling and laughing. She shouldn't go as a chaperon, but as a companion. She should bring her husband along and dance a little herself, instead of sitting in a corner like a statue. And she shouldn't insist on going home at 10 o'clock."

Judge Bartelme has a good word for flappers. Flapperism, she believes, is just a passing fancy. And she thinks it is now on its way out.

Judge Bartelme has been on the Cook county juvenile bench since November, 1923. She is the only woman judge in Illinois. For 10 years previous to her election she acted as judge in cases involving delinquent girls, having been appointed by the circuit court judges.

Although she has never married, Judge Bartelme has had actual experience in handling children, having raised two children of a relative from infancy.

NOTABLE ENDORSATION of PASTEURIZATION

There is in our country an organization known as the Canadian Council on Child Welfare. This Council is drawn from all over Canada, and represents those interested in all phases of Child Welfare.

It was considered that the opinion of such a Canadian-wide organization would be of real value, free from any local prejudice and yet representing the best opinions as regards a problem that is so vital to the well-being of our children.

The League, therefore, asked this Council to express their opinion on the subject, and the following reply received speaks for itself:

Ottawa, Canada, March 16, 1925

Dr. A. Grant Fleming, Anti-Tuberculosis and General Health League, 605 Drummond Building, Montreal.

Whereas it has been established that pasteurization of milk reduces the diarrhoeal diseases of infants, is most effective in controlling epidemics of typhoid fever, scarlet feevr, septic sore throat and other like communicable diseases of human origin, is an effective guard against the dissemination of bovine tuberculosis and is, in addition, the simplest, cheapest, least objectionable and most trustworthy method of rendering milk safe that is known at present, therefore be it resolved that the executive of the Canadian Council on Child Welfare strongly endorses all efforts of health or welfare organizations directed towards the pasteurization of the community milk supply.

SOCIAL EVENING

King Edward Home and School Association Had Enjoyable Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the King Edward Home and School Association, held last night, took the form of a social evening, which was very much enjoyed by the large audience which packed the kindergarten room of the school to capacity. The entertainment, which included a musical programme, service of refreshments, and sale of home-made candy, was very successful financially. The President of the association, Mrs. J. J. Pollock, was in the chair. The sale of home-made candy was in charge of the Misses V. Buckham and L. Elliott, and refreshments were in charge of Mrs. F. White (convenor), assisted by Mrs. W. Anderson, Mrs. P. Cooke, Mrs. F. Finnie, Mrs. J. O. Fife, and Miss Lancaster. At the conclusion of the programme, the Principal, Mr. R. J. Bolton, spoke a few words, congratulating the association and the teachers on their good work in providing such a fine entertainment.

The programme, in charge of Miss Clara Adams, included a pianoforte selection by Miss Florence Adams, violin solos by Miss Katherine Taylor, vocal solos by Mrs. H. Doig, with accompaniment by Miss L. Elliott, readings by Alice Bradshaw and Miss Hope, the latter giving a very enjoyable selection in old-fashioned costume, and choruses by girls from the classes of Miss Herridge and Miss Fusee, with accompaniment by Miss A. Batten. Contests also were engaged in, with small prizes for the winners.

MALE VOICE CHOIR CONCERT.

(By Jeannette).

The fifth annual concert of the Peterboro Male Voice Choir was presented at the Grand Opera House, last evening, before a large audience which filled the pit and the balcony almost to capacity. It was a gathering of the music-lovers of the city, and the appreciation of the superb musical entertainment offered by the choir and assisting artists was intense and enthusiastic. Absolutely silent contemplation is supposed to be the highest form of praise for the painters art, and this type of quiet, absorbed listening was the meed of all the performers last night, this quality in their audience being particularly noticeable during the work of the Hart House String Quartette. The programme given by the choir itself was absolutely new. There was a diversity of type and treatment to their selections which made each one outstanding. The music of the sixty voices which now compose the personnel of this organization was a splendid demonstration of the result of intensive practise and attention to every detail that makes for perfection in choral singing. The sense of balance in their work is remarkable. There seem to be no ragged edges of overlapping tone. As one man, the voices of different timbre and calibre blend under the baton of the conductor, M. B. Chenhall, A. R.C.O., who is to be congratulated on the manifest strides this organization is making from year to year. The result of a long twelve month of hard work was amply evidenced in the programme which the Male Voice Choir offered to its Peterboro audience, last night. The tireless voices, the absolute precision in attack and release, the well-rounded tonal effects, the expressive rendition of a varied programme of vocal music, and the ease with which the singers produce their noble music, were attributes of their offerings, last night.

The Hart House String Quartette and Mrs. Muriel Magrel Kyle, soprano, of Detroit, Michigan, made their premier bows to Peterboro audiences last evening. Of the many fine musical groups that have come to the city in recent years, the Hart House String Quartette is probably one of the most notable. They are outstanding exponents of that type of music which is termed "chamber music," the "musica da camera," which excells in bringing out to perfection the extreme skill of the player, the characteristic quality and capability of the instrument used and the spirit of the author. "To the music-lover in the sanctuary of art, perfection of execution, loveliness of detail and highest mental participation become the sole aspiration.' This sentence probably describes adequately the music of the Hart House String Quartette. The String Quartette has been acclaimed as the most perfect form of Chamber Music, and those who were fortunate enough to hear these musicians at the Grand Opera House, last night, had an excellent opportunity of witnessing and listening to, exponents of this form. Each performer is a soloist, and the music of his instrument can be readily distinguished, and yet they played as one man, their exquisite music blending into a harmonious whole. Geza de Kresz, first violin, Harry Adaskin, second violin, Milton Blackston, viola, and Boris Hambourg, violon cello, compose the quartette. Their instruments are of the finest make. The leader, De Kresz, owns what is considered the finest Guarnerius violin in the world, the second violin possess a Cremona, and the viola and cello are both of the best type. To hear these beautiful instruments, played by master hands, with a perfection of technical execution which gave an impression of ease to the most difficult passages, to listen to the soft, cantabile tone of the superb harmony and come under the holding spell of the music which their tightened strings was to enjoy a real musical feast.

The singing of Mrs. Muriel Magerl Kyle was a fitting accompaniment to the fine choral and instrumental music of the other artists on the programme. Mrs. Kyle possesses a brilliant dramatic soprano, florid in quality, pure in tone, high in pitch. She sings as if she loved to sing, and each number was marked by a change in expression and rendition which demonstrated the singers dramatic ability and mental grasp of her art. Not a "heart" voice and not exactly "mind" voice either, it is a combination of the two. Mrs. Kyle's high notes were wonderful. Taken with the ease and assurance of one in absolute command of her vocal organs, they soared and vibrated, clear, strong and beautiful.

The programme, which opened with "O, Canada" and closed with the National Anthem, had for its first offering a trio by the Choir, three jolly numbers, sung a capella, without accompaniment. "Keep a' Goin'," "John Peel," with a deep undertone in the picked-out refrain of the tally-ho of the Old Country Hunting Song, and "The Jolly Sailor," demonstrating splendid tonal command in the rhythmic rise and fall of the nautical melody, comprised this group.

"Mah Lindy Lou," was a dainty, soft number, sung in the pianissimo tones which are good tests of choral technique, and was followed by a dramatic number, the bassos prominent in the dignified, impressive music of "The Last Chieftain," a cantata with orchestral accompaniment, and solo and obliggato by Mrs. Kyle. Repeated applause followed the rendition of this number.

A trio of choral offerings in light mood included Dudley Buck's "Concert Waltz," its graceful, gliding rhythm strongly reminiscent of the lovely "Baracarolle" from the "Tales of Hoffman." "Gems of Ireland," a pot-pourri of gems from Old Erin, arranged by Mr. Chenhall, in which the unaccompanied, unrelated melodies and quick transitions in tempa and mood held some tricky passages, splendidly executed, solo portions were taken by H. Rush and Albert Barton, with a quartette composed of Jno. Anderson, P. Manning, C. Crowe and F. Pratt, The "Bacchanalian Chorus," sung with gusto, was the third number.

The final offering the choir, which also formed the concluding selection on the programme, was their biggest number, "The Massacre of the MacPherson," also done with orchestral accompaniment. The volume and power of the concerted voices had full scope in the rugged, bold phrasing of this selection, description of the tale of the Highland piper, romancing about the gallant clansmen, and interspersing his recital with bits of broad Gaelic. It was entirely different in atmosphere and treatment to the rest of the programme, and was splendidly rendered.

Two big numbers were included in the offerings of the Hart House String Quartette, Beethoven's Quartette, E flat, opus 74, "The Harp," and Dittersdoff's Quartette, A major, also several brief offerings by the modern composer Goossens. The spiritual purport of the music of the great Beethoven, the lofty, impressive tone of his noble harmonies, was beautifully depicted in the several movements of the first number, with its gliding opening bars and sudden, swift interludes of picked strings and swift bowing. The singing quality of the four instruments was outstanding in this number, and their soft, rich fullness of tone.

Two sketches from Goossen's Opus 15 were given, brief, charming bits. "By the Tarn," sombre, slow, quiet, interpreting the spirit of the silent pool and "Jack o'Lantern," the descriptive morsel that illustrated in peculiar style the dance of the "Ignis Fatuus," the phosphorescent marsh lights. Repeated and insistent applause brought an encore from the quartette, in a lovely arrangement of the old song, "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," the four instruments simulating to the imagination the voices of a vocal quartette, with the first and second violins as tenors, the viola, which carried the air, as the baritone, and the deep-toned 'cello as the bass singer.

The miniature Quartette in A Major, by Dittersdorf formed the closing number by the Hart House group, another exemplification of the satisfying way in which these musicians play difficult selections, and the technical perfection which makes their exacting offerings apparently simple and easy.

Mrs. Kyle's vocal programme opened with a dramatic, powerful rendition of the lovely Cavatina from Gounod's "La Reine de Saba," a full-voiced number that demonstrated the poise and artistic ease of the singer's type of vocalism, and an outstanding quality of expresive interpretation. The applause which followed brought a sweet rendition of the old favorite, "The Bonnie Banks O' Loch Lomon."

Her second group of six brief songs illustrated the versatility of her art. It opened with the vivacious "Love's a Merchant," and the expressive sentiment of "A Home," and included "Dream Ships," a delicate, sweet selection, "The Unforseen," pathetic dramatic, the dainty "Love Path," and closed with the vibrant freshness of "The Answer," the song of vernal days and ways. As an encore, Mrs. Kyle sang the pretty number, "I Heard You Go By," singing to the choir with her back to the audience, her splendid high notes ringing out clear and true.

During the course of the programme, bouquets of flowers were presented to Mrs. Kyle and Miss Muriel Bridge, who acted as accompanist for the Choir in her usual proficient and satisfying style. The Opera House orchestra, assisting in several choral numbers, and led by Mrs. J. A. Foster, was augmented by a number of extra players, including Miss Isobel Donnelly at the piano.

Officials and executive of the Peterboro Male Voice Choir, which last night added another triumph to its list of annual successes, are J. M. Greene, honorary president, W. F. Skitch, past president, C. S. Thompson, B.A., president, John Anderson, vice-president, H. M. Niven, secretary-treasurer F. E. Kerr, B.A., assistant secretary, and Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., Musical Director. To Mr. Chenhall, and the cooperation and enthusiasm of the choir belong the credit for the successful work of this organization, which is a real musical adjunct to the city in which it functions.

Chairmen of committees are P. Naish, Membership, T. Pitchford, Music, P. Manning, Social, C. B. Adair, Publicity. Miss Muriel Bridge is the Choir's accompanist, and W. Bassford its librarian.

At the conclusion of the progamme last evening, after a flash-light photograph had been taken on the stage of the Opera House, the choir adjourned to the home of Mr. Chenhall, where light refreshments were served and a pleasant social hour spent.

FAREWELL TO COBOURG.

COBOURG, March 28.—A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Miss Fena Westington recently when about sixty of her friends of the surrounding community gathered to bid her good-bye before her departure from the neighborhood. During the course of the evening a purse of gold was presented to Miss Westington, accompanied by an address. Miss Westington was altogether surprised. Her nephew, Mr. Douglas Westington, replied very suitably, speaking of how his aunt appreciated the kindness of her neighbors. The following is the address:

Miss Fena Westington.

Dear Friend and Neighbor—In gathering here to-night for a social evening before your departure from our community we do so with mixed feelings. We desire to spend another pleasant evening in your company and at the same time to remind you that our heart felt sympathies were with you in your recent bereavement. With the passing of your venerable mother, a most respected landmark has been removed from among us.

We regret to see you leave our midst when we look back upon the pleasant associations we have had with you. You have been a good neighbor and a sincere and loving friend.

That you may remember this evening more vividly in the coming years we ask you to accept this purse as a keepsake.

Its intrinsic value is small but the giving was inspired by warm hearts of those who love you well.

We pray God to guide your future steps and may His richest blessing ever rest upon you.

Signed on behalf of your many friends.

Plainville, March, 1925.

Profits are not large in retailing due to competition and high expenses. Retailing is not a monopoly, and accordingly the price at which goods are sold is pretty well fixed. The expense of operating a store includes wages, rent, interest, depreciation, supplies, and many other items. These expenses cannot be paid before profits begin.

Individual cases of high profits occur in retailing, but they come only to those dealers who obtain some advantage over their competitors, such as lower expenses, greater turnover, wiser purchasing or greater volume of sales. Exceptional profits exist only for the exceptional manager.

The winning rinks in the contest which resuted in the Peterboro players winning the Tankard at Kingston, were Mrs. J. H. Vernor, Mrs. R. Grant, Mrs. C. E. Jamieson, Mrs. W. H. Hill, skip, and Mrs. Reg. H. Turner, Mrs. H. Cressman, Mrs. A. W. Turner and Miss F. Gladman, skip.

Mrs. Turner here mentioned the supper party to the Tankard winners given by club members, with gifts of roses by Mr. R. M. Waddell, place cards and thistles by Mr. W. Harkness, ginger ale by T. H. Hooper, and corsage bouquets by the executive of the Men's Curling Club.

Games played while the tankard players were away were won by Mrs. F. Skinner, Mrs. H. Beal, Mrs. W. H. Darcy and Mrs. W. Oke, skip.

Ladies taking part in the mixed Sturgeon Shield games were Mrs. W. H. Darcy, Mrs. H. Cressman, skip, and Mrs. J. H. Vernor and Mrs. R. Grant, skip, as runners up. Owing to soft ice, the vice-skips' competition was not played.

The thanks of the club were extended Mr. Martin in making the draw for the Sturgeon Shield. A. McIntosh for kindness and interest shown during the season, the Peterborough Examiner for publishing the Ladies Curing News, to the officers generally and especially the Games Committee.

SILVER LACE IS USED HERE

Silver lace is arranged over a foundation of beige crepe to make this very distinctive frock. A circular flounce gives the graceful flare at the feet and a large crimson poppy lends a brilliant dash of color. This is a typically Parisian frock, the sort one sees for dinner and theater wear.

PRINCE ENTRAINED; ANXIOUS TO BE OFF

Left London To-day to Board H.M.S. Repulse at Portsmouth.

LONDON, March 28. — The Prince of Wales left for Portsmouth on the royal train this morning to embark upon the battle cruiser Repulse for his long voyage to South Africa and South America.

The Prince seemed anxious to be on his way, and when he had completed farewells to his friends on the station platform he started to enter the train but the belated appearance of Prime Minister Baldwin caused the British heir to turn. He shook hands heartily with the premier and thanked him for his coming to the station. The Prime Minister had much to say to the Prince and conversed with him for fifteen minutes, while the Prince shifted about and fussed with his tie.

As the Prince stepped into the train a great shout went up from the crowds lined on the platform. The Prince doffed his hat and waved his hand until the train was out of sight.

RADIO SHORT CUTS

Use phone-tip jacks instead of binding posts to lessen chances of tube "blowouts" when connecting batteries to the set. A terminal board using these jacks can be made for about $2.50. Phone tips are soldered on the ends of the battery leads and inserted in the jacks when the set is to be hooked up.

Saxophines are not new. They are credited to Antoine Joseph Sax, who produced the first "sax horn" in 1843.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Editor's Note.—The Examiner will be glad to publish brief letters from citizens giving their opinions on the daylight saving plan.

"WHAT WE LOSE IN BANANAS WE MAKE UP IN PEANUTS."

Editor, Examiner:

In the issue of your paper of March 27th, there is nearly a column used in glaring headlines, "No dissenters from daylight saving project."

You go on to say, "Men in all walks of life here approve summer time; ask for a change."

It does not appear who the correspondent is that writes this as I might call it advice, but if the daylight saving people start anything like this they may be surprised to know that there are other people equally as interested on the other side of the question. If petitions are being circulated to change the vote of the majority in the last vote taken there is also a chance of petitions being criculated to accommodate the majority of that time. To begin with where does daylight saving get its name? Like the merchant who said, "Vell, vot me lose in banana me make in peanut." You go to bed an hour later by the clock and get up an hour earlier by your sleepy tired feelings. An hour for children and grown people that work, in the morning is worth two at night when rest does not come very easy and the nights are not cool until nearly morning. When do we get the most rest? Is it not in the morning? Now those people who are thinking of having so called daylight saving time, when you rise in the morning just imagine it is an hour earlier and that you are where you would be if it was that hour earlier.

Do we care what Toronto does? If we do why we must change in a lot of ways. What if England and France do have daylight saving, let them have it. Is their climate the same as ours when we require the morning when it is cool to get a little extra rest? What does the working man say about the change? What does it matter anyway to business men who do not have to get up until they wish?

Yours truly,
Maurice E. Ketcheson.

Peterborough, March 27, 1925.

To the Editor, Examiner.—I see by The Examiner that an agitation is being started to have daylight saving in Peterborough.

As a mother of four little children, I am very much against it. My children did not do well at all when we had it before. I could not get them to bed on time, and they had to get up the hour earlier. I think it would be fine if there were only healthy adults to take care of, but where there is a houseful of children and old people and sick people, I do not know of anything that upsets a home more.

When we try to improve on nature we usually make a bad job of it.

I hope to goodness Daylight Saving does not come here.

Yours truly,
MOTHER.

BUY ROLLER IN CANADA.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir: Having noticed in reports in the press recently that our council is considering the purchase of a steam roller and that the suggestion was made to have the old one repaired at an expense of several hundred dollars for which an estimate has been furnished, it appears to the writer with the past experience of the cost of keeping the old roller in operation it would be money thrown away to undertake any further expenditure, especially when no guarantee would be given that the old roller would operate a sufficient length of time to warrant it.

Would it not be in the interest of the taxpayers to purchase a new and up-to-date steam roller of Canadian manufacture which, the writer understands, can be secured with a steam scarifier attached for considerable less than seven thousand dollars, the interest on which would be much less than the annual cost of repairs to the old, antiquated roller now owned by the city. Further than this, we would have the assurance that a new roller with ordinary care would serve a great many years without any additional cost for repairs. By all means purchase a Canadian machine and keep the money in Canada instead of sending it to a foreign country in which case Canadian industries and Canadian workmen would receive no benefit.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the valuable space this letter will occupy,
—A Taxpayer and Citizen of Many Years' Residence in Peterboro.

IRISH FARMERS

BELFAST, March 28.— (Canadian Press.)— A depressing picture of conditions in County Clare was drawn by Col. George O'Callaghan, Westroph, Irish farmer leader, at a conference here last night.

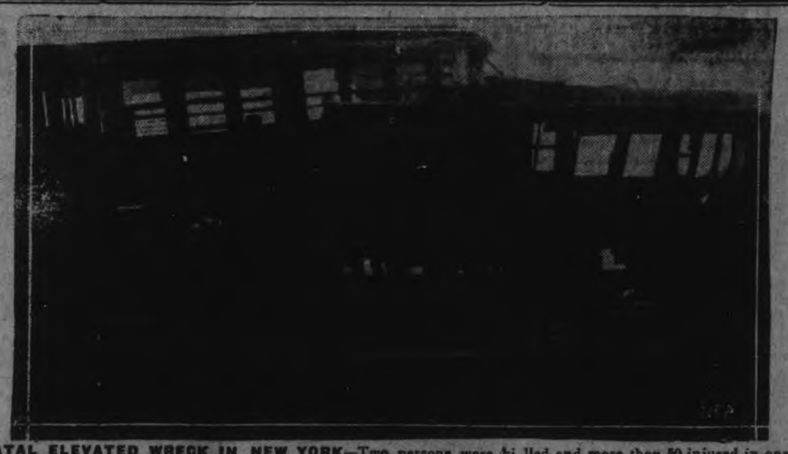
Cattle were dying by the wholesale, he declared, 436 head valued at 10 pounds each, having succumbed in two months in one district, and all the sheep were already dead, with no live stock left in two large town lands.

In two other town lands covering an area thirty miles long by ten miles wide, the people had lost eight per cent. of their live stock They were living on what they could find, eating even dried leaves. A traveller could not journey along the roads without meeting two or three funerals daily.

"The people are seeing black," the Colonel said. "To-morrow they may see red and then God help Ireland."

Facial surgery, including the re-rodeling of injured noses, ears and lips, was known in Italy as long ago as 1546.

A French prisoner recently was allowed to leave jail to marry his fiancee, but he returned immediately after the ceremony.



FATAL ELEVATED WRECK IN NEW YORK—Two persons were killed and more than 50 injured in one of three wrecks on New York's traffic system, brought about by the densest fog in the history of the city. Despite precautions, two subway trains and one elevated train, all crowded with workers, came together in a fatal smash-up on the White Plains extension of the Bronx subway.

FABLES ON HEALTH.

BUILDING UP THE BODY.

Most people eat too much meat and sweets, Mrs. Mann learned.

It is a question whether either meat or sweet foods is necessary. At any rate the chief dangers from overeating come from too much meat and sweets.

The man, doing much muscular labor, the active person, and the playful child need muscular foods.

These may be had in bread, rice, macaroni, potatoes, butter and butter substitutes, including oil, cream and fats.

Everyone needs protein foods, which help to build up a strong body.

Best foods for this material are milk, eggs, cheese, meat, fish, dry beans, peas, lentils and nuts. Potatoes and cereals, especially oat meal, also are valuable sources.

Some careful thinkers feel that there is considerable danger in getting too much protein.

Since meat and fish are proteins, it is considered safer for an adult not to eat over four ounces of meat or fish a day.

FRILLS AND RUFFLES

CHICAGO, March 28—(United Press). —Frills and ruffles, full skirts and long sleeves are coming back; boyish bobs and the masculine silhouettes are going out, according to the modistes who gathered here this week for the fourteenth convention of the Fashion Art of America.

Preening in $100,000 worth of silks and satins, 300 beautiful mannequinnes strolled down the "peacock alley" of the fashion show here in creations by the foremost modistes of America.

Predominating trends as shown in these creations indicate a strong swing back towards the pre-war femininity of styles. While the extreme high-water mark is reached in skirt length, it was also noted that almost all skirts are worn very full, giving the limbs free play and hiding them in spite of gusty winds.

Sleeves are long, reaching the finger tips in many instances and often ending in a cloud of filmy lace. Moreover the tendency in sleeves is to conceal, yet to reveal, "the skin you love to touch."

But most startling of all innovations this seasin is the reappearance of the waistline. Resurrected out of the dust of seven summer waistlines will be worn this year. Not many of them, but there will be more next fall, the fashion dictators say.

The Fashion Art League's show season in spite of the enroachment and convention each spring and fall in Chicago is considered one of the style events of America. The Fashion Art League, organized 14 years ago for the purpose of developing a distinctly American art in style designing, comprises 2,500 leading modistes and costume designers of the United States. The convention which began here Monday will continue until Thursday night and will include the usual fashion show, discussions of style and fashion from the psychological standpoint, addresses by prominent members, a historic fashion show illustrating the modes of every decade since 1800 and various social events.

Wittenberg College, Springfield, O., is seeking a fund of about $500,000 to obtain $200,000 additional from the Rockfeller Foundation.

BUDGET OF LIVE NEWS FROM THE OLD LAND FOR EXAMINER READERS

PEER'S GRANDSON BECOMES LABORER

Youth Disappeared from Home After Failing in Examination

WENT TO WORK

Horn-rimmed Glasses and Moustache as Disguise Effective

Toiling as a laborer, a grandson of a peer, who disappeared from his college at Maidenhead over a month ago, has been discovered by the police at Bootle, Lancashire.

Such, in brief, is the romantic story that lies behind the announcement that the Hon. Mrs. J. L. Bailey, of Weymouth, had been informed by the Liverpool police that her 17-year-old son, Joseph F. E. Bailey, who is a grandson of Lord Glanusk, was safe and well.

Wearing a false moustache and horn-rimmed spectacles as a disguise, Mr. Bailey disappeared from the United Services College, Maidenhead, on January 23, principally because he had failed in an examination.

With only a few pounds in his pocket, he made his way on buses to London, and took train to Liverpool, hoping to find work there or in Manchester.

BAD LUCK—AND GOOD.

He tramped about for nearly a fortnight in both cities, looking for a job, but without success.

His luck turned just when he was penniless. Calling at some works in Bootle he was taken on as a laborer at £2 6s. per week.

Part of his work was to crawl into ovens and bring out baked cork slabs.

"I had never been out in the world by myself before," said Mr. Bailey, in an interview, "but although I did not get work until I was penniless, it never worried me—perhaps because I had confidence in myself.

"My experience shows that if one wants work one can get it. I spent £2 of my last £3 in taking a course in motoring, and used the remainder to live during the week."

LAST HALFPENNY.

With only a halfpenny in his pocket he tried in vain for a position at numerous garages, and even offered to play as a pianist in an orchestra on a liner, but was refused because he could only play jazz music. Then, when things were looking very black, the job at Bootle turned up.

"I found the working men sincere and sympathetic," he said, referring to his life at the works.

"My workmates called me 'Arthur,' and I used to sit with them to eat my sandwiches at the midday meal. They were always full of laughter and jokes, and I was happy throughout.

"A detective found me at work and asked me to accompany him. I did so, and there my adventures ended.

"But I realize now the truth of the saying that the working classes are only seven days off the workhouse. I understand them better now, and I like them because of their sincerity."

LONDONER'S CLAIM TO FORTUNE FAILS

Hague Supreme Court Decides Rights Have Lapsed

The Supreme Court of the Hague has rejected the claim of James Taylor, of Woolwich, to the vast fortune, now estimated at £5,000,000 or £6,000,000, left by Pieter Teyler van der Hulst, who died at Haarlem in 1778.

James Taylor, who is a store-keeper at Woolwich Arsenal, and an ex-soldier who fought at Majuba, claims to be direct descendant of Pieter Teyler.

Pieter Teyler's will was a remarkable one. A codicil decreed that the money was to be left untouched for 100 years after his death, and that at the end of that time the money and the contents of four steel chests, that are still at Haarlem, were to be handed out to his heirs on the male side.

He bequeathed a museum, almshouses and other property to the City of Haarlem, and these, with the vast estate, are controlled by five trustees.

A telegram says the court held that the rights of the heirs had lapsed by time.

ROMANTIC CAREER OF BIG SILK FIRM

Millions Distributed in Gifts to the Shareholders

The career of Courtaulds, Ltd., the great firm of artificial silk and other fabric manufacturers, has been a romance in finance. A few years ago the capital was £2,000,000.

It is now £20,000,000, and the additional £18,000,000 has consisted of free gifts to shareholders in the form of bonuses arising chiefly from the increased value placed on the company's holdings in the American enterprise known as the American Viscose Co.

Two millions in Ordinary shares was distributed in 1919, and another eight millions in the following year, while last year proprietors were presented with eight millions in 5 per cent. Preference shares.

For 1924 the company will pay a dividend of 20 per cent., tax free, on 12 millions of Ordinary shares besides appropriating £1,650,000 to various reserve funds. Profits earned exceeded £4,500,000—nearly 1¼ millions more than in the previous 12 months.

LEARNED BARBER OF BATH DEAD AT 73

A. W. Lockyer, hairdresser, of Larkhall Buildings, Bath, known familiarly to customers as "Dad," and in the district as the "learned barber," has died at the age of 73.

He was well versed in the classics, and his knowledge of Dickens and Shakespeare was intimate. He often astonished his customers with the aptness of his quotations in discussing current events.

Late hours and large suppers are blamed by medical officers for the low vitality of Sutton-in-Ashfield (England) schoolboys.

Heavy Earrings Stretching Ears Of Smart Women

There is an ear-piercing camaign going on in London just now. Fashionable women are wearing earrings of such a weight that the ordinary screws are not reliable enough and piercing is necessary.

Some women, noticeably the Countess of Ancaster, Lady Louis Mountbatten and young Countess of Plymouth, favor a single earring, generally worn in the left ear and hanging on to the shoulder.

The newest earrings are either enormous stones of immense value or tiny baskets of fruit or animals fashioned in metals and precious stones. Some are so heavy that they are palpably elongating the ears.

Defeated Litigant Makes Fine Gift to Weston-Super-Mare

Having lost a traffic action, in which he had been for eight years concerned with the urban authority at Weston-super-Mare, Henry Butt, J.P., entertained the Urban Council and its officials to dinner and handed to the chairman of the council a cheque for several thousand pounds to cover the cost of a park acquired in the centre of the town, and of an elaborate balustrading scheme in connection with it.

Mr. Butt said he wished to recognize the unbroken friendship which had existed during the years of litigation which had involved £23,000 in costs. He was defeated, but he was a sportsman, and as he had acquired a fair amount of wealth in the town he loved he felt that he owed Weston something.

He congratulated the council and officials on winning a fair fight, and considered it unique that the defeated defendant should entertain the victors and present both cheque and blessing. His only condition was that the amount should not be published.

Unique Bell-ringing Feat Performed at St. Paul's Cathedral

An unprecedented feat of change ringing has been performed on the 12 bells of St. Paul's Cathedral.

At the fourth attempt in four consecutive years a band of the Ancient Society of College Youths (the old ringing guild) rang a complete peal in the method known as Cambridge Suprise Maximus, of 5,280 changes, in 4 hours 14 minutes.

Only 9 peals have ever been rung at St. Paul's, and they were of a simpler order than the last one, which is the most difficult than can be practised on 12 bells. The bells range from an 8 cwt. treble to the 3 tons 2 cwt. tenor.

Alfred B. Peck, who rang the tenor, had to pull over its 62 cwt. of metal 5,280 times.

Profits on Cotton Deals Mounted to Millions in Boom

The startling statement that £45,854,000 went to shareholders in the reconstruction of 170 cotton companies in the cotton boom after the war was made by Mr. Murgatroyd, Deputy Official Receiver, in the Oldham Bankruptcy Court.

It was made during the examination of Sir William Hopwood, who reflected many mills. Sir William said that the shareholders of eight companies which changed hands made a profit of £1,750,000.

Mr. Murgatroyd said Sir John Leigh, who helped Sir William in his early days, made a profit of £927,527.

Endured 16 Dog Bites in Saving Sister from Animal

Seeing his two-year-old sister knocked down by an airedale terrier, which stood over, showing its teeth, Francis Boyle, a 12-year-old Hackney boy, went to her rescue.

He pushed the dog off, and held her high in his arms, trying to keep her from danger.

The dog then attacked him and pinned him against a wall, but although he received 16 bites on the shoulder, arm and sides, he made no attempt to free his hands to defend himself, but continued to hold the baby girl out of danger, not heeding the wounds the dog inflicted.

For his brave act Francis Boyle has been awarded the Bronze Medal of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem.

GOING BACK TO CHARLES I. DRESS

After a lapse of some 30 years, the Honorable Artillery Company is reviving its picturesque Company of Pikemen.

As in the reign of Charles I., the pikemen will wear breastplate, tasses and backplate over a brick-red cassock; trousers and stockings of the same color, a steel morion, shoes with rosettes, buff gauntlets and a crimson sash.

The arms will be a 12 foot pike and a sword. Manual exercise of the period has been obtained from contemporary military books.

Workmen restoring a Kirkcaldy (Fifeshire) public building that was destroyed by fire a few years ago discovered a steel safe embedded in one of the inner walls. The safe was forced open, and found to contain 1,000 sovereigns.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE FOR PNEUMONIA

Nurse Who Would Not Call Doctor to Dying Husband

PRAYER TREATMENT

Jury Say Term "Christian Science Practitioner" Should Be Altered

A former hospital nurse and a retired bank inspector who had employed the Christian Scientist treatment by prayer on a man dying of pneumonia gave evidence at the inquest at Bournemouth on the patient, who was said to have refused medical aid.

The inquest was on Hubert Colpoys Johnson, aged forty-seven years, a civil engineer employed by the London County Council, who had been staying at Southbourne. He was taken ill with a chill and died after a short illness.

Frederick Davis, a retired bank inspector, who described himself as a Christian Science practitioner, said he attended Mr. Johnson to the day of his death and administered treatment by Christian Science.

The coroner: What does it mean when you call yourself a Christian Science "practitioner"? — One who takes work under Christian Science for patients.

Did you know what Mr. Johnson was suffering from? — I did not want to know.

Did you receive any payment directly or indirectly?—In this case, no. I have received a fee in some cases.

In reply to the widow's solicitor, Mr. Davis explained that his functions as a Christian Science practitioner were religious and not medical. He knew that Mr. Johnson was asked whether he would have a medical man, and that he replied emphatically "No."

Dr. Murray Wilson save evidence that a post-mortem examination revealed acute pneumonia and a fatty heart.

The coroner: Do you think the want of medicine was harmful?—I cannot say that medicine would have saved his life.

Mrs. Johnson, the widow, stated that she was a nurse trained at St. Thomas' Hospital and the Brompton Hospital, London. She sent for a doctor to obtain a certificate, and the London County Council would not recognize any other excuse for her husband's absence from duty.

Dr. Wilson offered to prescribe for her husband, but she replied that as they were both Christian Scientists they did not wish for medical treatment.

"He did not suffer any pain, except in his side for about two hours," she replied. "After the Christian Science treatment that pain disappeared. It is spiritual treatment by prayer."

The foreman: Even with your hospital experience, you do not think medicine would have helped your husband?—No.

The coroner: You have been a nurse in two large hospitals; I take it you were not a Christian Scientist band?—No.

The jury found that death was in accordance with the medical evidence. They agreed with the coroner's view that the term "Christian Science practitioner" conveyed the idea of medical practice, and should be altered.

FIFTY PERSONS IN ONE LONDON HOUSE

Ten-roomed Example of Over-crowding Cited by Speaker

Frank Dilnot, one of the Progressive candidates for East Islington, London, said at a meeting:—

Going around East Islington, I have been impressed, as no one could fail to be, with the terrible pressure, the domestic hardship, aye and the struggle of nice people herded together like sheep in a fold.

I went to one house, quite a nice house in a big street, and found that in the ten rooms there were 50 people — hard-working, respectable people, with little kiddies. There are thousands of places like that all over London.

What are we made of, we candidates of any party, who can sit still and just talk pious platitudes in face of facts like these?

Any party that contents itself with talking about the difficulties of action instead of setting out with high heart and mind and a steel determination to provide accommodation, deserves to be defeated, and certainly will be defeated.

FOXES RAID SHEEP FLOCKS IN KENT

Farmers near Dover and Folkestone have suffered losses amounting to hundreds of pounds within the past few days. Whole flocks of their sheep have been killed and injured. Foxes, dogs, or badgers are believed to have caused the losses.

The district is not hunted, and is described as being infested with foxes. Special watches are being kept, and farmers are offering substantial rewards for the detection of the marauders. Some of the sheep have been traced nearly two miles before being killed. Others have disappeared completely.

UNDERTAKER DIES AT WEYMOUTH GRAVE

While C. J. Stone, a local undertaker, was conducting the funeral of a friend at Melcombe Regis Cemetery, Weymouth, he suddenly pitched forward over the open grave.

He fell on a plank, which prevented him actually falling into the grave, and when picked up he was dead.

There were 200 people present, and many women screamed. The mourners were led away, the service being conducted afterwards.

Mrs. Stone, the widow, learned the first news of her husband's death from a newspaper contents bill.

Dr. G. R. Ross, lecturer in bacteriology in Leeds University, has been appointed Rhodesian Research Fellow by the London School of Tropical Medicine.

UNCARTING THE STAG

While fox-hunting in England's traditional sport, stag hunting is becoming increasingly popular, and affords as many thrills and spills as the ardent followers of Reynard could desire. Foxes, however, are plentiful, and stags are not. To make sure of a good day's sport, a stag is captured beforehand, and let loose at the starting point of the hunt some fifteen minutes before the hounds are after it. The picture shows a stag being let loose at the Berks and Bucks Staghounds meet at Bray, near Maidenhead, Berkshire, England.

COUNTERFEIT COIN FACTORY FOUND

Sensational discoveries by detectives in an alleged coiners' den were disclosed at the Thames Police Court when Benjamin Regeovski, Waterloo Court, Cannon Street Road, was remanded on a charge of possessing counterfeit coin and a counterfeit coin mould.

Detective Inspector King said that when he pulled up the mattress of a bed thirty-one counterfeit coins fell to the floor, and on a chest of drawers he found an enamelled plate which contained scrap metal. He also discovered in a dustbin pieces of plaster-of paris mould which bore impressions of a half-crown.

BANGOR MAN WHO MARRIED HIS AUNT

When Robert Brown, of Bangor, applied at Llandudno for a wife maintenance order against him to be discharged it was stated that on returning home after army service in the war he learnt that his wife, whom he had married in 1914, was his mother's half-sister.

The marriage was annulled, but in the meantime the maintenance order was made.

The Llandudno magistrates discharged the order but made a new one in respect of the child of the marriage.

YOUTH OF 17 IS UNABLE TO WRITE

He said writing was taught at the school he went to, but he was not taught, as he was running messages nearly all the time.

ROMAN RELICS ARE FOUND IN KENT

Interesting and important discoveries of Roman coins have been made during the excavations of the ruins of Richborough Castle, near Deal.

It is officially estimated that within the last few weeks no fewer than 8,500 coins have been found during the removal of the top soil to a depth of three feet.

Handcuffs with human bones inside and many daggers and spearheads have also been unearthed.

The discovery of a well used by the Roman garrison has also been made. A notable feature is that a framework of dark oak timbers still remains.

MANCHESTER MAN DIES OF LAUGHTER

William Henry Wood, a Manchester jeweller, aged sixty-two, was laughing heartily at a humorous film in Deansgate Picture House, when he collapsed.

People went to his aid, but he died in a few minutes.

TWO HOURS JAZZ MUSIC IN PRISON

Prisoners in Carlton Gaol, Edinburgh, were entertained by an Edinburgh band to two hours of jazz music.

The prisoners applauded lustily, and when a vocalist sang, "Oh, how I love my darling," the men did not conceal their emotion. This is the first time "jazz" has been heard in a prison.

PACK OF HOUNDS LOST IN CHASE

The Atherstone Hunt lost their pack during a gruelling run from Weddington, near Nuneaton. Hounds chased a fox, which swam across the canal, but the large following had to ride half a mile along the bank before reaching a bridge.

By this time hounds were out of sight, and for the next two hours the field vainly scoured a wide district.

Hounds were eventually found at Tooley Break, more than twelve miles from the canal. The field were now scattered, and no further hunting was possible.

HUNTSMAN KILLED TAKING A FENCE

Lieut.-Colonel H. W. Clinch, of Ellsworth House, Northants, was killed while hunting with the Grafton Hounds near Preston Capes, twelve miles from Northampton.

His hunter stumbled taking a fence by the roadside; he was thrown violently, and his neck was broken.

Hunting was immediately stopped.

ROUNDABOUT FORTUNE.

W. H. Marshall, of Bradford, Yorkshire, proprietor of roundabouts and swings, who died last October, left property valued at £12,730.

His bequests included a motor-car roundabout, two traction engines, his business "tackle," and a living van to his son, William Henry, and a galloping horse roundabout, a traction engine and a living van to his daughter, Mrs. Holdsworth.

HOBO EXPENSIVE TO RATEPAYERS

It was reported at a meeting of the Surrey Small-pox Hospital committee at Kingston that a man was found to be suffering from small-pox while in Epsom Workhouse. For his reception the Small-pox Hospital at Clandon had to be opened and his treatment cost the ratepayers £180.

"Rather an expensive tramp," commented the clerk.

The man, who has since been discharged, wrote expressing gratitude for his treatment.

DOLE IS NEARLY GOOD AS WORK

When answering a summons at Tower Bridge Court for ejectment, a man named Wilcox said he was drawing only 49s. a week because he was out of work.

Mr. Fry (the magistrate): What do you earn in work?—£2 14s.

Why did you give up work? — I wanted to better myself by taking work at the docks at 12s. a day.

And now you are doing nothing.

The summons was adjourned for a month.

COCKTAILS SERVED AT DRESS PARADE

There has been quite an outcry in London recently because a Russian Princess, who has made a name for herself as dress designer, sent out invitations for a dress parade, announcing on the card, "Cocktails 11 to 1." One of these invitations went to the nineteen-year-old daughter of a member of Parliament, and there has been no end of a fuss because the young lady took it literally and did drink cocktails from 11 to 1.—Exchange.

GERMAN AIRPLANE HARNESSES WIND

The aerody-namo, is a German invention, working on the same principle as the airplane, but differing in that it harnesses the wind. It is intended to be operated without coal or oil. The machine is lifted not by the buoyancy of the air beneath, but by the suction of the wind above.

The Ministry of Agriculture is now erecting one of the machines at Harpenden, Herefordshire. A British firm has secured the patent rights for Europe.

"WEMBLEY" OWES BIG RATE BILL

They were summoned at Hendon, when application was made for an adjournment sine die,

Certain arrangements, said counsel, had been made as to payment, but these could not be mentioned in open court. The Bench granted the application.

DESCRIBES SKULL OF ROBERT THE BRUCE

Sir Arthur Keith, the anthropologist, writing in Nature, declares that Professor Karl Pearson—who is Galton Professor of Eugenics at London University—has given the first adequate account of the skull of the Scottish king in a recently published monograph.

Sir Arthur quotes Professor Pearson —with whose main conclusions he is in agreement—as saying:

His skull "suggests a man of most exceptional muscularity and strength, with a bull-neck and ardent passions," and "he was able by Celtic imagination, with a certain dash of slimness, to win the Scottish nation to his side, and by aid of Nordic physique to be triumphant over his enemies."

Sir Artuhr thinks that King Robert was typically British; his skull was of the type known as the "beaker," or round-head, because men of this type were buried with a peculiar kind of earthenwire vessel.

He says Darwin was almost a representative "beaker" man; wherever leading British men are met together there is certain to be an undue proportion of round-heads.

FATHER IGNORED FOR TEN YEARS

George Oldfield, a clothworker, of Taylor street, Blackburn, who was summoned for threatening his daughter Emily, stated that he had not spoken to her for ten years and that none of his family spoke to him.

Oldfield also objected that a newspaper had described him and his wife as the "silent couple."

Mrs. Oldfield, who, it was stated, had not spoken to her husband for six years, said that she had "not had a day's pleasure in thirty-two years of married life."

The case was adjourned to give Oldfield an opportunity of improving his conduct at home.

SUSSEX MAN MADE FORTUNE FARMING

Was Original Breeder of Famous Southdown Sheep

DEATH AT 103

Over Hundred Descendants Scattered All Over Empire

Enjoyed looking after his garden when 102.

Ran to catch a train when he was over 100.

Went to work before he was 11 for 1s. a week.

These are some of the events in the life of Charles Tulley, who died at Yeoman House, Hassocks, a few days ago.

Mr. Tulley, whose household was supervised by a daughter over 80 years of age, made a fortune out of agriculture.

His beginnings were humble. His mother died when he was but 14 months old, and before he reached the age of 11 he was working 12 hours a day as a carter's boy, for 1s. a week.

FIRST OF FAMOUS BREED.

But he managed to save a little even out of the small money he earned as a youth. When he was 21 he inherited £100, and putting his savings to this sum he began farming on his own account.

He was said to be the original breeder of the famous South Down sheep.

After adding property to property in the neighborhood of Hassocks and Burgess Hill, this wonderful old man of Sussex "retired" from active work 24 years ago.

Then he put in a second lifetime of work in his garden and in looking after his property.

MODERATION—AND WORK.

"Moderation in all things and work in the open" is his recipe for a long and happy life.

When a messenger from the King arrived to congratulate Mr. Tulley on reaching his 100th birthday he was surprised to find him planting potatoes in his garden.

Mr. Tulley married in 1845, and celebrated his golden wedding in 1895. His wife died about 20 years ago.

The descendants of Mr. and Mrs. Tulley and of their five sons and four daughters number nearly 100, and are scattered throughout the Empire.

WHITE BREAD IS CAUSE OF BERI-BERI

Professor Claims Appendicitis Traceable to Same Source

Mrs. Neville Chamberlain, wife of the Minister of Health, who was present at a lecture on "Diseases Caused by Badly Chosen Diet," given before the People's League of Health in London, advocated the use of whole-meal flour.

She said that she had always given her own children wholemeal bread. She had found difficulty in obtaining it, however, and she thought that the public ought to press their demands for it more strongly upon tradesmen. The prejudice which existed in some quarters against wholemeal bread was entirely without foundation.

The lecture was delivered by Professor R. H. A. Plimmer, who said that the spread of the dread malady known as beri-beri was proved to be largely due, as far as the white races were concerned, to the consumption of white bread, and the increasing prevalence of appendicitis in late years was traceable to the same source.

If we abolished white flour and used nothing but wholemeal flour we should have nothing to fear from beri-beri.

NINTH DUKE OF BEAUFORT'S WILL

The ninth Duke of Beaufort, who died on November 27 last, aged 77, left unsettled property value £541,843. He confirmed various settlements, and stated that provisions under his will are additional to those under those settlements.

To his son, the present duke, he bequeathed £25,000, and, on trust, all his real estate, including the castles of Swansea, Oystermouth, Loughor, and Pennard, subject to the payment of £1,000 a year to his wife and £500 a year to his daughter, Lady Diana Somerset.

LOVE ROMANCE OF FRENCH COUNT'S SON

The marriage of the only son of a French count, Theodore l'Avale, and Miss Emma Bell, youngest daughter of the late George Bell, a Darlington blacksmith, has brought to light an interesting romance.

L'Avale went to England a few months ago, and his allowance from his mother was suddenly stopped. He was then compelled to earn his own living, and secured work at a Darlington cinema.

He paraded the streets of the town in costumes to advertise the feature films.

While standing near the cinema he saw two girls approach, and as one of them spoke with an accent which reminded him of a holiday in Canada he got into conversation with them. Later he met the younger girl at a dance, and friendship ripened into love.

L'Avale did not inform his future wife of his noble birth, and it was only during an examination of some of his papers after the marriage that she discovered he was the son of a count.

FRAUD ALLEGED AS INSOLVENCY CAUSE

Tom Lewis, a Cardiff shipowner, appeared before the local registrar for his public examination, and attributed his failure to his having been defrauded, as he alleged, in regard to the Jubilee Cotton Mills.

"I have," he said, "been grossly defrauded—in fact, robbed—by Hooley and his associates.

The examination was closede subject to the signing of notes.

Bogus Baronet Is Denounced in The London Gazette

A Home Office notice in the London Gazette states that the name of Major (retired pay) Julian Philip Swindell Hayes, late Royal Army Medical Corps, styling himself a baronet, is not entered on the official roll of the baronetage.

It further states that no claim on his part to the rank, title and dignity of baronet has been established.

Mr. H. B. Simpson, Registrar of the Baronetage, said to a reporter:

"We heard of Major Hayes some years ago when he called himself a baronet. Until, however, we could tell him that it was believed he had no title it was thought unfair to declare publicly such was the case.

"A short while ago he was charged in a police court with being drunk and disorderly, and here again styled himself a baronet. It is really owing to the fact that he called himself a baronet in a police court that action was taken."

How Can Man Have An Immortal Soul? Asks Bishop Barnes

"The fundamental question is: 'If man is a descendant of the monkey, how can he have an immortal soul if monkeys have none?' "

This was the quandary cited by the Bishop of Birmingham, Dr. W. E. Barnes, in an address to the Birmingham Men's Brotherhood meeting, when he referred to the Taungs "missing link" skull discovery, and declared, "Darwin has triumphed."

He added: "The gaps which separate humanity from its monkey-like ancestors are being bridged, and the world is now convinced that man really is descended from ape-like stock."

He said, however, that he did not propose to answer the question he asked, for he did not know the machinery of evolution nor the creative power behind it.

"Nobody knows when man developed an immortal soul. Man, however, in developing from the ape, has grown to understand God's ways, and God, Who had used the whole process of evolution, extending over 100 million years, to bring man into existence, would preserve what he valued."

Shrimp Paste Pot Lid Fetches Good Price at Auction Sale

One rare lid, with a portrait of Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, the authoress of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," was sold for £21. Another, called "Pet Rabbit," made £18.

Such lids, which are small, could formerly be bought for about a shilling. They are now much sought after by collectors.

Plenty of Cane Policy at Eton For Naughty Boys

"I will tell you what they do at the public schools, where the sons of noblemen and other people go," said Mr. Rooth, the magistrate at Lambeth Police Court, when John Dooley, headmaster of the London County Council School, Surrey square, Old Kent road, was summoned for caning a pupil, Frederick Jordan, aged nine.

"A boy, whether he is the son of a duke of the son of a dustman," added Mr. Rooth, "receives ten or twelve strokes if he does wrong. Would you consider that severe?"

Mrs. Jordan, the boy's mother: Yes, I should.

Mr. Rooth: The parents of such children do not.

The summons was dismissed, and Mr. Dooley was awarded £1 1s. costs.

State Shipyard in Britain Involved Big Financial Loss

A big loss on the National shipyard and Government houses at Chepstow is disclosed in the report of the Comptroller and Auditor-General of Great Britain in his report on the appropriation accounts for the Civil Service.

The shipyard was sold in 1920 for £100,000 in cash, and the balance of £490,000 in instalments; and the 450 houses for £440,000, subsequently reduced to £338,000 on the War Office taking over part of the estate.

No part of this purchase price was received. In December, 1924, the shipyard was sold to a new purchaser for £25,000, and the houses returned to the possession of the Government.

Thus only £110,000 and £25,000 have been received against £600,000 for which the shipyard was originally paid.

A further £5,250 is to come in from the sale of railway sidings, and against the £400,000 for the houses the War Office has paid £8,100 for a part.

Yorkshireman's Tale Of Secret Gold Mine Stirs Keighley Spirits

A secret gold mine, the situation of which is known only to a few, discovered by a fever-struck man whose home is nearby, has set Keighley in a ferment.

The discoverer has returned from abroad to regain his health, and when fit will lead an expedition to this new El Dorado, where he claims to have found gold at the depth of 20 feet.

Shrewd business men have formed a syndicate to finance this expedition, which people believe will be the forerunner of another "rush to Klondyke."

If, when the expedition reaches the mine, which the discoverer says he has left in trustworthy hands, satisfactory results are obtained, a mine expert will be sent out.

THREAD OF EVIDENCE LEADS TO ARREST

A piece of white thread on a man's clothes drew a constable's attention to the fact that the shopkeeper's ticket was still on the coat.

The constable arrested the man, John Russell Leas, who was charged at Manchester with being in possession of a stolen suit. He was handed over to Bolton police, by whom he is wanted.

D. R. Larcombe, the popular manager of the famous tennis courts at Wimbleton, has now succeeded Commander Hillyard, who has resigned his position as secretary.

DOLE DENIED TO 11,000 SHIRKERS

Applicants Not Doing Their Best to Find Work

BENEFITS LOST

Unemployed Women and Girls Cost Country £8,500,000 Yearly

More than 11,000 claims to unemployment benefit during the "gap" period from December 9, 1924, to January 12, 1925, were rejected by the Ministry of Labor on the ground that the applicants were not doing their best to obtain work.

This statement is made by Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland, the Minister of Labor, in a written reply giving the following reasons for the rejection of claims to extended benefit during the period:—

Not normally employed in insurable employment	5,269
Insurable employment not likely to be available	1,553
Not a reasonable period of insurable employment during the preceding two years, etc.	10,849
Not making every reasonable effort to obtain suitable employment and not willing to accept suitable employment	11,011
Failure to attend hearing; cases adjourned	9,005

NEW RULE.

By the operation of a new regulation unemployment benefit has been stopped to thousands of men whose insurance cards do not bear thirty contribution stamps in two years or eight stamps since July 7.

The Minister of Labor has power to extend the payments, and is being pressed by Socialist M.P.'s to do so.

In one place five hundred men have lost the benefit.

Unemployed women and girls in Britain are at the present time costing the country as much as £8,500,000 a year.

General servants are not allowed to draw the "dole," but the number of unemployed domestic workers from hotels, restaurants, and similar places receiving benefit is 26,000.

"SUCKER" HARVEST YIELDED £170,000

Much British Money "Invested" in U.S. Oil Lands

It has come to the knowledge of Scotland Yard that one of the 100 oil swindlers who invaded England in November last from the United States has just returned with more than £170,000 of British money "invested" in "oil lands where there is no oil."

The DailyMail's New York correspondent cabled on November 1 last warning readers that these swindlers, known in America as "gyppers," had just landed in England, and urging the necessity for ignoring their cleverly worded circulars offering oil-producing lands in the United States.

The man who has just returned to America leased three sumptuous offices in this country, says the Daily Mail, and employed more than 50 assistants, many of whom are wanted by the United States police on charges arising out of the postal regulations for sending oil-swindle literature through the post.

The warnings repeated throughout November last had the effect of reducing considerably the operations of the "gyppers," but a vast amount of British money found its way into their pockets, and all that has been given in return is a piece of paper acquainting the "sucker" that he is the owner of land in the United States where oil is to be found.

NEW POWER FOR RADIO IS FOUND

Will Eliminate High Tension Battery—Cold-emitter Valve

A Birmingham scientist is now working a valve wireless set with electricity generated from a new source of power, which may have epoch-making results not only in wireless, but in many other directions where electricity is used.

It is an astonishingly simple method, and, if it comes into general use, will banish the chief bugbear of wireless, the high tension battery, as amateurs now know it, and replace it with a far cheaper and more efficient source of power, in which no chemical action whatever will be used.

For this reason the method makes for extremely pure reproduction, there being no internal disintegration of cells such as is inseparable from the high tension battery now used, and a smooth, steady current is obtained.

The discovery may lead to the development of a cold-emitter valve, and it may go farther and revolutionise all the present methods of generating electricity.

OWNER OF £100,000 TAPESTRY IS DEAD

The death has taken place of Mr. Freeman Roper, the owner of Forde Abbey, near Chard, one of the stateliest manor houses in the West Country, and the possessor of the five historic Mortlake tapestries known as the "Acts of the Apostles."

The tapestries are said to have been captured from a Spanish galleon, and were eventually given by Queen Anne to the former owner of the abbey.

They are valued at £100,000, and last year were reported to have been sold to an Austrian expert on behalf of the Detroit Institute of Arts. The sale, however, never took place.

VISITORS NOT BUYERS.

Ninety-nine out of a hundred people who see the Palace of Engineering, H. G. Williams told the British House of Commons, are no use for commercial purposes. On the other hand, several visitors who would have purchased locomotives desisted when they were told they would have to find their own paper and string.

MILLION BRITISH SPORT FANS EXPECTED AT TO-DAY'S EVENTS

Oxford Vs. Cambridge Boat Race Feature in London.

A HECTIC WEEK.

LONDON, March 28 (Canadian Press cable).—With the annual boat race classic, Oxford vs. Cambridge; the inter-Army rugby match at Twickenham, and the Association Football Cup semi-finals, the climax of one of Britain's greatest sporting weeks is reached today. It is estimated that an aggregate of one million people will witness these events. One hundred thousand saw the Grand National steeplechase at Liverpool Friday, and it is reckoned that millions of pounds changed hands on the great race. A feature was the intense interest taken by women. For the first time in three years no member of the royal family saw the race, but a crowd of England's best society was on the course. Lord Derby and the Countess of Sefton had large parties, and there were many other notables.

Great Race.

Nine special trains ran from London, but they were insufficient and booking had to be suspended, from the Marylebone terminus. It was a great race, the finest since the war. The course and weather were perfect, and for the first time in the long history of the race a starting gate was used. The huge field of thirty-three horses lined up like a troop of well-trained cavalry horses. The first sensation was the falling of Alcazar at the first fence. Patsy V. and Taffytus galked at the next, and therafter there was the full crop of sensations, with the leaders changing frequently.

Double Chance overhauled Old Tay Bridge on the flat 100 yards from home. His rider, Major Wilson, is an amateur who has had comparatively little public practice. Double Chance is owned jointly by D. Goold, a popular Lancashire business man, and Trainer, F. Archer, who is a nephew of the famous jockey, Fred Archer, and whose grandfather rode Little Charlie, the winner of the National in 1858. This is his first regular season as a steeplechaser.

The worst of the mishaps was when Parvin was kicked in the head by Gracious Gift.

Cup Semi-Final.

London, instead of Lancashire, will be invaded today. Six special trains will convey hundreds of keen and excited Yorkshiremen to Stamford Bridge, for the cup semi-final, while an influx of many thousands is due for the boat race, interest in which has been greatly intensified during the past week, by the mishaps and misfortunes that for a while visited both crews.

Oxford appear to have overcome their epidemic of influenza, a mild form of which ran through the whole crew, while the tendency of Cambridge's stroke to "crab-catch," which he caught three or five days ago, appears to have been rectified by a drastic alternation made in the stroke rigger.

In a cold blasting wind the crews put the finishing touches on their practice in two outings Friday, before a crowd of fur-coated, high-booted feminine admirers. The water was rough and only short bursts were indulged in.

Cambridge remain favorites, although the expected rough conditions may give Oxford an advantage, particularly if they win the choice of sides. The weather forecasts predict a northeasterly gale in exposed places.

The NUT CRACKER
BY JOE WILLIAMS

"We may not win the pennant, but we'll be in the fight," Mr. Speaker of the Indians tells you. Mr. Ludendorff used to tell wartime reporters the same thing about the Kaiser's boys, and he was right, too.

Mr. Speaker has one of those teams that is dappled with ifs, maybes and perhapses. To get home in front he will need plenty of help from the gods and more than an occasional base hit from the hired hands.

In order to improve his general all-round deportment, Mr. Rube Lutzke, third baseman had 14 new teeth installed at judicious intervals in his cavernous mouth. If the experiment is a success Mr. Speaker promises to can a couple of pitchers and sign a dentist.

Mr. Speaker, himself, did not have such a stylish record last season. There were indisputable symptoms of retrogression. You can use up a lot of arm and leg power in 17 years. And a thrown agate doesn't look the same when you are 37 as it did when you were 24.

Just the same, Mr. Speaker will be back in centre field again when the first guttural expletive is tossed from the bleachers in the general direction of the umpire. Mr. Speaker intimates he will pass from the game when elephants sing in trees and bay stallions walk on their ears.

Mr. Speaker has many managerial problems facing him. One has to do with Riggs Stephenson, who hits harder than Ruth and fields worse than an untrained seal. Will Stephenson win more games with his bat than he'll lose with his hands? Mr. Speaker is paging the answer.

Eight men are competing for the right field job. It is probably a lucky break for the team that only one of them can get it. There is little about any of the candidates reminiscent of Speaker, Hooper or Lewis.

While Mr. Wiseman may have perpetrated some crude jokes on the Cleveland public, we happen to know he had no hand in bringing Stuffy McInnis to the city as a first baseman who would positively put the team back in the championship picture.

Mr. Speaker has a splendid infield in Joe Sewell. This ought to be the Alabama collegian's juciest year as a big topper. He is a Leonard with the punch of a Dempsey. There is no man in baseball harder to fool.

THE INDIANS ARE THE ONLY CLUB IN THE BIG LEAGUES BOASTING A COMEDIAN AS A TRAINER. MR. LEFTY (MAX) WISEMAN WRITES SONGS AND JOKES AND, WHAT IS MORE, SINGS AND SPRINGS THEM.

Crocodiles, like ostriches, swallow pebbles and small stones for the purpose of grinding the food in their stomachs.

CANADIENS WON IN LAST FRAME

Tied in Second, Winners Scored 3 to 1 in the Final Period.

FIRST IN SERIES.

VICTORIA, March 28.—(Canadian Press).—Going into the third period tied 1 to 1, the Canadiens, representing the National Hockey League, scored three goals to Victoria's one in the final frame to beat the Western Canadian champions, Victoria, in the third game of the series, 4 to 2. In that last period the Canadiens played their best hockey of the series. It was the Canadien's first victory of the series.

BOARDERS KNOWN.

TOKYO, March 28. — Police are enforcing an ordinance here which requires that boarding house keepers post outside their house a list of all those living within.

HE'LL PUT YOUR PLAY UNDER A MAGNIFYING GLASS

Here's Chester Horton, who is described by "Chick" Evans as "Golf's Man of Science."

This greatest of golf instructors—maker of golf champions, national, sectional and local—has prepared a special series, on the SENSE of the golf swing.

Of the average business-man golfer Horton says:

"Roll this strange bug over his golf rut and invariably you find his sense of the golf swing is minus—he needs my 'straight line' for his hips."

Don't miss Horton's articles telling of this, and later ones that will describe his "pull down." YOU CAN apply these principles to YOUR GAME—and cut your cards!

These great golf principles come through Horton out of 25 years of experience, during which he has given 70,000 golf lessons. You can get his points in a MOMENT of your time!

The most important thing in adult life nowadays is to learn to play—good golf!

Follow Horton—and learn to play good golf!

BANCROFT'S BRAVES LACK CLASS.

Boston Nationals Appear To Have Will, But Simply Lack Way to Get Anywhere.

BY BILLY EVANS

ST. PETERSBURG, March 28.—The Boston Braves appear to have the will to get somewhere in the National League race, but they timply haven't the way.

The Braves, like the Phillies, don't appear to be going anywhere in particular. After July 1 there is certain to be a hectic struggle between these two teams to avoid the cellar.

There is one player on the Braves who stands out, Johnny Cooney. If the young man was with the New York Giants he would be one of the most talked-about athletes in the National League.

Cooney is primarily a pitcher. He did some mighty fine southpawing in the National League last season. However, he is a man of many parts. One of his greatest assets is his ability to hit the ball. As a result he is used considerably in the outfield and is also the club's champion pinch hitter.

Poor Club Dims Efforts.

The fact that so great a player as Cooney is with the lowly Braves keeps him from being rated one of the stars of the game. The work of the club dims his individual efforts.

Cooney comes by his baseball ability honestly. He is the son of the Cooney who played with Pop Anson's Chicago Colts, many years back. His brother, Jack, is starring at shortstop for the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Braves' pitching staff isn't to be sniffed at, the outfield is very fair, but the infield is one of the oddest combinations that ever graced a big league diamond.

Manager Bancroft, one of the greatest shortstops the game has ever seen, is the only member of the infield who at present could be classed as a sure enough big leaguer. Around him is a rather makeshift aggregation.

At first base is Burrus, dug up by Connie Mack five or six years ago from a southern college and after being carried for two years, turned loose. Connie expressed the thought that he would never make the grade. Burrus, after several years in various minors, is back to supplant the veteran "Stuffy" McInnis, who is a holdout.

At second base, a most important position, the Braves have Lucas, who only a year back was a pitcher. I don't believe any pitcher can be made into a big league infielder in so short a time.

The only bright spot in the Braves' infield, in my way of thinking, outside of Bancroft of course, is Bill Marriott at third base. Last season he was with Mobile in the Southern League.

Looks Part of Player.

Marriott looks the part of a ball player. He goes to his right or left with equal ease. Strangely, ground balls hit directly at him seem to bother him most. I regard Marriott as having a great chance to make good. He is easily the best infield prospect.

Of the rookie pitchers, Ike Kamp, who had a big year with Pittsfield in the Eastern League, has promise. In that organization Kamp was pretty close to being the shutout king, blanking his opponents being a favorite diversion.

While wishing Manager Bancroft all the luck in the world, yet after watching his ball club for two days I am positive that he has a rough voyage ahead between now and the close of the season.

If Bancroft can work up any great enthusiasm over the club he is entitled to the rating of champion optimist.

ST. ANDREW'S HAD GOOD FAST TEAM

Well Balanced Outfit Won Church League Juvenile Series.

Joe Batten and his St. Andrew's Church Juvenile hockey team finished on top of the Juvenile Church League, and a great deal of credit is due Mr. Batten for his faithful work in coaching and training the boys. Their team-work was equal to that of many older teams, and they lost only one game during the season. These were the regular players of the team:

Defence—Marshall and Jennings were a stonewall on defence. Marshall was the goalgetter of the pair, and his rushes were always effective. Jennings' good body-checking broke up many a nice rush or steered it into the corners.

Forwards—Hall, Trebilcock and Nixon were a fast skating and strenuous checking trio. Hall at centre showed some wonderful stick-handling and the wing men were both there with the punch around the nets.

Babe Mowry, eWir and P. Mowry were the subs and fitted in well wherever required.

Mr. Batten hopes to step up into Junior hockey next year, and expects to be successful again.

Would Withdraw O.B.A.A.

Amendment By Niagara Would Make Amateur Cards Unnecessary.

TORONTO, March 28.—(Canadian Press).—An amendment to the constitution of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association, which holds its annual meeting a week from tomorrow, is the one proposed by Niagara district, which would have the O.B.A.A. withdraw from the amateur union. The claim is made that it is unnecessary to make players pay for amateur cards every year.

OMEMEE ATHLETIC CLUB CUTS DEBT

Paid $300 on Park — H. Lamb Re-elected as President.

OMEMEE, March 28.—The annual meeting of the Omemee Athletic Association was held in the Council Chamber on Wednesday evening last with the president, H. Lamb, in the chair. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, S. J. Mackey, and adopted. The treasurer, Horace Hill, gave a very satisfactory report of the past year. His report showed that $300 had been paid on the Athletic Park, leaving a balance still due of $250.

Many items of interest were discussed, the main ones being a tourist camp and the organizing of a bowling club.

It was decided to hold a celebration on May 25th, which event promises to be bigger and better than ever.

Permission to use the Athletic Park was given the Orangemen of the district for the 12th of July celebration.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President—H. Lamb.
Vice-President—R. Bradley.
Secretary—S. J. Mackey.
Treasurer—Horace Hill.

DAMAGED CULVERT SPILLED MINISTER

Rev. A. McLauchlin Had Accident on Road to Keene.

KEENE, March 28.—While returning from Zion on Wednesday evening, where he had given a lantern lecture in the Methodist church, Rev. A. McLauchlin had the misfortune to drive into a broken culvert on what is known as the Base Line. The break in the culvert could not be seen until he was right at it, and was fortunate in only receiving a shaking up, although damage was done to the lantern and the slides were thrown out into the ditch.

The Robert Parker Diplomas for Sunday School attendance were presented to sixteen teachers and scholars, in addition to the ones who received them last year and who received a star each to be attached to their diplomas, last Sunday, at the Sunday School session of Keene Methodist church.

Special reference was made to the family of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Shearer of Lang, four of whom received diplomas for last year. They make a return journey of six miles every Sunday, and on foot most of the winter, which is quite commendable considering the condition of the roads.

BRIGHTON BOYS JOIN WITH DADS IN BIG BANQUET

Splendid Occasion Featured By Presence of Judge Mott, of Toronto.

ONTARIO'S WEALTH.

BRIGHTON, March 28.— The "Father and Son" banquet was held in the Methodist church this week, when about one hundred and twenty-five men were present, making this annual event a decided success. The speaker for the evening was Judge Mott of the Juvenile Court, Toronto, and those who were fortunate to be able to attend the banquet and concert afterwards, would readily say that they had had an evening well spent.

The tables for the banquet were neatly arranged and the serving, etc., was done entirely by men. Needless to say those attending the banquet enjoyed a sumptuous repast, and such an event is becoming more successful every year.

The chairman, Mr. W. W. Porte stated that he had heard Judge Mott speak once before and that it was with a great deal of pleasure that he welcomed him to Brighton to address such a large body of men.

In reply, the distinguished guest of the evening said that he was glad to be present, as it was a splendid opportunity for him to speak to fellow citizens in the Province of Ontario. This province of ours is one to be proud of. Ontario has 50 per cent of the silver of the world, 90 per cent of the nickle and possibly the largest gold mine of the world. Besides these mineral advantages there are many other natural resources of great importance such as our lake and rivers, our forests and fisheries, but the real wealth of Ontario centres in the boys and girls in our midst. Conditions are greatly superior to formers years in that the pupils now have medical inspection, with the result that many physical deficiencies are corrected before they reach the serious stage. It is true that much money is spent for the education of our boys and girls but this is a real investment.

Every citizen of Ontario and of Brighton is responsible in a sense for the training of its young people If a boy or girl is sent out of Brighton to a reform school or penitentiary, the law reads that every man here is responsible, in a sense, for the departure. It matters not if the boys' father or mother were delinquent we are still responsible, according to law, for the boys' misdemeanor.

In our law courts of today those who do wrong have to be proven guilty and when this is done a certain penalty is imposed. In the juvenile court no child is termed a criminal, but a delinquent. The child is asked weather he did go wrong or not and the answer is usually "yes." Then the court starts to find out the reason. The boy undergoes a physical, mental and social examination by experts, after which the right course of action for his future welfare is taken.

Sometimes probation is used to correct the boys' difficulties. This course is one in which the boy and his parents are under the supervision of the court. If it is successful he is sent to one of the reform schools such as Mimico.

In Bowmanville a farm has been donated to be used as a boys' reform school. Special education and special training there will give the boys an opportuitq to have a chance to reform under better living conditions. In this school the boys will have good reading matter, good Biblical pictures will adorn the walls and there will be other conveniences and advantages.

The judge complimented the pastor and elders on having such an excellent Sabbath school. He said such a school should always be upstairs on the level with the church and that the congregation could be put in the basement in order to have their sleep.

Many do not know exactly the definition of a juvenile court. In the city of Toronto a juvenile court is one that deals with delinquents under the age of 16 years. No other court can deal with such people. During the past year twenty-two hundred cases were dealt with, among which there were only two hundred girls.

In most of these cases the boys and girls were strangers to their parents. The juvenile court endeavored to restore home relations for these boys and girls. These days everything is speeded up, even princes. In order to cope with the activities of our young people the home, school and church must speed up also.

Mother is the first to whom a boy goes with his difficulties. It is she who smooths over his troubles and makes things right for him. The boys' vision of the outside world should be gained by cooperation of his father, who should take him out for walks and introduce him to the birds, animals and flowers. Later in life the boy advances to the "gang" stage of life. The gang is where loyalty reigns, where the boy develops the chum spirit and finds his level. His next step is when he hears the call of opportunity. If his boyhood has meant the right kind of training he will be able to meet with the trials and temptations of early manhood and overcome them. Sow faith in your child because "what ye shall sow, ye also will reap."

A hearty vote of thanks was moved by Rev. J. S. I. Wilson and seconded by Mr. W. Bellamy.

Personals.

Mrs. Blakely and son Arthur of Trenton were in town to attend the play, "Miss Cherry Blossom."

Mr. Adams, pianist of the Bon Ton Orchestra of Belleville was in town on Wednesday evening. A dance for the young people was held at the conclusion of the second presentation of "Miss Cherry Blossom." A good time was enjoyed by all those present.

As the roads are now in excellent condition a number of Brighton people motored to Belleville on Wednesday.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto Montreal--Winnipeg

The feature of the local flour market was the decidedly weaker feeling in spring wheat grades and prices were reduced thirty cents per barrel, which was attributed to the breaking cash wheat prices at Winnipeg. Winter wheat was also easier and prices declined 20 cents per barrel.

A steady feeling continues to prevail in the eggmarket owing to the fact that supplies coming forward at present are just about sufficient to meet the requirements of the trade. The quality of the stock is good and in consequence the consumption is large with the result that an active trade was done in a wholesale jobbing way. The receipts were 1,873 cases, as compared with 1,689 for the same day last week, and 2,113 for the corresponding day a year ago.

The demand for potatoes showed no improvement and the market was quiet.

An easier feeling prevailed in the butter market at the recent decline noted owing to the liberal supplies available on spot and owing to the fact that the demand is still limited. A sale of Prince Edward No. 1 pasteurized creamery was made at 31 1-2 cents per pound. The receipts to-day were 197 packages, as compared with the same day last week, and 180 a year ago.

There was no further change in the condition of the cheese market but the undertone was very firm at the recent advances due to the steady demand for supplies for local and outside account and the small offerings. Sales of fodder made No. 1 and colored Western Cheese were made at 22 1-2 to 23 cents per pound, and No. 2 grade 21 1-2 to 22 cents per pound, and Quebec 20 pound cheese at 24 to 24 1-4 per pound. The receipts to-day were 620 boxes, as against 1,098 for the same day last week, and 38 for the corresponding day a year ago.

Beans were unchanged at $2.70 per bushel.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 27. — Wholesale liquidations, influenced by weakness at Chicago forced a drastic price break on the Winnipeg grain exchange to-day, May wheat declining 7 5-8 cents a close at $1.60 1-8; July down 5 3-4c at $1.59 1-4 and October 20 below yesterday's figures at $1.34. The bearish movement was characteristic of all markets, flax dropping 10 1-2c, rye, 3 3-4, Barley 3c and oats 11-8c.

EGG PRICES.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 27—Quality of receipts is reported to be good and uniform. Reports from Western Ontario points state that there is a heavy decrease in current receipts but that they are being readily absorbed. An easier feeling is apparent and dealers generally are anticipating price reductions. Jobbing prices on the Toronto market show a further decline to-day.

Toronto jobbing specials 37, extras 35, firsts 33, seconds 30.

Montreal steady but lower prices are looked for the beginning of next week.

Why I am in the Theatre Business

SOMETIMES my friends ask me. Sometimes I ask myself. It's a game where you work from morning till night. It calls you on holidays. You work when the other fellow plays, and work when he works, too.

But now I'll tell you why.

IT'S BECAUSE OF THE WONDERFUL AND GLORIOUS HAPPINESS AND CONTENTMENT THAT THRILLS AND TINGLES TO YOUR VERY BOOT-TOPS WHEN YOU SCORE SUCH A BOOKING SCOOP AS I HAVE JUST SCORED.

I can't play super-productions every change. They don't make them that often. I can't send every single customer away every day from every solitary show just tickled to death.

BUT I CAN HOLLER—AND YELL—AND SING—AND DANCE—AND LAUGH—AND CRY WITH THE SHEER JOY OF IT WHEN I LOOK AT THE PICTURES I HAVE BOOKED FOR APRIL—AND KNOW THAT I AM GOING TO SHOW THEM FOR THREE DAYS EACH, INSTEAD OF TWO.

Believe me, the moving picture critics knew what they were doing when they were unanimous in their approval that we had secured the greatest list of features for the month of April that have so far been produced.

Just look over the list, then try and stay away

Next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday—Constance Talmadge in "Her Night of Romance." It was some night, too!

April 2-3-4—Tom Mix in "Dick Turpin." The story of a Gallant Highwayman and his marvellous mare, Black Bess, of the good old days in "Merrie England,"

April 6-7-8—"Zeebrugge," the glorious Naval Epic. It smashed all attendance records at the Regent, Toronto, at $1.50 admission.

April 9-10-11—? ? ? Special Easter program.

April 16-17-18—Zane Grey's "The Thundering Herd." There can be no contradiction, it soars to heights even greater than "The Covered Wagon" or "North of 36."

April 20-21-22—"The Air Mail," written by Byron Morgan, the man who used to write automobile racing stories for Wallace Reid.

April 23-24-25—Buster Keaton in "Seven Chances." It's a scream; even better than "The Navigator." Nuf-sed.

April 27-28-29—Norma Talmadge in "The Lady." Don't miss Norma in this. Men will like "The Lady," but women will go into ecstasies over it.

April 30-May 1-2—Alice Terry and Conway Tearle in "The Great Divide." Romance as gripping as the Canyon itself! From the renowned stage play by William Vaughn Moody.

You never saw a finer line-up of pictures booked to any one theatre in the history of the silver screen. And when you go out after seeing any of these productions you'll tell me that—

YOU WISH YOU WERE IN THE THEATRE BUSINESS, TOO!

A. G. CROWE
Manager, Capitol Theatre.

In spite of the fact that The Capitol Theatre's admission prices are lower than any other theatre in Canada for the same high-class productions being shown, OUR PRICES WILL REMAIN UNCHANGED—a feat possible only because of our large seating capacity. CAMBRIDGE WON WHEN OXONIANS WATER-LOGGED

Dark Blues Collapsed After Starting in Lead—Water Rough.

SENSATIONAL END.

Cambridge Jumped Into Lead and Won by 120 Yards.

PUTNEY, March 28 (Canadian Press).—The annual Oxford-Cambridge boat race ended sensationally this afternoon, when the Oxonians, after rowing about two miles in very rough water, were forced to abandon the contest, owing to the water-logged condition of their boat.

The water was very rugh, especially on the south or Surrey side, where Oxford was rowing. Cambridge started with a stroke of 34, and Oxford with 33. Oxford jumped into the lead and was a quarter of a length ahead at the quarter mile. Cambridge quickly overhauled the Dark Blues and at a mile led by about three lengths.

BAILEY HAS NOT DECIDED YET

Petes' Right Wing Has Had Attractive Offer From the Montreal Maroons.

Irvin Bailey, despite announcements from Montreal, has not yet accepted terms with the Montreal Maroons, although he has received a very attractive offer from Eddie Gerard's team, which he is considering at present. To The Examiner yesterday Bailey said that the matter had not gone beyond that stage, and the Petes good right winger has by no means definitely made up his mind to take the plunge. The situation at present is that if he finally decides to go professional he will join the Maroons, while if he remains in the O.H.A. ranks he will be with the Petes again next season. The Montreal team is not the only N.H.L. team to angle for Bailey, who before the season was over had received an offer from the St. Patrick's outfit.

TECHNICAL EXHIBIT.

Dressmaking Section of Peterborough Night School Shows Work.

An interesting exhibit of the work of the dressmaking section of the Peterboro Industrial and Technical Night Classes is on view just now in the south window of the J. C. Turnbull establishment. There is a very attractive group of articles of clothing, including several dresses in heavy and light stuffs, and a number of pieces of lingerie. The different articles demonstrate splendidly the careful, neat work of the pupils, and the garments compare favorably with anything of the sort offered in the stores. There are dainty touches in the lace trimmings and embroidery on several of the articles of underwear, and a tasteful selection of materials and trimmings in the pretty little dresses on view, nicely finished in every detail. Mr. A. F. Hagerman, principal of the classes, and Mesdames H. Lucas and Cruickshank, teachers, are to be congratulated on the work of their pupils.

GRAPHFIC STORY MALABAR FIGHT

TRIAL CONTINUES.

BOMBAY, March 28 (Canadian Press).—A graphic story was told in court this morning of the desperate fight on Malabar Hill on January 12, in which four British officers armed only with golf clubs routed nine alleged kidnappers, equipped with knives and pistols, and rescued Mumtaz Begum, young Indian dancing girl, who since has become famous as the former favorite of the powerful Maharajah of Indore, from whom she is said to have run away.

Mumtaz was rescued from the kidnappers, but not before the wealthy Indian merchant with whom she was motoring, was killed. Lieutenant Batley of the Gurkha Rifles testified that with three brother officers he was motoring back to Bombay from his golf club, when they encountered an armed party attempting to abduct Mumtaz from the motor car. The four British officers ran to the rescue and a fierce conflict followed, in which the natives used their knives and revolvers while the officers depended upon their physical strength and their dexterity in wielding their heavy headed golf sticks.

WIDOW DEFENDS COWAN'S LOYALTY

Welfare of Country His First Thought, Her Pointed Statement.

LONDON, March 28. — Echoes of the sensational Dennistoun trial are resounding in London. Lady Cowans, widow of the former quartermaster-general of the British army, General Sir John Cowans, whose name figured prominenlty in the Dennistoun trial because of his liason with Mrs. Dennistoun, which Col. Dennistoun countenanced, allegedly for his own military advancement, yesterday came to the defense of the memory of her late husband, in an interview in the Evening Standard.

"All of Sir John's sins were sins of kindness and generosity, but never sins against his country," declared Lady Cowans. "All those who know Sir John realize that never in anything did he allow his actions to be deflected from the one purpose of the welfare of his country; that was always his first thought."

"As to myself, in my home life," continued Lady Cowans, "I owe it to Sir John to say that I always had everything my heart could desire."

"Scaramouche," the Masive production that won for its author the $10,000 prize offered for the best story in 1924, will be at the Royal for three days commencing on Monday at the usual low Royal prices. The original music score will be used and the orchestra augmented.

The tribute of the press—all agree that Scaramouche is unsurpassed.

New York Times: "Scaramouche" is an engrossing and charming film. Far and away the best production of its kind that has been made.

The Word: "Scaramouche' is one of the most deftly made historical screen romances we have ever seen. It is even likely that it is the very best of them all. Possesses a heart and a soul.—Quinn Martin.

The Sun and the Globe: Ingram has done a marvellous job.

AT THE CAPITOL.

"HER NIGHT OF ROMANCE' A HIT.

Constance Talmadge Brings Extremely Clever English Comedy To Screen.

English wit, or lack of it, always comes into high relief when matched against American humour, and this contrast is the basis of the mirth-making machinery in Canstance Talmadges latest comedy, "Her Night of Romance" which opens at the CAPITOL on Monday.

The situation is that of an impecunious young British Lord being honoured into a proposal of matrimony to an American heiress he has never met by a London money-lender.

Constance, as the heiress, touring England in search of a curative for her shredded nerves, has anticipated fortune hunters and so disguised herself to look like an outlandish backwood schoolmaam.

But through a series of laughable, yet wholly possible, circumstances, she meets the nobleman, and in fact, their positions become so closely allied that they are compelled to pose as newly-weds in order to avoid a scandal.

As yet neither knows the other's true identity. The sharp-brained money-lender, however, scents the truth and hurries into the scene. Regardless of the delicacy of the situation, he sees a chance to collect his long-standing accounts with the lord, if he can clinch the marriage.

His crude manner in achieving his objective almost blights out all hope of the marrigae, but meantime Dan Cupid has entered the play also, and his well directed arrows write the finale of happiness to the picture.

Constances' duel role gives her a wide field for fun-making, and she makes the best of it. Alternately the flippant flapper and the bleak schoolma'am, her acting is at all times refreshing.

Roland Colman, a young English actor, plays the part of the lord and brings out the high lights of the role with an intimacy an American actor could hardly achieve.

Eleanor Butterworth, daughter of Rear Admiral Adam Butterworth, retired, Viola Dana plays Eleanor and Mr. Roberts is cast as the admiral. Cyril Chadwick as a "heavy" role of the Butterworth family lawyer who is also after Eleanor. He arranges with an oriental girl (Anna May Wong) to steal some valuable plans from the girl's brother (William Boyd), a lieutenant in the navy. Then the lawyer tells Eleanor that with all his wealth he can buy back the plans easily enough but it would be better for him to do this as a member of the family. The girl promises to marry him if he will but recover the plans and save her brother from prison and disgrace.

But the lawyer had not counted on Chumley in this little scheme of his and it develops that Lord Algernon Cholomondeley, of course only his mother ever called him that, has quite a bit to say in the matter. He throws over all Ie Sage's cleverly laid plans, hands him an artistic trimming, takes the girl into his arms—and—but that's not all there is to it by a long shot. As the usual run of pictures go Lord Chumley should end right then and there—with the clinch. But Iribe and Urson have given the closing scenes a decidedly novel twist — and that's what makes the picture different from anything you've seen before.

There's rapid-fire action in Lord Chumley, love interest and all the rest—and it's clean as a whistle.

"LORD CHUMLEY" GREETED WITH CAPACITY AUDIENCE LEAVES TO-NIGHT.

Mystery, drama, action and LAUGHS—

The production is an adaptation of the stage success by David Belasco and Henry C. DeMille and features Viola Dana, Theodore Roberts and Raymond Griffith in leading roles.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.

A Christian can do what he ought to do (live a righteous life) continuously or he cannot. If he cannot, why not say so to himself and be done with it? If aiming at living a righteous life, but not succeeding, is all there is in Christian living, what is the difference between Christian and non-Christian? If it is possible to live right one moment, surely it is possible for the next moment, and also for each succeeding moments of the year. The continued living right every moment of the year is the normal state of the Christian. This normal life can only be lived out, as the Holy Spirit becomes the one and only law of life. Any other law or way must be followered at the close of the year with a sense of partial, if not entire, failure. Those who fail to make the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus, the one and only law of life, are really outside the Kingdom of God. Those who are united to Christ by a continual walk in the Spirit are necessarily united to each other. Thence the truth expressed in 1st John i., 7.—M. T. Butcher.

Woman Who Lost $9,800 Lays Charge of Fraud—Four Counts.

BELLEVILLE, March 28.—(Canadian Press).—Norman Johnson, former stock salesman for the Petrie Separator Co., of Deseronto, has been committed for trial on four charges of alleged fraud. Johnson sold stock in Deseronto and vicinity for Petrie, the president of the Separator Company, who was also arrested and charged. Petrie was granted bail and subsequently "jumped" the bail. A warrant is now out for his arrest. It was Mrs. Wilson, of Tyendinaga Township, who invested $9,800 in the now defunct company, who laid the charge against Johnson.

SYRUP FLOWED FREELY TO-DAY

Seemed to Have Better of Selling With Potatoes Same Price.

EGGS AT 25 CENTS.

A bag of potatoes or a quart of maple syrup could be purchased at the farmers market this morning, for the sum of seventy cents, and the syrup seemed to be having the better of the contest. There were groups of people around almost every dealer of brown fluid which was fairly generally priced at 75 cents a quart, with several quoting the low price, and gallon tins offered at $2.00, with a quarter extra for the tin. There is something attractive about the manner in which many people sample maple syrup. Their noble disregard of the germ theory, as evidenced by the use of a common spoon, repeatedly dipped into supply, is sublime.

There was competition in the fish sale this morning. A vendor stood in the lower entry and his parent sold fish outside at the usual stand. Nearby, and across the way also, were rival sellers of the variety which has evidently been mis-named, up to the present. "Hurlbut," was the name bestowed on his supply by one dealer, while the aristocratic name of "Bourbon" was the dignified description of the man on the other side. To many who have known this variety of fish in the past as a mud cat, the two names were somewhat misleading, but they sound well, and the "no bone" attribute of the "four pounds for fifty cents" variety is somewhat appealing.

Pork was 20 and 22 cents on the open market this morning, and honey was $1.75 in ten-pounds pails. Big good-looking Baxter apples, with a spicy aroma, were 60 cents a peck, the same price as the pippins that flanked them. A small boy guarded carefully in a covered box a majestic White Plymouth Rock, with a price of $3 on his head.

Upstairs, eggs were plentiful, opening at 30 cents a dozen, and declining to 25 cents. Butter was 37 and 38 cents a pound, the few chickens visible selling at 25 cents a pound. A youth with a hooker for making rag rugs had an intersted audience. His contrivance was priced at 35 cents.

SYMPHONY CONCERT ANNOUNCES ADVENT

An event of interest in musical circles in the city will be the announcement of the concert to be given on Tuesday, May 19th, in the Grand Opera House, by the Peterboro Symphony Orchestra, assisted by Norman Joliffe, baritone soloist, of New York City, and one of two well-known instrumentalists from Toronto, with whom the directors are now negotiating.

The work of the Symphony Orchestra is too well-known in the city to need much comment. They were prize-winners on two different occasions at the Toronto Musical Festivals, and their complimentary concert last November was an effective demonstration of their excellence. The fact that they are giving this concert, with the assistance of such talent, will be a pleasing announcement to music-lovers of the city. The co-operation of the citizens generally will probably be forthcoming for such an effort.

Norman Joliffe, who was at one time a member of the reportorial staff of The Peterboro Examiner, and whose father was the late Rev. Mr. Joliffe, one-time pastor of the old Charlotte Street Methodist Church, has made a name for himself as a vocalist of outstanding merit, and has become one of the well-known singers of New York City. His appearance here for the first time in about twenty years will be hailed with enthusiasm.

There is a complaint that the Dominion Government taxation of liquor used for medicine is too high and that over half the money paid into Ontario dispensaries goes to Ottawa as taxes

WANT MARRIAGE LAW CONTESTED

Mr. Justice Mowat Thinks Clause About Consent Ultra Vires of Province.

UNION ANNULLED.

TORONTO, March 28 (Canadian Press).—Mr. Justice Mowat of the Supreme Court of Ontario, hopes for a "contested case" before the courts, to decide the validity of the clause in the Ontario Marriage Act, permitting judges to declare null and void marriages of persons under the age of eighteen, who have married without the consent of their parents. His Lordship made this declaration today in giving judgment declaring no legal marriage in the case of Dorothy E. Doyle, aged 17, and J. B. Deady, aged 21, who went through a marriage ceremony. It was sworn before Judge Mowat that the girl did not have the consent of her parents for the marriage, and on this ground among others, the marriage, was annulled.

Justice Mowat intimated that there had been some question as to whether this clause of the Ontario Marriage Act was not ultra vires of the province.

W.C.T.U. Asks Legislators to Vote Against This Clause.

TORONTO, March 28 (Canadian Press).—The energetic activities of the Ontario Women's Christian Temperance Union in connection with the "stronger beer" amendment to the Ontario Temperance Act, threaten to make things lively for the members of the Legislature over the week-end, in their home towns and counties. Although the amendment passed its second reading in the House during the week, the measure has still to be taken up clause by clause in committee, and the W.C.T.U. is bending its energies, provincially and locally in all constituencies towards getting some changes into the clause relating to the conditions of selling and lessening the number of places in which 4.4 per cent. may be legally sold. The proposal to allow strengthened liquor to be sold in grocery stores has roused the special opposition of organization.

The central executive of the W.C.T.U., in a manifesto signed by Mrs. Emma Pugsley, president, and Mrs. Mary Edgecombe, has called upon the members of the organization all over the province to bring the matter before their respective representatives in the Legislature, and urge them by their vote and influence to avert at any rate the proposal to give permits to grocers to sell the new beer. This aspect of the amendment is soundly denounced as retrograde legislation, and a sad menace.

DR. FAIMAN CHARGED WITH DEATH OF WOMAN BY SHEPHERD LAWYER

Affidavit Filed Alleging He Performed Illegal Operation at His "University," and B ody Was Sold to Surgical Labratory a nd Dissected.

OLSON RECEIVES THREAT OF BEATING

CHICAGO, March 30. — While a new writ to obtain freedom on bail for William D. Shepherd, under indictment for the alleged murder of William Nelson McClintock, was started before Chief Justice Hopkins in the Criminal Court, a threat was received by Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal Court that he would be attacked and beaten because of his activities in the investigation. Judge Olson immediately reported the matter to Police Chief Collins.

He informed Chief Collins that the threat was made to him in an anonymous telephone call. The speaker said, according to the Judge, that he was to be attacked because of his persistency in carrying on the inquiry which led to the indictment of Shepherd.

Charges in open court that Dr. Charles C. Faiman confessed to complicity in one murder to forestall his prosecution for another gave impetus to Shepherd's renewed plea for release on bail in the McClintock case.

William S. Stewart, defending Shepherd against the charge that he caused the death of young McClintock with typhoid germs, came before Chief Justice Hopkins in the Criminal Court soon after the Judge's arrival. The attorney presented, without preliminaries, two affidavits, one his own, one signed by Shepherd, and explained that he was seeking to have Judge Hopkins reconsider his recent decison refusing to admit Shepherd to bail.

Allege Illegal Operation.

The death of an unnamed woman in the laboratory of the National University of Sciences, Faiman's school, was cited as the motive prompting the testimony of Faiman as well as of Earl Clark and John P. Marchand, whose testimony at the inquest was the first to link Shepherd with a source where Typhoid germs could be obtained.

The story of the woman as set forth in the affidavit has its elements of mystery, not the least of which is that it is based on the alleged interview with Earl Clark, whom the State officials believed to have been the victim of threats and persecution.

The woman, so Mr. Stewart said, came to Dr. Faiman and was subjected to an illegal operation. She died, with the knowledge of several of the Faculty, despite the school's boasted appliances for the teaching of midwifery. Her body, according to the affidavit, was sold to a surgical laboratory and dissected.

This, the defence contends, explains the coming of Faiman, Marchand and Clark into prominence in connection with the Shepherd case.

Mr. Stewart explains the episode of the letter which Shepherd is said to have written to Faiman as a figment of a blackmail plot, which originated with Marchand.

He stated in his deposition that Clark, knowing nothing of the letted except what Marchand had told him, began to fear that he might be involved in the McClintock investigation, and that such an inquiry might reveal his part in disposing of the woman who had been the victim of the National University's scientific administrations. Clark, Mr. Stewart charges, consulted a lawyer, who turned him over to Chief Justice Harry Olson for questioning.

Marchand and Faiman were brought into the case as the result of what Clark told his inquisitors, but, as the record of the inquest shows, did not reach any direct accusation of Shepherd. Faiman's confession came after a meeting with Marchand in the Briggs House, in which Marchand assaulted his former employer with his fists.

This wrangle Mr. Stewart ascribed also to fear for the consequences of the illegal operation. In his statement he declared that Marchand, facing what he thought to be an exposure of the affair, openly threatened Faiman with vengeance if he failed to placate the investigators by telling the story he subsequently told.

Mr. Stewart's affidavit, and a shorter one by Shepherd denying that he had ever seen Faiman or that he had ever been in the National University, and affirming that he was seriously ill from diabetes, constituted the only evidence laid before Judge Hopkins in support of the motion for a rehearing. Judge Hopkins continued the case until 11 o'clock Tuesday morning, and the defendant was taken back to jail.

Clark and his wife Friday night sought protection of the State's attorney against operatives of a detective agency identified with the Shepherd defence at the inquest. He said that $5,000 had been offered to induce him to leave Chicago.

Policemen were sent by State's Attorney Crowe to bring the head of the detective agency in question into the prosecutor's office for questioning.

State's Attorney Crowe discounted Mr. Stewart's new charges, and declared that the law applicable to the plea for bail had been in no wise changed by the filing of the affidavits.

"I cannot see that charges such as these destroy the effect of statutes setting forth the presumption of guilt in capital cases where bail is asked," he said.

"The filing of these affidavits clearly demonstrates the desperate predicament the defence finds itself in at this time. I have been informed that Mr. Stewart stated in court that he would not believe Clark himself, and still he wants the Judge to believe him."

According to a statement by Coroner Wolff, which was made following a conference between the Coroner and Dr. McNally, chemist of the Coroner's office, the certificates made by physicians at the time of the deaths of Mrs. McClintock and Dr. Olson are borne out, as expected. It will take at least two weeks to make the chemical analysis and microscopic examination of the vital organs, Dr. McNally said. After that is done it will be known whether they died of heart disease or whether poison caused death.

PRISONERS TRY JAIL DELIVERY

Guard in Toronto Seriously Injured in Break For Freedom.

RIFLES EFFECTIVE.

TORONTO, March 30. Canadian Press. — Guard Thomas Richards, a war veteran, is in the General Hospital suffering from undetermined head injuries as a result of two prisoners incarcerated at the Toronto jail attempting to make a jail delivery on Sunday night.

The two men are James Moss, who was recently sentenced to from 18 to 24 months for shop breaking and Andrew Morrison, sentenced to from six months to two years for auto. thieving.

That Richards was not killed by his assailants is largely due to the courage of Guard Edwards, who on hearing Richards' cries for help ascended to the third floor, rescued the stricken man and dragged him to the main floor, two stories below.

Twenty other inmates of the jail were freed by Moss and Morrison, but none of them got below the second floor owing to the fact that Edwards and Governor Baser halted their advance with levelled rifles.

The trouble started when Richards entered the cell of one of the prisoners, Moss or Morrison, to caution him against loud talking, and was struck heavily on the head with the leg of a stool. Despite his injury, Richards grappled with his assailant but repeated blows on the head and gradual weakening had their effect upon the guard and he collapsed to the floor.

The prisoner then went through Richards' pockets and took the master key, which fits all locks on the two third floor or corridors, and with the key released the other prisoners.

When the inmates were all at liberty they opened the door of a room containing brooms and various other implements used, and snapping the handles from the bristles, they set out to make their way from the jail.

The men however refused to advance against the rifles, and when the city detectives, who had been summoned by phone, arrived, most of the prisoners had returned to their cells.

Moss and Morison will appear in the police court on charges not yet determined.

Two Years More.

The two prisoners, Andrew Morrison and James Moss, who last night led an attempt to break jail after wounding Guard Richards, were sentenced in police court this morning to serve two additional years for the offence.

ROYALTY COMES TO VISIT WEST

Descendant of Louis Philippe of France May Have Canadian Ranch.

FAVOR ALBERTA.

ST. JOHN, N.B., March 30 (Special to The Examiner).—The Duc de Nemours a descendant of Louis Philippe of France, and a nephew of the present king of the Belgians, accompanied by J. E. Stanley, son of the Hon. Mrs. Alexander Stanley, arrived here on Sunday on the Canadian Pacific S.S. Marloch, from Liverpool. They are proceeding to Lord Rodney's ranch at Fort Saskatchewan, in Alberta, where they will be the guests of Lord and Lady Rodney.

There are many ranches in Alberta owned and operated by royalty, and it is expected that the Duc's visit is his first move toward joining the royal colony and becoming a full-fledged Canadian rancher.

Information from Paris is to the effect that he would like to purchase land in the vicinity of the ranch owned by H.R.H. the Prince of Wales.

Lord Rodney's two sons, Hons. G. W. and J. Rodney, in charge of a nurse, together with Mr. Vereker, his Lordship's farm manager, are proceeding to the Rodney ranch.

ATTACKS MOTHER WITH A KNIFE; PUT IN ASYLUM

Young Man of 25 Believed to Suffer From Dementia Praecox.

MAY BE CHARGED.

Case of Currie May Be Cited in Plea For Leniency.

KINGSTON, March 30. (Special to the Examiner.) — Mrs. Archibald Currie of Iroquois, was attacked by her son, aged 25 years, with a large knife, and received serious injuries, and is now a patient at the Brockville hospital, while her son, who was adjudged insane, was placed in the Brockville asylum.

A report from Iroquois states that the young man recently returned home from the States, and that since his return he has been acting very queerly.

It is stated that a lady engaged as a teacher in the High School at Iroquois was passing the Currie home, and heard some person crying for help, and gave the alarm, with the result that the woman's husband, along with Dr. Miller, arrived just in time to save Mrs. Currie.

The knife used by the son cut his mother's hand severely. When the two men reached the house it was stated that the son had his mother down on the floor and was endeavoring to choke her.

The report states that the case of the young man is similar to that of Thomas Collison, of Matilda Township, who a short time ago was sentenced at Cornwall to be hanged for the killing of his sweetheart.

It is alleged that both young men are suffering from dementia praecox and it is understood that the case of Currie will be cited in a plea to be made for leniency in the case of Collinson.

Two Steins Of Beer To Each German Vote

BERLIN, March 30. — United Press. — At least two steins of beer were required for every ballot cast in Sunday's presidential election. The poling places generally were located in beer saloons. A before-vote stein of beer to permit the last minute deliberation so necessary to a wise marking of the ballot was usually necessary. After depositing the ballot in the box another stein of iced amber was then denied to celebrate the elector's good judgment.

REFUSE MURDER PLEA FOR GIRL

GIRL INSANE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 31.—The counsel for the defense of Dorothy Ellingson, confessed matricude, refused in a conference Saturday with Judge Louderback, trial Judge, to enter a plea of guilty to a murder charge in any degree. The conference was arranged by the defense in an effort to bring the trial to an immediate conclusion.

The prosecution has held that the girl must plead guilty to a murder charge before it will consent to halt the case.

Alexander Mooslin of th edefense counsel in a statement said:

"The purpose of counsel for the defense in conferring with Judge Louderback was to make clear our position. Yesterday we received an intimation that the District Attorney might address the Court and suggest a conference to determine whether society has not a better method than this combat of the human arena to solve the problem presented to it by an abnormal and insane 16-year-old girl. No such suggestion was made to the Court. Instead we learned later that the District Attorney conferred previously with the Judgewithout advising us. We have at all times indicated our willingness to meet, consult and deliberate upon this problem, and we are willing to do so now.

"Counsel for the defendant wish to make it clear that they are not responsible for casting this pitiful and abnormal girl into the pit of horror in which she has been tortured for the past week. Long before this trial began we made the offer to the District Attorney to plead this girl guilty to a charge of manslaughter, leaving it to the Judge on the testimony of alienists to determine whether she should be sent to an institution. That has been a standing offers and has not been accepted.

"We cannot plead her guilty of murder. With our absolutel knowledge of the facts of the mental condition of this girl, we know that premeditation and malice aforethought cannot be shown, and without premeditation and malice aforethought it cannot in any event be a higher degree of crime than manslaughter."

Mr. Mooslin said there was no intimation from the office of the District Attorney that the manslaughter plea would be accepted.

OSLO, Norway, March 30.—(Canadian Press). — Lincoln Ellsworth, engineer and aviator, who is to participate in Captain Raold Amundsen's flying expedition to the North Pole, arrived here to-day. He said it was expected the entire aerial trip would be accomplished in seven hours. If it proved possible to land the expedition would remain at the Pole twenty-four hours for observation and exploration purposes.

DOMINIONS OPPOSED TO COMMITMENTS FOR EUROPE'S PEACE BEAVERBROOK SAYS

Such Agreements Dangerous to Military and Political Unity of the Empire—Prefers Reality of League of British Nations.

LONDON, March 30 (Canadian Press cable).—Writing in his paper, The Sunday Express, Lord Beaverbrook declares that the Geneva protocol, which is now dead, the proposed military alliance to protect Belgium and France against Germany, and the latest proposal of foreign minister Austen Chamberlain to join a security pact between the enemy and the allied powers are all dangerous and threaten the military and political unity of the British Empire, for the Dominions will have none of them.

"It is said in several London newspapers," says Lord Beaverbrook, "that Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada, in taking a firm line against European commitments in these three issues, is acting as the representative of a party in Canada rather than as the representative of the nation. As a matter of fact the Canadian Premier speaks here not for a political section of the Dominion, but for the whole people of Canada. It is of the utmost importance that this fact be recognized in Britain. The position of Canada is that of the majority of the Dominion.

"If a real crisis arises, like that of 1914 in which the whole safety of Britain and the Empire was obviously at stake, the Empire will rise to its own defence as one man, but the Dominions are being asked in advance to commit themselves to fight for Athens against Constantinople—as they were actually asked to do in 1922 by Winston Churchill—or for the Polish frontier against Russia or Germany alternatively, or for Czecho-Slavakia against Hungary, or for France against Germany, or Germany against France as they are being asked by Austen Chamberlain in 1925.

"Let me say in the most positive manner that the Dominions will have none of it. . . . The naked effect of this Tory Imperialism is that it prefers to oblige the Belgians, the French or the Poles to considering the opinions of the Australians, Canadians, New Zealanders or South Africans.

"One other school is that of the Pacifist Interventionists, who desire Great Britain to give laws to Europe in the strict interests of international morality," say the Canadian peer. "These eminent gentlemen possess as their fad the dream of the League of Nations and ignore the reality of that far more potent force—the existing League of British Nations under the Crown. I prefer the reality to the dream."

M'ILMOYLE LEFT ALL TO MRS. KAHN

Provided That If She Predeceased Him His Heirs Should Benefit.

PROBATE WILL.

To Mrs. Rose B. Kahn, the woman who forsook her husband and home for him and went down with him into the Valley of Death, Nathan McIlmoyle left all that he owned in the world. The tie that bound him to her was evidently strong enough to cause him to draw up a will, which is coming up for probate, and make over to her on his death all his worldly goods.

In the event that she pre-deceased him, the property was to go to his heirs. McIlmoyle and Mrs. Kahn were found dead together in the same house at Fort Erie, and Gordon and O'Brien, who are acting for the heirs, take the stand that Mrs. Kahn did not survive McIlmoyle and that the heirs, his brothers and sisters, are therefore entitled to the property. There is no presumption in law, J. A. O'Brien says, that the stronger lived longer than the weaker, or that the man lived longer than the woman, and when two people are found dead, the law considers that both died at once, unless evidence is found to the contrary. Unless it can be proved that Mrs. Kahn outlived McIlmoyle, then the heirs are entitled to his property.

Results of investigation of the contents of the stomachs of the two have not yet been received from the laboratories, so that the exact cause of death has not yet been ascertained. Different theories advanced were those of a suicide pact, gas poisoning or ptomaine poisoning.

FATAL ACCIDENT IN TORONTO STREET

One Car Sideswiped Another Killing One Man and Injuring Three.

TORONTO, March 30 (Canadian Press).—One man was fatally injured and three others sustained more or less serious injuries on Saturday night when a motor car, bearing a New York state license and driven by Thomas Reed, aged 22, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., in endeavoring to avoid collision with another car was struck by a Bloor street trolley car. Reed died of a fractured skull and internal injuries in Grace Hospital early Sunday morning. The inquest will be held next Friday night. The injured parties are: Frank Foley, who is in Grace hospital suffering from head injuries and facial lacerations, McCauley Pope and Harry Eskins, all of Toronto. Foley and Eskins were riding with Reed at the time and Pope was alone in his car.

Spectators said Reed was driving 30 miles an hour when he sideswiped Pope's car and crashed into a street car. Mr. Reed, who was born in Toronto, arrived from Niagara Falls on Saturday on a weekend visit with his mother who resides with a daughter, Mrs. Spencer F. Secor, Crawford street. Two years ago he went to Niagara Falls where he was employed as a clerk in the office of the Kimberley-Clarke Paper Co.

SAIL FOR ALASKA

LONDON, March 31.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Five business men of Hull, Yorkshire, started out on an adventure which will take them to Alaska in search of silver when they sailed on the steamship Montclare for Canada Saturday. The party is led by John Riley, a well-known commercial agent of Hull, who claims that he discovered hidden treasure during the Klondyke rush of twenty years ago when prospecting off the beaten track. Riley declared before sailing that he can find the silver seam blind-folded.

Although the party had a cordial send-off from Hull their friends regard the adventure with considerable scepticism and doubt whether the expedition is adequately financed and otherwise equipped Riley stated that the treasure spot is 400 miles from habitation, but other members of the party frankly confessed the expedition was an absolute gamble.

After obtaining samples of the ore the party proposes floating a company in Vancouver to work the find. It is stated that an areoplane may be obtained to convey samples of the ore from Alaska to Vancouver.

FRENCH AND EMPIRE INTERESTS COMMON

Chief of Canadian Militia Staff Lauds Governor-General Byng.

OTTAWA, March 30.—"The interests of Canada, of the British Empire and of France have never been more at one than are they at the present day," said Major-General J. H. MacBrien, chief of staff of the Canadian Militia, in addressing officers of the Militia, the Army Reserve, the Naval Service, the Royal Canadian Air Force and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police at the first annual dinner of the officers of the Ottawa Garrison, held at the Chaudiere Golf Club on Saturday evening.

"We all desire peace," said General MacBrien. "Every one does who knows war. But the surest security for peace is preparedness and the state of present efficiency in that regard in Canada is due in no small measure to the self sacrifice and loyal co-operation of those officers not on the regular forces, many of whom are here tonight."

In toasting the Governor-General General MacBrien referred to the energy which His Excellency had displayed in encouraging the physical, moral and mental training of the young boys of Canada, particularly eulogizing his work on behalf of the Boy Scouts. General MacBrien said that the Governor-General had not been content to be a mere figure-head, but had made it his business to know the citizens of Canada by personal contact.

PLAN TO BUILD OIL TANK STIRS EAST CITY IRE

Indignant Citizens Object to Danger—Already Overcrowded in District.

COUNCIL ON SPOT.

Mayor Contends That Tanks Would Be More Sightly Than Shacks.

Mayor Turner and the City Council visited East City on Saturday afternoon to confer with the residents about the proposed gasoline or oil tanks. These were scheduled for construction on land beside the Canadian National Railway tracks just south of Hunter street, and the owners of property on Mark and Roger streets objected to having them at their back doors. A number of the residents, with Monsignor McColl as their spokesman, met the council at the site and explained their objections. It was pointed out by Mayor Turner that the tanks would be better than certain old sheds which occupied the property, but the objectors were thinking of the danger to their property from a possible explosion, rather than the unsightly view they now have. The discussion at times became very hot as different people aired their views on the subject.

The underwriters' rules, it is said, call for a distance of one hundred feet between gas or oil tanks and residence. The mayor and city engineer said that there were no houses within the specified distance, but the property owners said nobody would build on the vacant lots back of the site and the houses outside the limit would decrease in value.

While they were there they called attention to the unsightly appearance of the lots in the vicinity which contained some of the possessions of a junk dealer and were regular mires.

Some apprehension was caused when Monsignor McColl, while standing on one side talking to Alderman Denne, was suddenly seized with a fainting spell. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in a car but quickly recovered.

ROUSED MAGISTRATE TO PROVE SELF SOBER

LINDSAY, March 30.—One hundred dollars and costs for being drunk was the fine handed out to George Maunder Saturday by Police Magistrate Bradford. It appears that a few nights ago, the police visited the home of J. Paudash in the East Ward, where a dance was in progress, and shadowed the house all night, as it was felt that some of those attending the "hop" carried more than an invitation. Maunder, so the police state, was one of those present who appeared to be suifering from an over-indulgence in liquor. Later on in the evening, he had some words with Provincial Officer Storey, and it is charged, landed on the officer's mouth with his fist indignantly protesting the charge that he was the worse for liquor. In the early hours of the morning Maunder visited Police Magistrate Bradford's house, roused him from his slumbers in order to prove conclusively that he was sober.

Another man who took in the social hop will face the Magistrate today, charged with driving his car bearing a 1924 license, driving without lights and driving recklessly.

BOOTLEGGER AND CUSTOMER FINED

Lindsay Man Also Given Jail Term Without Option.

LINDSAY, March 30.—A case of wide-open traffic in bootleg whiskey on the main street was detected by Provincial Officer Storey on Saturday, and as a result David Walker, a well known local character, was fined $650 and one month in jail for selling liquor, and the purchaser, Thomas Carney, $200 and costs or three months in jail. In case Walker cannot pay his fine, he will serve a four months' term.

Carney approached Walker on Kent Street and asked for a supply of liquor. The latter hastened to his boarding house for the goods. His movements being watched by the Provincial Officer, who swooped down on the two just as the liquor was handed over. The officer took possession of the supply, which consisted of one 8-ounce and two 6-ounce bottles. A special session of the police court was held, and the fines mentioned above were imposed.

It is understood that both men will serve jail terms.

LUCK IS BIGGEST SUCCESS FACTOR

New York Contractor Began as Itinerant Peddler.

NEW YORK, March 30.—Joseph E. Gilbert, a building contractor of 501 Seventh Avenue, who has erected eighteen skyscrapers in New York City, described the successful man as "an accident" just before he sailed on the French liner Paris for Havre. He described his own struggles in boyhood and in young manhood, when he was a jack-of-all-trades, and said he believed that luck was his greatest aid to success.

Mr. Gilbert is 51 years old. At 14 he got his first job in a telegraph office in Cleveland, where his weekly pay was $7, representing a commission of 20 per cent. of the business he developed for the company.

From that job Mr. Gilbert said he went to many migratory jobs. He went around the countryside selling patented devices and was still selling them when he met in Cleveland A. T. Henderson, now general passenger agent of the French Line.

"Mr. Henderson reversed the advice of Horace Greeley, who told young men to 'Go West,' and said to me: 'Young man, if you want to make money, go East'."

Mr. Henderson and a friend bought Mr. Gilberts railroad ticket to New York ,where he later became an important factor in building construction. Mr. Gilbert's latest skyscraper is under construction at Seventh Avenue and Thirty-Seventh Street. He explained that he was going to Paris to examine a proposal to build a 1,000 room hotel there.

New Class Is Organized In the Park Street S. S.

The two organized classes mentioned above, both being young men's classes, decided to amalgamate, and in so doing form one large class in the place of two smaller ones. The programme to be followed by the new organization is the C.S.E.T. four-fold one. The class will meet on Sunday at 3 o'clock, under the teaching and leadership of the pastor of the church, Rev. N. R. McLeod, and on Friday evening, at 8 p.m., for the physical, intellectual and social part of their programme. The "Second Milers" start out with a fine nucleus of a large class, having 35 members to start work right away. They also have a small equipment for the physical side of their work in 'gym' mats, boxing gloves, etc.

Anyone who is not a member of any Sunday school is invited to come along and join the new class, when he will be heartily welcomed. Come and be convinced.

CAMPBELLFORD UP A TREE

CAMPBELLFORD, March 29.—Campbellford smiles with disdain at the efforts of other towns in the province to break into the limelight by having their natural freaks, such as big turnips, and horses 30 years old, that can still make a mile in three minutes or better, described in the feature department of a Toronto newspaper. Campbellford has a biological freak worth boasting about, nothing less than a dog that can climb trees like a monkey, and which despoils the nests of many birds that make their homes in the leafy branches.

This canine, "Perk," half bull and half hound, is the property of A. P. Hind, the Front street jeweller, who declares that he would not take $1,000.00 for the animal.

NON-CONCURRING PRESBYTERIANS REFUSE TO SURRENDER HERITAGE DECLARES REV. D. A. THOMSON

Calamity For Canada If Presbyterian Church Should Pass Away.

MORAL PRINCIPLE.

Pastor of Hastings Church 42 Years — Unity There Without Sacrifice.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 30. — Rev. D. A. Thomson of Hastings, clerk of the Peterboro Presbytery, and interim moderator in a number of churches that are now pastorless as a result of the church union movement, preaching in St. Andrew's church yesterday morning, found for that movement a scriptural parallel in the attempt of King Ahab to acquire by purchase or exchange the little vineyard, the modest possession of Naboth. The answer of the latter to the Royal offer: "The Lord forbid it me that I should give the inheritance of my fathers unto thee," was the text upon which the discourse was based.

The objection of Naboth to dispose of what had come down to him from his fathers, rested on religious principles. It was not a matter of mere sentiment or stubborness. The land was regarded by every true Israelite as God's land and they were his tenants. They would not alienate any part of it which fell to them except in cases of extreme necessity, and even a sale was only regarded as a lease because every 50 years the land would revert to the former owner.

When Ahab, incited by his wife, Jezebel, resorted to force to secure the property, Naboth paid the price of honor, loyalty and religious convictions in full, as it has been paid in the same red coin many a time since. The stand he made was not for himself alone but for posterity, for he realized that he had a duty to perform to those who came after him. Looking at it in this light Naboth's action stands for all time as a testimony to the truth, and there are some things that cannot be purchased.

The Application.

"Have we not," continued Mr. Thomson, getting to the application of his text, "a case in hand at the present time. There are men in our own church who are wanting us to part with the inheritance of our fathers. We have answered them as Naboth answered Ahab. The Lord forbid that we should give the inheritance of our fathers to them. That inheritance is our church, and it would be a calamity to this Dominion if the Presbyterian Church should pass out of existence. It is the church for which our fathers fought and fell. It is not stubbornnes of mere sentiment that inspires us in the stand we have taken, but with us it is a matter of religious conviction, of high moral principle. It is not because we love any of the other churches less that we love our own church the more. We have no quarrel with these people; no doubt they are acting according to the dictates of their concsience, but we cannot believe that it is the will of God to break up anything that has been a power for good all these years.

"Some people say that it makes no difference what church you go to, but no matter what another family may be, it is never the same to you as your own, and another home is different from the one in which you have been raised."

Unity in Hastings.

Mr. Thomson went on to describe the unity that prevails among the churches in Hastings, where he has held the Presbyterian pastorate for the past 42 years, and on a special occasion in one of these churches the other closes and takes part with its neighbor. They join together in holiday making, and unity prevails without the sacrifice of property or principle on the part of either.

Force to Be Employed.

"Gor forbid," continued the speaker, "that we should give up the Church of our fathers. But following the policy of Ahab, they would take it from us by force. The dispute has been carried into parliament, where it never should have been taken, but no Legislature should put a church out of existence or take possession of its proprty regardless of the will of the people, because the people are the church."

Praises St. Andrew's.

Mr. Thomson praised the congregation of St. Andrew's for the indominable spirit shown and the progress made since the recent separation. The church not only in Campbellford, but throughout the Dominion, is prospering and he believed that a triumphant future awaited it.

"Faith of Our Fathers."

After the sermon, Hymn 545 was sung, the refrain of which is:

Faith of our fathers, holy faith,
We will be true to three till death.

GENEVA, March 30 (Canadian Press).—An official commission of the International Labor Bureau has sailed on the liner, General Belgrano to South America for the purpose of finding a home for 330,000 Russian and Armenian refugees who are drifting aimlessly over Europe.

The commission will visit Uruguay, Peru, Bolivia, Argentine and Brazil on government invitations, inaugurating the first step by the League of Nations into immgraton activities.

NO CHECKER CONTEST.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 30. — The attempt to arrange a checker contest between Ben Ewing, the octogenarian champion, whose home is in Brighton, and Mike O'Donohue, the Campbellford expert, has fallen through as neither of the aged players are able, on account of their health, to make the 22-mile trip to the home town of the other. Both, however, are eager for a match, and when the warm weather comes it is possible that the two may be got together.

Mr. Ewing has sent word to Campbellford that if he plays with Mr. O'Donohue, who is 78 years old, it must be only a friendly test of skill. He will take on no aspirant for the old men's championship unless such opponent is 86 or over.

Cod Liver Oil Now in Tasteless Tablets

Greatest Flesh Builder

No more will weak, thin, unfortunate children cry in protest when the nasty, fishy-tasting, horrible-smelling cod liver oil is brought out.

Medical science progresses rapidly, and now you can get at your druggist's real, genuine cod liver oil in sugar-coated tablets that young and old can take with ease and pleasure.

Even the run-down and skinny grown-ups, who ought to take cod liver oil, because it really is the greatest vitamine food and builder of healthy flesh in the world, will feel extremely joyful when they read this welcome news.

Of course, doctors have been prescribing cod liver oil in tablets under another name for several years, but it is only of late that one can walk into a drug store and get a box of these flesh-producing tablets just as easy as a bottle of cough syrup.

Thin, run-down, anaemic men, women and children who need to grow strong and take on flesh are advised to get a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, and if you don't gain 5 pounds in 30 days just get your money back.

One woman gained fifteen pounds in five weeks, according to her own doctor—another ten pounds in three weeks. A very sickly child, aged nine, twelve pounds in seven months, and now plays with other children and has a good appetite.

Just ask for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. Warne Drug Co., McDermid & Jury, Jas. Lynch, or any good druggist will tell you that they are wonderful flesh and health builders: Only 60 cents for 60 tablets, and don't forget that they are wonder workers for feeble old folks.

NEW SETTLERS FOR THE WEST

500 Landed at Halifax Under Assisted Settlement Scheme.

BRITISH FAMILIES.

HALIFAX, N.S. March 30 (Canadian Press).—As fine a body of new settlers as ever came to Canada were landed here yesterday from the Canopic of the White Star-Dominion Line, and are now travelling toward various desintations in Quebec, Ontario and the Western Provinces.

The total of 500 was formed of several parties, one being made up of 33 families brought to Canada under the scheme of assisted settlement of approved British families in which the Governments of Great Britain and Canada are co-operating.

START OF BOOTLEGGING.

Oft Asked Question Answered by Professor—Industry is Old.

NEW YORK, March 30 (By Canadian Press). — Bootlegging in North America originated in New England, according to Professor Henry G. Lawrence, of Connecticut College, New London. In a recent address here he contended that the Puritan often possessed "a frivolous and 'fast' personality," and that the morals of the seventeenth century in New England were no better than those of the present twentieth century.

A law set up in 1659 which prohibited the selling of intoxicants to Indians was the "father of the bootlegging industry," the professor said. Any Indian found drunk had to labor 12 days for the man who discovered him, and the demand of the red skins for liquor in a clandestine way started the industry which has grown to such large proportions, Prof. Lawrence declared.

MILL CLOSES DOWN.

Campbellford Cloth Company Shuts Departments For Week or More,

CAMPBELLFORD, March 30. — Employees of the Campbellford Cloth Company received notice on Friday evening that the different departments would be closed down, beginning Saturday morning, until one week from Monday, or until further notice. No reason was given by the management but it is believed that the shut-down is due to a lack of orders. It has always been the custom of the company to close for two or three days every spring for the purpose of taking stock and repairing machinery in former years, but this did not usually occur until June.

The mill, which is the industrial hope of the town, has been fairly busy during the winter, running two shifts, but recently both of these were put on short time.

IMMIGRATION LOAN.

British Government to Pay Part of Australian Interest.

LONDON, March 30. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—In connection with the new loan which Australia proposes to float for immigration purposes it is understood that the negotiations are based on the idea of a loan of £34,000,000 at five per cent. The British government was asked to shoulder half of the interest charge for ten years, but it declined to vary its order originally submitted by Philip Snowden when he was Chancellor of the Exchequer, to meet half of the interest charges for a period of five years and one-third for the remaining five.

The government of the Commonwealth in obtaining money at 2 1-2 per cent. for five years will be enabled to reloan it at 1 1-2 per cent. to the different state governments of Australia for general survey and clearing purposes. Even in the second period the cost of this loan will be remarkably cheap for Australian development schemes. One of the proposals for a new agreement is that Australia shall buy in Great Britain all her materials for development purposes which she is unable to produce herself.

INVEST IN CANADA.

United States' Citizens Advised to Place Money Outside Their Native Land.

NEW YORK, March 30 (By Canadian Press). — Counselling the United States public in general to transfer all or part of their personal property into foreign securities as a means of combating the enforcement of the Volstead Act, a citizen of this city, styling himself the Republic," has written to the a member of the "Grand Army of New York World commending the paper on its stand on the prohibition question.

"I am so disgusted with the lack of spirit shown by the public that I have invested most of my personal funds in Canadian and foreign securities, thus lessening my support of prohibition agents," the writer says. He contends that if enough other people followed his example the eighteenth amendment could be forced out of the constitution.

Thomas D'Arcy McGee

Steps to observe in a fitting manner the centennial of the birth of Hon. Thos. D'Arcy McGee have progressed far enough to hazard the prediction that the event will be worthy the man and the occasion. Groups of representative Irishmen and those of Irish descent have co-operated with Hon. Chas. Murphy, to whom belongs the credit for the idea and on whom has fallen all the preliminary work, to bring to a fitting climax a celebration unique in several ways.

This occasion will be the first of its kind, in which one of the Fathers of Confederation has had his achievements recognized by an international gathering of his countrymen and those who claim descent from Irish forebears. It will mark also the first union of Irishmen and their Canadian descendants, of different religious faiths, in a common and national effort to do honor to one of Canada's outstanding historical figures. These features should mark the celebration as one in which all Canadians well may be sympathetically interested. It is gratifying to learn that the efforts of Hon. Mr. Murphy and his coworkers have met with a response which has extended from one end of the Dominion to the other and has re-echoed from other countries within and without the British Empire.

The event will likewise bring rather forcibly to mind the fact that we as a people are singularly deficient in knowledge of the work and accomplishments of those who laid the foundations of Canadian government. We know in a hazy way that a group of statesmen, after considerable trouble, succeeded in formulating a system of national government some half-century or more ago. It would tax most of us to recite even the names of these fathers of our country. It would astonish even more to be told that the idea of Canadian unity under the British Crown was first promulgated by an Irishman who was regarded as an undesirable citizen by the British government of his time.

History, it is true, needs perspective and distance fully to be appreciated. We are still too close to Confederation to recognize it for what it meant and must always mean to us. But in accepting the structure and conceding its need and its admirable qualities, we should not forget the architects and the workmen whose efforts alone made it possible.

Much will be brought to light within the next few weeks regarding the literary, political and personal qualities of Thomas D'Arcy McGee. Time and change, inevitable and inexorable, have given much of his work merely an academic interest to us of a newer generation. But much of it — the greater and better part — will endure. One excerpt from his speech to the Protestant Irishmen of Quebec City in 1862 will suffice to indicate the character of the man:

"We Irishmen, Protestant and Catholic, born and bred in a land of religious controversy, should never forget that we now live and act in a land of the fullest religious and civic liberty. All we have to do is each for himself to keep down dissentions which can only weaken, impoverish and keep back the country."

It would be well were this sentiment adopted by all classes and sections of our country. — Ottawa Citizen.

WAREHOUSE BURNED AT WALKERVILLE

Berry Bros. Company Loses Large Stock of Varnish.

WALKERVILLE, March 30 (Canadian Press).—Fire Saturday destroyed the warehouse of the Walkerville plant of Berry Bros. (Inc.) varnish manufacturers, causing a loss estimated by Frederick L. Colby, president of the company, at $130,000. A watchman discovered the fire at 2 a.m. Soon a huge stock of varnishes and oils was burning and the flames were shooting hundreds of feet into the air. The Windsor and Walkerville fire departments battled for seven hours but were unable to do more than prevent the fire's spread to other buildings. The origin has not been determined.

BUDGET STILL HOLDING FLOOR

Expected to Occupy House Till the End of This Week.

MANY SPEAKERS.

OTTAWA, March 30.—(Canadian Press).—The budget which has already been the subject of debate for two days in the House of Commons will hold the floor for the present week. A score of members of the Conservative party, and a larger number of Progressives are, it is stated, anxious to express their views on the statement of Acting Finance Minister Robb.

A special committee which will enquire into the contract between the Government and Sir William Petersen for the operation of a steamship service on the North Atlantic will probably be organized this week.

DAMAGING THE ROADS.

That the action of the Minister of Highways in appealing to motorists to protect Ontario's roads, especially at this season of the year, is justified the experience of automobilists on the Kingston highway on Saturday and doubtless yesterday amply proved.

Near Newcastle the road surface has been so badly cut up in its soft condition by the traffic of the past week that on Saturday the road was impassable, and car after car was mired and had to be pulled out by teams of horses.

The mild weather had tempted so many motorists that the traffic was far too much for the highway, and the result is that the surface has been badly damaged.

It is unfortunate that this condition of affairs has to be encountered each spring, and much of the trouble could be averted if motorists would restrain their eagerness for a spin over the roads until the frost is out and there is some assurance that the surface is ready for heavy traffic.

It is not possible perhaps to close the Provincial highways altogether, but the greater part of the driving is done by people on pleasure bent who ought to wait for a week or two to give the roads a chance.

THE NEW BEER.

The people of Ontario are awaiting further details as to how the sale of the 4.4 beer is to be regulated, and there are varying opinions as to the manner in which the new brew should be handled.

Misgivings are being expressed in regard to the apparent promiscuity with which the beverage is to be sold, and many citizens seem to favour the confining of the sale to standard hotels, believing that there would be a better system of control under that plan and fearing, too, the effect of the sale of beer by restaurants and refreshment places.

Undoubtedly the 4.4 brand will provide some of the unduly thirsty with a new story as to where "they got their liquor."

Almost every other source has been mentioned in police court from time to time, and it will be a new experience for a magistrate to hear a "morning-after" defendant explain that he had bought some 4.4 beer at Blank's grocery and had taken too much of it.

In other words, the new tipple may be made the scape-goat for all other forms of alcoholic indulgence.

However, the Province will soon have an opportunity to test the new system, and the people will look to the Government to remedy any defects that appear.

THE VOICE OF QUEBEC.

Senate reform received a rude jolt last week through the action of the Quebec Legislature in unanimously voting against the idea of any infringement on the British North America Act through changing the character of the Senate.

If there was any real danger that the composition of the Upper House might be changed, the ardour with which the legislators of Quebec charged the very suggestion of changing the British North America Act has made the menace appear very light.

The Ottawa House, it will be recalled, has decided to confer with the Province in regard to the suggested reformation of the Senate.

Quebec has anticipated the conference by taking a firm stand in advance, and repudiating the proposal without a dissenting vote.

It is apparent that in the sister Province there is not the slightest desire for a change in the existing order of things, and as a vote on the same subject in the Ontario Legislature would undoubtedly produce a very similar result, the venerable members of the Upper House can go about their business quite serene as to their future.

The character of the Senate may come some day; it is, however, not to be an event of the very near future, judging from the voice of Quebec.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

Although there is a certain amount of opposition to the scheme, daylight saving seems to be favoured by the majority of citizens, judging by the expressions of opinion heard and the readiness with which petitions are being signed.

Objections are being voiced by men whose work requires them to arise at an early hour and by some mothers who fear that small children may lose sleep because of difficulty in getting them to bed before dark.

These complaints are to some extent valid, but from the experience of those cities which have tried out the scheme over a period of years the inference is to be taken that the benefits to be derived by changing the time during the summer months amply compensate for the disadvantages.

Other objections to the effect that everybody would lose an hour's sleep because they would not go to bed until the usual time are far-fetched.

The average individual regulates his activities by the clock, and the man accustomed to retire at 10.30, for instance, would continue to do so when his watch indicated that hour without much thought of the fact that it was really only 9.30 o'clock.

As a matter of fact, if some night all the timepieces in Peterboro were to be set accordingly to daylight saving's time without the knowledge of the citizens, the majority of people would go on with their ordinary activities without being aware of the change.

They might, it is true, notice that there was an unusually long period between the supper hour and the coming of darkness, but this would be the only appreciable difference.

It was to achieve this prolonged stretch of daylight after the day's work was over that the plan of daylight saving was inaugurated.

To the worker in factory, store and office whose recreation has been necessarily circumscribed by the extra hour means that much more time out of doors, that much healthful exercise and enjoyment.

Is that worth getting up an hour earlier for?

Summed up, daylight saving offers the advantage of more time for recreation for the army of workers in the city, and the disadvantage of interfering somewhat with the rest of small children.

WHAT WESTERN CANADA WANTS.

W. A. Buchanan, proprietor of the Lethbridge (Alberta) Herald, speaking in London yesterday, presented the case of Western Canada, and he is admirably qualified from intimate experience to do the task thoroughly.

Mr. Buchanan did not represent a West that was dissatisfied, nor one that was anxious to break off relations with the rest of the Dominion. Not a bit of it, but rather a great, energetic country that expected recognition from the East, and that wanted Eastern capital to look seriously into the possibilities of its legitimate undertakings.

The Lethbridge publisher cited one instance to show what he meant, and that was the erection of a giant sugar beet factory in Southern Alberta by capitalists from Montana and other Western States, who had thoroughly investigated the field, and decided that on the basis of what they found their investment was justified. It was this same careful, searching investigation that Mr. Buchanan welcomed from the residents of Eastern Canada.

That is putting Western investments on an entirely different basis to what was known a few years ago by some people in this section. It is a common thing to hear even yet from some of the so-called investors around here: "I bought some real estate in the West and I let it go rather than pay the taxes."

To judge Western Canada and its possibilities by any such standard is as unfair and short-sighted as anything could possibly be. Many of the Ontario investors make the mistake of not owning up to the truth that they were simply speculators or gamblers. They were making no contribution to the West by buying a piece of real estate there; their one and only hope was that they might be able to sell it again in a short time and make a profit, after which their interest in the West would cease.

Mr. Buchanan presented the real West to Londoners, a land where the people are dealing with problems that are peculiarly their own; where there are opportunities awaiting the investment of capital in legitimate, productive enterprises; where they expect encouragement and co-operation from the older sections of the East. The Lethbridge publisher should deliver his message at as many Eastern points as he can reach. He has a real story to tell and his recital is fair and reasonable.—London Advertiser.

NATIONAL UNITY.

The timely and well-considered references by Dr. Thomas Wearing, Dean of the Theological Seminary of Colgate University, to the subject of national unity in his address to the members of the Brockville Rotary Club, call for more than passing comment and cannot fail to strike a responsive chord in the minds of such Canadians as have the welfare of their country at heart. Dr. Wearing's chief complaint with regard to the Canadian outlook was upon the ground of its insularity, what he termed a "narrow provincialism," and he had also fault to find with the narrowness of groups of English-speaking and French-speaking citizens alike which, if shared by all their compatriots, would undoubtedly wreck that unity which has been so many years in the making. He scored the Nationalists of Toronto, "more English than the English," as much as he deplored the attitude of the Nationalists of Quebec, and pleaded for the adoption of a wider national outlook to include countries other than its own.

Never was there need for a more general appreciation of these truths than at the present time. Sectionalism has made strides such as have never previously been witnessed and Governments are being asked to relieve grievances which are based solely upon sectional desire without thought of effect upon the remainder of the country. The Minister of Railways and Canals recently remarked upon this trend in the course of his remarks to a delegation which waited upon the Cabinet from the Maritime Provinces. "I agree with the leader of the opposition," he said, "to a large extent that all over Canada, even among members of the two former parties, there is a disposition to form ourselves into geographical units. Deputations come to the Government every day from different parts of Canada with sectional views. I am not using the word in any derogatory sense, but we seem to have got away from the idea of the old Fathers of Confederation that we are to make a great Canada of this country by, if you will, a policy of compromises, so far as that is necessary, between the different parts of this country. I think we are making a mistake; I do not say it is the Progressive party that is doing it, but day by day Ministers of the Crown are approached from the angle of only one part of Canada."

And, in spite of the activities of Bonne Entente missions and other agencies, there is still suspicion on the part of sections of the press and vitriolic orators as to the motives and aspirations of the two component parts of our population. The French accuse the English of attempting to bludgeon them into abandonment of the privileges, notably of language, which were granted to them at the Conquest and ensured to them at Confederation; the English view with dismay the fact that the French-Canadian birth rate is in proportion to an increase in English-speaking population and protest against any measure which they consider to be dictated by a desire to extend French influence. Could anything be more silly if national unity is to be preserved and national progress to be made?

Dr. Wearing is admirably fitted to discuss this question with understanding and dispassion. A Canadian of English birth, he made it a point early in his career to live among the French-Canadians, to study their problems, learn their language and appreciate their difficulties. If every Ontarian could obtain the same experience, what alteration might his views not undergo? Times of stress such as the present call for the sinking of trivial, inconsequential differences, the allaying of unjustifiable suspicion and consideration of the rights and problems of others. Only by the adoption of a spirit of give-and-take and mutual understanding between Provinces, races, creeds and occupations can that unity which is so desirable be achieved.

A. M. Belding of St. John, N. B., who recently traversed the Dominion in the interests of Maritime rights, has reached the same conclusion. When he wished to learn the sentiment of Canada in this regard he took the trouble to make a painstaking investigation. If more men of standing would adopt the same course and make an honest effort to apprise themselves of conditions in the remainder of the country, there would be less reason to complain about the non-existence of a national spirit, for with understanding and sympathy this spirit would grow of itself.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

MONTREAL GRAIN

MONTREAL, March 29 — The foreign demand for Canadian grain in the Montreal market on Saturday was somewhat quieter and the bids on oats from the United Kingdom were 3d to 6d per quarter lower than Friday which tended to check business, the only sales being reported being a few loads to the continent. There was some enquiry from New York exporters for wheat at nineteen cents per bushel over the Winnipeg May option for No. 1 Northern, and at 10 cents per bushel over for No. 2 Northern, F.O.B. West St. John, but no sales were reported. The trade in coarse grains on spot was quiet and prices were unchanged.

There was no important change in the condition of the local egg market last week, price having been fully maintained owing to the fact that the production of Canadian eggs has not as yet been sufficiently large enough to take care of the daily requirements and further importations from the United States have had to be made, the arrivals for the week being three cars which cost 34½ to 35 cents per dozen delivered here. The prospects are, however, with the favorable weather prevailing throughout Canada the production will steadily increase and that within the next week or ten days the receipts will be ample to meet all requirements at a lower level of prices. The consumptive demand continues good and in consequence an active business was done in a wholesale jobbing way.

Egg Receipts

The receipts of eggs in Montreal on Saturday were 2,588 cases, as against 1,518 cases for the same day last week, and 2,832 cases for the corresponding day a year ago, while the total arrivals for the week ending March 28, 1925, were 12,937 cases as compared with 8,240 cases for the previous week and 15,465 cases for the same week last year. The total receipts from May 1, 1924 to March 28, 1925, were 473,430 cases, as against 603,725 cases for the same period of the previous year. The receipts last week showed an increase of 4,697 cases, as compared with the previous week, and a decrease of 2,528 cases with the same week last year, and the total receipts from May 1, 1924, to date have been 130,295 cases smaller than that of the same period of 1923-24.

The weakness that prevailed in the butter market last week has been more pronounced since and prices scored a further decline of 1 to 1½ cents per pound and the prospects are that they will go still lower in the near future owing to the heavy supplies of held creamery available at this period of the year and the near approach of the season for the new make. The volume of business has been comparatively small on account of the fact that there was practically no demand from outside sources.

The receipts of butter in Montreal for the week ending March 28, 1925, were 2,007 packages which show a decrease of 917 packages as compared with the previous week, and an increase of 1,759 packages with the same week last year, while the total arrivals from May 1, 1924, to date have been 165,394 packages in excess of the same period of 1923-24.

Cheese Market Firm

The undertone to the market for cheese continued strong and spot prices showed a further gain of ½ cents per pound for the week which is due to the continued steady demand for home consumption and the small offerings. A moderate amount of business was done throughout the week, with fodder made Western No. 1 White and Colored quoted at 22½ to 23 cents per pound, No. 2 grades at 21½ to 22 cents per pound, and Quebec 20 pound cheese at 24 to 24¼ cents per pound.

The receipts of cheese in Montreal for the week ending March 28, 1925, were 11,256 boxes which show an increase of 3,633 boxes, as compared with the previous week, and an increase of 10,939 boxes with the same week last year. The total receipts from May 1, 1924, to March 28, 1925, have been 172,777 boxes larger than the corresponding period of 1923-24.

Beans were firm at $2.70 per bushel.

A THOUGHT.

FOLLY.

A tyrant am I, and I rule all lands,
With the might of a thousand kings,
For monarchs are pawns in my sportive hands;
I am master of men and things.

I topple from thrones the good and the wise,
And give their scepters to fools;
I deceive all men with my cunning lies,
And make them my willing tools.

I am the author of what's called sin;
The tang of the poison breath
Is a devilish magic, which lures men on
To the paths that lead to death.

I gamble with virtue and jest with life,
And jeer when the sages warn;
And millions of fools wage senseless strife
While I laugh in derisive scorn.

I have filled the earth with the toxic blight
Of sickness and sin and death;
And piled my trail with the bones, bleached white,
Of purity, faith and truth.

My name is Folly. I rule all lands
With the might of a thousand kings,
For monarchs are pawns in my sportive hands:
I am master of men and things!

BAREE, SON OF KAZAN

by James Oliver Curwood

(To Be Continued.)

It was the fifth day that Bush McTaggart returned to his post. He was in an ugly mood. Only Valence of the four Frenchmen was there, and it was Valence who heard his story, and afterwards heard him cursing Marie. She came into the store a little later, big-eyed and frightened, one of her cheeks flaming red where McTaggart had struck her. While the storekeeper was getting her the canned salmon McTaggart wanted for his dinner, Valence found the opportunity to whisper in her ear:

"M'sieu Lerue has trapped a silver fox," he said with low triumph. "He loves you, mon ami, and he will have a splendid catch by spring—and sends you this message from his cabin up on The Little Black Bear With No Tail: Be ready to fly when the soft snows come!"

Marie did not look at him, but she heard, and her eyes shone so like stars when the young storekeeper gave her the salmon that he said to Valence, when she had gone:

"Blue Death, but she is still beautiful at times, Valence!"

CHAPTER XXVI.

By the middle of January the war between Baree and Bush McTaggart had become more than an incident—more than a passing adventure to the beast, and more than an irritating happening to the man. It was, for the time, the elemental raison d'etre of their lives. Baree hung to the trapline. He haunted it like a devastating spectre, and each time that he sniffed afresh the scent of the Factor from Lac Bain he was impressed still more strongly with the instinct that he was avenging himself upon a deadly enemy. Again and again he outwitted McTaggart; he continued to strip his traps of their bait; the humor grew in him more strongly to destroy the fur he came across; his greatest pleasure came to be—not in eating—but in destroying. The fires of his hatred burned fiercer as the weeks passed, until at last he would snap and tear with his long fangs at the snow where McTaggart's feet had passed. And all of the time, away back of his madness, there was a vision of Nepeese that continued to grow more and more clearly in his brain. That first Great Loneliness—the loneliness of the long days and longer nights of his waiting and seeking on the Gray Loon, oppressed him again as it had oppressed him in the early days of her loss. On starry or moonlit nights he sent forth his wailing cries for her again, and Bush McTaggart, listening to them in the middle of the night, felt strange shivers run up his spine.

The man's hatred was different than the beast's, but perhaps even more implacable. With McTaggart it was not hatred alone. There was mixed with it an indefinable and superstitious fear, a thing he laughed at, a thing he cursed at, but which clung to him as surely as the scent of his trail clung to Baree's nose. Baree no longer stood for the animal alone; he stood for Nepeese. That was the thought that insisted in growing in McTaggart's ugly mind. Never a day passed now that he did not think of the Willow; never a night came and went without a visioning of her face. He even fancied, on a certain night of storm, that he heard her voice out in the wailing of the wind—and less than a minute later he heard faintly a distant howl out of the forest. That night his heart was filled with a leaden dread. He shook himself. He smoked his pipe until the cabin was blue. He cursed Baree, and the storm—but there was no longer in him the bullying courage of old. He had not ceased to hate Baree; he still hated him as he had never hated a man, but he had an even greater reason now for wanting to kill him. It came to him first in his sleep, in a restless dream, and after that it lived, and lived—the thought that the spirit of Nepeese was guiding Baree in the ravaging of his trapline!

54 POLICE HURT IN CLASH WITH PARIS STUDENTS

Law Students of University Prevent Herriot Appointee From Speaking.

MANY INJURED

PARIS, March 30.—Royalists and Conservative Republican students of the law school of the University of Paris and the Sorbonne prevented Professor Georges Selle's second attempt to give a lecture Saturday and turned their vociferous protests into a real political demonstration against the Government. For three hours Pantheon Hill, known as the Mountain of Ste. Genevieve, rang with "Conspuez Herriot," freely interpreted as "Shame on Herriot," alternating with the royalist anthem and shouts of "Long Live the King! Down with the republic."

There were many clashes between the police and students, and fifty-four of the police were wounded, eight of them seriously. The student casualties are believed to have been large, but their number is not known. Thirty students were arrested.

A demonstration of Communist students, which took place after Professor Scelle's particular opponents were dispersed, was broken up by the police after a sever fight in front of the Pantheon. The students used chemical bombs, canes, fists and feet, while the police battled furiously after the Communists had called them "assassins" and "cattle."

The Prefect of Police ,M. Morain, superintended the operations in person. Amid jeers and insults he addressed the students in the Place du Pantheon, saying: "You are free to manifest your opinions, but you must not resort to acts of violence."

A royalist student interrupted, shouting: "How about the Communists who have just cried, "Down with the Fatherland; long live the International?"

M. Morain smiled quizzically and replied: If they shout Down with the Fatherland, why, you might use your fists, but don't use canes."

It is supposed that Professor Scelle will make another attempt to deliver his lecture to-day.

Cause of Quarrel.

The quarrel has many complications, Georges Scelle, now Chief of Staff of the Ministry of Public Works, is a politician as well as an authority on international law. In last year's elections he took a prominent part. But his offence in the eyes of the students is deeper than mere political difference. His appointment to a lectureship was made by the Government, though all the professors of the Faculty voted for his rival, Professor Le Fur. There are allegations of lack of fair play in the whole business, and this has been exploited by political leaders both inside the Faculty and without. Almost to a man the law students of the Sorbonne are Royalists.

In their revolt against the Government-appointed lecturer they have not lacked outside support. Like the school strike in Alsace, there is more than student politics in to-day's demonstration.

M. Scelle did not lack courage. Though the law school was occupied all day by the rebels and every door picketed, M. Scelle managed to find a way in. He got as far as the office of the Dean, but the pandemonium inside reached a pitch beyond any man's control and he wisely abandoned the idea of trying to explain to such an audience his theories of international order.

Satisfied with that victory, the students filed out, singing, into the street. But there the police were waiting for them. In the famous "Boul' Mich'" hats flew in all directions. There were dozen of bleeding noses and some major injuries from blows of sticks and fists.

The disciplined force in the end prevailed. With half a dozen swift drives the police and guards broke up the procession and cleared the streets. Law and order were re-established while the future legal lights of their country dispersed to nurse their wounds and sing their victory.

SLEW WOMAN AND SELF DURING PICTURE SHOW

Audience Thought Organist's Shots Part of Show.

CLEVELAND, March 30.—Miss Lillian Tyler, age 32, organist at a moving picture theatre here, and Homer Walters were found dead of bullet wounds in adjoining seats in the theatre Saturday afternoon.

The police declare Walters shot Miss Tyler and then killed himself.

An audience of several hundred in the semi-darkness heard five shots, but paid no attention to them, believing the noise to be an accompaniment of the picture being projected on the screen at the time.

A giant mussel, measuring 10 inches across the shell, was caught recently alone the British coast. This was one of the largest ever caught.

PRINCE ENJOYS WARM WEATHER

MOVIES ON SHIP

ON BOARD H.M.S. REPULSE, March 30.—(Wireless to London.)—The Prince of Wales was greeted Sunday with warm sunny weather and a smooth sea as the battle cruiser Repulse ploughed its way through the Bay of Biscay headed for South Africa.

Saturday shortly after the cruiser left Portsmouth for the trip to South Africa and South Ameica the Prince underwent typhoid innoculation. He gallantly led a band of volunteers who took the innoculation on the recommendation of the ship's doctor.

The tour of the Prince of Wales has so far been blessed with calm weather. After dinner Saturday night the Prince and the members of his party witnessed a motion picture film featuring the overhauling of the Repulse for its present voyage.

An unrehearsed incident in the film caused much amusement. A junior officer, not knowing that the picture was being taken, walked up behind the captain, who was posing. Realizing his mistake, the junior officer turned and fled, but was recalled by the Captain, with whom he had a brief interview.

CAN NEITHER SMILE NOR CRY

May Goldhaar Lost Control of Her Face Through an Accident.

NERVES PARALYZED.

By GENE COHN.

NEW YORK, March 30. — Never again can she smile! And never again can she weep!

Only the eyes of 1 -year-old May Goldhaar henceforth will mirror what lies in her heart. And just now her eyes seem very sad.

It was an unusual accident that robbed her of the medium through which humans register their emotions, and that left her sensitive, girlish face a placid mask. Struck by an automobile her body was dragged for 25 feet. The thin shell over the mastoid cavity, just behind the right ear, was cracked. And so the tiny nerves that control the muscles of the face and the ducts that lead to the tear glands were paralyzed.

A court has held that the value of these outward signals of happiness and distress are worth $25,000, but there will be countless thousands throughout the world ready to argue that the charm that lies in a smile cannot be paid for with any sum.

"It's made her quite sensitive, of course," says her mother. She says that since the accident May prefers to stay at home and she hesitates to play with the other children. She feels they might be ill at ease because of her passivity. They are yet too young and careless to read what lies in the eyes. She cannot cry and laugh, like other girls.

May has three sisters and they understand, and so she is not without companionship.

"She is the best of the four to have around the house," says Mrs. Goldhaar. "She voluntarily washes the dishes and makes the bed and she's going to be a wonderful cook. Also she's star pupil in her class at high school."

But if any or all of these achievements please May, no trace can be found upon her face.

Some day May will learn what all wise men know—if already she hasn't guessed at it—that most smiles are forced and many are artifices; that many of the merriest laughs ring the hollowest and that hearts can ache, tears or no tears.

The eyes more nearly register the truth and the spirit and through them she will always tell her story of sorrow and joy.

CHURCH LEFT AS LEGACY TO HEIRS

Montreal Contractor Built Church for Rumanians Who Refused It.

MONTREAL, Que., March 30 (By Canadian Press).—A fairly large church, ornamented with Oriental minarets, is the curious inheritance of the heirs of the late Edmond Martel, an East End contractor, who died recently.

Martel's widow, his two sons and three daughters, now have on their hands a veritable "white elephant," built several years ago as a place of worship for Rumanians of the Greek Orthodox faith. It is now five years since the solemn chant of the ancient service had been heard within its walls, and its original priest, "discouraged" because his parishioners constructed another edifice nearby, has gone away.

The church was built by the late Mr. Martel in 1918, at the request of the aforementioned priest and 10 worshippers, who promised to pay the cost. Soon after it had been completed, however, the majority of the parishioners decided they wanted a larger and a finer edifice in which to pray. They refused to sanction the action of the 10 and had another church erected in the immediate vicinity, which soon caused the congregation of Mr. Martel's to diminish alarmingly. Finally, owing to the vagueness of his agreement with the priest and the 10 worshippers, the contractor found himself the sole owner of a congregationless church, which he bequeathed to his family in his will. The late Mr. Martel's heirs have not yet definitely decided what to do with their "inheritance."

PHILATELISTS MEET

Stamp Collectors Will Hold Annual Meeting in Montreal.

MONTREAL, Que., March 30 (By the Canadian Press).—Stamp collectors from all parts of the Dominion will assemble here for the Third Canadian Philatelic Exhibition beginning October 5 next. Preparations are already being made by the various committees in charge. The exhibition will be under the auspices of the St. Lawrence Stamp Collectors and will, according to advance notices, be the largest ever held in Canada. The program calls for a thirty minute address on each of the four exhibition days, to be delivered by different prominent philatelists. There will be a formal dinner and an auction sale of stamps.

For the senior members exhibiting an entrance fee of one dollar will be charged. Juniors may exhibit their "wares" free of charge, though properly filled out entry blanks must be submitted by all.

All entry blanks, it is pointed out, should be forwarded by registered mail to Prof. R. deL. French, chairman of exhibits committee, Engineering Bldg., McGill University.

Prizes will be awarded for the three best exhibits in all classes embracing five or more exhibits; two prizes where four exhibits are entered, and one prize where fewer than four are shown. Many prominent stamp collectors have promised their support to make the exhibition a success, including Senator J. A. Calder, Ottawa, Isaac Pitblado, K.C., Winnipeg, A. F. Lichtenstein, New York, C. I. Philips, New York, and Lewis L. Reford, M.D., Montreal.

JARRES LEADING IN GERMAN VOTE FOR PRESIDENT

Three Liberal Groups in German Elections Making Strong Run at Polls.

LUDENDORFF LOW

Dr. Jarres, With Royalist Faction's Support, Ahead of Socialist Braun.

BERLIN, March 30.—(Canadian Press).—In 12,000,000 votes counted up to one o'clock this morning, Dr. Jarres received 8,00,000, Braun 6,500,000, Dr. Marx 3,000,000, Hellpach 1,300,000, Thaeymann 1,200,000, Held 900,000, Ludendorff 200,000.

With the returns from one-fifth of the 68,000 voting precincts in hand last night, it was evident that the three Liberal parties—the Socialists, Centrists of Clericals and Democrats—are offering stern resistance to the Nationalist bourgeois bloc, and that Otto Braun, the Socialist candidate, is makng a strong run for the office of President in Germany's first popular Presidential election.

Thus far the vote of Dr. Hellpach, Premier of Baden, has failed to come up to the expectations of his campaign managers, and such gains as the Liberal parties are scoring are at present confned wholly to the Centrsts and Socialists.

General Ludendorff is cutting a sorry figure in the returns, while Dr. Held, the Bavarian Premier, has failed to develop in his own State the strength expected of his candidacy.

Voters on Excursions.

The splendid weather seemed to have a prejudicial effect on the voters, many of whom preferred to spend the day in excursions rather than in visiting the polling booths, and, in consequence, the percentage of voting was much lower than in the last Reichstag elections.

No disorders have yet been reported anywhere. There had been great activitiy among the party organziations in Berlin to arouse the interest of the electors during the campaign with speeches and leaflets lauding the respective candidates.

Postdam appeared to take but little interest, the staunch Monarchists there seeming indisposed to vote for a Republican President, although it was observed that some of the members o fthe former Royal house, including Prince Eitel Friedrich, recorded their votes.

Leaders Vote Early.

Dr. Simons, acting President, and all the Ministers voted early in the morning, and among the candidates who lost no time in going to the polls were Dr. Wilhelm Marx, Centrist nominee, and Otto Braun, representing the Socialists. Photographers got snapshots of them and also ofthe acting President and his wife, which appeared in the newspapers on the streets in the afternoon. Herr Braun went to his voting place in Dahlem at nine o'clock, but there was a large crowd ahead of him, among them sixty nurses from neighboring hospitals, and on the scene was a batterly of camrea men, to whom he laughingly remarked: "Now I suppose the public will think I voted for myself."

FIND STUCCO HOUSES STOOD TORNADO BEST

Diagonal Sheathing Also Showed Strong Resistance.

PRINCETON, Ind., March 30. — The possibility of building houses in such a manner as to resist the strain of tornadoes is suggested by the observations of Clarence J. Root of Springfield, Ill., and W. E. Barron of Cairo, Ill., Government meteorologists, who have completed a motor tour in the wake of the tornado which devastated parts of Southern Illinois and Indiana, March 18.

The meteorologists started a week ago at Oatsville, eleven miles northeast of here, where, they said, the tornado jumped into the sky.

The storm, proceeding on a beeline from Gorham to Oatsville, a distance of 115 miles, averaged a forward velocity of a mile a minute, with a rotary velocity of 200 to 300 miles an hour, according to the data. The path was approximately a mile wide. A smaller part of the tornado branched off into Kentucky and Tennessee.

Throughout the tornado district stucco houses best stood the terrific wind strain. Houses constructed with diagonal sheathing also showed marked resistance. Brick buildings, factory chimneys and concrete crumbled more readily than wooden buildings, the meteorologists found.

TRAPPING FUR; TAPPING TREES KEEP MEN BUSY

Petherick's Corners Folk Engaged on Spring Work —Many Traps Set.

SAP RUNS WELL.

Young People Find Time For Enjoyable Social Evening —Y.P.L. on Visit.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, Mar. 30. — The owner of a sugar bush has been having a very prosperous season this year, the sap running almost a stream last week. Many of the farmers have been boiling day and night to get it refined.

Trapping, Too.

The trapping season is in full swing now, every square foot of land along the bay has a trap set on it, in order to waylay any fur-bearing creature that might be trespassing there.

Some of these trappers are reporting some very good catches, but the farmer lad who has just a few traps set merely for the sport that he gets out of it, does not get the same chance that he formerly did before such a number have made it their sole business for the profit they make and not for sport.

Y. P. L. Entertained.

A most enjoyable evening was spent at the English Line church on Thursday evening, when the Young People's League of that church entertained the Young People's League from Zion church, Petherick's Corners. As the roads were in very good condition, the church was well crowded, there being about forty-five members from Zion.

After the general business part of the meeting, Fred Barnum, president of Zion League was called to the platform and very capably introduced the Petherick contingent. The Zion League furnished the programme, which consisted of the following numbers: Chorus, Show Your Colors, by Zion choir ;recitation, My Old Ford, by Roy Thomson; trio, Jesus is Calling, by Rev. Charles Daniels, Thomas Fry and Fred Barnum; hymn, Over the Top For Jesus by the Zion choir; debate, Resolved That what we inherit determines more what we become than our environment; recitation, Curfew Must Not Ring To-night, by Miss Gladys Simpson.

A very sumptuous lunch was then served by the ladies of the 'Line' League.

A spelling match between the two leagues, which roused a great deal of anxiety between the two.

Miss Agnes Thomson dictated the words very impartially, the two sides being drawn up in the following order:

Petherick's League—Everett Fairman, Ethel Forde, Hazel Brown, Clarence Barnum, Earl Fairman, Gladys Simpson, Verna Barnum, Alma Simpson, Gertie Milne, Cora Irwin, Aylmer Petherick, Roy Barnum.

English Line League — Lilian Locke, Bessie Grills, Ruth Tinney, Earl Goddin, Kenneth Goddin, Alice Parker, Edna Diamond, Verna Tinney, Clarence Grills, Mary Peake, Margaret Sanders, Sam Peake.

The Zion side proved to be the best spellers, Earl Fairman being the last person on the floor.

A great deal of interest was also shown in the "Alphabet" contest, which was won by the "blue" group.

Interesting Debate.

One of the most interesting features of the programme was the debate. The affirmative side was very capably taken by Earl A. Fairman and Mrs. Fred Barnum and the negative side just as efficiently taken by Ray Fry and Miss Agnes Thomson. The discussion was very interesting as well as educational as the topic was delved into from every point of view. The argument was a rather warm one and presented a difficult task for the judges, who were Miss Lilian Locke, Rev. Charles Daniels and Everett S. Fairman, but their final decision was in favour of the affirmative, who succeeded in tallying 20 points while the negative got 12.

Those who motored from Petherick's, whose names are not mentioned in the programme were: Misses Jennie Fry, Gladys Mackenzie, Hazel Petherick, Elsie Forde, Laura Petherick, Rena Thomson, Messrs. Roy Fry, Ernie Petherick, Elmer Watson, Alfred Simpson, Aylmer Petherick, Gerald Barnum, Ray Thomson, Jack Thomson, Willie Thomson, Harry Barnum, Fred Fry, Donald Kerr, Harry Owens, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. M. Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fry.

Lumber on Way.

A number of the farmers are hauling their lumber from Allan's Mills, so as to get it piled up and stored away before spring's work.

Mr. and Mrs. George Duncan of Seymour West, Mr. and Mrs. John Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Irwin, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Barnum on Friday evening.

NO MONOPOLY OF THE CHRISTIAN HERITAGE

By G. OSBORNE TROOP
Rector Emeritus
ST. MARTIN'S CHURCH, MONTREAL.

Rev. Canon G. Osborne Troop is conducting a mission in All Saints' Church this week. The following treatise on a live subject is from his pen, written specially for The Examiner:

Any serious treatment of the above subject must, in the nature of things, lead us into the realm of age-long controversy; but controversy need not be unchristian. It may be conducted in a spirit of honest inquiry, sincerely desirous that the truth should prevail. In that spirit I would now lay before the minds of intellectual readers the slowly-formed convictions of a long ministry as to the one cure of "our unhappy divisions."

1. My court of fina appeal is, from first to last, the supreme authority of the Word and Spirit of the Living God. Proceeding with reverential care from step to step, I shall endeavour to show that neither the Roman Catholic Church nor any other part of Christendom possesses a monopoly of the Christian heritage.

2. It is not sufficiently realized that all Christians have an equal right of access to God. There can be no possible monopoly of the Lord's Prayer. All children of God are invited and encouraged to cry, "Our Father." Even so, al penitent sinners have an equal right to the redemption that is in Christ Jesus. "He died for all." He "tasted death for every man." He is "the Saviour of all men," says St. Paul; and he is careful to add, "specially of them that believe." Nor is there any monopoly of the Holy Spirit. "The Spirit and the Bride say 'Come; whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely.'"

3. Indeed, it becomes manifest that even the Church Universal has no monopoly of the Everlasting Gospel. The whole Church holds the Gospel only as a sacred trust for all Mankind, for the benefit of the whole race. How comprehensive is the command of our Risen Lord: "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature!"

4. No one can, with reason, deny that the Holy Bible belongs equally to all Christians; and, as before, the Church has no exclusive right to it. The Scriptures are committed to the whole body of believers; but only that they may be disseminated throughout the world.

5. No body of Christians enjoys a monopoly of Baptism. There is only "One Baptism." No one can possibly be baptized a Roman Catholic, an Anglican, a Presbyterian, or any other. He can only be baptized "Into the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost"; and, in virtue of his baptism, he becomes, not necessarily in the deepest sense a Christian, but a member of the whole Christian society, and entitled to share in its privileges and responsibilities. As St. Paul says of the ideal Baptism: "In one Spirit were we all baptized into one Body, whether Jews or Greeks, whether bond or free, and were all made to drink of one Spirit."

6. Wherever water is reverently used in the Name of the Blessed Trinity by any believer, ordained or unordained, there is a true Baptism, so far as its outward form is concerned, and, as such, it may not lawfully be repeated. Even the Roman Catholic Church recognizes the validity of baptism performed in emergency by a Roman Catholic nurse.

7. Any one who has been baptized in another Christian communion and then desires, for example, to unite with the Church of England, is not again baptized, but is welcomed as already a member of the Christian Church. This rule, for the most part, prevails throughout Christendom, and is entirely in accordance with Scripture. Even the Roman Church ,in receiving a Protestant, does not presume to re-baptize him. A form of baptism, indeed, is used, but with the saving clause, "If thou are not already baptized, I baptize thee." In Christian courtesy, I should add, that of course I am not forgetting the conscientious difficulties of the Baptist, who regards the adult believer as the only person to be baptized, and immersion as the only proper mode.

8. It should be carefully noted that Baptism, though appointed by Christ, and of equal dignity with the Lord's Supper, may, in emergency, be validly performed by any Christian, man or woman. It is not limited to the Christian ministry. This, again, is wholly Scriptural.

9. We proceed further to find that there is no justifiable monopoly of the Lord's Table. Its very title should warn us that it belongs to the Lord and not to us. Baptism and the Lord's Supper, equally with the Scriptures, are entrusted to all Christians, and are intended for the equal benefit of all who, out of mankind, become believers

10. It is just at this point that confusion is introduced by unscriptural claims. The Lord's Table is, unhappily, the very storm-centre of centuries of controversy, and involves the whole question of the validity of the Ministry. By a sacerdotal and exclusive view of the theory of Apostolical Succession, the Roman Church unchurches the Church of England, and in its turn the Anglo-Catholic section of the Church of England unchurches all other Protestant communions. The Roman Catholic and the extreme Anglican agree that only those who are episcopally ordained can rightfully minister at the Lord's Table; but it should be reverently observed that the Lord Himself, Whose the Holy Table is, has made no such restriction. The Holy Spirit, the Lord of Pentecost, is Christ's sole Vice-Gerent upon earth, and the same Spirit is the fountain-head of the Christian ministry. "Where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty," and there is also unity. The Spirit gives right both of ministration and of access in all that pertains to the Eucharistic Feast. "If any man have not the Spirit of Christ," says St. Paul, "he is none of His." What heart-searching words are these for all of us!

11. We have now reached the most difficult and delicate part of our discussion; but I am constrained to maintain, with humble confidence, that there is no monopoly within the Christian Church even of the Christian ministry; and, further, that there is absolutely no authority given in the Scriptures to a Christian sacrificial priesthood. The Christian Church is unique in this. We are all familiar with such a priesthood among the heathen peoples; and with the Jewish priesthood, specially appointed by God. The New Testament speaks of heathen priests and of priests of the Jewish Order; it brings before us the glorious Temple of Jerusalem with its altar and sacrifices; but never so much as once is the Christian minister spoken of as a priest, nor is the Lord's Table spoken of as an altar. Indeed, the late Bishop Lightfoot reminds us that, "It is a significant fact that the first instance of the term 'priest' applied to a Christian minister occurs in a heathen writer." He is careful to add, "at least I have not found any example of this application earlier than Lucian."

12. The late Bishop Westcott, in reference to the sacred words of the Risen Lord, recorded by St. John, "Receive ye the Holy Ghost," makes this most weighty and unequivocal statement:

"The gift is conveyed once for all. No provision is laid down for its transmission. It is made part of the life of the whole society, flowing from the relation of the Body to the Risen Saviour. Thus the words are, I repeat, the charter of the Christian Church, and not simply the charter of the Christian Ministry. They complete what Christ had begun, and could only begin, before His Passion. He had given to His disciples the power of the keys to open the treasury of the Kingdom of Heaven, and dispense things new and old. He had given them power to bind and to loose, to fix and to unfix ordinances for the government of the new Society. And now, as Conqueror, He added the authority to deal with sins. In saying this, I do not touch upon the Divine necessity, by which the different persons and channels, through which the manifold graces of the Christian life are administered, were afterwards marked out. I wish only to insist upon the Apostolic mission of all Christians, which no subsequent delegation of specific duties can annul. . . . All Christians, as such, are indeed Apostles, envoys of their Risen Lord. To ministers and to people alike, while they are as yet undistinguished, He directs the words of sovereign power—in the announcement of His victory over death and sin—'Peace be unto you: as the Father hath sent Me, even so send I you. Receive ye the Holy Ghost: whosesoever sins ye forgive, they are forgiven unto them: whosesoever sins ye retain, they are retained.'"

13. It is a fact too often overlooked that even our Lord Himself, while on earth, was not a priest, but, in His human nature, a layman. He was not of the priestly tribe, or family of Aaron, but of the royal tribe of Judah. When He laid down His life for the sin of the world He was not sacrificed by a priest upon an altar. As the writer of the Epistle to the Hebrews tells us, "He suffered without the gate." No one took His life from Him; He laid it down of Himself. The whole Roman Army would have been powerless to slay Him had He chosen not to die. We are told in majestic language, that "He, through the Eternal Spirit, offered Himself, without spot, to God." In well-known words, He was "Himself the Victim and Himself the Priest." By this sacrifice of Himself, once for all offered, He "put away sin" for ever; and, in virtue of this sacrifice, He also became "a priest for ever, after the Order of Melchizedek," but not after the Order of Aaron. Like each of us, He had, as Man, but one life, and, having died, it is impossible for Him to die again. "Death hath no more dominion over Him." Not even He, then, can repeat His sacrifice. How impossible is it, therefore, for any human priest to offer Him "for the living and the dead" in the so-called "Sacrifice of the Mass!"

14 Moreover, when our Redeemer instituted the Lord's Supper, He did not celebrate it as a priest at an altar, but as a layman at a table, in the course of the Feast of the Passover. Nor were the disciples fasting, for it was "while they were eating" that He gave them to eat of that Bread and to drink of that Cup. These simple considerations show conclusively that the Lord's Table can never properly be an altar, nor can he who ministers at it be a sacrificing priest.

15. We do not forget that the writer of the Epistle to the Hebrews says, "We have an altar"; but Lightfoot makes it unmistakably clear that the inspired writer is not speaking of the Lord's Table. The only Christian altar is the unique and terrible altar of the Cross; and that altar has for ever disappeared, and has left no successor. If an objector should appeal to the authority of "Catholic Tradition," our Lord's mighty words most solemnly remind us of those, who made "the Word of God of none effect by their tradition," vainly seeking to worship while teaching for their doctrines "the commandments of men."

16. Christ Himself is our Priest—our great High Priest, Confessor and Judge. We need no other. He is the one perfect Mediator through Whom every believer has free access to the Eternal Father. And, wonder of wonders, all believers share in Christ's royal priesthood. There is no special class of Christian priests recognized by God; but every single believer shares equally in his Saviour's priesthood. Christ is the Head of the Body, the Church, and as members of His Body we partake of His priesthood. Lightfoot, in his immortal essay on "The Christian Ministry," clearly states that "the most exalted office in the Church, the highest gift of the Spirit, conveyed no sacerdotal right which was not enjoyed by the humblest member of the Christian community." He further says: "It must be borne in mind that the minister's function is representative without being vicarial. He is a priest as the mouthpiece, the delegate of a priestly race. His acts are not his own, but the acts of the congregation. . . . "It may be a general rule," he goes on, "it may be under ordinary circumstances a practically universal law, that the highest acts of congregational worship shall be performed through the principal officers of the congregation. But an emergency may arise when the spirit and not the letter must decide. The Christian ideal will then interpose and interpret our duty. The higher ordinances of the universal priesthood will over-rule all special limitations. The layman will assume functions which are otherwise restricted to the ordained minister." It may be added that Lightfoot quotes with approval Tertullian, who says: "Where there is no bench of clergy, you present the eucharistic offerings, and baptize, and are your own sole priest. For where three are gathered together, there is a Church, even though they be laymen."

17. If the above paragraph be accepted as true, and it is founded, be it remembered, strictly on the Scriptures, then the practical consequences for our own day are of priceless value. As the present Bishop of Durham has recently said: "Above the Papacy, above General Councils, above every conceivable ecclesiastical authority, we set the Word written." The authority of the Scriptures supersedes the unwarranted claims of an exclusive priesthood, and Christian unity is seen to embrace without distinction all believers. The devout Presbyterian, for instance, is as valid a priest as the devout Anglican or Romanist, and that without distinction of minister or layman. All Christians are reduced to a level as to their common priesthood, and the ministers become only duly authorized officers and leaders of the Christian community.

18. We can see at once of what inestimable value this neglected truth is to the scattered Christian communities, for example, in our own North-West. The universal priesthood, once intelligently embraced, meets all possible emergencies: for where there are believers, however few, absence of the ordained ministry does not cut them off from their Christian worship or sacraments. The Spirit of Christ is with them, and they are perfectly justified in ministering to each other until such time as an ordained minister can be secured. The noble simplicity of the Gospel of Christ thus becomes the security of every believer and guarantees the supply of all his need. No conceivable emergency can possibly separate the believer from his Lord.

19. With my whole soul I believe the above statements to rest upon the supreme authority of the Scriptures, as upon the very Rock of Ages; and I am supported in this conviction by the vast learning and dispassionate conclusions of both Lightfoot and Westcott, whose memory the world of Christian scholarship delights to honour. Their printed words are the more weighty now that they have passed into the nearer Presence of the King of Glory. Into that wondrous Presence we may at any moment be called to follow them. Their reasoning is calm and balanced, as if at the very feet of Him Who said, in simple majesty, "I am the Truth." They bear strong testimony to the early development of the Historic Episcopate out of the New Testament ministry; but they unchurch no body of believers in the Son of God, nor do they discredit the orderly ministry of any Christian community.

20. In conclusion, it should, perhaps, be pointed out that the Prayer-Book of the Anglican Church never calls the Lord's Table an altar, and that the Anglican "priest" holds the office of a New Testament presbyter or elder. In the familiar words of the judicious Hookes, the word "priest" in the Prayer-Book is "presbyter writ short." While I am fully aware that what I have written is unlikely to receive any serious attention from ecclesiastical authorities, yet as a humble Christian and loyal presbyter of the Church of England, I venture to send it forth in the assurance that, in so far as it may be true, the God of Truth will not suffer it to perish. We may well take comfort from the words of the Lord Jesus: "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." "Every one that is of the truth heareth My voice." Furthermore, our Lord is soon coming back to gather in His own from the living and the dead that they may be with Him and with each other for ever. It is obvious that, in that glorious reunion of the faithful, there will be no possible place for division among them. We shall then, for all eternity, "dwell together in unity." Why should we not, as far as possible, anticipate that unity now?

GOVERNMENT TO CONTROL LIQUOR

Newfoundland Drops Prohibition After Eight Years' Trial.

SYSTEM AS IN QUEBEC

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., March 24 (Canadian Press).—Eight years of prohibition was replaced a month ago by a system of legalized sale under government control in these sections of Newfoundland in which the people desired it and a recent check-up among the authorities indicate that the change has brought no disastrous results nor has there been any apparent increase in the consumption of liquor. The drastic nature of the punishment meted out to offenders under the new act are believed to have acted as a deterrent and violations so far have all been restricted to first offences. On one conviction the offender is placed on a "blacklist" and on his next conviction he is liable to a fine of from $200 to $1,000 or a sentence of three to six months. Fifty names have already been placed on the black list but none have appeared the second time.

Prohibition came into force with little opposition by a plebiscite held in 1916. Appealed to to agree to the prohibition of liquor as a war measure the people responded with the same readiness that characterized the enlistment of Newfoundland men for overseas service. Those who objected to the measure, regardless of how much they spoke against it, refrained in large numbers from casting their vote.

The war over a reaction set in and while Newfoundland people for the most part are not heavy drinkers, the very nature of their existence demanding that they maintain clearness of head and eye and full possession of their faculties, there were many violations of the prohibition act until finally it was being openly flouted.

When the Monroe party appealed to the electorate in the Spring of 1924, one of the promises made was that in the event of being elected, the Prohibition Act would be repealed and the principles of an alternative measure enacted. In the session which followed the Alcoholic Liquors Act was placed on the statute books in spite of strong protest on the parts of the "drys".

Last November when the Prime Minister and the Minister of Marine and Fisheries had to submit themselves to their constituents for re-election, the opposition played largely upon the prohibition issue and the champions of the prohibitive measure backed them strongly. The two ministers were returned with greater majorities than those secured in the general elections and on February 3 of this year the liquor shops were opened in St. John's.

In most particulars the new system is practically the same as that in operation in Quebec province. All control is vested in a Board of Control, consisting of a chairman, appointed during good behaviour, and two members appointed at pleasure. In the city of St. John's there are three distributing centres where any adult may buy a bottle a day. Licenses are granted grocery stores, hotels and restaurants to sell wines and beers on trains and boats, under control. A branch liquor store may be opened in any district in which a majority of the people vote for its establishment.

When the doors of the liquor stores opened February 3 there was no line-up waiting to be served and nothing of any unusual nature occurred to mark the restoration of the privilege. Police records show a most satisfactory state of affairs and any infringements have been prosecuted with vigor and the people have a wholesome respect for the drastic penalties that have been prepared for those who show any desire to abuse the new liberty that has been granted those who desire the public sale of intoxicants.

MEN STRANDED ON A SMALL ISLAND

Party of Six Seen Out in Saginaw Bay, Michigan.

SAGINAW, Mich, March 30 (Canadian Press).—Six men are stranded on Little Charity Islands in Saginaw Bay, and men from the Bay Port fishing Company at Point Look-Out are making an effort to reach them.

This was the information received here yeserday afternoon by W. H. Wallace from his son at Bay Port, who organized the rescue crews at Bay Port and Caseville to reach the stranded men. The identity of the men has not been learned. From Sand Point northeast of Bay Port, they have been seen with powerful glasses, but a check up along Saginaw Bay does not show any fishermen missing. If the present effort is unsuccessful an appeal will be made to the state police to obtain a hydroplane.

THE GRENFELL LABRADOR MISSION.

No. 2. Dr. and Mrs. Wilfred T. Grenfell Abroad.

The long and exhausting lecture tours undertaken by Dr. Grenfell in recent years have left their mark, even upon his robust constitution. Last year the directors of the International Grenfell Association felt much concerned lest Dr. Grenfell's health give way. After much persuasion the doctor consented to take a year's furlough, to be accompanied by Mrs. Grenfell, who has devoted herself whole-heartedly in seconding his plans and efforts in behalf of Labrador. Canada has a small share in financing the world-tour being taken by Dr. and Mrs. Grenfell, but the greater portion was provided by a few personal friends, who recognize what a great asset the doctor is to this mission.

Dr. and Mrs. Grenfell set off last June for England and spent the summer there, having on display at Wembley Exhibition a most interesting exhibit of Labrador arts and crafts. This exhibit, in charge of a volunteer, will help make this mission better known.

In the late Autumn Dr. and Mrs. Grenfell proceeded to Egypt, and had the great privilege of spending the Christmas season in and around Bethlehem. From there they will proceed to India, and thence to Australia, New Zealand, China and Japan, before returning via the Pacific to Vancouver, next May. Dr. and Mrs. Grenfell sent kindest greetings to all Canadian branch workers, contributors and personal friends.

Already the doctor is feeling the benefit of the rest and change and acknowledge the wisdom of the board when insisting that he take a real holiday, the first extended furlough he has ever taken. He writes that they are seeing the immense value of missions. Not only can they see the stupendous difficulties to be encountered, but also the amazing triumphs. It certainly will be inspirational for Dr. and Mrs. Grenfell to see for themselves what medical missions accomplish in other lands and be able, later, to apply the knowledge gained in improving the Grenfell Mission stations tof Labrador and North Newfoundland.

All who are interested in the work of the Grenfell Labrador Mission are reminded that the annual membership fee is only $2.00, which includes the quarterly magazine, Among the Deep Sea Fishers.

FRANCE DRAWS PLAN FOR GERMAN REPLY

Will Question Attitude of Germany on Several Points.

PARIS, March 30. — (Canadian Press).—The German Security Pact offer was the object of a conference at the Foreign Office this morning between Premier Herriot and the leading members of his Cabinet. Former Premier Briand and Louis Loucheur, former Minister for the Liberated Regions, also participated in the consultation which is understood to have fixed the main lines of the French reply to the Security memorandum.

The political department of the Foreign Office went to work immediately after the conference on the draft of the reply.

The main characteristics of the French answer, it is forecast, will be a series of questions intended to bring out a clear definition of what the German Government is ready to offer and the setting forth of conditions which the French Government regards as indispensible, chief of which is the unconditional entrance of Germany into the League of Nations.

The principal questions on which Premier Herriot will ask concern the attitude of Germany toward the frontiers of the Allies of France, Poland and Czecho-Slovakia.

The note will set forth in substance that the formal renunciation of Alsace Lorraine by Germany would be an insufficient guarantee of security.

The French reply will declare that France considers herself bound to see that the frontiers of Poland and Czecho-Slovakia as well as her own, are made safe.

Present indications are that the French reply will be a separate one.

PROTESTANT AMERICA WATCHING PRACTICAL CHRISTIANITY MOVE

A religious emphasis week, for which scoffers prophesied speedy oblivion, has set in motion forces that promise to sweep not only this city but the whole United States into a new march toward practical Christianity.

Church leaders throughout the country have come here to address the huge throngs that have swarmed into the churches.

An experiment designed to interest but locally has been accepted as well worth being made national in scope.

For in one week's time Des Moines church attendance swelled to per cent—

A wave of interest and curiosity in being religious has brought intelligent argument in clubs, colleges and schols—

Booksellers are unable to supply the demand for religious books—

To crystallize the inchoate enthusiasms aroused by religious emphasis week, Des Moines has formed a body of 4000 men and women, representing every creed, to bring the entire city into Christianity.

The idea of holding a religious emphasis week sprang from a luncheon table conversation of three local men, Carl C. Proper, editor of People's Popular Monthly; George Webber, secretary of the Y.M.C.A., and W. E. Tone, prominent business man.

"Church membership has come to be a mere badge of respectability, instead of the living, every-day allegiance to Christ's teachings that it should be."

This conclusion was the beginning of the movement.

For seven days Christianity held the attention of the city and the front-page headlines of its newspapers. People were urged to attend church in a campaign carried through pulpits, the press, in shops, factories and business houses.

During that time, in a city of 147,000 population, the church attendance was 110,000—an increase of 10 per cent.

Baptist met Unitarian, and fundamentalist and modernist broke bread in harmony together.

"The most remarkable feature of the week," says Sherwood Eddy, "was that not one partisan word was spoken. It is a great adventure to see whether all Protestant Christian sects can join hands to work out their common problems."

Leading churchmen throughout the country came to Des Moines to address the crowds that swarmed into the churches and to study the new endeavor.

"But," said the skeptics, "what of next week? Will church emphasis week do anything permanent for Des Moines or for Christianity?"

In answer to this query, which is being received from all parts of the country, Dr. Herbert Scott, leader in the new movement, points out what has been accomplished and further says that the movement shows strength each week.

Eight commissions have been created to study religious and social problems. A general committee of 100 will meet monthly and an executive committee of 12, including chairmen of the commissions, will direct the course of the religious life movement in Des Moines.

The commissions will be devoted respectively to prayer, youth, racial relationships, international relationships, human relationships, stewardship, literature and evangelism.

Literature is being prepared for distribution among churches in other cities. The evangelism commission to try to improve the old technique of proselyting, so as to enable church workers to approach every person on the subject of church membership if he is not already a memebr.

Nine mass meetings of the 4000 workers now enrolled will be held in the endeavor to lend an impetus to the work of the commissions.

"We expect these 4000 to take our message back to their churches and to all their associates," says Dr. Scott, "until the spirit of Christianity shall permeate the every-day life of the entire city."

KNEES IN FOREGROUND.

Fashion Dictates Entire Clothing For Women to Weigh Two Pounds.

NEW YORK, March 30. — Woman's growing emancipation from clothes will reach the apex this summer and if she follows the dictates of fashion exactly two pounds of raiment will clothe her. And half the weight will be in shoes.

Such is the edict set by a representative of a famous New York silk house, attending the Fashion Art League of America convention here, who sketched and weiged the silken summer ensemble as follows:

One step-in, two ounces; one brassiere, one ounce; one pair of sheer hose, two ounces; gowns, six ounces, hat, five ounces; shoes, one pound.

Sheer fabrics, indestructible voiles, chiffons and georgettes will be worn on all occasions and not just for dress affairs. Likewise the knee will be visible. Dresses are to be just below the knee, but not meant to cover it. When the fashionable woman sits down her knee will be well in the foreground of the picture, it was said.

TO PROTECT FLOWERS.

Legislative Action to Punish Persons Who Destroy Spring Plants.

BOSTON, March 30 (Canadian Press).—A bill for the protection of the Mayflower has been signed by Governor. Fuller. It provides that "any person who pulls or digs up such plant or any part therof except insofar as is reasonably necessary in procuring the flower therefrom, within the limits of any state highway or any other public walk or place or upon the land of another person without written authority from him, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $50; but if any person does any of the aforesaid acts in disguise or secretly in the night time he shall be punished by a fine of not more than $100."

FATHER TIME HIMSELF.

LIVERPOOL, Eng., March 30. — G. Little, who has been employed by a Liverpool clock firm for 50 years, claims to have wound more clocks than any other man in the world. He estimates that he has wound 1,500,000 clocks during that time.

COCOANUT KING ACTS.

NEW YORK, March 30 (Canadian Press). — Leopold Schepp, known as the "cocoanut king," and who for sixty-five years has been accumulating a fortune through production of cocoanut by-products, has begun at the age of eighty-five to "give away" his wealth. The "king's" first thoghts were for his subjects and as a start he presented fifty of his warehouse employes with checks varying from $500 to $5,000.

Now he has turned to the youth of New York and as an initial step has announced that $2,500,000 of his fortune will be set aside for the building up of a "boys' welfare institution."

The institution will have as its objective, the starting up in business of boys who have "proved worthy." Mr. Schepp intends securing applicants from church dignitaries and Sunday School heads. When the boys are "ripe" and if they have lived up to a two-year pledge, including abstinence from drinking, which the "cocoanut king" intends stipulating, they will be given $200 and started in whatever career they choose. Church denomination will play no part in the selecting of boys for Mr. Schepp's welfare league. His two cardinal beliefs, he says, are:

"There are 249 different ways of worshipping God and all of them are right.'

Therefore the aged philanthropist has never joined a church, but "worships God in his own way." He would like to see Catholic, Jew and Protesant unite in some great common religion, he declared.

SARGENT LIKES HORSES.

New Attorney General of the United States is Old Fashioned—Collects Pipes.

LUDLOW, Vt., March 30.—(Canadian Press.)— John G. Sargent, who was recently appointed Attorney General of the United States, is known here as a man of many sided interests. His hobbies range from the collection of pipes, of which he is reputed to have more than 100, to that of Oriental rugs, while for recreation he prefers nothing so much as fishing. Neighbors say: "He likes to do a day's work and call it a day."

Although the new Attorney General has owned an automobile for years he still prefers to harness up a pair of horses to a spring wagon and drive off for a day's outing to some nearby village. His car is of ancient vintage but it seems to serve the comparatively simple requirements of Sargent better than might a new machine.

At home, he revels in his pipes and books. He is an enthusiastic gardener.

What is a bill of lading and what is it good for?

Answered by
RAYMOND B. DICKEY
Corporation Attorney, Writer and Lecturer on Legal Phases of Finance.

A bill of lading is the most generally used form of contract for carriage for rail and water commodity transportation. Such a bill serves three purposes. (1) It is a receipt for goods turned over to the carrier; (2) it serves as the contract whereunder the services are performed and outlined; (3) it serves as the basis for financing the shipment (order bill of lading).

A bill of lading stands for the physical property which is shipped and carries with it the title to the goods. Railroad bills of lading are uniform, but such is not the case with ocean bills of lading and each should be carefully studied before making a shipment thereunder.

'DEMOCRACIES' IS TOPIC OF FINE ROTARY PAPER

A SPENDID EFFORT.

Intelligent Electors Needed to Preserve Existence of Democracies.

That democracies in order to live and flourish, must have enlightened electors, a lively public opinion, and an awakened public conscience, was the opinion advanced by Rotarian Alex. Mowat in a most scholarly address upon the subject of "Political Democracies," at the weekly luncheon of the Peterboro Rotary Club at the Empress to-day.

Rotarian Mowat's addresses are always a source of enjoyment and a challenge to thought, and his treatment of to-day's most interesting subject was in his best vein.

It was a big topic to cover in a 15-minute address, yet the speaker succeeded in leaving with his hearers much food for thought. He briefly traced the history of democracies throughout the ages, showing how much was owing to ancient Greece and Rome and to the development of the medieval periods.

Political democracies he defined as government by the majority, using in this connection ex-Ambassador Page's expression "equality of opportunity." The war, he explained had resulted in the establishmnet in Europe of many new democracies, yet the situation at present was frankly disappointing, inasmuch as most of these democracies were democracies in name only. Democracy had scored its greatest triumph in the United States, yet the result even there was far from perfect. Quoting ex-Ambassador Page again, he expresesd the opinion that a nation that had as its favorite orator William Jennings Bryan, its favorite actor, Charlie Chaplin, its favorite novelist, Harold Bell Wright, its favorite evangelist Billy Sunday, and its favorite newspaper writer, William Randolph Hearst, must be regarded as more remarkable for its quantity than its quality.

The United States Sunday newspaper, declared Rotarian Mowat, is the greatest triumph of quantity over quality of which I know. "Whole forests are being cut down in order that trivial articles may be published for the benefit of large Sunday editions."

In conclusion the speaker pointed out the necessity of having intelligent electors in order to secure an actual public opinion and a level public conscience. The whole continent lacked this latter attribute. Rotarian Mowat declared that it was the duty of the schools and of clubs, such as the Rotary club to awake people to a realization of the situation.

Before the address Rotarian Douglas Carlisle delighted the club with two splendid solos "Gipsy John" and "The Horn," which were rendered in fine voice and with a real appreciation of their significance.

CAMPBELLFORD HAS A SUNDAY CONCERT

Every Seat in the Building Crowded For New Popular Event.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 30.—The second Sunday night Concert by the Northumberland Regiment Band, the first since William Pearson has become leader, was held last night in the Regent Theatre and as usual the entertainment attracted an audience that filled every seat in the building. The programme consisted of band uumbers entirely there being no solos, vocal or instrumental, and the selections were all new, none of them ever having been heard at a previous concert.

The band had only five weeks to prepare this special programme and it is evident that Leader Pearson has made the most of the splendid material which he found when he succeeded R. T. Cowell, whose main reason for retirement was continued ill health. Mr. Pearson alternately worked the baton and played the clarionette. There were 26 members of the band on the platform, these including a number of beginners who have made steady progress since taking up the work. Major J. M. Bygott acted as chairman.

All the numbers were rendered in faultless style the home songs, including the always popular melody, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie,' 'and the closing hymnn, "The Sands of Time Are Sinking," receiving special applause. All the other pieces on the programme were standard classics.

Mr. Cowell brought the Northumberland Regiment Band to the front ranks of musical organizations in Central Ontario and the members and citizens are to be congratulated upon the fact that in Mr. Pearson they have found another talented musician well qualified to carry on the work.

HARTFORD, Conn., March 30 (Canadian Press)—Alfred E. Atwater, New Britain police officer, testified today that he had seen Gerald Chapman, sensational mail looter, shoot patrolman James Skelly in a New Britain departmental store last October 12. Dramatically pointing to Chapman, who was seated at his attorney's table, he said in tense tones, "That man there did the shooting." Chapman did not flinch under the accusation, but his cold blue eyes never left, the policeman's face.

FARM WORK CALLS FOR MORE LABOUR

Backward, Turn Backward, O Time In Your Flight!

Mrs. Neanderthal came out of the cave which formed the main portion of the Neanderthal home and scanned the horizon for her missing spouse. She had a club in her hand. The theory that only cave men carried clubs in those days is all wrong. Even then, the women were getting ready for the suffrage movement.

When her husband arrived, half an hour later, she spoke sharply to him. "How am I going to get breakfast if you don't light a fire for me?" she said. "My dear," replied Ug Neanderthal, "the sun has only just now reached the half-way mark on the round stone,' and he took her out and showed her the mistake she had made. "I must have got up earlier than usual," muttered Mrs. Neanderthal, as she returned to the cave, but she did not admit to Ug that she was wrong. Managing husbands was an art even in those days.

A little later on, about 25,000 years ago, away over in the California of today, Homo Barbarensis, greatest of American grandfathers, prowling the costal beach with his companion, the sabre-toothed tiger, ate his midday meal only when the waves of the sea had advanced to a certain distance along the shore line.

In Ancient Rome, they had the horologium, or hour-teller, the gardens of Spain had their sun-dials, with their quaint inscriptions: "We tell the passing hours," or, in reference to the minutes, the doleful dirge, "They all wound, the last kills." Then came the hour-glass, with sand filling, first one globe, then another, as the seconds sped into eternity, and the clepsydrae or water-clock.

Boethius in the sixth century made a clock; in 809, Haroun al Raschid, he of "the olden time, the golden prime," sent a clock to the mighty Charlemagne; Pacificus, Archdeacon of Verona, in the ninth century, and Pope Sylvester Second, in the tenth, tried their hands at instruments for measuring time. In the twelfth century, in the monasteries, time was told by means of a clock which announced the end of every hour by the sound of a bell put in motion by means of wheels, and thus gave rise to the expression, "the clock has struck."

In 1326, Rickard, Abbot of St. Albans in England, made a clock such as had never been heard of until then. It not only indicated the course of the sun and the moon, but also the ebb and flood tide. Larke clocks on steeples were also made first use of in the 14th century.

A celebrated clock was set up in Paris for Charles V. in 1379, the the maker being Henry de Vick, a German. It probably formed a model on which clocks were constructed for nearly 300 years, and until the pendulum was applied as the regulating power to clockwork, about 1657.

The watch, a pocket instrument for measuring time, was invented at Nurnberg at the end of the fifteenth century.

Ask Premier to Have Government Supervise Libraries of Province.

DIFFICULT, HE SAYS.

TORONTO, March 30.—(Canadian Press).—Carrying on their war against circulating libraries that distributed to the youth of the province "immoral books," and quilt and mattress manufacturers who used unsanitary material, the treatment of drug addicts and numerous other details, the National Council of Women of Canada waited on Premier Ferguson and his Cabinet this morning.

Urging Government supervision of the lending libraries of the province, Mrs. Wood requested that the Government pass regulations licensing such libraries and that it be made compulsory for them to make a return of the books kept by them for lending purposes.

The Premier stated that lending libraries would be difficult to check up. He promised to write Ottawa and see what could be done to regulate lending libraries.

I.O.D.E. MEETING.

Thirty-five Members Present —Tea in Aid of Nova Scotia Miners.

A meeting of the Peter Robinson Chapter I.O.D.E. was held in the green room of the Y.W.C.A. on Saturday afternoon, with an attendance of about thirty-five members. The Regent, Mrs. F. Hooper, presided. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Miss Maida Connor and the treasurer's report was given by Miss Marjorie Evans. The election to the office of assistant secretary of Mrs. D. L. McLaren was made, on recommendation of the Executive.

It was decided to hold a tea at the 'Y' in Easter week, the proceeds to be donated to the fund being raised for the needy miners in Nova Scotia. The sum of $10 will be forwarded immediately to the fund, to be deducted later from the proceeds. A sale of home-make cooking, in charge of Mrs. J. K. Hughes, will also be held in connection with the tea.

A letter from the Local Council of Women was read, announcing that the allocation to the Local Council in the budget of the National Council this year was about $150, over and above fees, and asking for the support of allied societies in raising this amount. The Chapter decided to send $5, in addition to the regular fee, to the Local Council as its contribution towards this amount.

Mrs. F. Hooper was appointed delegate from the Chapter to attend the fifth annual meeting of the Provincial Chapter I.O.D.E., to be held in Hamilton from April 21st to 23rd. As this meeting, an invitation to the Provincial Executive to hold its semi-annual convention in Peterboro, some time in late October or early November, will be extended by Mrs. E. B. Clegg, Regent of the 57th Regimental Chapter I.O.D.E.

New members added to the roll of the Chapter on Saturday were the Misses Mayme Montgomery, Jennie Frederick, Audrey Wainwright, Cora Smith, Miss Riley and Miss Burgess.

At the conclusion of the business session, afternoon tea was served from a table centred by a lovely silver basket filled with pink roses. Arrangements were in charge of Miss G. Glover and Miss L. Brownscombe, assisted by Mrs. E. C. Webber and Miss G. Mulholland. Mrs. F. Hooper poured tea.

PETERBOROUGH LIBRARIAN SAYS WOMEN'S PLAN IS IMPRACTICABLE

Best Criticisms Are Considered in Purchasing Books For Library.

SOME GET FAST.

Mr. F. M. Dela Fosse, Librarian of the Peterborough Public Library, thinks that the suggestion put forward by the N.C.W. is unworkable—It is absolutely impossible, no matter how careful the supervision may be, to prevent an occasional book from being placed on the shelves which may be classed as immoral.

Criticisms in public prints are often misleading and books are sometimes purchased which are far removed from what critics claim them to be.

The local Library Committee exercises the greatest care in selection, but no committee is ominscient and every library is more or less at the mercy of the critics to whom it looks for some standard of selection.

Only the best criticisms are considered. Anything of a doubtful tendency is immediately frowned upon.

In Peterborough Churches

Knox Presbyterian.

In the morning the sermon was one of a series on the Seven Windows of The Cross—Text, John 19, 28, and Matt. 25, 35. The Thirst of God on Calvary. "After that," after forgiving those who crucified Him, after assuring the penitent thief of Paradise with Himself, after providing for His mother, and after the agonizing cry of His soul when even God seemed to have forsaken Him, then He said He was thirsty, and gave us a final assurance of His humanity. The Incarnation was real. This is a genuine human cry. It tells us God is human. It refutes the Docetic idea of His Person, the idea that He was human in appearance only. The "Gospel of Peter" says that on the Cross He felt no pain the "Acts of John," denied that He had any material existence. Marcion denied his human birth.

They offer a phantom Christ but He assures us, Himself that He is human. He is a human sufferer. He has identified Himself with the very least of us. "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these." His identification with man is complete. Thirsty as a man is thirsty. He wold satisfy His thirt only as any man similarly situated could satisfy himself. God's identification with man is complete. There is a vessel full of drink nearby and God is thirsty. But the only way to quench His thirst is for the folk standing around to hand Him the drink. He is giving them a last chance, as it were, to treat God kindly. And they respond, thank God! Men are moved by physical suffering; it is the language they can best understand. So God speaks the language they understand. What a vision of Himself He has given us as He thirsts on the Cross! Methinks God is still human, and still thirsty and suffering. And He's still telling us about it. And there's ample at hand to quench His thirst. And there's still a chance to give Him to drink. He is still offering us a chance—perhaps a last chance—to treat God kindly. And, by the way, a cup of cold water given in the name of a disciple is not without its reward.

In the evening the sermon was the first of a series of "Interpretations of Human Life." Text, Isa. 38, 12; Rom. 8, 28, and II. Cor. 4, 17-18. Life is a process of weaving. Each man sits at a loom. PARK STREET BAPTIST

In spite of the inclemency of the weather and a great deal of sickness through the congregation, Sunday was a good day at Park street.

In the morning the pastor's subject was, "The Church in Ephesus," being one of a series of sermons on "Some Churches of the New Testament."

The characteristics of this church were, First the people professed their faith in Christ by following him in baptism, baptism being an outward expression of an inward change of heart. Second, they enjoyed good preaching, which was marked by its boldness, faithfulness, and persuasiveness. Third, backsliders were reclaimed, and fourth, sinners were converted.

In the evening the pastor preached to a full house, his theme being, "The Church of the Firstborn," in which he showed that God has given us the privilege and promise of being born into his family.

A hearty song service preceded the evening sermon.

PULL DOWN THE BLINDS

To the Editor.

Dear Sir.—We are all in favor of saving daylight for spending it in any way but work in our house except mother and father, and a baby that does not know daylight from dark. These babies make me tired. Mothers who have had their day, now want the night, too, for the little ones. Pull down the blinds if you want more dark for the little ones. What does the Bible say about them that loves darkness?

SAVE MORE DAYLIGHT

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—I am not only in favour of moving the clock ahead one hour but three hours. All work can be done or left half done by lamplight. But it is a different thing with play, rest and vacations. Every minute of daylight should be used for these purposes and every minute of the light for other purposes. It is good to save one hour of daylight it is good to save it all. Selfish people have had too much of their own way. Let us go right at them and make them do it. If a thing is good and beneficial let us have it if we have to put everybody else in gaol.

"GRANDMA" OBJECTS.

To the Editor. The Examiner.

Sir.—Your kindly offer to take brief letters re this "Daylight Saving."

I'm very much against it, far other old people as well as myself, and dear little children, its hard on us all. And if these sporting folks want to get up at 4.30 or whatever time they wish; allright, let them go to it and leave other people alone.

I like getting up at 5.30, but strongly object to an hour earlier than that.

I suppose there are some who would like to have the sun to shine at night, and the moon by day, just for a change. That they cannot manage.

GRANDMA.

CHURCH MERGER MORALS.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir—"Merged" is the wording of the Act. "Merger," not "Union," is correct. "Union" is a drawing together of free people, a right that all should have. But "merging" a free Church, wiping it out by civil law, when its members wish to remain in it, is tyranny, and is declared by leading Counsel to be beyond the power of Parliament. Appeal to the Privy Council of the Empire has therefore yet to be made against this Merger tyranny, for the safety of religious liberty now and in future. Meantime, apart from its tyranny, note its morals—

The latest sample of these morals is its reports on the vote. When the ballots, day after day, have given a constant majority against it; when the total vote to date is ninety-five thousand for it and one hundred thousand against it; when in Ontario, the main body of the Church, the vote is fifty-nine thousand for it and seventy-two thousand against it, that Merger gives, day after day, in the public press, in large headlines, "Church Union's Far Lead,"—"Church Union, Three to One,"—"1,447 congregations for Union to 535 against it," etc.; with never a hint of the real vote, and never a hint that the majority of those 1,447 "congregations" are small stations, some of which have neither church nor reported membership.

Of these 1,447 "Union Congregations" in all Canada, 458, about one-third, are given as in Saskatchewan, whilt the total church membership of the fifteen Presbyteries in that Province is a little more than half the membership of the ore Presbytery of Toronto.

One of those fifteen Presbyteries in Saskatchewan is named "Kamsack," and has been acclaimed all over Canada as a "large western Presbytery, unanimous for Union." That Presbytery has two self-supporting pastoral charges, and it has fifteen aided charges and mission fields, with sixty-two "congregations" and stations. Its total reported membership is 741, and its sixty-two aided "congregations" have a total reported membership of 489, an average of less than eight members each. How would the law deal with a bank thus representing its assets?

But the morals of the Merger in reporting the vote mark its whole course. It runs true to form. Note some instances of many—

1. Its promoters were given office in the Presbyterian Church on their taking solemn vows "to maintain and defend the same" and "to follow no divisive course from the present order established therein," and they are using their positions, thus obtained, to blot out the Church entrusted to their care.

2. They entered into unanimous agreement and declared to the people that "Union . . . must carry the consent of the entire membership"—and have—"practically unanimous action," and when they found a great and growing opposition, they applied to Parliament to force the Merger and blot out the Church in spite of the people; their agreements "a scrap of paper."

3. The Merger constantly points to the twenty "Articles of Faith" in its "Basis of Union" as its Doctrine or Religious Belief, with never a hint that no one is asked to subscribe to those "Articles of Faith."

4. It pretends to retain the rights of the people, when not a member of its General Counsel need be first elected to office by the people, as is the case with the Presbyterian Assembly.

5. It tells the people that they can "call" their minister "as at present," but seldom lets them know that "the right of appointment shall rest with the Settlement Committee," an arbitrary official power unknown in the Presbyterian Church.

Zeihr Daily Voice of People Zeihr

6. It professes to answer Christ's prayer and to do away with overlapping, waste and "sectarian strife," and it is thrusting its new sect everywhere, with overlapping, waste and strife heretofore unknown in Canada.

"Many," said the Master, "shall come in My Name and shall deceive many." "By their fruits ye shall know them." This Merger has come in His Name and has deceived many. But, in ever-growing numbers, as they come to know it, the people are turning against it; fifty thousand at the first vote in 1911, seventy-three thousand at the second vote in 1915, and one hundred thousand in the third vote, not yet complete.

And the Presbyterian Church, strong and true and free, a Church of the people, pledged to the Great Truths of the Word of God, will continue,—and many of her people who have been misled will yet return to their Mother Church.

May I note, in closing, the kindness of Anglicans and Baptists in many places, in giving the use of their buildings to Presbyterian minorities, when the church homes which they and their fathers have builded have been taken from them by a great and cruel wrong.

The great enemy of teeth

Film is the great enemy of tooth beauty. And a chief cause, according to world's dental authorities, of most tooth troubles. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs by the millions breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

You can't have prettier, whiter teeth; you can't have healthier teeth unless you combat that film.

FARM NEWS AND PROBLEMS

FARMER'S WIFE TELLS BENEFITS OF THRIFTINESS

What One Woman Did To Help Meet Problems of the Farm.

PAY CASH.

Children Take Chocolate Bars to School When Parents Owe Taxes.

In these times when the farmers of Western Canada are getting back on their feet after being swept about by inflation and then deflation, thrift is one of the great essentials in the solving of the problems of the average farm household. E. L. Kenney, manager of the Bank of Commerce at Empress, Alta., sends the following as indicative of what the farm women can do to meet the problems of reducing the farm overhead by the employment of methods of thrift. It is a letter writetn by a farmer's wife and needs no further introduction. More evidence of this kind as to how courage and determination win out over difficulties would help in creating a better spirit to meet the present situation.—J. W. T.

To my mind the farmer holds a unique position. He is both a capitalist and a laborer, but he cannot command the capital of the capitalist nor demand the exorbitant wage of the laborer. It is impossible, therefore, for him to budget his income or to say what he can or will do, as he never knows whether he will save anything or not at the end of the year. Our crop of wheat should have been 1,000 bushels, but it was only 400. That 400 of wheat and 100 of barley, all we have to sell, will bring at present lower prices, about $335. After $100 is taken for taxes, and $80 for threshing (it would have been over $100 if my husband and the boys hadn't got to work and stacked it) is taken out, what is left is our income for a year. That is $155, and the supply of feed is the husband's income. Now the wife's part comes in. If he will give her the feed, by plenty of hard labor she can make a second income on that feed by raising poultry, etc., and surely she is entitled to what she can make, although there are some men mean enough to grudge her that corn. But failure or success depends much upon the harmony existing between husband and wife.

You spoke of a "Joint Savings Account." All right, if there is harmony, but stop to think there is no such thing as a savings account for the farmers these times. So many right round us are going to the wall every day, so many just throwing up their farms, can't pay taxes and interest. They want to join the laborers to get the high wages.

But to come back to the point of finance on the farm or how to make good. Now, I will speak of ourselves. Both my husband and I have a natural antipathy toward being in debt or having to pay out our hard-earned money in interest, and I think that is the secret of our success. We do not pay any interest because we do not owe anyone. Our method was to save and save, and do without in some way or other till we could pay the cash, and we have saved many a dollar by being able to pay cash. My father made a lot of money in his day and was a hard worker, but in order to make it he paid out as much in interest as he made.

He had not over much schooling and as we grew up each had to do his correspondence work. So we children knew all about it when he was hard pressed, and it took a lot of the joy out of our child life. I used to wish I could be a great singer, so that I could earn lots of money, and the first thing I would do would be to pay off all father owed. Our children do not have any worry like that, but, still, I have taught them very strict rules of economy. I have given them plain but wholesome food and luxuries are given as a treat, and then they enjoy them the more.

Sometimes they grumble and say "so and so has always got chocolate bars or big oranges in their lunch pails," and I say, "yes, but so and so's parents can't pay their taxes." That is the whole trouble with the world to-day. People want the good eats and the amusements, and little work. I think work and more work must be the salvation of the economical world. We must work and save, for a dollar saved is a dollar earned, and we can't save if we don't work. I never buy a new thing until I have taken every last bit of service out of the old.

My husband mends up his old machinery and makes it go until it is no longer possible. He saves and I save, and we have one purse, and still have separate bank accounts, when we have anything to bank. He lets me have all the butter and poultry money and helps me to earn all I can otherwise, such as prizes at fairs, etc., and lets me board the school teacher sometimes, when there is an opportunity. Up till this year he provided for the large outlays, such as flour, meat, sugar, tea, etc. He always bought it wholesale—I mean in large quantities, and thus saved by paying cash, and I bought the clothing and smaller things, but this year he says I have been the money maker, and I have to foot more of the bills, which I assure you are only for necessities. When the war was on and prices for our produce were up in the air, we saved harder than ever, for we expected these times, and we were able to invest in some Victory Bonds.

The interest now just pays the children's high school tuition fees. If it were not for that they could not go on with their education. Our girl is taking music lessons and practising on my sister's piano. We would like to get one of our own, but will have to wait till we can save a little more yet

Spring Comes To Farmers Of Campbellford District

CAMPBELLFORD, March 30—The best of all evience that spring has actually arrived aside from the sightingof robins and other summer birds and insects, has been given. Councillor Robert Innis and other farmers out the Hastings Road a few miles from town have started ploughing and all report the soil in excellent condition as it has been loosened by the frost of last winter. The rain that fell Thursday night and yesterday was just what was needed to revive the wheat and clover. The ice floes that were piled along the banks of the Trent River have almost entirely disapepared.

SELL POTATOES BY A CENTRAL AGENCY

Growers of Western Ontario Counties Plan Organized Effort.

ESSEX, Ont., March 30.—That an organized effort be made at once to establish a central sales agency to handle the entire crop of early potatoes grown in Southwestern Ontario was decided at Leamington Saturday by the early growers of Essex County. A plan of amalgamating the Lambton, Norfolk, Kent and Essex growers, all of whom have local co-operative shipping companies was discussed by Justus Niller, agricultural representative for Essex County. High overhead and unscientific distribution could be eliminated in no other way, it was thought.

The Essex growers decided to take the initiative in organizing such an agency and a committee with Douglas Maynard, of Leamington, as chairman, was appointed for this purpose. W. R. Reek, superintendent of the Ridgetown Experimental Farm, believed the Kent growers would support the scheme. He was satisfied no other method would rectify the present disorganized market.

The agricultural representative was requested to have proper three-year marketing agreements drawn up and plan for a general agency prepared in consultation with the provincial co-operation and markets branch.

DOGS CARRY CLOCKS

London Ladies Put Watches on Dogs' Collars for Convenience.

Here is something that made Londoners rub their eyes the other day. Mrs. Arthur Ferrimal, of St. John's, Newfoundland, who is staying in London for the season, bought a fine black retriever the other day and then bought it a very wide collar. And the next day, when Mrs. Ferrimal walked down the Strand and wanted to see the time she just looked at a small carriage clock that had been fixed into the dog's collar.

Another device of a famous Bond Street jeweller is to fix alarms into the tiniest of wrist-watches—they are designed for a busy society woman so that she will not forget her appointment. At the given hour these tiny watches, not as big as a quarter and set with jewels, give out a diminutive musical cry.

ALBERTA'S LOSS ON IRRIGATION MAY BE MILLION

Expert Has Laid Out New Scheme of Reorganization.

SMALLER FARMS.

Recommends Moratorium for This Year and $3 Per Acre Afterward.

LETHBRIDGE, Mar. 30.—General approval is given the Widtsoe recommendations for developing the 105,000-acre Lethbridge Northern irrigation tract, built under provincial guarantee. The Alberta government guaranteed the bonds of the Lethbridge Northern scheme up to $5,400,000, while another advance of $140,000 was made last year to meet maintenance costs. It is stated that the net loss to the province over the whole period calculated to get the project on a self-sustaining basis would be approximately one million dollars, providing the proposals of the Widtsoe report are adopted and prove workable. Dr. Widtsoe, in his report, expresses absolute faith in the ultimate success of the project providing the holdings are reduced, colonization accelerated and production intensified. He says the tract has every chance of success if given a chance.

The report is likely to form the basis of the new irrigation policy of the government, machinery for carrying out the same being introduced this session of the legislature.

The expert's recommendations follow:

Maximum capital charges should be $55 an acre, payments on this not to begin until January, 1926, this meaning, in effect, a moratorium for this year.

Construction charges not to exceed $2 an acre for first ten years, and water distribution charges not to exceed $1 per acre to be paid for 1924 and all succeeding years by all, excepting those in "dire need." This means that the annual irrigation charges should not exceed $3 per acre per year. It is believed the farmers, by diversifying their crops, will be able to meet those rates.

Holdings should not exceed 160 acres. Any holdings in excess of this should be turned over to the provincial government for sale at reasonable prices for colonization purposes.

COBOURG PRICES FOR FARM GOODS

Eggs 30 Cents a Dozen Retail—Butter 35 to 38 Cents.

COBOURG, March 30.—Prices for different commodities in the Cobourg market are practically stationary, excepting for live hogs, which now sell for $13.00 a hundred, with the probability of going higher before the end of the week. Consequently, pork, selling retail, has taken a cent or two rise now also. Eggs are 30c a dozen retail, and from 25c to 28c wholesale. Butter is slightly lower, from 35c to 38c. Forty cents was asked on Saturday by some vendors on the market for choice dairy butter.

Chickens still are fairly plentiful, and quite a quantity of fowl is being sold. Prices range from 75c up to $2 for very nice large birds. Potatoes remain at the stationary price which they have held all winter, 75c per bag, and are not selling any too freely at that price. Various prices are asked for apples. Spys sell from 40c to 60c a peck, according to quality. Salmon Sweets are 50c a peck, Waggoners and Russets 40c, while various other varieties of cooking apples sell at 40c a peck also.

Fall Grain Looks Well.

Although here and there is evidenced some activity over getting ready to get on the land, farmers generally are occupied with odd jobs at the present time which they wish to complete before the rush of ploughing and seeding. The fall wheat, of which there is said to be a larger acreage than last year, also rye, is looking well yet, although the fields are bare, but some apprehension is being felt for them and for the clover. The kind of weather from now on will, of course, tell the story.

Land for Reforestation.

At the Saturday meeting of Hope Township Council the matter of reforestation in the municipality again came up. It was stated that Mrs. Edward Gardiner would sell her property for reforestation at the rate of $10.00 per acre. The land is in a public place, along the railroad to Millbrook, and is considered quite suitable for this purpose. The Council will visit the spot and look the matter over carefully before definite action is taken.

Will Safeguard Bridges.

The question of notices on roads and bridges that are closed to traffic was taken up also at this meeting. These were all posted up in the fall, but some, it is stated, have been washed away. The flood last week put some of the roadways in the vicinity of the Goverashe River in a bad condition. The Council will immediately look after all roads and bridges under their jurisdiction, and will ask the County Engineer to do the same in order that all may be made safe for the travelling public.

Little Maple Syrup Now.

Some twenty-five odd years ago there were many sugar bushes in Northumberland County, and that delicious spring delicacy, maple syrup, was quite generally manufactured. Now very little of the product appears on the Cobourg market that is of local manufacture, and citizens must perforce purchase mostly from the groceries. It is an industry that is just becoming extinct in this district.

PLOUGHING STARTED.

Murray Township Man Has Some Done—Sheep Coming to District.

COBOURG, March 30.—A citizen of Murray township is among the first farmers in Northumberland county to get on the land. He already has some ploughing done, it is stated. However, the majority of farmers have not yet considered getting down to the spring's work. The demand is becoming a little keener for farm labor, but although there are many men out of work, comparatively few are seeking the farm as a place to devote their energies. On the other hand, a vacancy on a local steamer for a fireman received many applicants.

The Spring Fair.

Spring fairs have largely gone out of date, but there is one place where they are still regarded with their old-time interest and that is Brooklin. Arrangements are now being made by the various committees in charge for a big fair this spring at Brooklin, with its accompanying football and baseball games. A calithumpian parade is also to be staged. It is one of the big events of Ontario county.

Purchased Flock of Sheep.

Mr. John Campbell, Hillier, has added to his flocks by purchasing some twenty thoroughbred Shropshire sheep from the Hon. John Dryden's farm near Brooklin. They are to be sent to Big Island for the summer to graze.

Individual Reforestation.

It is stated from various parts of the county that numbers of farmers are evincing interest in the offer of free trees made by the Department of Agriculture, and intend to plant their waste lands with them.

It is customary among certain sects of Algiers to bury the dead with the bottles of medicine used during their last illness.

SOCIETY PLANS COMPETITION IN SCHOOL GROUNDS

Nine Silver Cups to be Presented—One in Each Province.

RURAL SECTIONS.

Any School May Enter By Complying With Conditions Named Here.

A competition in the ornamental planting of rural school grounds is being inaugurated by the Canadian Horticultural Council. The purpose of the competition is to encourage the planting of such ornamental and hardy shrubs as will not suffer for lack of attention during the vacation period. The abundance of native shrubbery available locally in many parts of the Dominion, and the finer things, equally as hardy, obtainable from the nurserymen, give encouragement to the Council and the promise of a charming transformation in the school grounds of the country.

The competition, though Dominion-wide, is divided provincially. Nine silver cups have been secured for award, one in each province to the rural school accomplishing the greatest degree of beautification in its grounds during the year. The cup will become the property of the school winning it three times, not necessarily in succession. With each cup, the Council will also give an award of merit certificate, which may be framed and kept by the school as a permanent record.

To enter the competition the schools are required to submit a photograph of the building and grounds and an application of entry to the chairman of the provincial committee, or to Mr. L. F. Burrows, secretary of the Canadian Horticultural Council at Ottawa. Details of the competition, which will be conducted under the immediate charge of the provincial Department of Education, are available from the secretary of the Canadian Horticultural Council at Ottawa, or from any of the following chairmen of provincial committees:—British Columbia, Prof. F. E. Buck, University of British Columbia, Vancouver; Alberta, Prof. Geo. Harcourt, University of Alberta, Edmonton; Saskatchewan, Dr. F. C. Patterson, University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon; Manitoba, Prof. F. W. Broderick, University of Manitoba, Winnipeg; Ontario, Prof. A. H. MacLennan, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph; New Brunswick, A. G. Turney, Provincial Horticulturist, Fredericton; Nova Scotia, Prof. Shaw, College of Agriculture, Truro; Prince Edward Island, J. A. Clark, Dominion Experimental Farm, Charlottetown.

BROADCAST SEED.

Campbellford Farmers Abandon Drilling—Crowded in Sowing.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 30. — Many of the more progressive farmers in this district have abandoned the practice of drilling in their spring grain, preferring to sow it broadcast; every modern seed drill being easily adjusted to do the latter work. These farmers say that the space between the rows is too wide and that the land so unoccupied is more than likely to bear a heavy growth of weeds. Three bushels of oats to the acre is now regarded as the proper quantity of seed to sow on the modern farm. The farmers say that to crowd this into drills does not distribute the seed properly and retards the growth.

For fall wheat the drill remains the favorite, the object being to plant this seed deep to protect the roots from the action of the frost.

Increased Tomato Price Helps Brighton Growers

BRIGHTON, March 30.—This district being practically entirely an agricultural one, retail business is expected to remain quiet during the summer months with the farmers all very busy on the land. With an increased price to the growers of ten cents a bushel for tomatoes, and the operation of five canning factories in the district, great attention will be paid this year to this crop. There will also be a greater acreage of corn, which is also to be packed this year by at least two of these factories.

HALF SIZE CROP —MORE REVENUE

Final Returns Show Small Farm Costs Allowed Fair Profits.

NET YIELD HIGH.

Nineteen-twenty-four was one of the most remarkable periods in the fascinating history of the grain growing Canadian West. After realizing the largest crop ever harvested, in 1923, indications of a much smaller crop in 1924 darkened the outlook. But, although the crop was actually smaller than even the lowest estimates, the net yield to the farmers of the prairies was greater than that of the bumper crop of the year before.

What has been said was more marked in Saskatchewan than elsewhere. That province which produced 58 per cent. of the yield of the entire country, in wheat, during 1923, fell back to less than half of the total yield of grains last year in comparison with 1923. The figures for the grains were 256,-907,000 bushels as against 523,994,000 bushels the year before. This means that the costs of threshing and harvesting in general were almost cut in two. At the same time the total value of the crop was within $10,000,000 of the total value of the previous one. All field crops of the province in 1923 yielded $248,778,000 and in 1924, $237,310,000. This latter figure is based on low price averages such as $1.21 for wheat and 43 cents for oats. In other words, while the costs to the farmer were materially reduced, the net value was approximately the same. Since grain production is the leading industry of Saskatchewan, these figures help to explain why some of the large commercial firms report that debts are being liquidated, and the province is getting in a much better shape than that of a year or two ago.

Along with the improvement in the grain crops there has been a gradual growth in the livestock and the dairy industries of Saskatchewan. The butter output is more than three times as great as it was some ten years ago and cheese has increased to a much greater degree. A gradual increase in the toal sales of livestock is reported from the livestock markets, principally at Moose Jaw and Prince Albert.

The importance of Saskatchewan as a farming area is well illustrated by the returns of the federal income tax. These returns show that the farmers of Saskatchewan paid almost half of the total amount paid by the farmers in all of Canada. The latter figure was $275,626 and that of Saskatchewan, $127,542. It is expected that this province will show a still larger percentage of the total this year.

As reported recently in the case of Manitoba, the improvement in farming conditions is being reflected in the financial position of a number of the municipalities. Some towns which were in financial difficulties two years ago, now report a substantial surplus. This is furthered by such disbursements of the crop revenue as the recent payments by the wheat pools of a portion of the sale price of the grain. There are, of course, some districts which are not so fortunate, as their crops were an utter failure. In such sections which fortunately are rare, conditions are worse than they were a year ago rather than better.

FARM PROSPECT IS BETTER FOR SEASON OF 1925

Prices Are More Favorable and Life May Be Less Strenuous.

BURNBRAE FARMS

Many Men Have Clean Quality Seed for Sale This Spring.

BURNBRAE, Mar. 30—The farmers' prospects for 1925 are a little brighter now than they were at the New Year. The price of hogs has risen to $13.00 per cwt., F.O.B., while the price of feed grain is slightly lower. Oats are now qouted by local dealers at 61c per bus. off cars atCampbellford. The price of wheat is also down on local markets. Although the affl in grain prices works against the all-grain farmer, it works in favour of most of Burnbrae dairy farmers who are compelled to buy part of their feed grain each year. Dairy cows are freshening every day now and cheese factories wil lsoon be commencing operations. The cheese market is dull at present, but there on the inside are optimistic regarding April prices. As a general rule April and May have been the low-priced months for cheese and farmers hardly get return for their feed. One regrettable feature of the high grain prices prevailing in the early winter is that a number of dairy farmers have felt themselves forced to economize on grain feeding and as a result a large proportion of the dairy animals are starting the year in poorer condition than is desirable.

However, on the whole, the future looks brighter and it may be the ier this year, even though eggs at farmer will find things a little eas-25c per dozen do not completely pay the grocery bills.

New Comers Welcome

Burnbrae is always glad to see newcomers to the district and has extended the welcoming hand to Mr. Fred oJnes of Napanee, who line, formerly owned by the late has rented the farm on the Town Chas. Stephens. Mr. oJnes is now busy gathering together stock and farm machinery to start the spring operations.

Mr. Wm. Rannie of Meule is in the seed grain industry this spring having about five hundred bushels of re-cleaned Banner oats for sale to farmers for seed purposes. Mr. Rannie deserves praise for his effort to improve the grade of seed used in the district. He selected his original seed carefully paying a high price for it and has given his own fields intended for seed production every possible care to keep the variety pure and free from foul weeds.

Messrs. Alex Hume and Co. are in the seed business also with O. A. C. No. 72 Oats. They have been growing this variety of oats for years and are always very successful. On several occasions they have topped the field crop competition conducted by the Seymour Agricultural Society and have always been in the money. Last fall they also sold seed wheat so their efforts have not been confined to oats alone.

Mr. Wm. Matthews, of Rawdon, is also selling Imperial Oats for seedas well as alfalfa and clover seed of which he threshed a good crop.

These growers are to be commendedfor placing this seed grain on the market when prices of feed grains have been so high as to make it barely profitable to spend time in re-cleaning seed. It will not pay any farmer to sow poor seed this year when good seed is to be obtained as only bysowing the best can he hope to get a profitable yield.

QUEEN RUINS FASHION

Queen Elizabeth Shingles Her Hair—Something New Must be Found.

London hairdressers are sorry that the Queen of the Belgians has shingled her hair. The Queen has given the crowning triumph to shingling—which means that it has reached its peak, and now something else must be found. To-day it is a battle, Hair vs. Hat; because the big hat has come back, and as it is not really comfortable on shingled heads, women are letting their hair grow again. A hat seen here the other day was 2½ feet across.

JUST AS HE THOUGHT.

The story is told of an engraver in the Bureau of Engraving at Washington who went to New York shortly after the new twentydollar yellow back notes were issued. He tried to pay his bill with one of the new notes, but the clerk said it was worthless.

"Why," said the engraver, "of course, it's good. I made it myself last week."

"That's what I thought," said the clerk as he rang for the house detective.—London Tit-Bits.

SHEFFIELD UNITED QUALIFY TO MEET WELSHMEN IN CUP FINALS

Blades Defeated Southampton at Chelsea by 2 to 0 And Cardiff City Trounce Blackburn Rovers 3 to 1 on Notts County Field.

FINAL AT WEMBLEY APRIL 25TH

LONDON, March 30 Canadian Press Cable).—Sixty-five thousand fans crowded the Stanford Bridge ground of the Chelsea "Pensioners" on Saturday and witnessed Sheffield United advance into the final stage of the English Cup competition by defeating Southampton by two goals to nothing. At the same time, one the grounds of Notts County an enthusiatic throng of Welshmen and Lancastrians saw Cardiff City swarm all over Blackburn Rovers and notch up a victory that takes them to Wembley by a score of three goals to one.

At Stamford Bridge, Sheffield got all the breaks and Southampton were dogged by hard luck. This was particularly so when near the close of the first half, with no score yet in sight, Parker, the Southampton right back, sent the ball in through his own goal, thus registering a score for Sheffield. An opportunity to equalize shortly after the resumption came to nothing when this same player, taking a free kick, landed the ball on Sutcliffe's knee, to bounce clear.

The game was keen throughout, marked by individual rushes. It was not clever, nor was there much combined play. But the "Blades" forwards had all the speed and were always aggressive. The Southampton intermediate line were frequently weak and displayed none of the stubborn defence work the yhad revealed against Liverpool. Gillespie and Tunstall played like Trojans and gave Allen some uncomfortable moments.

Review of Game.

Play started with Southampton attacking, Carr taking the ball well downfield, but a free kick from a foul saw the ball transferred to the other wing where Henderson got possession. By a clever piece of footwork. Gillespie stole the leather and the Irish Internationalist carried the game into Southampton's territory where Allen had some work in clearing his nets. The "Blades" continued their attack and Tunstall sent in a hot one, which however Allen was able to save. Always on the attack Tunstall initiated another invasion which ended with his wicking too high. Sheffield were having the best of the game, their smart forward line working well and against them the Southampton halves showed visible weaknesses. The United kept up the pressure and were all over the South of England men, with Tunstall continually prominent in all the plays.

The "Blades" wing man shot in a brilliant dropping kick, but Allen was equal to the occasion and fisted it over the bar. Sheffield's first counter came four minutes from the interval, when in a confused scramble in front of Southampton's goal, Parker kicked into his own nets. The period ended with Sheffield maintaining the pressure and with Allen desperately striving to ward off shots from the "Blades" centre forward, Johnson.

Wasted a Chance.

The resumption saw the United playing with great confidence, and Southampton putting up a plucy fight. The chance to make it one-all came five minutes from the start, when Sheffield were penalized. Parker took the kick, but sent the leather straight at Sutcliffe and the "Blades" goalkeeper bounced it clear from his knee. Play was continued with Sheffield swarming all over the second string club and from a long lob, Tunstall received and went off by himself. Allen dashed out of his nets to try and save, but he failed to stop the brilliant winger and the ball left Tunstall's foot to find a safe resting place in an empty goal. From then on, it was Sheffield's game. Southampton fought valiantly, but they were unable to break through, and in the end had to accept their defeat.

Cardiff Victory.

Thirty-five thousand fans, about equally divided between wildly enthusiastic Welshmen and vociferous Lancastrians, saw the hopes of Blackburn Rovers effectively quashed on Notts County's ground. The game belonged to the Welshmen from the start and their avalanching attacks, their speed and brilliant combination left the Rovers helpless. From the kick-off the pace was set by Cardiff and they made it hot. Their left wing worked like a smoothly-oiled machine, Willie Davies and Beadles playing well up to Nicholson. Five minutes from the start, a corner was forced against the Rovers, and Nicholson taking the kick, curled a beauty that found the way past Sewell, under the bar. The Welshmen made it fast and furious and kept up their aggression. Blackburn's defence was weak and hesitant and after a brilliant piece of play Gill insidt right for the Welshmen, defeated Sewell with a stinger.

With a couple of goals in hand, the City showed up brilliantly and they were all over the Rovers, while the thousands of madly cheering fans raised riot in the stands.

The Welshmen's policy of the long lobbing pass and the high overhead kick upfield had the Rovers guessing, and was most effective in smothering Blackburn's come-backs. The Lancastrians seldom got a chance at the ball, and whenever they did obtain possession they were unable to do anything with it. The City were all cut for the Cup, and nine minutes from the second goal, Willie Davies row. A few seconds later Sewell was the ball up and centered to Beadles, who, without breaking his stride, sent home a sizzler that Sewell did not even see.

Rovers in Distress.

Blackburn failed miserably and they were in tremendous distress in the closing minutes of the first period. Their defence went to pieces and Gill nearly made it four in a row. Few seconds later Swell was called on to save a header from Nicholson.

The opening of the second game saw Blackburn playing somewhat more steadily, but their rear line was still feeble. The Welshmen were always dangerous and were always on the aggressive. Despite the wind against them, Cardiff kept up the attack, and Nicholson had hard luck in having a sure goal turned by a sudden blast away from the nets.

Blackburn turned in a desperate game, and for a time came into the picture, but they were unable to round off any of their movements and finished weakly. Cardiff were well able to hold their own and their backs were impregnable. Blackburn attacked and were rewarded twelve minutes from time by forcing a corner from which McKay, the inside left, netted. Stimulated by this slight hope, the Lancashire team began to put up a big fight, but their rally came far too late, and the play ended with Cardiff the heroes of a truly great game.

Cardiff City now meet Sheffield United in the finals of the English Cup, to be played at Wembly on April 25.

AIRDRIE HOLD LEAGUE PLACE

RANGERS FINED.

GLASGOW, March 30.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—Airdrienoians continued to maintain a lead over their nearest rivals, the Hibernians, Saturday when they turned in a five-goal victory over Motherwell. The leaders, with two games in hand over the Edinburgh club, and ahead of them in both points and scoring average, appear to be well settled for League honors. Their most dangerous opponents are the Rangers, who have still a couple of games to play to bring them up to the Airdrieonians. But Rangers seem to be in the way of finishing badly. Their cup defeat last week by Celtic had its echo Saturday when all they could do with the lowly Kilmarnocks was to divide the points in a scoreless draw.

Airdrieonian's win over Motherwell was sweeping in character and three of their goals were obtained by McPhail, Gallagher having the other two.

While Rangers could not defeat Kilmarnock, they nevertheless had the best of the game. The Ayrshire Club's defence, however, was invulnerable.

Tie at Greenock.

The Edinburgh Hibernians should have defeated Morton at Greenock, but they did not—which is the thing that counts. Two goals each were registered by the two teams. Shaw and Walker were the stars for the Irishmen, while French, who turned out at centre for the Greenock club, obttained one and Wilson the other.

Ayr United, for whom few hopes were entertained several weeks back, climbed out of the cellar to some advantage and stayed out when on Saturday they took Third Lanark into camp on the latter's ground by an orphan goal. Tolland was the counter for United.

Queen's Park are now reposing in the basement and their position there was certified yesterday when Heart of Midlothianu blanketed them by three goals to one. Hearts' trio all came from the talented foot of John White, while Crawford tallied for the "Amateurs."

Celtic Win Again.

Celtic continued their comeback when they easily defeated the Raith Rovers, downing the Kirkcaldy team by a couple of goals. McCrory and Thompson were Celtic's stars. Celtic have no chance for the League this year, but they are pinning their faith on trimming Dundee for the Scottish Cup. By a coincidence the two goal margin was that by which the Dundonians defeated their near neighbors from Perth, St. Johnstone, Dundee's goals going to Halliday Duncan.

A brace of much needed points were added to Falkirk's aggregate when they emerged with a one goal lead over St. Mirren, the final score standing at two to one. The 'Bairns' are in sore straits, their position being second from the bottom of the table, in company with Queen's Park. Relegation is a serious threat for Falkirk. Gebbie secured both of their goals while Gillies retaliated for the Paisley team.

Cowdenheath put up a good display against Aberdeen and came out on the big end of a two to one score. Aberdeen had a mixed team, including the four Jacksons. The late Second Division club's goals were got by Devlin and Bruce, while Bruce scored the loser's.

Thompson and Miller registered in favor of their respective teams when Hamilton drew with Partick Thistle.

OXFORD'S SHELL SHIPPED WATER AND QUIT RACE

WAS A WASHOUT

Half the Crowd Along the Thames Didn't See the Dark Blue Boat.

PUTNEY, March 30.—(Canadian Press).—Cambridge won the annual university boat race Saturday afternoon without a struggle and with no opponents in sight, the Oxford shell having been swamped under the wind whippedwater of the Thames after completing only half of the course.

The Cambridge oarsmen, although robbed of the glory of a real triumph, deserve a great deal of credit for the mere accomplishment of having kept their boat above the surface, for few races ever were rowed in rougher water than that which a cold, blustering northeast wind chopped and churned into whitecaps upon the Thames.

Cambridge probably would have won in any event, for the light blue crew manifestly was the better eight, but what happened to their opponents might have happened to them but for the luck of the toss. This gave Cambridge the sheltered side of the river, whereon the first bend into the wind they could escape the worst of the tossing surface water.

Doomed to Ducking.

Oxford, pushed out toward midstream, began shipping water soon after the first mile and the dark blue rowing gradually became slower and more labored as the boat filled and began to sink at the bow. Every pint that slipped into the shell made it easier for another quart to come splashing in. Oxford was in obvious distress as their boat, already a dozen lengths or more behind the Cambridge eight, paused under the Hammersmith bridge. A few seconds later as the dark blue-tipped oars labored past the two mile mark, it was obvious that they were doomed to a disastrous drenching.

The coaches began calling to the crew to quit, a thing no crew has ever done in this race until its boat has sunk or crossed the finish line. So naturally, or perhaps because they did not hear the megaphoned voice of their master, the Oxonians kept pulling away laboriously for a quarter of a mile more before they gave up and pulled in toward the bank.

Cambridge by then was a quarter of a mile or so in front and, slackening their pace, they paddled on easily to the finish and found fairly smooth water for almost the whole of the last half of the race. Their time was of course moderate, 21 minutes, fifty seconds. Not having had to struggle much against water conditions, the Cambridge oarsmen were all fresh at the finish.

Cambridge Had Power.

From the start to the finish the light blues rowed beautifully and smoothly, putting more strength and pulling power into their stroke than the Oxford oarsmen. Oxford seemed to lack punch in finishing off each stroke, and so although they led for a few yards from the start, Cambridge took the lead when only a quarter of a mile was covered. The Cambridge cox guided his eight over to within a few yards of the stone embankment of the north side of the river and stayed close to it around the first bend.

Oxford had to accept not only rougher water and stronger unbroken wind, but also was compelled to take the Cambridge wash. Soon after Cambridge drew away she took a lead of three lengths at the end of the first mile, then four lengths and then in no time five, six and seven lengths. The light blues rowed with strength while the Oxonians, most of whom suffered from influenza and colds during recent weeks, rowed smoothly but weakly as soon as their shell began to ship water and their sad end became inevitable.

The race was a washout not only for Oxford but for the crowd of several thousand people who gathered to watch the crews. Fully half of them never even saw the Oxford boat, for the river bends quickly out of view from the point where Oxford gave up the struggle. When Cambridge passed along toward the finishing point and there was no Oxford shell anywhere in sight, the crowd instead of keeping up a continual roar as it usually does, sent up the yell: "Where's Oxford?"

"Sunk," came the reply, shouted from those oboard the launches trailing the Cambridge boat.

The crowd was so shocked at this information that hardly any one thought ofcheering Cambridge, and the light blue victory in the end was feebly acclaimed.

The swamping of the Oxford boat is not an unprecedented mishap in the history of the English University classic. In 1859 the Cambridge boat sank and in 1912 both boats went under. On that occasion the Oxford oarsmen righted their craft and finished alone, but the umpire decided it was "no race' and it was rowed two days later.

SCORES LOW IN NINE GAMES OF SOCCER LEAGUE

ONLY NINE GOALS

Newcastle United Tied With Birmingham—First Division Leaders Idle.

LONDON, March 30.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Due to the semi-finals of the English Cup, the Oxford-Cambridge boatrace and other attractions on Saturday, League football was relagated to a back seat and the fact was signalized by remarkably low scoring, particularly in the second division games. In nine matches, played by teams of that string, only nine goals were scored. The first division did better, being able to run up fifteen goals in seven games. Four scheuled fixtures were unplayed, due to the cup tournament, Huddersfield Town and Hotts County not meeting on account of the Cardiff-Blackburn game being on the latters' territory. West Bromich, who had been down to meet Sheffield United in the league, spent the afternoon in a "friendly" with the amateur Corinthians, with whom they drew 4-4.

The seven first string games left the league practically as it had formerly stood, save that by drawing with Birmingham, Newcastle United were able to bracket themselves in the aggregate with the present leaders, Huddersfield Town, the game was hot and in the first half Birmingham had most of the play, but no score came in this period. The United were the first to count, when Harris slipped through the defence, but Birmingham equalized a few minutes later, Crimgan heading in a nice shot.

London "Derby" Show.

London's football "derby" between West Ham and Tottenham Hotspurs ended in its usual draw—it rarely does otherwise. The Spurs were much the cleverer team and had most of the game. It was their weak finishing that was to blame for their not bringing out a decisive result. The Hammers were the first to score through Watson but Seed soon put the teams again on even terms. The teams went into the second period in a deadlock and the Hammers looked threatening but Tottenham soon regained their mastery. Notwithstanding many brilliant efforts, the Spurs could do everything but score.

Preston North End held Bury to a draw and this was probably the best feature of Saturday's league football, but the North End are now totally without hope, and they will probably go down to the second division along with Notts Forest.

Leeds United injected a ray of hope into the hearts of their supporters when they walked all over Liverpool and soundly trimmed the Lancastrians by four to one. Liverpool were the first to get ahead, but before the end of the first half Wainscoat and Armand put the United one up. In the second half Jennings and Harris helped themselves to one apiece.

Second Division.

The second division battle for league honors saw Leicester City once again leapfrog Derby County, regaining leadership by virtue of their higher goal average 82-29, as compared with 67-31. Leicester defeated Hull City by a solitary counter, while the best that Derby County could do with Stockport County was a scoreless draw.

This result also featured the game of the other league aspirants, Manchester United, with Blackpool on the United's own ground. To present appearances, the two teams that will move into the first division are Derby County and Leicester City, with Manchester United enjoying an outside chance.

The Chelsea-South Shields fixture was not played due to the Pensioners' ground being the venue of the semi-final game between Sheffield United and Southampton, while the cup tie also interfered with the fixture between Southampton and Bradford City.

At bottom end of the table, Stoke obtained temporary release from the basement by handing a two-to-one defeat to Portsmouth, while at the same time neither Barnsley nor Coventry City were able to improve.

Oxford Still Leading Crew Victories 40 to 36

The Cambridge crew's victory on Saturday was the thirty-sixth scored by a light Blue eight since the first race of the classic series was rowed in 1841. The race yesterday was the seventy-eighht meeting of the two universities on the water, and Oxford still has an advantage in the series with 40 victories. In 1871 the rival crews battled to a dead heat. The record for the course is 18 minutes and 29 seconds which was set by Oxford in 1911. The world war was responsible for the longest hiatus in the history of the series, no races being held from 1915 to 1919 inclusive.

THOMPSON WON FINAL.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 29.— Stanley Thompson, stalwart Canadian yesterday won the first leg of the Ponce de Leon golf trophy by decively defeating Kenneth Reed, of the Cearsdale Club, New York, in the final round of the tournament here. The score was nine and eight.

YOUNG CURLERS CLOSE SEASON

G. N. Gordon Presented His Trophy to Winners of Bonspiel.

OTHER PRIZES

The annual meeting of the Junior Curling Club took place Saturday afternoon in the Curling Club's rooms. This meeting draws to an end the second year in the history of the junior organization and this past season was a greater success than the former year.

The meeting consisted chiefly in the presenting of trophies and prizes to the victorious rinks in the Bonspiel and League games.

G. N. Gordon presented the Gordon Cup to Doug. Widdess' rink, including Bookhout, Jennings and Baker. In presenting his trophy Mr. Gordon gave the boys some sound advice. He told them that as they played in their games so they would play in the game of life, and he pointed that they were an example to the smaller boys who would copy them.

Mr. George H. Duncan presented the individual prizes to the runners up, Walter Rye's rink, made up of MacDonald, Coulthard and Marshall.

The Metheral trophy, a large and ornate cup, donated by James H. Metheral, an enthusiastic curler, was presented by R. F. Downey to the winner of the Bonspiel, Jack Amey's rink, made up of S. Widdess, Marshall and Merrill. Alex. Kay presented the individual prizes to Killaly's rink, the runners-up, consisting of Jennings, Coulthard and Jordan.

Bruce Fraser, on behalf of the club, presented Angus MacIntosh with a slight token of the club's esteem for him. The boys expressed their appreciation to the parent club for the use of the ice and privileges, and Alex. Kay was praised for his interest and aid.

Plans are being made for next year, although no officers were chosen.

ENGLAND WON RACE.

Cotterell, England, third, in 57 minutes and 38 seconds. Scotland was placed fourth and Belgium fifth.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

My experience with the average business-man golfer has been that whenever I rolled this strange bug over in his golf rut I found him invariably to be cluttered up with a sense of the golf swing that was minus — and much in need of my "straight line" for his hips.

This "straigh line" principle has been a wonder-worker for 90 per cent. of all the golfers I have been able to explain it for. Apparently the news of the "straight line" is getting abroad, so in subsequent articles this week I shall reveal all the secrets I have about the "straight line." Let me assure you before hand that the "straight line' is what puts punch into the clubhead and keeps the ball straight, but more than that, it gives you a correct sense of the swing as a whole. There are more golfers than you would think who have no adequate sense of the swing.

GIANT CAPTAIN SPRAINS ANKLE

Frisch Will Be Off New York Line-Up for Ten Days.

BEAT SENATORS

TAMPA, Fla., March 30.—While the Giants defeated the Senators in their so-called spring world series here Saturday afternoon by 5 to 3, whatever elation the New Yorkers might have developed over the triumph was dissipated by an accident which will keep Frankie Frisch out of the lie-up for perhaps ten days.

Frisch sprained his right ankle in the sixth innings in a wild slide for second base. The captain opened the inning with his third straight hit, a single to centre. John McGraw then ordered the sacrifice and Ross Young bunted. Bluege picked up the ball and hurled it to Peckinpaugh. As Frisch saw himself being forced out he tried to beat the play with a slide, but just as he hurled himself toward the base his right ankle turned under him.

Frisch's spikes caught in the red clay and he was fortunate not to have suffered a fractured ankle. Several of his team mates carried their captain off the field and he was taken to the clubhouse, where a physician was called. The injured ankle is the very one which has given Frisch so much trouble since he hurt it at San Antonio in 1921.

McGraw was greatly chagrined over the accident, but found some balm in the fact that Frisch would be back in the batting order before the opening of the championship season. Freddy Lindstrum took Frisch's place at second base and did his usual creditable job.

Johnson Not Impressive.

The game, which was won by the Giants in the ninth after the Washingtons had tied with three fluky hits in the eighth, was quite a gala occasion. For one thing, the setting of the opening game of the 1924 world series was reproduced on the field, with Arthur Nehf, the New York left-hander, opposing Walter Johnson, the Senators' veteran. Nehf went five innings, in which he gave five hits and two runs.

Johnson pitched only three rounds and did not look formidable. The Giants got to him for three hits after he had given two passes in the first innings and drove over three runs. Virgil Barnes finished for New York, while Vean Gregg, the forty-two year old left-hander, and Stanley Coveleskie, the veteran spitballer, split the last six innings for the Senators.

Among the 9,000 onlookers was Senor Don Juan de Riano, the Spanish Ambassador, who has been visiting in Florida for the last fortnight. The crowd was the biggest gathering which yet has seen a ball game in Florida. The Mayor of Tampa declared a half holiday and all stores and shops were closed after 3 o'clock.

Nehf pitched in spite of a painful and disfiguring accident which he suffered in Sarasota Friday. He was struck in the mouth with a ball batted by Jack Scott and was knocked cold for about five minutes. The southpaw's upper lip was cut all the way through. Nehf got a terrible shock at the base of the brain, and even his stomach was affected. This morning Nehf did not feel as if he would pitch, but his opposing Johnson again had been advertised the length and breadth of Florida, so he went into the box and did very well, indeed.

TERSE TIPS ON SPORT

Joe Wood, pitching for the Boston Red Sox in 1912, won 34 games lost five. His percentage of .872 still stands as the premier performance in the American league. He worked in 43 tilts that season.

In 1907 Bill Donovan won 25 games and lost only four while pitching for Detroit— a mark of .862 And in 1913 Walter Johnson, Washington, tusned in 36 victories to seven defeats for an average of .837.

These three performances stand as the best in the history of the league.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

PROSPERITY?

ST. PETERSBURG, March 28.—It is the history of baseball that there is no more destructive element in the game than prosperity.

It is a matter of record that championship clubs after several years of success, including fancy world series cuts, take too much for granted.

Some of the great teams that have won pennants for New York Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia have been adversely affected by continued prosperity.

There is no denying that winning of the pennant the third or fourth time hardly carries the thrill of the first triumph. That is why it is a difficult matter to keep the victor keyed up ot the task ahead.

Often the winning of only one pennant causes some of the athletes to materially change their mode of living, lose their correct perspective of the game.

When a team is overtaken by such an attitude, there is nothing like a reverse to get it back in its winning ways.

LAUDS TEAM

When I asked Manager Miller Huggins of the New York Yankees what he thought of his club, he smiled and replied:

"Try to name a better one." Not desiring to get into any arguments before the opening of the season. I refused to be interviewed, insisted on doing that very thing.

"I think the boys are ready to cut into another world series. I am pretty sure they missed the annual series receipts last fall. It buys a lot of groceries in the winter.

"I have a better club than last year. Incidently we are about due to get our share of the breaks which were decidedly against us last season.

"I look for a good race because the league is evenly balanced, but I really can't figure a club that dope to beat us."

You just can't get away from the Yankees when you start figuring one, two three clubs of the American League. It is a club that has no outstanding weakness.

YANKEES' SUBS

As I watched the Yankees in action and noted the strength of the substitutes. it struck me that the regular infield possibly could stand more reserve strength to keep it up to standard if any of the stars were injured.

While the Yankees are not glaringly weak in this respect yet never have I seen a spring in which managers paid so much attention to the reserve strength, the infield in particular, as this one.

I have often wondered if the sad experience of the Washington club inthe last world series, when Peckinpaugh was forced out because of injuries, hasn't been responsible for the change.

Incidently, when talking to the various big league managers, nearly every one dwelled at length on how well his club was fortified against the cripple bugaboo.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

NEW MARKS BY UGO FRIGERIO

Italian Walker Shattered Four Records in New York Race.

NEW YORK, March 29. — Ugo Frigerio, of Milan, Italy, European and Olympic walking champion, shattered four world's indoor walking records, established five others, and bettered the world's outdoor walking mark for the distance when he defeated Willie Plant in a special 10,000 meter race, the feature event on the Morningside A. C. program of games in the 22nd Regiment armory last night.

The little Italian won virtually without opposition, when Plant quit 11 laps from the finish when it was apparent that he could not make up the half lap by which he was trailing Frigerio.

Frigerio was timed for the 10,000 meters in 44.38, cliping one minute 12 4-5 seconds from his own record for the distance made February 17, 1925. Incidentally this time is 48 2-5 seconds better than the world's outdoor record made by G Rasmussen in Denmark, August 18, 1918.

Frigerio, however, will not be credited with the outdoor record as his race was purely an outdoor event.

4,000 metres, 17.39 4-5 (former mark 18:20 1-5.)

4 1-2 miles, 32.11 4-5 (establishes record.)

8,000 metres, 35.35 2-5 (establishes record.)

Five miles, 35.38 2-5 (former mark 37.04 4-5.)

5 1-2 miles, 39.29 2-5 (establishes record.)

9,000 metres, 40.10 4-5 (establishes record.)

Six miles, 43.09 4-5 (former record 44.25.)

10,000 metres, 44.38 (former record 45.50 4-5.)

STRIBLING WON BOUT ON COAST

Referee's Decision in 10-Round Match With Tommy Loughran

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30. — Young Stribling of Georgia won a referee's decision here on Saturday at the end of ten rounds of boxing over Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia. The Georgian forced the fighting throughout and apeared stronger than his opponent. He landed cleaner and oftener and forced Lough ran to protect himself by clinching.

The decision in Stribling's favor was well received.

The receipts totalled more than $40,000, the biggest from a money standpoint in the history of boxing in San Francisco.

Stribling was forced to take the sun corner of the ring in the open arena where the battle was fought.

Stribling's weight was announced at 173 pounds and Loughran's at 170.

Loughran forced Stribling to the ropes in the second round and landed a hard left to the neck. Stribling returned a left to the jaw, then forcing Loughran to retreat as the second round ended.

Stribling was booed for hitting in clinches in the third and then he landed two lefts to Loughran's head.

In the fourth Stribling landed a right in a pinch. Loughran returned a right-and-left to the body. Stribling landed a hard right to the body. There was much in-fighting in the fifth round. Stribling landed a right to the head. Loughran forced Stribling to the ropes and Stribling landed a left at the bell.

Stribling began the final round with a hard right to the jaw and afterwards the fighters wrestled in the centre of the ring Stribling forced Loughran into a corner where they exchanged blows.

Stribling landed a hard left to the jaw and Loughran returned the same kind of a punch. Stribling again connected with Loughran's jaw with Loughran holding on to the Georgian.

There was much clinching, and both tried for body blows. Stribling landed a left to the jaw as the tenth and final round ended.

CHURCH LEAGUE—Y.M.C.A.

George St. made their comeback in the Church League at the Y.M.C.A. by taking two games straight from St. Luke's in the play-off for the third series. This gives them the third series and the right to get in the play-offs with the other series winners, namely, Murray St., St. John's and All Saints'. Their comeback is all the more remarkable for having dropped three games straight to St. Luke's last Thursday. The high singles were Patterson's 236, Wasson's 225 and 188, S. Curtis, 203.

EVENTS IN LEGISLATURE AS VIEWED THROUGH THE PARTY SPECTACLES

THE GOVERNMENT SIDE.

(Supplied by Government Press Bureau.)

TORONTO, March 28.—With but ten working days left, if the Legislature is to close by Easter, there will be quite a batch of important business to be dealt with during the coming week. Adjournment by Good Friday is believed quite possible, however, with night sittings. It is hoped now that the sub-committee of nine appointed by the private bills committee may arrive at a solution of the Church Union controversy and amalgamate the "pro" and "anti" bills so that there need be no debate in the House. There is to be a "field day" on the angricultural enquiry committee's report, and several interesting, if somewhat "academic" resolutions remain on the order paper.

The Government's bill amending the Ontario Temperance Act went through second reading a-flying, in the small hours of Friday morning. W. E. Raney, K.C., Progressive Leader, in the course of a three-hour address, moved an amendment that the bill be referred to a select committee to determine if beer with 2.5 alcoholic content by volume is intoxicating. The division bells rang at 1.40 a.m., after a dozen members had participated in the debate, and Mr. Raney's amendment was lost on a vote of 74 to 20, four Liberals and the two Laborites present voting against it. A division being demanded on the main motion, for second reading, the vote was 70 to 24, as four Conservative members withheld support: Messrs. Acres, Belford, Patterson and Sweet.

Amendments to the bill will no doubt be proposed in committee of the whole. In fact, Karl Homuth, (Labor, South Waterloo), though he did not stay for the divisions, announced a batch of amendments which the Labor group proposed to introduce. Mr. Homuth took the curious course of attacking the bill as "a backward step" and then declaring that with amendments it would be made quite a workable Act. The proposed changes of the Labor group consist of restrictions in sale, the chief being the confining of distribution to standard hotels. The other Labor members, Peter Heenan, of Kenora, and J. F. Callan, Rainy River, voted for second reading of the bill, as did the four Liberals alluded to previously: Proulx, Tellier, Mageau and Pinard. In addition, A. Belanger (Liberal, Russell), states that had he been present he would have voted for the bill.

"Intolerance is as dangerous as intemperance," is the view of Earl Rowe, member for Simcoe South, and junior Conservative Whip, who voted against the Government on the O. T. A. issue in the debate on the Address, but on Thursday night announced support of the bill. He explained that his attitude on the former occasion had been in fulfilment of statements he made in the election campaign. "Now," he said, "the verdict of this House has been strongly in favor of changes in the Temperance Act, and the bill had sufficient endorsement to be considered on its temperance merits only. I have carefully considered the matter, and feel that in the interests of true temperance laws in this province, that I am heartily in accord with the bill, and will give it my full support."

In delivering the closing half of his budget speech, in the early part of the week, Hon. W. H. Price made extended reference to the Home Bank bond purchase and secret commissions of 1919. On Friday morning, at the initial meeting of the Public Accounts Committee, W. E. N. Sinclair moved to summon Peter Smith, former treasurer; Charles Matthews, ex-deputy, now serving imprisonment, and several former Home Bank directors, in connection with the Home Bank affair, which motion the committee laid over for a week. In view of this, Col. Price's remarks in the House may be quoted briefly:

"If we go over the evidence of Fleming, and everyone who appeared before the committee, I think we will conclude there is no evidence except suspicion. Now, Mr. Speaker, I don't know of any more evidence. Honorable members who sit opposite have talked as if the Government had evidence it would not bring forth. I say to you there is no evidence I know of. Mr. Clarkson has sworn he has no more evidence that he has investigated everything. I have no records in the Home Bank. The Government has no records at its disposal. There is nothing more that we have that we can bring before the committee. If a man cast suspicions upon what someone else does, let him bring forth the evidence."

THE LIBERAL SIDE.

(Submitted by Liberal Press Bureau.)

TORONTO, March 28.—Adoption of second reading, by the Ontario Legislature, of the four point four beer bill did not come in the early hours of a Friday morning before some interesting speeches from various members had been contributed to the subject. In this respect the relation of the Government bill to the Plebiscite of last October is causing much thinking on the part of many electors.

W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., of Oshawa, the Liberal Leader, raised this point during his address which had enhanced effectiveness because it was not needlessly acrimonious. What Mr. Sinclair said in effect was this: "The people last October declared they wanted the Ontario Temperance Act retained; the Attorney General says that in his opinion the act as it stands was doomed unless there was an 'easing up'." The Attorn y General, or the Government, proceeds to "ease it up." In doing that does he not depart from what the people last October said must be retained?

Mr. Sinclair maintained that the Attorney General, in his speech of a month previously had drawn a "pretty, black indictment" of the act. But did not the people vote for that act to be maintained? Was he not taking out of the hands of the people a law that admittedly was their own?

The Liberal Leader also emphasized that if members of the Government knew before the Plebiscite vote was taken that conditions were as they now say they are in respect to the Ontario Temperance Act they should have told the people of them at that time.

The value of sympathetic and constructive criticism by private members of proposed laws was shown in the Legislature during the debate on the second reading of the bill to impose a tax of three cents a gallon on gasoline. It was argued with some effectiveness by several Liberal members that the bill as presented to the House did not mean what it was intended to mean. Practical suggestions of re-wording were given and no doubt the Government will ponder these in order to make necessary alterations in Committee. It often is a difficult matter to draft a bill and one of the interesting phases of the Ontario House is the suggestion of alert Opposition members by which legislation is altered as to wording so as to make it more workable.

to describe the massiveness, the charm of "SCARAMOUCHE." Just remember this—"Scaramouche" won the $10,000.00 prize offered for the best picture made in 1924. "He was born with the gift of laughter and a sense that the world was mad." So they said of Andre-Louis Moreau, scion of the French nobility, who became Scaramouche, the clown, whose laughter mocked his enemies and whose madness inflamed the world.—Not in all the pages of fiction is there such a glowing dare-devil character as RAFAEL SABATINI'S creation of "Scaramouche," and not in the history of motion pictures has there been such a production as the photoplay from the Sabatini novel,

DANCING PAYS WAY THROUGH COLLEGE

Students Get Soft Jobs as Paid Partners at Convention Balls.

NEW YORK, March 30.—Students working their way through college used to wait on table or sell books. Styles are changing though, according to Francis W. Lawson, manager of the employment bureau of New York University, who says 35 young students recently earned a tidy sum by acting as dancing partners at a ball given by the Master Hair Dressers' Association.

Mr. Lawson says he is frequently called upon by convention committees in charge of social functions, who want young men of the collarad type, able to shake a wicked hoof, to dance with the fair but lonely visiting delegates from Winona. The student fortunate enough to be equipped with terpsichorean ability are thus able to land the sine cure, while their heavy footed fellow students are forced to take less aesthetic jobs on the outside. These jobs, according to Mr. Lawson, range from cathing rats to helping out in pawnshops.

BUY PARIS GOWNS AND DRESS SUITS

Villages Where They Were Never Worn Before, Prepare For Prince.

CAPETOWN, March 30 (United Press).—South Africa waits with uncontrolled eagerness the visit of the Prince of Wales.

Expensive Paris gowns are displayed in the most meagre shops. Tailors report the receipt of orders for men's evening dress from lonely Veldt villages which had hitherto never seen such attire. Capetown youths have exhausted supplies of "jazz sweaters" and "open back waistcoats," which Wales is supposed to wear.

In this city and at Johannesburg and Durban all hands have become painters and decorators and the streets and lawns are resplendent with a glittering cleanliness.

HOPE TO STOP THE SALE BY GROCERS

W. C. T. U. Expects This Clause Will Be Withdrawn From Amendment.

LONDON, Ont., March 30. — (Canadian Press.)— According to information in the hands of the W. C.T.U., in Ontario, the clause in the Ferguson beer bill, which permits the sale of beer by grocers, will be withdrawn from the bill. Mrs. Gordon Wright, Dominion President of the W.C.T.U. in Canada, says: "Yes, we do confidently expect that this clause allowing the sale of beer in greceries will be withdrawn from the bill."

Who Will Be Alderman To Replace W. Stocker?

Uncertainty still clouds the appointment of an alderman to succeed Alderman Walter Stocker on the City Council. Mr. Stocker retired automatically upon the acceptance by the Council of his tender for the market tolls.

The standing of the candidates was as follows:

Roland Denne, Joseph Crowe, J. W. Meyers, J. M. Greene, J. O. Fife, elected; W. J. Hancock, G. L. Hay, M. J. Maher, Robert Morrison, J. H. Spence, F. T. Tuggey, T. E. Sargent and A. W. Blade.

Precedent almost dictates, The Examiner is informed, that the new alderman be chosen from the defeated candidates at the last election.

The City Council must make an appointment immediately.

TOM MIX WILL SPRING SURPRISE ON FANS AS BOLD ENGLISH BANDIT

Star Who Has Won Fame As Cowboy King of Films to Offer Novelty.

WEARS SILKS AND LACES.

As "Dick Turpin" He Will Be Seen as Gallant Dandy Who Robs and Romances.

Of all the forthcoming movie events of the current season, none will arouse more interest than the announcement that Tom Mix, heretofore far-famed only as a Western star, will be seen at the Capitol theatre in the title role of "Dick Turpin," the romantic bandit of Merrie England in days of yore when fussy clothes, trimmed in fine laces, and hats with large plumes were the vogue for men. The date for the opening of this attraction has been set for next Thursday, and it is a foregone conclusion that Mix is going to be "inspected" by his many followers here with ultra-critical eyes, because it is next to impossible to imagine him attired in anything save the raiment of the modern American cowboy.

William Fox, who will present "Dick Turpin," has spared no expense to make this feature a screen classic de luxe, it is claimed, and it is heralded as the most ambitious production in which Mix ever appeared. Critics on all the metropolitan dppers have received it with unusual acclaim as one of the few films deserving of eternal life.

ADVICE TO WIVES FROM FILM STAR

Constance Talmadge Gives Hint to Husbands on Happy Homes.

"It's the women who keep the theatres going," declared Constance Talmadge, edging in a good word for her own sex.

"The wife who is fed up on household duties wants diversion. She may still be in love with her husband, but 'the same old thing' at home gets tiresome once in a while and she longs for some of the glory of romance after dinner.

"Husbands, I would advise you to get your wives out of the kitchen once in a while. A steady round of meal-getting and household duties palls on any woman. Take her out to dinner occasionally and to a theatre at least once a week. You will be surprised how the change will perk Friend Wife up and banish her irritability."

Constance's latest First National comedy, "Her Night of Romance," is designed particularly for the entertainment of tired housewives. Ronald Colman, the English star, is her leading man.

The picture was produced by Joseph M. Schenck under direction of Sidney Franklin, and will be shown at the Capitol Theatre to-night.

AT THE ROYAL

"SCARAMOUCHE" AT ROYAL WINS THE $10,000 PRIZE OFFERED FOR BEST PICTURE PRODUCED IN 1924.

Everywhere "Scaramouche" has been shown it receives an unprecedented ovation. It is seldom that patrons can see a production of this kind at prices the Royal is charging. Matinees 10 and 15c; evenings 20 and 25c.

Toronto Daily Star: "Scaramouche is a wonder firm."

Daily Mail and Empire: "Ingram now stands head and shoulders above his rivals as the best of the American movie producers....Scaramouche is easily the best."

AT THE GRAND

THE ORIGINALS IN "STEPPING OUT."

The smashing new revue of the Originals in "Stepping Out," with many of the Original Dumbell favorites and several new soldier artists of prominence, will open a two-day engagement at the Grand Theatre on Good Friday matinee, April 10th. So successful has this particular production been that it has evoked very favorable comment even from American critics, although so far it has been presented in this country only. Several critics from United States newspapers who witnessed performances of "Stepping Out," both in the East and West, were not slow in adding their mead of praise to the many Canadian critics.

This is not to be wondered at, for in "Stepping Out," Canada's soldier entertainers have struck an entirely novel note in the revue line. Of course "The Boys" would have to have something about the great war in any production of theirs, but we are not going to tell you what it is at this stage. We may say, however, that it will prove not only a surprise but a decided attraction in the number called "Heroes," which has both a prologue and an epilogue.

So many old favorites of past productions will be seen here with the company that it is hardly necessary to mention one in particular. But the glorious Gene Pearson, who last year created such a distinct impression with this company by "her" magnificent singing, that we would like it known that "she" has a number of brilliant song hits and wonderful gowns. Leonard Young has turned out something entirely different this year. He is again appearing as the "Duchess," while Bob Anderson, Alan Murray, Jerry Brayford, Bertram Langley and Percy Campbell are all old favorites, and there are many new ones too, including Lionel Broadway, Norman Blume, Thomas Dunn, Gus McKinnon, Jimmy McDonald and Fred Gordon.

"ALONG CAME RUTH," NEWEST VIOLA DANA PICTURE, HERE TO-DAY.

Metro Star Said to Have Great Comedy Role in Rural Story.

Beautiful, broke, but brave—that's the position the heroine of a picture is sure to find most appealing to her audiences — and that's exactly the way Viola Dana starts off in her latest Metro picture, "Along Came Ruth," which opens at the Regent Theatre to-night.

Miss Dana needs only a clever story punctuated with amusing situations and she's off—to the delight of everyone who sees her. "Along Came Ruth" is just that kind of a story and the tiny Metro star proves she's as attractive when she's pathetic as when she's funny, and vice versa. Vivacious Miss Dana has one of her best roles in that of the girl who woke up the sleepiest town in Maine and her engaging personality makes it easy to understand why the whole town worshipped her.

Tully Marshall, who made such tremendous hits in "The Covered Wagon" and "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," plays the part of the proprietor of the furniture emporium who grows to hate Ruth the more she does for him. It is said to be the most hilarious role of his career.

Walter Hiers, who was starred in "Mr. Billings Spends His Dime" and "Fair Week," appears in "Along Came Ruth" as a rural politician. Raymond McKee, who is best remembered for his work in "Down to the Sea in Ships," is the young country lawyer whose romance with Ruth is the backbone of the plot.

The story centres around Ruth Ambrose, a pretty girl who has failed as a commercial artist, but is bound to succeed at something. Broke, but with a defiant tilt to her chin, she arrives in Action, Me. She "hires out" for her board to the owner of a down-at-the-heel furniture store for a week. From that moment on, Action begins to live up to its name and fairly sings with her activities. She converts the dusty old store into a modern, thriving establishment. She pays off her employer's debts by the successful sale she inaugurates.

Every unmarried man in town falls in love with her, but she picks out the struggling lawyer-son of her employer. Then, just to show the richest man in Action that she does care for him, even though she won't marry him, she has him elected Mayor.

Winifred Dunn adapted this Henry W. Savage stage production written by Holman Day. Eddie Cline directed it and it was photographed by John Arnold.

Grenfell Labrador Mission.

I am glad to have an opportunity to say a word in behalf of the Grenfell Mission. The work which has engaged the interest of this mission is very simliar to that in which the Rev. W. G. Walton, of reindeer fame, has been engaged for many years, on the eastern shores of Hudson's Bay. It is fortunate for the native of the Labrador and North Newfoundland coasts that such a man as Dr. Grenfell has been called to look after their spiritual and material interests.

The needs and the sufferings of the natives in that region, as well as inland to James Bay, are such that they only need to be known to appeal to all who care for human well-being. Dr. Grenfell's work has been carried on along lines so wise and so effective as to make known the conditions and to enlist the sympathy and co-operation of many who belong to all denominations, and of some who do not support such work through any particular church. The result has been untold blessings to the needy and the suffering in this most isolated part of our country.

Citizens of Peterborough are helping a good cause when they assist the Grenfell Mission. Personally, I do not believe that gifts to mission work in one direction reduces our gifts in another, but that the more one gives the more the blessing of helpfulness is appreciated, and the unseen riches which "moth and rust do not corrupt."—R. C. Blagrave, D.D.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. White, M.A., a former pastor of St. Luke's Anglican church in this city. Mr. and Mrs. Lowe wil reside in Toronto.

OBITUARY.

AGNES ANN BELL.

The Examiner has received a copy of the San Francisco Chronicle, giving an account of the death, in Alameda, on March 14th, of Agnes Ann Bell, beloved wife of the late Frederick E. Bell, loving mother of Mrs. F. Satchell Clark, Mrs. James J. Donohue, Mrs. E. R. Simonson, Arthur R. Bell and Clarence W. Bell. The late Mrs. Bell was a native of Colborne, Ontario, and was aged 78 years and one day.

The Bell family were residents of Peterboro for many years, and are well-known in the city and district. Mrs. Bell's husband, the late Frederick Edward Bell, was born in Peterboro in 1847, the son of William Bell and Tryphena Spilsbury. In 1874, he married Agnes Ann Godard, of Grafton. Mr. and Mrs. Bell lived in Peterboro until their removal to California, in 1907. The former died in San Anselmo, California, in 1918.

Their five children were all born and brought up in Peterboro. Arthur, who entered the Canadian Bank of Commerce, was in various branches, and is now in the trust department of the Crocker National Bank, San Francisco, is married and has one son. Clarence entered the old Ontario Bank, and is now assistant vice-president of the Bank of Italy, San Francisco. He is married and has two sons. Josephine married Fred Satchell Clark, who served through the World War in the Engineer corps, and died in H.M. service on the Gold Coast, Africa. Mrs. Clark, who has four sons, lives in Vancouver, B.C. Florence married James Donohue and lives in Piedmont, California. She has one son. Grace married Randolph Simonson, and lives in Alameda, California.

MRS. ISABELLE COX, VANCOUVER

After several weeks' illness, Isabella, beloved wife of the late William Cox, passed peacefully to rest, at her residence, 1836 Vine St., on March 17th.

Mrs. Cox, who had reached her eighty-fourth year, was a native of Lakefield, Ontario ,and lived there until five years ago when she came to this city to be with her family.

Beloved by all who knew her, she leaves many friends to mourn her loss. She is survived by four daughters: Mrs. John Budge, Grand Forks, N.D., Mrs. F. A. Young, Mrs. George Richards and Miss Lily Cox all of this city, and two sons, William J. Cox, Moose Jaw, Sask., and Dr. Elwood Cox, Vancouver, all of whom were with her when she passed away.

The funeral services conducted by the Rev. J. G. Brown, formerly of Lakefield, were held in the Center and Hanna Chapel and the body was taken to Lakefield, Ontario, for interment in the family plot.

Many beautiful floral tributes showed the esteem in which the late Mrs. Cox was held.

Society

Mrs. Wm. Galbraith has returned to the city, having spent the winter in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Burnham, accompanied by Mr. andMrs. Seals, motored from their homes in Deseronto Sunday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lowe.

The many friends of Mr. Edward Kemp, of Edmonton, an old Peterboro boy, will regret to hear that he sustained a severe stroke on March 26.

Invitations are out for the dance to be held on Easter Monday, April 13, at the Conservatory, under the auspices of the Teachers' Association of Conservatory of Music.

DISCUSS NOVA SCOTIA STRIKE

Premier Armstrong Confers With President of British Empire Steel.

NO ANNOUNCEMENT.

HALIFAX, March 30.— (Canadian Press.)—President R. M. Wolvin, of the British Empire Steel Corporation, who has been in Nova Scotia several days and arrived here this morning from Sydney, was in conference with Premier E. H. Armstrong until well past the noon hour whether or not there were advanced any new proposals aiming to settlement of the dispute between the Corporation and the United Mine Workers, which has brought complete idleness in the Nova Scotia coal fields controlled by the Corporation, could not be ascertained at noon. Premier Armstrong said he could give out no information.

FARMERS START THE YEAR WELL

Prices Better on Cheese and Hogs — Signs of Prosperity.

NEW EQUIPMENT.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 29.— The farmers are not only the most prosperous class in Ontario to-day, if the prices which they are receiving for their produce is any criterion, but men who are in a position to know declare that the agricultural outlook was never brighter. One year ago the price of cheese on the opening of the season was under 16 cents a pound, and the average price for the season was 16 cents. To-day the price is 22 1-2 cents, and J. A. Irwin, of town, who is one of the Government graders, assured The Examiner Saturday night that this price would prevail when local dairymen put their first make on the market. There is no likelihood of a drop. The price is practically stable as it depends upon conditions in the European market, and will not be affected when the Canadian factories begin to ship their produce. The chances are that the present price will go still higher. The dairy farmers in this district, in which so much depends on the cheese industry, are elated over the outlook.

Other Prices.

"Pigs is pigs," now as always, the local farmers one best bet outside of the dairy business. Last week hogs shipped from here brought $13.50, an advance of nearly one dollar a hundred over the figure of a week ago. Before two weeks it is predicted that the price will go to $16. The inevitable result has followed, dealers in Campbellford have raised the price of bacon and other cuts of pork.

The price of wheat quoted at $1.25 a short time last week, is again up to $1.40, the figure that has held for some time. There have been no changes in the price of other grain which the farmers have for sale. Barley and buckheat bring 80 cents and oats are steady at 60.

The farmers are receiving from the local merchants 35 cents for butter and from 28 to 30 cents for their eggs. Creamery butter brings 40 cents.

Sign of Prosperity.

At the Liberal meeting at Warkworth last week, Hon. Duncan Marshall, one of the speakers, cited as an evidence of the prosperity of farmers, the fact that a Peterborough harness fatcory had on hand sufficient orders to keep it busy until May 1 even if it ran two shifts. In late years the farmers were obliged to fix their harness with hay wire, lacking the money to secure new outfits.

A Campbellford harness maker has orders for 25 setts of double harness from farmers. Repair work has fallen off now that those needing harness are financially able to invest in new equipment.

FABLES ON HEALTH.

In his third food lesson Mr. Mann of Anytown picked up some new information on nutrition.

Recent years have seen science going deeper and deeper into the subject of well-balanced diet is meant a selection of foods that will furnish the materials needed for growth and also for keeping the body in normal condition. There must be sufficient water for the body liquids, and inorganic salts to help along; the right amounts of proteins, fats, etc., to keep a well-balanced body.

Now at both poles of society m-- nutrition may result from the wrong sort of feeding. Where economic conditions are such that prices limit the choice of food articles, reactions are likely to be found, particularly among children. The same is true among the rich, who apply bad and costly mixtures to their diets and upset the proper functionings.

Through charitable and clinical agencies the poor have gradually been benefited as years go on and milk, the great necessity of childhood, has been supplied in proper quantities together with other basic foods.

Psobably the greatest amount of "starvation" is to be found among the well-to-do who abuse their eating privilege and pay for it with every sort of intestinal ill.

A good newspaper contains plenty of two kinds of news: one variety tells about the day's happenings to people near and far; the other deals with news about things to wear, eat and enjoy. Read the advertisements.

Latest Comment on Grain and Industrial Markets.

Closing Quotations on Principal Active Stocks.

CHICAGO.

Liquidation in grain and provisions has been thorough and the markets are in a position to respond to new buying. There has been a fair-sized short interest created. The cash situation in wheat is mixed with indications of a better demand from millers and exporters, with an ample supply of Spring wheat unsold in the northwest, and with no surplus of hard Winter in Chicago and most of the southwest. The peak of the supplies on ocean passage has been passed and Europe is getting large quantities but wants more.

It is the impression of corn traders that the market has been well sold out, and that a liberal short interest has been created. Trade sentiment is mixed. Stocks of oats are large and liquidation is expected. Indications for a larger acreage than the estimated increase in the invisible is around four million bushels of wheat.

GLEANERS CLASS.

Park Street Church Sunday School Class Entertained by Mrs. McLeod.

The Gleaners' Class, of the Park street Sunday school, spent a very enjoyable evening at the home of their teacher, Mrs. N. R. McLeod, on Thursday, March 26th. The evening was spent in games and contests, but the most interesting item of the evening was the lunch, which was served by the Social committee in "Mystic" style, which created quite a bit of curiosity and amusement.

The Two Sides.

(By Jeanette)

Johnny Brown was restless. His teacher sent a sealed note to his mother at noon-time, saying : "Johnny has not been a good boy today. He will not study his lessons."

Mrs. Brown, a careful mother, looked at Johnny's tongue and felt his pulse. He seemed to be quite all right, but she gave him a dose of castor oil and sent him to bed. His conduct in school, however, did not improve. The teacher said he seemed sleepy and inattentive and disinclined to study his lessons. Mrs. Brown, in conversation with other mothers at the Ladies' Aid meeting, put the blame on daylight saving. "The children get up an hour earlier and then they can't get proper rest at nights."

* * *

John Brown, senior, stretched himself and looked up at the clock. In another ten minutes, the bank would be closed and he would be on his way to the golf links. It might be only two o'clock in the afternoon by Old Sol, but the clock said three, and he worked by the clock. Just a few more figures to add up and he would be free. "Gee," he remarked to the man at the next desk, "this daylight saving proposition is a wonderful thing. I don't mind the extra hour in the morning when I can have sixty minutes more of daylight on the green."

* * *

Mrs. Biddy was worried, and she was losing flesh. Far from being the energetic hen that she once had been, she was but a remnant of her former robust self. Any buyer seeing Mrs. Biddy on the market place would be liable to pass by her thin carcase with scorn. And there wasn't an idea in her small head that could give her the cue to her dilemma. Everything seemed to be upset. Something had gone wrong with the sun. He was hurrying things up and the result wasn't good for Mrs. Biddy's nerves. All the humans about the place were stirring earlier than usual. The man who brought Mrs. Biddy's breakfast arrived long before she had both eyes open, and he came to lock her up in the evening just when she was enjoying the quiet of a twilight barnyard. "They expect production, but how am I going to lay good eggs if this sort of thing keeps up," grumbled Mrs. Biddy to her neighbor, Mrs. Cackle. "My nerves are very bad today."

* * *

Mr. Chanticleer was happy. He strutted about the barnyard in a more lordly manner than usual. He was having the time of his life. He was getting in a lot more time crowing than he ever had before. The sun seemed to be on the job earlier than usual these days. At least the mornings seemed longer. Before breakfast he could stand for long minutes at a time, demonstrating the full value of his vocal organs. It was true that bedtime seemed to come earlier than heretofore, but that gave him more time to practice up for the morning burst of song. Mr. Chanticleer was happy.

* * *

Sadie Jones' fingers flew. If she speeded up a little she would get all her work done by closing time. The girl at the next machine was working hard too. They were both going down the river that afternoon, and, since daylight saving was adopted, both counted on an extra hour of fun in the evening. Getting to the factory an hour eralier did not matter at all, if one could have another hour of merrymaking in the cool of the day.

* * *

Mrs. Joshua Spriggs rattled the stovelids savagely. It had always seemed hard enough to get up at five o'clock at any time, but when it came to putting the clock on so that a woman really rose up out of her bed at four in the morning, well, that was drawing things pretty fine. If she had known what farm life meant when Joshua popped the question, she would never have forsaken the little red school house and the boys and girls who learned their "A, B, C's" from her lips. Of course Joshua couldn't help it. He had to get the milk out in time for the creamery, and the customers who demanded quick service, but he was complaining of indigestion these days. A stomach that had been used to regular feeding by the sun didn't seem to take to a four o'clock breakfast, an eleven o'clock dinner, a five o'clock supper, and a snack before they went to bed, at nine o'clock, if one went by the sun. Just when both of them were getting rested, after the hot and tiring day, the clock, pointing an accusing finger at the "ten" sign, would send them to toss restlessly for an hour or so, and to rise up with the feeling of "the morning after the night before." Mrs. Joshua yawned widely as she stirred the batter for the morning cakes.

BLAMES MAKE-UP

Rev. A. Wellesly Orr, vicar of St. Paul's Church, Kingston, England, says women are so bent on makeup that the average husband is always afraid of being arrested as a bigamist. One day his wife may be a ravishing brunet, he says, and the next day she will blossom forth in a blazing red coiffure.

HON. CHAS. STEWART DEFENDS BUDGET

OTTAWA, March 30 (Canadian Press).—The debate on the Budget was resumed in the House of Commons Monday afternoon by Hon. H. H. Stevens (Conservative, Vancouver Centre). Mr. Stevens agreed with the Progressive leader, that the financial statement did not reflect exactly and faithfully, the conditions of the country, nor its financial standing. Referring to the Budget, Mr. Stevens said that any accountant, no matter how expert, would be convinced "of the hopeless confusion and baffling inaccuracies" of the Budget statement. The Budget was never intended to be clear.

The Acting Finance Minister had sought to convey a series of impressions on the country with his Budget. First that the accounts had been verified by two eminent accountants; second, that there was a revenue surplus of $24,000,000; third, that taxation had been reduced by $52,000,000 and that there had been a favorable trade balance. Respecting the railways, there was "an ominous silence, and an air of mystery," said Mr. Stevens.

The certificate from the chartered accountants was "absolutely meaningless and useless," said Mr. Stevens.

"Does the Budget reveal to the country a fair estimate of its obligations?" asked Mr. Stevens. It did not; in the first place, it gave no idea of our railway committments. Furthermore, Mr. Robb had computed the interest, $4,000,000, on some past due debt and declared this to be "available to be applied on account of loans to our railways."

Doubtful Accounts.

"Here is a business man going behind each year, unable to pay his fixed charges. Instead of facing the problem honestly, and reducing his expenditure to a minimum, he lightheartedly turns over his books, digs up some doubtful and stagnant accounts, figures out the interest, enters it in his books as an earning, and declares he has met his fixed charges. How would you describe such a person? Would you not brand him as a cunning, unscrupulous rogue? Yet, that is precisely what this government has done."

The net debt on March 31, 1924, was $2,417,780,000, an increase of $13,700,000. On March 31, 1922, the net debt was $2,422,000,000; and an increase had occurred in three years of $9,480,000.

"This wholly disregards railway bond guarantees," commented Mr. Stevens, "which, as Mr. Fielding said in 1922, are part of the debt. Mr. Fielding's statement was 'As a matter of fact, the government today are both makers and endorsers of those securities, so that possibly now they are government loans.' This government does not disclose that liability."

Budget Surpluses.

Budget surpluses, stated Mr. Stevens, had been announced by the present Government as follows; May 23, 1922, $33,125,000; May 11, 1923, $61,839,000; April 10, 1924, $67,750,000, and on March 24, 1925, $24,300,000. The total for these sums as excess over ordinary expenditure, was $187,014,000.

The Imperial Government had paid the sum of $122,682,000 in the way of a war debt. This last mentioned sum and the budget surpluses for the four years mentioned, made a total of $309,696,000, which should have been available to apply on Canada's public debt. Our net debt should, therefore, show $2,112,304,000 instead of $2,422,000,000. Our railways showed, by way of partial return only for three years, the following figures:

Deficit $78,422,000; capital interest $93,611,000; refunding $43,752,000, making a total of $215,785,000. This made no allowance for interest on cash loans made by the Government.

The public accounts showed direct loans ot Gvernment railways to March 31, 1924, of $607,700,000, with indirect guarantee of $694,500,000. "These guarantees are as much a national obligation, as is a Victory bond," stated Mr. Stevens, "but it is not shown in the Budget report of our debt at all."

Had taxation been reduced? An announcement had been made in a Liberal publication suggesting that the people had been saved $52,000,000. "Was ever a more cruel, and heartless hoax perpetrated on an innocent tax-burdened people than this false announcement that taxes had been reduced by $52,000,000."

Decline in Purchases.

Mr. Stevens said that the dehrease in revenue from sales tax and stamp tax in the eleven months of the present fiscal year ending February 28 last, was $37,571,400. This meant a falling off in purchases in Canada of $700,000,000. Such a condition was serious. The Canadian income tax was, he declared, a serious handicap to the business man in this country who was called upon to compete with the business man of the United States. Comparing two men, one in Vancouver and the other in Seattle, each receiving an income of $5,000 per annum, Mr. Stevens said that the former was called upon to pay $126, Dominion, income tax, and $95 provincial tax, or $221, while the latter man was taxed but $50. We could hardly expect Canadians to go on prospering when they were handicapped with a tax like that. The falling off in the sales tax should be a warning that business was decreasing.

"Why are the income tax collection $2,000,000 greater this year than last?" interjected Robert Forke, Progressive leader.

Mr. Stevens replied that the increase was due to "the onerous pressure" applied by the Government within the last six months to collect income tax. Such action, he said, usually preceded the holding of an election, because the government was anxious to make as good a showing as possible.

"Do you think that by putting the screws on a man to make him pay his income tax, you gain a supporter for the government?" asked Hon. George P. Graham, Minister of Railways.

"I do not, and I may say that a wave of indignation is sweeping over the country which will reflect on the Government," said Mr. Stevens.

Conservative Method.

In answer to a question as to what the former government had done toward collecting income tax, Mr. Stevens said that the Conservative Government had tried to use reason in pressing for payment. As a result, they had been charged during the 1921 election campaign with permitting one company to evade income tax payment. When the present government came into power it had waited for two years before collecting the amount which it complained the preceding government had failed to collect.

Mr. Stevens charged that the government had not brought down the Australian treaty because it feared that tariff increases provided in it would meet with the opposition of the Progressives. "The withdrawal of the amendment to the dumping clause is a bait to tempt them now," he said, referring also to the Progressive party. He then reviewed trade and commerce, claiming that our economic relations with the United States and Great Britain were far from being as satisfactory as the Government claimed. Canada was called upon to pay $150,000,000 every year on United States' investments in this country. In addition to this we owed the United States $159,000,000 on trade, which made a total of $309,0,000 under the present policy, the mortgage hold of the United States over Canada was increasing.

Wasting Heritage.

The time would come when the point of foreclosure would be reached, and he would be a traitor to his country if the drift towards foreclousure was allowed to go on without his offering a warning. The acting Minister of Finance had referred to our "great heritage." That heritage was being dissipated. Could Canada expect to go on squandering her heritage at the rate of $300,000,000 per year and never reach the day of reckoning. Foreclosures in some form were as sure as death.

The Acting Minister had withdrawn his dumping clause amendment. It had been offered as a sop to certain interests, but apparently the opposition of the Progressives had been found too strenuous.

Regarding the export of power, Mr. Stevens found the resolution

New Disease Attacks Short Haired Misses

BOSTON, Mass., March 31 (United News). — The harsh spring winds which frolic about the necks of short haired persons have caused Dr. Andreas F. Christian, prominent Back Bay physician, to issue a warning concerning a new female ill which he names "flapperalgia."

Wear scarfs or something around your neck if you don't want your head to feel twice as big as a balloon tire, he advises. The chilling of the nerve cells of the nape of the neck, through lack of protection afforded by long hair, is blamed for the brain racking flapperalgia.

GIRL GRANTED SANITY TRIAL

Dorothy Ellingson, Slayer of Mother, May be Committed to an Asylum.

CALL NEW JURY.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 31. — (Canadian Press).—Sixteen-year-old Dorothy Ellingson, the devotee of jazz, who said she killed her mother rather than stay home from parties, will be the subject of a sanity trial by a jury, it was decided Monday afternoon by Judge Harold Louderback. Meanwhile the murder trial will be postponed.

The court granted a motion of the defence to halt the murder case and proceed with a mental examination. Should the jury find the girl sane, the murder trial will proceed. If a verdict of insanity is returned, she will be committed to an asylum and the charge of crime delayed indefinitely.

The State refused to stipulate with the defence that the present jury impanelled to try the girl for murder hear the insanity issue, and Judge Louderback ordered that a new jury be selected to-day.

The girl sat stolidly while her mental condition was being discussed. At the conclusion of the hearing she staggered out. As she reached the door, she fell and was carried out.

SLAYING 3,500 IS CHARGED TO UNITED STATES

Senator Henry Lemery, in French Parliament, Makes Shocking Indictment.

BOMBED WOMEN.

Says Servitude Has Been Imposed Upon Haytians and Island Annexed.

PARIS, March 31. — (Canadian Press).—The massacre of 3,500 Haytians is one of the charges brought against the United States by former Minister Henry Lemery, now Senator representing the the West Indian colony of Martinique, in the French Parliament. Since the American occupation, he declares, "the Haytians have endured a period of great suffering," and the United States has imposed by force of arms "a political, economic and financial treaty which is nothing but a treaty of annexation of the island."

Lemery asserts: "Liberty of speech and press have been reduced to the simplest expressions," and American officials—paid four times as much as natives—are doing all they can to eradicate the French language in schools, and implant Anglo-Saxon culture. "One day 340 peasants were massacred for daring to protest against the medieval servitude which the United States has re-established," he declared. "Recently Americans stopped a local riot by means of bombs dropped from airplanes, men, women, and children—none were spared."

Harvey Street Passes; Elcome Crescent Comes

On the application of Joseph Wearing, City Solicitor, an order was made today by His Honor Judge Huycke, changing the name of Harvey Street, between Antrim and Smith Street, to Elcome Crescent. The necessity for the change in name is caused by the break in Harvey Street made by the river, which led to a good deal of confusion, and the new name has been given in honor of the late Edwin Elcome, taxidermist, who was for many years a resident of the north section of Harvey Street, and a highly respected citizen of Peterborough.

ROBBERS WOUND POLICEMEN AND MAKE GET-AWAY

Daring Hotel Robbery Succeeded in New York This Morning.

RIFLED SAFE.

Police Attempted to Stop Speeding Car Carrying $5,000 Loot.

NEW YORK, March 31. — Some policemen were wounded in a pistol battle with four robbers this morning, following a daring hold up in the Hotel Aberdeen, just off Fifth Avenue, from which the robbers escaped with cash and jewelry totalling several thousand dollars in value. The police described the hotel robbery as one of the most daring in many months. One of the men who assisted in the robbery had registered at the hotel three days ago. This morning he returned to the hotel with another man and asked the night clerk to remove from the safe a package which he had deposited when he registered.

While the clerk was opening the safe the two men drew revolvers. Two other robbers, with their pistols drawn, then entered the lobby. Hurriedly rifling the safe, the robbers escaped.

The pistol battle between the four gunmen and two policemen began when a policeman attempted to stop the gunmen's speeding automobile.

REAL STAMPEDE TORONTO LAWNS

Horses Startled by Escaping Steam, Over-Ran Queen City To-day.

TORONTO, March 31 (Canadian Press).—Startled by escaping steam and the ringing of the bell of a shunting engine, thirty-four horses stampeded early this morning and escaped from their corral in the downtown railway yards. For nearly three hours the animals led posses of police and others a merry chase. Eventually all the horses were recaptured but not before considerable damage had been done to lawns on private properties and in public parks. A number wandered several miles from the yards before they could be prevailed upon to "come quietly."

The horses were consigned to a local firm from Sioux Lookout.

OTTAWA Mar. 31—The cost of W. T. R. Preston's work for the Government since April, 1922, was the subject of further questions in the House of Commons Monday. On Thursday Hon. R. J. Manion was informed that Mr. Preston had received a total of $5,555 for his services on three conciliation boards and on the lake freights and ocean freights inquiries. Yesterday it was stated in answer to another question that his allowance for expenses in the same period was $7,249.

CANADA SHOULD AVOID THE NEXT WAR IN EUROPE

Capt. J. T. Shaw, M.P., Tells Montreal Canadian Club of Ferment.

HATRED AND ENVY

Believes War Will Flare Up Again—More Soldiers Than Ever in Arms.

MONTREAL, March 31.—(Canadian Press).—A gloomy picture of conditions in Europe was drawn by Capt. J. T. Shaw, Independent member of Parliament for Calgary West, Monday, in an address to the Canadian Club on "Canada and the New Map of Europe." Capt. Shaw, who served for three years with the Canadian corps in France, had evidently made a detailed study of European conditions, and the disturbed national relations that had been caused by the peace treaties. His main argument was that there is bound to be further war in Europe before things settle down, and that it would be a good plan for Canada to stay out of it.

Using a map, showing the boundaries of the various European countries, first as they were before the war, and then as they are carved up by the peace treaties, Capt. Shaw argued that all the countries of Europe were seething with discord at the manner in which they had been compelled to alter their boundaries, and were preparing to strengthen up for future wars. The result, he said, was that to-day, even with Germany and Austria practically disarmed, there were a million more soldiers in Europe than before 1914, with 3,800,000 troops under arms.

Russia to Recover.

Russia, he declared, would undoubtedly rise again, although the slow-moving Slavs would probably be content to abide their time. Nor would Germany die, or in the long run tolerate the manner in which she had been deprived of her richest territories. Austria also, so divided as to become a mere shadow of her former self, would eventually move to recover the territories she had lost, while Roumania, Bulgaria, Serbia, Poland and various others of the new countries created since the war were all discontented.

"We have to-day in Europe," he said, "people's sundered by racial hatred, envy, discord, without consideration of the relations which should exist between themselves and their neighboring nations economically and socially, with this tremendous burden of militarism. The whole atmosphere of Europe has been poisoned by the so-called treaties of peace, which did not heal the wounds of the war, but had exactly the opposite effect."

As to Canada's part in all this, Capt. Shaw said wee were in the unfortunate position of having become signatories to everyone of these treatie, backed by the imprimatur of Parliaments. Thus Canada had ratified the Turco - Serbian Treaty of 1922, which had not been ratified by a single other nation, and which within three months had been thrown into the waste paper basket.

Rejected Protocol.

European nations were crying out for security, and had sent to Canada a treaty of mutual assistance, which would bind Canada to guarantee the present European boundaries, but which the Canadian Government had very properly refused to sign. Then came the Geneva protocol, which would have further involved Canada.

"Do you think it would be wise for Canada to join in such an enterprise?" The answer was an emphatic chorus of "No" from the gathering.

Twenty-five Canadians Executed On War Service

LONDON, March 31. — Twenty-five members of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces were executed during the war for military offences, Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, Secretary for War, stated in reply to a question in the House of Commons this afternoon. Five New Zealand soldiers were executed, but none of the Australians.

KILL GIRL BABY IF FOOD SCARCE SAYS EXPLORER

Knud Ramussen Will Report to Canadian Government on Eskimos.

BOYS PRESERVED.

If Girl Baby is Pledged in Marriage, Then Life is Spared.

NEW YORK, March 31.—(Canadian Press).—Knud Ramussen, Arctic explorer and student of Eskimo customs, arrived in New York to-day on the steamship Aurania, on his way to Ottawa, where he will report to the Canadian Government on the killing by Eskimos of girl babies in the Upper Hudson Bay country.

He said the custom originated in the difficulty of securing food for large families.

"If there is not provender enough, they kill the babies immediately after birth by smothering them," said Mr. Rasmussen. "If a girl baby, prior to birth, is pledged in marriage, the mother will preserve it. If not, the infant is killed. Boy babies have a greater value and are seldom, if ever, killed.

BOLSHEVISTS READY FOR BIG OFFENSIVE

PARIS, March 31 (Canadian Press).—Preparations for a vast Bolshevist military offensive in Macedonia are being made by Moscow Soviets, according to reports received here. It is revealed there was a council of war of the Third Internationale at Vienna ten days ago at which a plan of campaign was drawn up and its execution entrusted principally to Theodore Panitza and Koloroff, one of the leaders of the Communist insurrection in Bulgaria in 1923, now member of the Communist International executive at Moscow.

Other Soviet chiefs have been ordered to Athens where Moscow has a legation of forty-eight persons.

Panitza is said to be provided with an ample supply of arms. The Soviet offensive is believed to be planned for early Spring in Greek Macedonia with the support of Panitza's Federalist organization in Macedonia. Propagandists now are endeavoring to obtain recruits among the Greek refugees from Asia Minor at Salonika.

Every person should drink at least three pints of water daily.

GERMANY MUST JOIN LEAGUE, IS DEMAND OF FRANCE IN SIGNING SECURITY PACT

German Policy on Eastern Frontiers Another Condition of Acceptance.

NOTE OF REPLY.

PARIS, March 31. — (Canadian Press).—The requirement that Germany join the League of Nations without special favors or exemptions, and announce clearly her intentions concerning the frontiers of Poland and Czecho-Slovakia before the French Government will sign with the Reich a European security pact, will be the substance of the French reply to the recent German security offer.

Premier Herriot, after taking counsel with most of the important members of his Cabinet, ex-Premier Briand, M. Loucheur and other leaders of the French Parliament, yesterday gave instructions to the political department of the Foreign Office to draft a note to that effect.

The aim of the document will be to draw from the Berlin Government a reply that will enable the allies to decide whether the German offer for a security pact is likely to form a basis for useful negotiations.

Premier Herriot has been advised by close political friends to refuse to start negotiations of any kind until Germany is a member of the League.

WITHDRAW DUMPING CLAUSE

OTTAWA, Ont., Mar. 31—Hon. J. A. Robb, Acting Minister of Finance, announced in the House of Commons yesterday the intention of the Government to withdraw the ew dumping clause as proposed in the budget. He said that after discussion with officials of the Department it had been decided that the dumping clause as it now stood was satisfactory.

CHATHAM, Ont., March 31. — City police hold a warrant for the arrest of Harry Stevens, local grain buyer, on six charges of forgery. He is reported to have left the city some days ago. City police have requested authorities of nearby cities and towns to watch for him.

H. S. Palber, employed as clerk by Stevens, was apprehended on similar charges which he stoutly denies. He was released on bail of five thousand dollars.

LUTHER MAY BE SUBSTITUTED FOR JARRES BY GERMAN NATIONALISTS

Bourgeois Group Not Satisfied With His Showing in Presidential Election—Republican Parties May Combine Forces For Common Candidate.

VOTE VINDICATION FOR SOCIALISTS.

BERLIN, March 31. — (Canadian Press). — Post-election mathematicians reach varying conclusions in respect to the political significance of Sunday's initial balloting for a German President.

While it is evident that partisan considerations largely influence the conflicting editorial verdicts, there is an underlying conviction that the composition of the vote polled by Dr. Karl Jarres, the candidate of the combined Nationalist and Conservative bourgeois parties, and the candidates of the three Republican parties, affords no secure basis for estimating its relation to the attitude of the voters in the final election of April 26.

Some of the more outspoken champions of an anti-Republican bloc frankly admit that Dr. Jarres, although he led all other contestants, failed to measure up to expectations, and are openly demanding his retirement from the final race.

May Nominate Luther.

While Minister of Defence Dr. Otto Gessler is being proposed as a substitute, there is a stronger movement in progress to bring out the German Chancellor, Dr. Hans Luther, as the standard-bearer for the Nationalist-Conservative Bourgeois bloc as it is now realized that in view of the strong combined vote of Socialists, Centrists and Democrats, Chancellor Luther is the only available man who is possessed of the necessary ability and magnetism to help the bourgeois bloc to ultimate victory.

The objection to having Dr. Gessler enter the race is founded upon the conviction that his removal from the Ministry of Defence would precipitate a heated Parliamentary fight for a successor in that Cabinet post, which it is asserted should be held by a Democrat.

Another reason urged in favor of the elimination of Dr. Jarres is supplied in the attitude of the Catholic Bavarian people's party, which notified his campaign committee that it would not support him in the coming election because he is espoused openly by the Evangelical League.

Republicans May Unite.

The key to the situation now lies with the three Republican parties, the strongest of which, the Socialists, has announced its readiness to join with Democrats and Centrists in a common line-up to the extent of accepting a non-Socialist but unimpeachable Republican candidate. As the Socialists believe they are morally vindicated by Sunday's vote for their action in nominating Ottan Braun, they are prepared now, according to Vorwaerts, the party's official organ, to eliminate party considerations from the newly created situation and are ready to join both Liberal parties in an effort to galvanize the National Republican front.

VETERANS PLAN TO CELEBRATE EIGHTH BIRTHDAY IN ALL BRANCHES ON APRIL 15

Army Meal of "Stew and Beans" Suggested as Feature—Call From Dominion Command Sent to All Units of the G.W.V.A.

OTTAWA, March 31. — A national birthday party, with more than 800 local branches participating, is the means in which the eighth anniversary of the founding of the Great War Veterans' Association is to be commemorated.

A call was sent out on Monday by the Dominion Command to all local and provincial units suggesting that they "take the lid off" for a good time on April 15th.

The birthday party will assume various forms, according to local inclinations, but the most general suggestion is that of a typical army meal with beans and stew predominating.

Arrangements are being made for various radio stations to broadcast a special half-hour programme of particular interest to war veterans.

The Dominion Command has put up for competition a beautiful silver shield to be awarded to the province with the greatest proportion of its branches in good standing participating in the party, and in turn the shield will be held by the branch in that province providing the best entertainment. All veterans are being invited to participate.

The Great War Veterans' Associatin of Canada came into existence early in April, 1917, at a gathering of returned disabled soldiers in Winnipeg.

FATHER KILLED SON AND SELF IT IS THOUGHT

Shocking Tragedy at Cobourg Last Night—Razor Caused Deaths.

BOY WAS 12.

Prospetcive Tenants Come on Gruesome Tableau in Vacant House.

COBOURG, March 31 (Canadian Press).—The discovery yesterday afternoon of the bodies of William Beare, laborer, about 50 years, and of his son, Henry, aged 12 years, in a room in an unoccupied house on the northern oustkirts of Cobourg brought to light a shocking tragedy. The throats of both had been out, and on a shelf lay the blood stained razor which had belonged to the father. Apparently Beare had slain his son, fatally wounded himself and put the razor on the shelf before he sank dying to the floor. Chief of police Ruse said last night that he had been unable to find any motive for the deed unless Beare had become morbid through brooding over the long continued ill health of the boy. The father ,while he had been unemployed for several months, is not thought to have been in needy circumstances. Little is known about the movements of the two since they left their home on Perry Street about nine o'clock yesterday morning. The boy had been puny from birth and had had little opportunity to go to school. Beare told his wife that he would take him to a chiropractor in Cobourg. They did not return.

Gruesome Find

About four o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Hubble entered the vacant house near Elgin Street, they begin prospective tenants. Mrs. Hubble stepped into a room on the ground floor and saw the two bodies lying close together. Chief of police Ruse and a doctor were soon on the scene, and it was found that the father and son had been dead several hours. The house in which their lives were ended was near Union cemetery and about one and one half miles from the home of the Beare family.

William Beare was born in Cobourg and had lived in town all his life. He bore an excellent character and was known as a good worker, although since the temporary shutting down of the local furniture factory, where he had been employed, he had been unable to find work. He had shown no sign of mental trouble.

Besides his widow he is survived by two grown up daughters who live in Toronto.

Coroner Dr. George Ferris formally opened an inquest last night and after hearing the evidence of Chief Ruse as to the condition in which he had found the bodies, adjournment was made until April 8th.

THE WEATHER.

March has come to an end in a comparatively "lamb-like" condition. In fact, its behaviour during the whole month has been generally good. A year ago this morning the thermometer was within 9 dergees off the zero mark; this morning it barely touched freezing. A year ago several inches of snow covered mother earth; this morning the ground is comparatively free from snow, except in the secluded corners. While there is little growth as yet, and all nature seems dormant, a miracle will occur in a few weeks —every tree, shrub, blade of grass and seed will feel the impulse of spring, and respond to the increasing warmth of the sun and the peculiar urge of the spring-time season. It has been said that Canada has no spring—that summer follows immediately on winter. We have, however, a spring. Its season is short, and its changes so remarkable, that if we had not become accustomed to them we would consider them unbelievable. Let us during the next few months use the eyes with which we are blessed and the powers of observation with which we may be endowed in watching the triumphal march of the spring-time season.—W. P.

FRANCE REJECTS U. S. CONFERENCE

Must Be Assured of Security Before Discussing Disarmament.

NOT INTERESTED.

(By A. L. Bradford, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS, March 31.—The French Foreign Office has instructed Ambassador Emile Daschner to inform the United States Government officially that France is not at present interested in proposals for a new disarmament conference.

The attitude is assumed in the Quai D'Orsay that France has limited cruisers and other war implements as far as possible under the present circumantsces and that provision for her security must be settled before further land and air disarmament can be discussed. These statements were made on the official authority of the Foreign Office this afternoon.

MEYERSBURG, March 31.—Let Campbellford boast of its tree-climbing dog. That is not the only freak in this district.

Near Meyersburg we have a musically inclined calf. When the radio is tuned in in the evening, he rushes to a point outside the window where he can hear, and stands there with a rapt expression on his face. When static breaks in he switches his tail or kicks impatiently. He even smiles at some of the radio jokes.

PROFESSOR MAYNE IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Car Strikes Telegraph Pole and Sustains Damages—Driver Escaped.

BRIGHTON, March 31.—About 11 o'clock yesterday morning Professor Mayne, of Albert College, Belleville, met with an accident while driving his car, which is a Chevrolet coupe, to Toronto. When the driver was about three miles west of Brighton, a little past the Union School-house, he bent down to brush some mud off his trousers. In doing this he lost control of the car and plunged into a telegraph pole, with the result that one of the front wheels was broken into splinters, the other damaged, the axle was badly bent as was the left mud-guard and the bumper. The driver was unhurt, and he continued on his journey by train. He was very fortunate in escaping so lightly. The damage amounts to about twenty-five dollars.

ORLAND FARMERS FORM HOG CLUB

J. P. McAulay is President of Better Bacon Hog Organization.

CHOOSE TAMWORTHS.

ORLAND, March 31.—The farmers of the surrounding neighborhood met last week to consider the advisability of loaning a pure-bred Tamworth from the Department of Agriculture for the betterment of the quality of the type of bacon hogs.

Many of those present were much enthused with the action of the Department in taking this step to capture the foreign market, and at the same time tend to the eradication of the scrub males which many farmers throughout the country still use.

The meeting was called by Mr. Wm. Cowan to convene at the store and discuss the situation, to elect officers and decide as to which breed of hog would be to their best interests.

The following officers were elected:

President—J. P. McAuley.
Vice-President—J. B. Moran.
Secretary—W. J. Latimer, Orland.
Director—Wm. Ames.
Caretaker—W. J. Cowan.

It was decided to function under the name of The Orland Bacon Hog Club.

While there was some difference of opinion as to the best type it was decided to ask for first choice Tamworth, and in the event of there being a shortage of this breed with the Department to make a second choice of Yorkshire.

About 25 farmers joined the club, and after a lengthy discussion, instructed the President and Secretary to fill out and forward the application at the earliest opportunity.

CRITICISM FOR BOLTING PARTY

R. J. Patterson, of South Victoria, Voted Against O.T.A. Changes.

LINDSAY, March 31.—Mr. R. J. Patterson, Conservative member for South Victoria in the Ontario Legislature, is coming in for considerable criticism from a large element in the party as a result of his action in voting against the Government on the second reading of the bill to amend the Ontario Temperance Act.

Leaders of the party in town and country claim they are at a loss to explain his attitude in connection with the government measure. When the bill came up for its first reading Mr. Patterson was not in the House and, therefore, did not record his vote. A day or so after the vote was taken an announcement appeared in the Toronto Mail to the effect that Mr. Patterson had been threatened with an attack of pneumonia, but had he been in the House when the vote was taken, he would have supported the government. This appeared to have satisfied everybody save the temperance element in the county. The real jolt came, however, after the bill came up for its second reading, and it was found that Mr. Patterson had bolted from the government side. Unlike the member for East Northumberland, Mr. Patterson did not outline his reasons for voting against the amendment, and the members of the party in this county are waiting for an explanation.

A prominent Conservative, one who stumped the riding for Mr. Patterson at the last election, stated the other day that the sitting member could look to the Prohibition Vigilance Committee to elect him next election.

CAMPBELLFORD HAS NEW EXPRESS AGENT

R. W. Burnham, of Deseronto, Succeeds Fred W. Wilsher—Town News.

CAMPPBELLFORD, March 31.—R. W. Burnham of Deseronto, has been appointed express and downtown ticket agent for the C.N.R., succeeding Fred W. Wilsher, who has held the position for the past six years, and who resigned some time ago to take up farming at Granby, Que. The company had considerable trouble in finding a man among its army of employees to take Mr. Wilsher's place.

Mr. Burnham is an experienced railway man. He was C.N.R. agent at Brockville at the time that road was amalgamated with the G.T.R. and taken over by the Government. As only one agent was required where two were needed before, Mr. Burnham was transferred to Deseronto, where he has been ever since.

Mr. Burnham, who is a married man with a family, will not take up his duties here until May 1.

No Action Taken.

The Water and Light Commision held a special meeting at noon yesterday in the office of Town Clerk McGregor to award the contract for the new machinery for the pumping station, but again they adjourned without taking final action.

The telephone number of the Campbellford representative of The Examiner is 449. The citizens can at any time phone in matter of news or orders for subscriptions or advertisements.

GOOD-WILL GREAT ASSET OF BUSINESS

C. D. Cook Speaks to Young Men of the Y.M.C.A.

"Goodwill" was the subject of a talk by C. D. Cook at the weekly young men's supper held at the Y.M.C.A.

He said that the meaning of the word goodwill could not be definitely defined, but it could be divided under two heads, the ethical and the practical. The speaker said that goodwill could only be obtained through service; in business by service to the public. Everyone is out to buy something that is of real service and he pointed out how a small store will often do a better business than a larger one because the former has the goodwill of the people. "Goodwill," said Mr. Cook, "is the greatest asset to a business."

Mr. Cook pointed out that only by the practice of goodwill among the citizens can a community grow strong, and community goodwill bred international goodwill, and international goodwill would bring about a world free from war. The speaker said that a chain is just as strong as its weakest link, and so a nation is just as good as the people in it. He brought it out forcibly that each boy must strive to be a good citizen and that it was up to each individually as to the success or failure of the future.

Mr. Cook interspersed his talk with many humorous stories and illustrations.

The next meeting of the Young Men's Club will be an open one, when plans for the near future of the club will be formed and any problems of the young men will be discussed.

BUDGET OBSCURES

virtually established a principle that would develop a vested right which was bound to be embarrassing later. It was tantamount to a policy of power exportation. Power, said Mr. Stevens, was a tool, not a product. Shipping power was like shipping the machinery of production. "It is a noose around the neck of Canada, with the United States capitalists on the free end of the rope," said Mr. Stevens. Canada should make a declaration informing the United States that American capitalists are not going to build up industries on Canadian hydro power.

Stevens' Proposals.

Mr. Stevens put forward several proposals: (1) Purchases from the United States should be switched to other sources in order to change the adverse trade balance with that country.

(2) Encouragement of investment of Canadian capital in industry by the removal of "irritating and overburdensome types of taxation," and by tax or embargo discourage the export of raw materials and make it clear that Canadian power should remain under control for Canadian industries.

(3) Recognition that Great Britain is Canada's best customer, and closer co-operation with the Empire in trade matters and the scrupulous avoidance of all appearance of discords in relation to foreign affairs.

The Budget was an illusion and a snare. It deceived the public as to the debt, mocked the taxpayers as to his taxes, and sought to bury all under a meaningless certificate from two accountants. If the Government favored Free Trade, they should say so. If they intended to protect Canadian industry, they should "stop pussyfooting and cease tolling the death knell of protection.' If they favored making Canada an economic adjunct to the United States, they should do so openly.

"This Government stands charged before this people with crass indifferences to its own pledges,—with ruthless dissipation of our resources —with duplicity of policy, and with utter disregard of responsibility, also with administrative practices that will deliver Canada economically bound and shackled into the hands of the United States. "If action is not immediately taken to stop that tendency."

Liberal Comment.

W. B. Snowball (Liberal, Northumberland) stated that the Government was able to show what many business concerns had been unable to—a favorable trade balance. The railway situation had improved, and would continue to improve as time went on. Mr. Snowball declared himself a Free Trader but that policy was impossible under existing circumstances. The Maritime Provinces were appreciative of what the Government had done in reducing the tariff on fishing machinery.

Mr. Snowball deplored the defeat of reciprocity in 1911, and referred to the "sacrifice of the interests of Canada" by the Conservatives in obtaining power then. He was opposed to a high tariff and asked the Government to consider further reductions.

Equitable freight rates were absolutely essential if the Maritime Provinces were to succeed in developing trade with other parts of Canada, Mr. Snowball said. "Every Canadian National employee should be a booster for Canadian ports," he declared. He was opposed to a policy which would reduce expenditures on Canadian harbors, because he thought it was very important to Canada that they be developed and trade drawn to them. He was opposed to bringing in industrial workers until those now unemployed in the cities were absorbed, and he made a plea for farm workers in the Maritime Provinces. He expressed the hope that the Canadian National Railway would take over the Valley Railway of New Brunswick, and also that provision would be made for the construction of the Kingsclear branch of the Canadian National this session.

Protection of Labor.

L. P. Bancroft (Progressive-Selkirk) urged the necessity for a revaluation of lands settled under the Soldiers' Settlement Act. If this is not done, Canada would have more abandoned and untaxable farms on her hands.

Protection, said Mr. Bancroft, has never protected Canadian Labor, and if the principle were to be applied it should also be applied against labor coming into the country to compete with the Canadian workers.

He congratulated the Government on the prompt withdrawal of the amendment to the anti-dumping clause. The Canadian manufacturers might well say "Let us draft the anti-dumping clause and we do not care who makes the tariffs."

The low tariff forces of Canada were bound to get together and when they did, they would choose a policy along the lines of the amendment submitted by Mr. Forke, rather than a policy such as put forward by the Governments Budget of this session.

Hon. Charles Stewart.

Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, said the Conservative party in criticising conditions in Canada forgot that the situation elsewhere was worse.

Mr. Stewart said he had taken the trouble to interview the Deputy Minister of Finance with respect to the system of accounting and he was bound to say that they were making a fair presentation of the facts respecting the countrys accounts just as they stood in the books. Further more the Deputy Minister of Finance had informed him that no Minister of Finance under whom he had acted had ever interfered with him in the slightest maner in making up his accounts.

Mr. Stewart defended the system of accounting in respect to the government railways. The indebtedness of the railways to the public was clearly shown. So long as we knew what the loans to the government were, either by way of cash or by way of guaranteed bonds, then we knew exactly what the full indebtedness of the railways was to the public and to the government. These particulars were shown.

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Opposition leader, interjected that Mr. Stewart appeared to be missing the point. Securities of the Canadian National Railways, bearing the guarantee of the government, were exactly the same as government obligations. Where was the honesty in claiming a surplus which would be a deficit if, instead of guaranteed bonds, the railway obligations were direct loans from the government.

Regards Loans Good.

Mr. Stewart replied that he could not see how the accounting could be changed until the country was prepared to deal with the whole question of Canadian National Railway fixed charges. There was no intention of concealing in any way the amount of securities issued by the railway bearing the govefnment guarantee. He went on to defend the action of the government in showing interest on the Roumanian and Greek loans as part of surplus.

These loans had never been considered as non-active assets, he said, and the Canadian High Commissioner in London had made arrangements whereby the accumulated interests had been added to the principal. The government believed it would realize every dollar of the total amount. Therefore, there seemed nothing wrong in showing it as the Acting Finace Minister had done, among the active assets.

"Is the acting minister quite honest in adding it to his surplus?"asked Hon. R. Manion, (Conservative, Fort William.)

Mr. Stewart replied that he thought the acting Finance Minister was quite justified in showing it as part of his surplus. He challenged Sir Henry Drayton, former Finance Minister, to say that it was dishonest to do this.

"I will say it is tremendously misleading," Sir Henry said.

Mr. Stewart disagreed with this. He then referred to reduction in the sales tax revenue, reminding the house that last year the government had estimated that there would be a reduction of $24,000,000. This government, he said, had made very serious reductions in taxation.

The present government was running the country cheaper than in 1914 so far as uncontrollable expenditures were concerned, declared the minister. The Government had cut expenses to the very core.

The unemployment situation was not acute. Since January1st, 25,000 persons had been added to payrolls in Canada; mostly to manufacturing concerns. In Massachusetts and in Central New York State thousands of men were walking the city streets many of whom wished to migrate to Canada. Moreover, during the past year, 41,000 Canadians who had been in the United States more than six months returned to Canada.

"How many Canadians went to the United States in January?" asked R. B. Hanson (Conservative, York, Sudbury)

"Yes, I know lots of Canadians go to Florida in January," replied the Minister. Mr. Stewart quoted Sir Henry Thornton, who had said that from Fort William east, along the Canadian National Railway line, 112 new businesses had been established in 1923 and 200 in 1924; these were employing 2000 new men.

For the first time in many years, the Massey Harris Company had paid dividends amounting to $68,000.

Mr. Meighen interrupted to point out that the Massey Harris Company had secured the stock of the Batavia Company, of New York, which had later risen to par. Thus the dividend had been paid, he claimed.

The hardest times Canada had ever seen were during the years of the highest protection, between 1888 and 1894, said Mr. Stewart. "My Hon. friend smiles," he said, referring to Mr. Meighen. "He was at school in those days, but we old fellows remember them. I sold wheat for 60 cents a bushel, and three-year-old steers for $19.00 in those times." Crowds in Toronto in those days were demanding bread or work.

Built for Use Every Day

SNYDER'S Sani-Bilt Living Room Furniture, guaranteed mothproof, although handsomest of its kind, is not built for mere show. It is built for hard, everyday use in the most used room in the house —the family living room of the modern home.

When a man wants to be comfortable after the day's work is done, he doesn't long to sit up in a stiff-backed chair or recline on a fancy spindle-legged sofa. Those days are passed and gone. Nowadays a man looks for a broad, low, Sani-Bilt Chesterfield or a deep, capacious Sani-Bilt Chair. He wants to relax and be comfortable.

In a house where there are children it is no use buying living room furniture that won't withstand constant use. Active little people are up and down, in and out, all the time. The Living Room belongs in part to them. Snyder's Sani-Bilt Living Room Furniture is built for the whole family, and the coverings are chosen for their durability, as well as their beauty.

Beauty Founded on Strength

The beauty of Snyder's Sani-Bilt is more than skin deep. It is beauty founded on constructional strength. The frames are built of thick, clear, solid hardwood without knot or flaw. Every joint is put together with a craftsman's skill, being dowelled and corner-blocked, glued and screwed.

Nor does a Sani-Bilt Chair or Chesterfield sag under heavy use. The springs rest on interlaced straps of a special, non-stretchable Scotch webbing, nailed securely to the frame. The springs themselves are more numerous than in ordinary upholstered furniture, the Sani-Bilt Chesterfield seat containing four rows of springs as compared to the usual three. They are of rust-proof, oil-tempered steel, very strong, cross-tied into place so that they may not slip from position under weight of constant use. The strain being thus equalized, no sags can occur. The edge of the seat is supported by a strong, steel wire stretched taut from arm to arm.

The Moths Can't Hurt It

Snyder's Sani-Bilt Furniture is, of course, absolutely immune from moths. Moths can't hurt it. You may leave a piece of Sani-Bilt covering fabric or Sani-Bilt stuffing in the possession of moths for a year. At the end of that time the moths and the moth worms will be dead and withered away to dust. But the fabric will be unharmed.

We want to warn the public that there are certain other makes of upholstered furniture on the market claimed to be mothproof like Sani-Bilt. But the one and only Sani-Bilt process is the process used in the Snyder factory. No other manufacturer of upholstered furniture in Canada uses the Sani-Bilt process. It is a process which is applied to every particle of inside stuffing and every thread of the coverings, in our own factory.

MAKE SURE OF IT

To make sure you are buying the genuine Snyder's Sani-Bilt Furniture, look for the Sani-Bilt Guarantee attached to every piece of genuine Sani-Bilt Furniture. Look also for the label under the Cushions. Leading dealers show a range of Snyder's Sani-Bilt Suites in which you will find quite a wide variety of prices. But, remember, at whatever price you pay you are protected absolutely by the Sani-Bilt Guarantee.

REDISTRIBUTION.

The Redistribution Committee appointed by the Ontario Legislature to deal with the re-arrangement of the Provincial electoral districts will have a somewhat difficult problem on its hands in endeavouring to give the larger centres the representation to which their increased population entitles them without increasing the number of seats beyond the present 111.

It is apparent that several rural ridings will have to disappear in the shuffle, among them, it is expected, East Peterboro.

As it has been announced that country boundaries will be respected by the Redistribution Committee, the inference is that the whole of Peterboro County may be established as one riding, sending but one representative instead of two as at present.

If the East riding has to be sacrificed the uniting of the East and West constituencies, keeping Peterboro County intact as one electoral district, would probably be regarded by the majority of the citizens of the county as the most suitable plan of dealing with the situation.

Out of the re-alignment of constituencies Toronto will gain several more representatives, and it is possible that there will be additional seats in Hamilton.

As for New Ontario, which has been clamouring for additional representation, the outlook is not hopeful, unless the size of the Legislature were to be increased, and public opinion is strongly against enlarging the size of the House.

IMMORAL BOOKS.

The anxiety of the National Council of Women that the public libraries of the country should be kept free from objectionable literature is easily understandable in view of the extent to which these institutions are utilized by the communities in which they are situated.

At the same time it is difficult to see how the system existing in the Peterboro Public Library, for example, can be improved upon.

Careful supervision is exercised by the Library Board in its choice of new literature, although it can readily be realized that in a library with thousands of volumes it is impossible to prevent some books from being placed on the shelves that are perhaps too strong meat for the average reader.

From time to time such books make their appearance, but it is the rule at the local library that when a patron complains that a book is immoral or unfit for distribution the offending volume is withdrawn from general circulation if the complaint is found to be justified.

It is a broad problem this question of where the line should be drawn, but it is a safe wager that there is much less danger of unsuitable reading material being found on the shelves of the Public Library than there is in the pages of many of the magazines that are on sale.

SHOULD HAVE CLEAR FIELD.

On Saturday the Examiner referred to the important place occupied in the local musical field by the Peterboro Male Voice Choir.

Today we wish to call the attention of all readers to another community musical organization that is worthy of general support—the Peterboro Symphony Orchestra, an organization that in the short period of existence has made notable progress and has been responsible not only for giving Peterboro audiences some most enjoyable programmes but for winning high honours for its home city in competition against the best in the Province.

Such a body cannot be kept running without revenue; music, instruments and other incidents require funds, and in order that the services of this splendid organization should not be lost to Peterboro support is necessary.

The announcement, therefore, that the Symphony Orchestra is to give a concert on May 19th, with the assistance of a well-known former Peterboro boy, R. Norman Joliffe, who has risen high in the world of music, is of great interest.

The value of the orchestra to the community is so readily apparent that the Examiner is sure that all other organizations will give the Peterboro Symphony a clear field on the date announced in order that the attendance may be worthy of the importance of the occasion.

To bring such an artist as Mr. Joliffe to Peterboro is in itself an expensive undertaking, and the orchestra should be given every chance to secure the united support of the community.

Let it be understood then that May 19th is Peterboro Symphony Orchestra night.

SHOULD BE HEARD.

If Mr. Sinclair, Provincial Liberal leader, can produce Peter Smith, former Provincial Treasurer, and Charles Matthews, former Assistant Provincial Treasurer, as witnesses before the Public Accounts Committee, the majority of people seem to be of the opinion that the committee should take advantage of the offer.

If there is anything that either of these former officials can tell about what happened to a commission said to have left the Home Bank for the Parliament Buildings the truth should come out.

To take the stand that the chartered accountants missing money, and that, therefore, cannot trace the unless some member makes a direct charge of wrong doing the committee cannot re-open the matter, is merely begging the question.

It may be that neither Mr. Smith nor Mr. Matthews can enlighten the committee in regard to this matter, but at least public opinion strongly favours the examination of these witnesses, and anybody else who can possibly supply information of value on the same point.

Similar attention should be paid to the whole transaction with the Home Bank in order that the public may be assured that no stone has been left unturned in an attempt to discover the whole truth about the mysterious commission alleged to have been paid by the Home Bank.

No obstacles should be put in the way of a genuine investigation into this aspect of the case.

FALSE VALUES.

Lillian Gish, who wept her way to stardom in the movies, is of the "beautiful, but dumb" classification, we learn. There is no doubt about her beauty, and we have it on the authority of the lawyer who is defending the actress in a civil action that she is, if not the dumbest of the dumb, at least sufficiently dense to give the champion of the class something to worry about, says the Hamilton Spectator. Miss Gish is being sued by Charles H. Duell, former president of Inspirational Pictures, for breach of contract, he having presented for the consideration of the court a document signed by the fair Lillian in which she promises to weep for no other company. Mr. Duell's complaint is that the actress broke this contract when she transferred her tear ducts to a competitor's lot. The defense is that Miss Gish has not the mentality capable of understanding a legal or business contract. It's just the old story of false values again. This girl's income from Inspirational Pictures was $225,000 for posing before the camera for less than a year. It is logical to presume that she quit this company and signed up with another producer because greater remuneration was the bait. The public may gasp when it reads of such stupendous salaries being paid, but it is the public which pays them. An eight-year-old boy, the son of a "pop-time" vaudeville team, has an income in comparison with which the salaries of railroad presidents are insignificant. Hollywood is overrun with millionaires. One of them capitalized a cast in his eyes, another a pair of cauliflower ears, a third, whose avoirdupois was his only stock in trade, actually ate his way from a job as porter in a bar-room to stardom. Unaccustomed to wealth, it was not surprising that the folk in the movie colony lost their sense of values when they found themselves in luxury's lap. The public holds up its shocked hands at the goings-on in the movie colony, but it hasn't anybody to blame but itself.

CANADA AT WEMBLEY.

To the Duke of Devonshire, former Governor-General of Canada, belongs the credit of enabling the great Empire Exhibition at Wembley, a London suburb, to reopen its doors this year. Not only was he the largest private guarantor last summer, but he consistently used his influence to extend the splendid work it accomplished of bringing home to the British public the nature and immense character of the resources of the countries under the Union Jack. That aspect of the big exhibition will be still further emphasized during the coming season. It is of the utmost importance that the various nations and peoples within the Empire should be familiarized with the products each has to offer, thus encouraging greater exchange of these commodities among themselves. Canada expects an even greater material gain for her exports as a result of the forthcoming exhibition, especially in view of her recently concluded trade treaty with Australia, and that now under negotiation with the West Indies.

During 1924 from 35 to 36 per cent. of Canada's external trade was conducted with the sister countries, but that proportion has been practically stationary for years. So far back as 1910 the proportion was 38 per cent. Canada's favorable trade balance that year with the remainder of the Empire totalled up to $43,315,385. But though the relative position has been maintained with regard to the volume of trade, a distinct improvement has made itself visible in the division of trade. Thus in 1924, a recent Canadian Pacific Railway bulletin shows, Canada increased the value of her exports to other countries within the Empire by $29,000,000, while her imports from them have diminished by $6,000,000. Nor is there any apparent evidence of these vanished imports having been compensated by imports from countries without the Empire. In 1922, Canada's favorable trade balance was $258,419,751; in 1923, it was $238,820,944, and in 1924, it was $274,003,918.

Overwhelmingly, Canada's greatest volume of Empire trade was carried on with the United Kingdom, her second customer, following after the United States, which in the calendar year 1924 accounted for 80 per cent. of the Dominion's total trade with the British Empire. There was also a serious falling off, due to purely temporary disturbances, in the export trade to Australia, usually Canada's next largest customer. This throws into greater relief the increasing trade being carried on with other countries of the Empire. A review of Canadian trade indicates that there are many directions yet in which reciprocal trade with other countries of the Empire might be further expanded. In many cases this situation has existed for some time, due to an inadequate knowledge on the parts of all countries of the Empire as to what the others produce, and a lack of appreciation of opportunities existing. This is gradually being relieved by the various means which have been devised of bringing the various Dominions together, and extending knowledge of each other, as well as actually promoting means of developing trade among them.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

The two big problems before the Legislature seem to be: "Who got the $42,000?" and "How much kick is there in 4.4 beer?"

The Ottawa House will spend the week in discussing whether or not there was a surplus on the year's operations. And there will be no more light on this question on Friday than there is today.

A THOUGHT.

TELL HIM NOW.

If, with pleasure you are viewing
Any work a man is doing,
If you like it or approve it, tell him now.
Don't withhold your approbation,
Till the parson makes oration,
And he lies with snowy lilies on his brow;
For no matter how you shout it,
He won't hear a word about it;
He won't know how many teardrops you have shed.
If you think some praise is due him,
Now's the time to give it to him;
He can't read what's on his tombstone when he's dead.

More than fame, and more than money
Is the comment, kind and sunny,
And the hearty, warm approval of a friend;
For it gives his life a savor,
And it makes him stronger, braver,
And it gives him heart and spirit to the end;
If he earns your praise, bestow it,
Now's the time to let him know it;
Let the words of true encouragement be said.
Do not wait till life is over,
And he's underneath the clover;
He can't read what's on his tombstone when he's dead.

NORHAM NEWS

Winter Crops Have Wintered Well and Fields Are Showing Green.

NORHAM, March 31.—Frederick Grills has returned home after attending the Grand Lodge meeting of the Loyal Orange Association held in Ottawa recently. While away Mr. Grills attended a session of the Dominion Parliament and listened to an inspiring address given by Hon. MacKenzie King, Premier of Canada.

A number of parents as well as the students suddenly became fearful when it was learned that an epidemic of mumps and scarlet fever had broken out in Warkworth Continuation school. Several homes have been quarantined and there is talk by the school board of closing the school.

Several of the students from this section attending the Warkworth school are taking part in a literary concert to be given at the closing previous to the Easter vacation.

The recent rains have started the frost from the roads so that at present there are some soft spots which make transportation a little difficult for tourists.

Harvesters of maple syrup are still at work night and day and the delicious viand is selling at $2.25 per gallon.

Up to the present the fall grain and seeds seem to have wintered well and shades of green are seen upon many fields.

The local miller, Marshall Wilson and son, has lowered the price of grinding from ten to eight cents per. cwt.

EGG PRICES.

OTTAWA, March 30.—Receipts of eggs are increasing rapidly and as a result prices declining. Storage operations have not yet commenced. The most of the trading in poultry is now being done in frozen stock which is moving satisfactory. Receipts of live and fresh dressed poultry are very light on Eastern markets and practically nil in Western Canada. Today Ontario country shippers report paying extras 28, firsts 25, seconds 22 to 23 and making sales extras 31 to 32, firsts 29 to 30, seconds 25 to 26 f.o.b.

Toronto—Jobbing, specials 37, extras 35, firsts 33, seconds 30.

Montreal—Easier, jobbing, extras 37, firsts 35.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 30.—Wildfire selling, which started from an unusual dearth of buying swept through the wheat pit today and spread to all the other trading pits on exchange here. May delivery of wheat suffered the worst, showing at one time 14 3-4 cents loss per bushel, as compared with Saturday's close. Today's finish for wheat was excited, 3 to 11 cents net lower, May $1.46 1-2 to $1.47, and July $1.35 1-2 to $1.36 3-4. Other setbacks as shown at the last, were: Rye, 6 3-4 to 9 5-8 cents; corn, 2 1-8 to 3 7-8; oats 2 1-2 to 2 7-8, and provisions 17 to 60 cents.

The main factor in the wholesale destruction of values in wheat as well as in other grains and in provisions as well, was a fading away of speculative demand on the part of the general public. With selling of wheat once well under way, a rapidly increasing stampede to get rid of holdings took place, successive breaks in prices making fresh sacrifices unavoidable to stop further losses and to protect the various brokerage houses. In addition, speculative traders anticipating further breaks, joined in the selling and kept the market plunging downward until a few minutes before the close.

STERLING RATES

Sterling demand $4.77 5-8.

Sterling cables $4.78.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, March 30. — The export business in Canadian grain here today was reported very quiet on account of the fact that there were few firm bids in the market from foreign buyers, and in consequence the demand from local exporters for grain here was also limited. Local prices for car lots were reduced 1 to 2 cents per bushel.

Owing to the decline of cash wheat at Winnipeg today further weakness developed in the local market for Spring wheat flour and prices were reduced another thirty cents per barrel. In sympathy with the foregoing Winter wheat flour was also weaker and prices scored a further decline of 10 cents per barrel. In spite of the lower level of prices business on both markets were very quiet.

A weaker feeling developed in the millfeed market, and prices scored a decline of $2.00 per ton, which was attributed to the pronounced weakness of late in coarse grains, the somewhat limited demand for all lines of millfeed and the fairly liberal offerings. The market for rolled oats was also weaker and prices declined 10 cents per bag.

The feature of the local egg trade was the easier feeling and prices dropped 1 to 2 cents per dozen. This was attributed to the favorable weather prevailing throughout the country for the production, and the prospects of a marked increase in the receipts in the near future. The receipts today were 1,939 cases, as compared with 1,693 cases for the same last week, and 1,939 for the corresponding day a year ago.

The receipts of butter today were 43 packages, as compared with 523 for the same day last week, and 105 for the corresponding day a year ago. The feature of the trade continues to be the easy feeling that prevails in the market, and prices were reduced another 1-2 cent per pound, but even at this buyers refused to buy to any extent, as the impression among some of them is that the prices will go lower. Wholesale prices were also reduced one cent per pound with sales of finest creamery were made at 34 cents per pound in solid packages and at 35 cents per pound in one-pound packages.

The offerings on the cheese market today were small, and in consequence, the volume of business was curtailed, but there were odd sales of small lots of fodder made Western No. 1 white and colored at 22 1-2 to 23 cents per pound, No. 2 grades at 21 1-2 to 22 cents per pound, and Quebec 20-pound cheese at 24 to 24 1-2 cents per pound. The receipts were 449 boxes, as against 14 for the same day last week, and 36 for the same day last year.

Beans were unchanged at $2.70 per bushel.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, March 30.—With a heavy run of over 5,000 cattle, trade opened slow this morning, particularly in the butcher class. Otherwise there was but little change in general marketing conditions. There was a fairy active export demand, about the same number of cattle being required as last week, with supplies of heavy steers rather more than sufficient to meet present requirements. Prices in the section were practically steady.

In the butcher section, while there were plenty of cattle, there was the usual scarcity of real choice handy butcher stuff, and prices for the best were steady and unchanged. For medium and common qualities there was an easier feeling, and trade inclined to drag.

Fat cows steady at from $5 to $6. Small meats steady but trade slow.

Hogs steady at $12.75 off cars, todays deliveries, but prospects lower for balance of week.

SAFETY FOR DOGS.

Dogs would be barred from riding on the running boards of automobiles by a bill just introduced in the California Legislature.

THIS Your BIRTHDAY

TUESDAY, MARCH 31—If today is your birthday, one of your greatest faults is not being true to yourself. You will not admit certain weaknesses in your character which you possess, and consequently you make no attempt to correct them. You are capable of great things, if you only will overcome this handicap. If a woman, you are inclined to be gossipy and point out the faults of too many others without looking at yourself in the mirror of your mind.

BAREE, SON OF KAZAN

It was in January that McTaggart caught his first glimpse of Baree. He had placed his rifle against a tree, and was a dozen feet away from it at the time. It was as if Baree knew, and had come to taunt him; for when the Factor suddenly looked up Baree was standing out clear from the dwarf spruce not twenty yards away from him, his white fangs gleaming and his eyes burning like coals. For a space McTaggart stared as if turned into stone. It was Baree. He recognized the white star, the white-tipped ear, and his heart thumped like a hammer in his breast. Very slowly he began to creep toward his rifle. His hand was reaching for it when like a flash Baree was gone.

This gave McTaggart his new idea. He blazed himself a fresh trail through the forests parallel with his trap-line but at least five hundred yaridds stant from it. Wherever a trap or deadfall was set this new trail struck sharply in, like the point of a V, so that he could approach his line unobserved. By this strategy he believed that in time he was sure of getting a shot at the dog. Again it was the man who was reasoning, and again it was the man who was defeated. The first day that McTaggart follo wed his new trail Baree also struck that trail. For a little while it puzzled him. Three times he cut back and forth between the old and the new trail. Then there was no doubt. The new trail was the fresh trail, and he followed in the footsteps of the Factor from Lac Bain McTaggart did not know what was happening until his return trip, when he saw the story told in the snow. Baree had visited each trap, and without exception he had approached each time at the point of the inverted V. After a week of futile hunting, of lying in wait, of approaching at every point of the wind—a period during which McTaggart had twenty times cursed himself into fits of madness, another idea came to him. It was like an inspiration, and so simple that it seemed almost inconceivable that he had not thought of it before.

The second day after he was on the trail at dawn. This time he carried a pack in which there were a dozen strong wolf traps freshly dipped in beaver oil, and a rabbit which he had snared the previous night. Now and then he looked anxiously at the sky. It was clear until late in the afternoon, when banks of dark clouds began rolling up from the east. Half an hour later a few flakes of snow began falling. McTaggart let one of these drop on the back of his mittened hand, and examined it closely. It was soft and downy, and he gave vent to his satisfaction. It was what he wanted. Before morning there would be six inches of freshly fallen snow covering the trails.

He stopped at the next trap-house and quickly set to work. First he threw away the poisoned bait in the "house" and replaced it with the rabbit. Then he began setting his wolf traps. Three of these he placed close to the "door" of the house, through which Baree would have to reach for the bait. The remaining nine he scattered at intervals of a foot or sixteen inches apart, so that when he was done a veritable cordon of traps guarded the house. He did not fasten the chains, but let them lay loose in the snow. If Baree got got into one trap he would get into others and there would be no use of toggles. His work done, McTaggart hurried on through the thickening twilight of winter night to his shack. He was highly elated. This time there could be no such thing as failure. He had sprung every trap on his way from Lac Bain. In none of those traps would Baree find anything to eat until he came to the "nest" of twelve wolf traps

Seven inches of snow fell that night, and, the whole world seemed turned into a wonderful white robe. Like billows of feathers the snow hung to the trees and shrubs; it gave tall white caps to the rocks, and underfoot it was so light that a cartridge dropped from the hand sank to the bottom of it. Baree was on the trap-line early. He was more cautious this morning, for there was no longer the scent or snowshoe track of McTaggart to guide him. He struck the first trap about halfway between Lac Bain and the shack in which the Factor was waiting. It was sprung, and there was no bait. Trap after trap he visited, and all of them he found sprung, and all without bait. He sniffed the air suspiciously, striving vainly to catch the tang of smoke, a whiff of the man-smell. Along toward noon he came to the "nest"—the twelve treacherous traps waiting for him with gaping jaws half a foot under the blanket of snow. For a full minute he stood well outside the danger line, sniffing the air, and listening. He saw the rabbit, and his jaws closed with a hungry click. He moved a step nearer. Still he was suspicious— for some strange and inexplicable reason he sensed danger

"When he saw McTaggart he made a lunge to his feet, almost instantly."

Anxiously he sought for it with his nose, his eyes, and his ears. And all about him there was a great silence and a great peace. His jaws clicked again. He whined softly. What was it stirring him? Where was the danger he could neither see nor smell? Slowly he circled about the trap-house three times he circled round it, each circle drawing him a little nearer—until at last his feet almost touched the outer cordon of traps. Another minute he stood still his ears flattened in spite of the rich aroma of the rabbit in his nostrils something was drawing him away. In another moment he would have gone, but there came suddenly—and from directly behind the trap-house—a fierce little rat-like squeak, and the next instant Baree saw an ermine whiter than the snow tearing hungrily at the flesh of the rabbit. He forgot his strange premonition of danger. He growled fiercely, but his plucky little rival did not budge from his feast.

And then he sprang straight into the "nest" that Bush McTaggart had made for him.

ENTERTAINMENT AT BURNBRAE CHURCH

"Busy Bees" Gave Splendid Programme to Raise Funds for Missions.

BURNBRAE, March 31.— The "Busy Bees" Y.W.A. held a very successful entertainment in the basement of the church on Friday evening, March 27. A splendid program was presented by the young ladies, with some assistance from the lesser sex.

Piano solos were given by Edna and Murray Hutcheon; vocal music by Marjorie Rannie, H. M. Donald, Malcolm Hutcheon; vocal duet, Misses Ruth and Grace Ingram; recitations by Miss Wallace, Laura Watson and Ken Milne. Aply, "Tired of Missions" was presented by the members of the class;a short comic dialogue byMiss Eva Milne, and Mrs. Frank Little; a costume song "Days of the Week", by the younger girls.

Perhaps the most interesting number of all, especially to the numerous bachelors present, was a comic costume song,"Poor Old Maids," by eleven young ladies.

A Bible question contest was held after which lunch was served. A fair crowd was present to enjoy the program and the total proceeds amounted to $25.80. This will be used in the missionary work of the society.

Wedding Bells.

An event of interest to Burnbrae residents took place at the Manse a very popular member of society McKenzie united in marriage, Miss Bertha Haig and Mr. Leslie Shilling lan, both of Seymour. The bride is a very popular members of society on the English Line where she has resided and is well-known in Burnbrae as well, being a sister of Mrs. Lewis Little and Mrs. Jas. Stewart. "Les", as he is known by his large circle of acquaintances in Seymour and Campbellford, is prominent in athletics having been a member of Campbellford baseball team for two seasons. During the years that he attended High School he was also the mainstay of the school hockey team's defence, as well as first baseman on the ball team. Les is a cheesemaker by trade and will be in charge of Brae Cheese factory for the coming season. The whole community extends greetings to this popular couple.

Repairing Cheese Factories.

Trappers Busy.

Muskrats are running and some of the trappers report fair catches. F. M. Little has captured over thirty. Some are trying for bigger game, one collie dog being a victim.

Personals.

Master McLean Donald has been quite ill but at time of writing seems to be improving.

Mrs. Wm. Wallace returned last week from a month's visit with her sister in Detroit.

NO COFFEE FOR BABY

Children Will Take Milk Without Flavoring of Tea or Coffee.

Many mothers foolishly begin giving the baby sips of coffee while the baby is quite young.

And in thousands of families children take their one and two cups of coffee regularly just like their parents.

This is all wrong, Mrs. Mann learned.

Children should never be given tea or coffee, not even to flavor milk. They will more often like the milk if they have not been taught the combination of milk and coffee.

Another bad habit, indulged in by many, many children, is eating between meals. This takes away their appetite for food at mealtime.

Of course if the child gets very hungry, he should be given some food. But this food should be plain bread and butter or crackers and milk, providing the milk lunch is taken two or three hours before the next meal.

The school child needs three good meals a day, an da substantial luncheon in the afternoon.

WRITES WITH HIS FEET.

German Urges "Pediscript" for Persons Who Lose Arms.

BERLIN, March 30.—"Pediscript" is a new word coined by Herr Unthan, who, born without arms, has developed his feet so skillfully that he writes with great ease. He has penned his life memoirs as an inspiration to men who lost their arms, in the hope of encouraging them to make their feet do the work which formerly fell to their arms and hands.

Herr Unthan has lectured extensively in hospitals for war invalids, combinir his lectures with demonstrations to show his skill with his feet.

SYRUP SEASON WAS CURTAILED

Disappearance of Snow Caused Light Run of Sap This Spring.

PLOWING THIS WEEK

BETHANY, March 31.— Maple Syrup making in this vicinity is practically finished and reports show that on account of the snow going away so fast, with the exception of two or three days, the sap running was very light and the yield of syrup curtailed.

The farmers anticipate starting spring work this week on the higher ground, as the frost has come out deep enough to permit ploughing.

W. H. Fallis is making preparations to commence construction work on his new general garage.

Walter Rowan was a visitor in Peterboro on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Kincade of Fairmount were the guests of Mrs. W. Byers last week.

C. Dafoe of St. Thomas spent a few days last week with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Dafoe.

The Young Peoples' Epworth League was held in the basement of the church on Wednesday evening and a record crowd was present, every available chair being occupied.

After the formal opening by the president, the meeting was turned over to Mr. E. Bray and a spendid programme presented.

Reading, Miss Mable Challice; quartette, Mrs. H. Ryley, Mrs. W. L. Rowan, Mrs. T. Jackson and Miss Jean Mckinnon; reading, Mrs. A. Thorndyke; solo, H. Casement; reading, Mr. Welsh; duet, Jean Thorndyke and Mr. L. Challice.

A very interesting debate, "Resolved that money has more influence in the world than love", was then staged. Milton Challice acted as timekeeper and the judges were Mrs. H. Ryley, Mrs. F. Maples and Mr. Darroch. The affirmative side were P. C. Brown, Mrs. Walter Rowland and Miss Irene Staples, while the negative were Mrs. W. L. Rowland, Mrs. F. C. Dawe and R. L. Crerar. Each speaker was allowed ten minutes to present argument and practically all of them availed themselves of this opportunity with a three minute reply by the affirmative. The debaters did justice to the topic as the decision of the judges after considerable discussion was rendered a tie, both side scoring forty-five points.

GIVES TEN SIGNS OF A MODERNIST

They Regard Hell as "Comfortable Winter Quarters."

NEW YORK, March 31.—In a sermon on "How to Spot a Modernist," at the Washington Avenue Baptist Church, Brooklyn, Sunday, the Rev. Dr. Robert McCaul, a Fundamentalist, enumerated the following ten methods:

"(1) His attitude toward the Bible. It is one of distrust. The Modernist rarely betrays this by making a frontal attack upon it. He concedes that it is a great book, in fact the best of all books, and then proceeds to show that it is unreliable. The Modernist interprets the Bible in the light of rationalism as certainly as the Christian Scientist interprets it by its key to the scriptures, 'Science and Health.' It uses a pair of spectacles of its own manufacture with the stamp, 'Made in Germany.' Modernists cannot trust the Bible, but they can exhibit an undying faith in Rationalism.

"(2) You may spot a Modernist by a too exclusive emphasis upon this present world and his cavalier dismissal of the eternities. Modernism supports an age of materialism. It makes subtle appeal to worldly-mindedness, not by denying but by ignoring the other world.

"(3) Modernism has no judgment seat. It repudiates the idea of punishment as being incompatible with divine love. If heli exists it is at the worst a sort of comfortable winter quarters.

"(4) Enthusiasm for the man Jesus, coupled with a denial of His divinity except in the sense in which all men are divine. He is patronisingly praised and deeply degraded by the same lips.

"(5) On its ecclesiastical side Modernism relies upon conferences in board rooms, or better still, after a six-course dinner rather than upon personal work in the field after the ancient manner of the Apostles.

"(6) It inclines toward latitude in morals, thus striking a popular note and making it acceptable to the sporting tendencies in society. Their churches are more likely to have dancing deacons, tony and tricky trustees, light-hearted ladies, polished but seldom pungent preachers.

"(7) Modernism displays a strong leaning toward opinions backed by wealth. If it is in the Bible it is scholarly to doubt it, if from the lips of a John D. Rockefeller it is almost blasphemy to question it.

"(8) Tolerance toward all faiths except the orthodox, which is more to be dreaded than Mohammedanism.

"(9) Aversion to all authority as the 'historic curse of religion.'

"(10) No distinction between the natural and the supernatural, the sacred and the secular, little different from Pantheism. What an accommodating religion! It outdoes the Mohammedan who, it is understood, had to die in battle to gain his paradise, but no such sacrifice is asked by Modernism. Its paradise is entered through self expression."

AROUND THE WORLD IN OPEN LIFEBOAT

Five British Sailors to Make Long Adventurous Trip.

LONDON, March 31 (United Press).—Those who happen to go down to the Battery in New York on an uncertain day in June, will probably see a weather-beaten open lifeboat, with dingy sails and a crew of five with skipper, tacking across the harbor to New York.

It is an English lifeboat which is scheduled to start out from the Thames in May on a trip around the world, with New York its first port of call.

The vessel, which belonged until recently to the lifesaving service of Great Britain, is an open craft 30 feet long with a beam of 9 feet six inches. It has been fitted with a wireless and also an auxiliary engine. Its trip is expected to take two and a half years.

The skipper at the wheel is Captain George Everett Hitchens, who has been saving lives at the coastguard station at Pondoon, near Penzance. He says jocosely that he is now going to give somebody else a chance to save his life. Various rations for the crew will be experimented with and the data submitted to the English authorities.

HEART TROUBLE SHORTNESS OF BREATH

Mrs. Geo. E. Bowman, Morrisburg, Ont., writes:—"I am writing you a few lines to let you know of my experience with Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. Two years ago I became very poorly with my heart and nerves and whenever I took the least little bit of exercise my heart would start to jump and flutter. I could not walk up-stairs without having to sit down and rest before I was half-way up, on account of my breath becoming so short.

I commenced taking

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

and in no time I felt a great improvement, and can now heartily recommend them to all those who are troubled with any affection of the heart."

H. & N. Pills are for sale at all drug and general stores; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MAY WHEAT DECLINES 76c. FROM PEAK PRICE

Yesterday's Drop in Winnipeg Was 11 1-8c.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 31. — Tottering under an avalanche of selling orders, the wheat market was precipitated into another sensational decline on Monday which forced the prices down to the lo est level in several months.

May delivery was battered down to $1.44 7-8 for a loss of 16 1-8c below Saturday's closing figures and a total of 76c from the season's peak price of $2.20 7-8.

May wheat closed at $1.49 7-8—a net decline of 11 1-8c for the day.

The deferred futures and all coarse commodities were swept into the vortex of price disorganization. Buying power flattened out and the local and American markets crashed down without barely any resistance until shortly before the close of the session.

FRENCH SENATE ALTERS BUDGET BUT NOT TOTAL

Total of 32,500,000,000 Francs Presented in Upper Chamber—Salaries Retained.

HERRIOT APPROVES.

Revision of French Debt to Britain and United Sttaes Greatest Need.

PARIS, March 31. — (Canadian Press).—A budget of 32,500,000,000 francs, shorn of "political propaganda," injected by the Chamber, and free of "tinkering with civil and commercial laws," was presented in the Senate Monday by Senator Henry Berenger, reporter for the Finance Commission.

M. Berenger asserted that the Chamber had put into the budget "financial dead stock kept in reserve on shelves by the bureaus for many years," and this, along with numerous tax exemptions for certain classes had been pitilessly rejected. The Senate had retained the provisions for increases in the pay of functionaries and pensions amounting to about 1,600,000,000, but had trimmed other expenses so as to keep the budget within the Government's original estimates.

"The inter-allied debts problem must be solved," he said, "but for the moment we are in a difficult situation. Future budgets must depend upon the value of the franc, and the franc itself is largely dependent on the country's confidence."

He criticized the Government for preparing the budget so late that it was impossible for Parliament to pass it in time.

Allied Debt Obstacle.

Other speakers, in the discussion of the bill as a whole, voiced similar views. Senator Perchot warned that Government business must have more credit facilities. Agriculture was prosperous, but industry was seriously threatened. The inter-allied debts, he went on, were the principal obstacle to monetary stabilization, and he declared: "The country would never understand if the British and Americans should take an uncompromising attitude toward us after having reduced Germany's debt."

The Senate is likely to have its own way with the budget, for the leaders of Herriot's majority at a conference with the Premier last night agreed not to fight for most of the budget provisions to which the Senate objected, and exacted from M. Herriot the promise not to stake confidence on these measures before the budget was returned to the Chamber, except on the suppression of the Vatican Embassy.

UNITED STATES TO PARTICIPATE IN ARMS PARLEY

Initial Discussion by Cabinet Secretaries on Attitude to be Taken

AT GENEVA MAY 4.

Washington Restricted by Constitutional Limitations as to Manufacture of Arms.

WASHINGTON March 31. — Secretary Kellogg conferred yesterday with Secretaries Week, Wilbur and Hoover, in preparation for the forthcoming international conference in Geneva on traffic in arms, in which the United States government will be represented officially.

The Cabinet members met in Mr. Kellogg's office for the initial discussion of the attitude to be taken by the American delegation to the conference.

The conference will be held May 4th at Geneva, under the auspices of the League of Nations, and acceptance by the United States of the invitation to participate followed extensive correspondence in which it was pointed out that the Washington government was under certain constitutional limitations as to its powers over the manufacture of arms within its own jurisdiction and could only join in the negotiation of conventions to restrict arms traffic.

The meeting Monday was held in preparation for the appointment by the President of the United States delegation after a series of informal inquiries had been made at various capitals by the State Department to learn what other governments expected to discuss at the conference.

The arms traffic conference is an out-growth of the original treaty of St. Germaine, drawn up in 1919, under the terms of the treaty of Versailles. The Washington Government found it impossible to accept the treaty of St. Germaine because it involved conflicts with American constitutional provisions and also because it would have prevented the sale of arms to friendly powers.

The subsequent correspondence with the Secretary-General of the League of Nations, conducted through the legation at Berne, pointed out however that the Washington government had itself adopted a strict policy regarding sale of surplus.

GOVERNMENT HAS NOT DECIDED ON ELECTION

Premier King Says He Has Not Even Considered It.

OTTAWA, March 31. — "The Government has not decided on a date for a general election. So far as I am concerned, the matter has not been considered," said Premier King in the House on Monday.

The question came up when Robert Forke, the leader of the Progressives, read a Canadian Press despatch from Winnipeg, which quoted Hon. E. J. McMurray, Solicitor-General, as suggesting an election following the prorogation of Parliament. While Mr. Forke was reading the despatch, William Duff, Liberal, Lunenburg, called to the Progressive leader: "Speak for yourself, John," and the House rocked with laughter, while the Prime Minister rose to make a reply.

On account of the recent heavy rainfall, the roads in the vicinity are in a very poor condition. The frost has left the road in several places with the result that there are many deep holes which are causing much inconvenience.

RADIO 'DEAD SPOTS' HURT REALTY DEAL

Agents Cannot Sell Houses Unless Radio Reception is Good.

SACRAMENTO, Calif., March 31.—Realty dealers are having a hard time selling some of their property to radio fans.

The reason is prospects insists on testing out each location for the quality of reception they might expect there.

As a result several houses in Sacramento and its vicinity have become virtual white elephants because radio fans have discovered reception was poor at these points.

Other California cities also report the same difficulty. It is due to the existence of "dead spots" within which certain popular broadcasting stations can't be heard.

The value of a house located in a "dead spot" drops from 30 to 50 per cent. when this discovery is made. Purchasers who happen to be radio fans now consider radio conditions, as well as the other sales factors, such as condition of the porperty, building restrictions and transportation facilities.

LIQUOR SOURCE SECRET.

Woodstock Youth Preferred Term in Jail.

WOODSTOCK, March 31.—Leonard Waring, a 19 year old youth who was arrested on Saturday night for being intoxicated in a public place, elected to go to jail for three months, rather than give information as to where he secured his supply of liquor, and in addition to this will serve a term of two months as an alterantive to paying a fine of ten dollars and costs. Waring was engaged in a fight in a restaurant when arrested and beyond saying that he secured alcohol, he refused to give any information to Magistrate Ball in spite of warning as to

TOO MUCH PROPAGANDA.

Public Opinion Stifled Says Quebec M.P. in Stratford.

STRATFORD, Ont., March 31.—A charge that public opinion in this country is strangled by propaganda and a plea for a resumption of free play of public opinion constituted the message of C. A. Fournier, M. P., for Belle Chasse, Que., who spoke at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon Monday. He contended that practically every organization in the country had developed a press agency following the war and that the people did not really know what was going on.

LIQUOR WORST HOME FOE

Probation Officer Says It Causes 50 Per Cent. of Marital Troubles.

NEW YORK, March 30.—Liquor is the cause of 50 per cent. of domestic difference, Charles . Wood, probation officer at the Ridgewood Court, Queens, whose work necessitates inquiry annually into scores of marital tangles, said yesterday. Next to liquor, he said, his experience had shown that "in-laws" are the most accomplished troublemakers, accunting for perhaps 25 per cent. of all disrupted homes.

From ignorance, gambling and jealousy arises much of the remaining percentage of matrimonial discord, although there are numerous other minor causes. Liquor, the probation officer said, his increased as a homewrecker since prohibition. Most of the couples whose relations go on the rocks for one or the other of these reasons are married less than ten years, he declared.

FATALITIES FEW IN NOVA SCOTIA

Mine Accidents in 1924 Cause Thirty-One Deaths.

HALIFAX, N.S., March 31 (Canadian Press).—While no great disaster marked the operation of Nova Scotia's coal mines during the fiscal year ending September 30, 1924, the mines report tabled recently in the Legislative Assembly, shows that 31 men met violent death while at their work during that period. The greatest tragedy was that at Inverness colliery No. 1, when four men—Archibald, Neil and Daniel McIsaac and Daniel McDougall—were crushed to death beneath a fall of stone on February 7. Four more lives were snuffed out at Allan Shaft, Stellarton, June 30, when eleven miners were entombed by an explosion on the 1,200 foot level. John Walsh, James Scully and Hugh McInnes, were brought out dead soon after and several others received serious injuries, one of them, Dominick Van Larkin, dying of injuries a week later.

The other fatal accidents were caused by falls of coal and earth, explosions, electrocution, runaway cars and mining car accidents.

The fewest fatal accidents in the Nova Scotia coal mines in any one year since 1908, occurred in 1922, when only 19 men met violent death. The most disastrous year was 1918, when 122 lives were lost. That was the year of the explosion on the Allan Shaft, Stellarton, when 88 men were killed. The next largest number was in 1917, when 87 men were killed. This number included 65 men killed at Dominion No. 12, in the explosion of July 25, 1917.

LAMB CENTENARY.

Admirers of Essayist Honored His Memory in London.

LONDON, March 31.—One hundred years ago Charles Lamb, the famous English essayist, retired from the India house with a pension of £441 a year, and became in the words of the title of one of his essays, "The Superannuated Man."

This unusual centenary is being celebrated by reminiscent articles in the London press, and last night many well known writers and other admirers of Charles Lamb foregathered in memory of his retirement at a dinner at Inner Temple Hall, not far from Lamb's birthplace in Crown Office Row. Augustine Birrell, former chief secretary for Ireland, presided, and, in proposing a toast to "the immortal memory," said it enraged him beyond description to hear people speak of "the gentle Elia." He contended that but for his one well-known weakness, Lamb was "a strong, prudent, generous, self-denying man."

OIL IN AUSTRALIA.

First Definite Discovery Reported in West Queensland.

NEW YORK, Mar. 31—The first definite discovery of oil in Australia was reported Monday by J. A. M. Elder, Australian commissioner here. Previous search had developed traces.

Mr. Elder made public the following cablegram from the commonwealth Government with reference to the occurrence of oil in the Longreach Town Council's bore:

"Geologist Morton of the Queensland Government says the discovery of the mineral in Longreach, western Queensland, has afforded the most signal proof to date of the fact already recognized that the artesian basis of the state is not devoid of petroleum contents. This instance is only an end product in what was doubtless once an oil sand."

C.N.R. RADIO STATION.

Powerful Plant Being Established on Pacific Coast.

OTTAWA, March 31.—The Canadian National Railways is establishing a new radio station on Lulu Island, British Columbia, which will be one of the most powerful plants on the Pacific Coast. This information was given in the House of Commons Monday to W. G. McQuarrie, (Conservative, New Westminster).

"Is it the intention to broadcast from the station Canadian news to steamers plying on the Pacific?" asked Mr. McQuarrie.

"The broadcasting of news items to ships at sea is one of the features at present under consideration by the Canadian National Railway management in connection with the new radio station," replied Hon. George P. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals.

A campaign to raise an endowment fund of $17,500,000 has been started by the University of Chicago.

THE GRENFELL LABRADOR MISSION.

No. 3. North-West River Cottage Hospital.

Some of those who read this little series of articles will recall that about a year ago, while Dr. Paddon was in New England on furlough, his winter base hospital, at North-West River (at the base of Hamilton Inlet), was entirely destroyed by fire. Because, at that time, the Grenfell stations were not equipped with radio receiving and transmitting sets, it took over six weeks or news of this disaster to reach mission headquarters. This year, thanks to generous friends, all the Grenfell stations ave wireless and can "listen in" to concerts, and church services when atmospheric conditions are propitious. This venture registers a great step in advance for Labrador and breaks the long winter silence which formerly reigned in that land once navigation closed. No longer does the Grenfell staff, in the world's outposts, feel the tedium of news-less weeks and an isolation somewhat trying to bear.

The cottage hospital at North-West River was replaced last summer by a much better building than the one lost by fire. All the material for the new structure was taken north by a special steamer early last summer and the work of supervision and construction was entirely the work of Labrador men. The supervisors were two native men, educated in their youth by the Grenfell Mission at Pratt Technical Institute, and ever since in its employ. Dr. Paddon writes that the building is a great credit to those who erected it and is warm and comfortable in every way. It was ready for occupation when Dr. Paddon with his family and staff went down the bay in early October. Once more has the doctor's faith in his northern neighbors been amply justified, or he has always contended that constructive activity was what was needed to bring out the latent, but inherent good qualities in these Labrador folk.

All who are interested in the work of the Grenfell Labrador Mission are reminded that the annual membership fee is only $2.00, which includes the quarterly magazine, Among the Deep Sea Fishers.

VISITED HOLY PLACES.

Balfour to Open Hebrew University April 1.

JERUSALEM, March 31.— The Earl of Balfour, accompanied by Sir Gilbert Clayton, civil secretary of the Palestine Government, and by a guard of honor, visited the Christian and Jewish holy places Sunday afternoon. Sunday morning the distinguished guest, in Palestine to open the new Hebrew University April 1, attended divine services in St. George's Cathedral, where Bishop MacInnis preached the sermon.

It was stated that Lord Balfour would proceed to Jericho, the Jordan and the Dead Sea on Monday.

DAMAGES FOR RAILWAY

Motorist Parked Car on Track and Injured a Locomotive.

SAN MATEO, Cal., Mar. 31 (Associated Press).—A man should show some consideration for a locomotive, held Justice of the Peace Walter Bird recently in assessing Hugh Jamieson $62.72 for damages with his automobile a Southern Pacific engine proceeding peacably along its own right-of-way.

The evidence indicated that Jamieson drove his car down the railroad tracks and went to sleep. Members of the train crew said they had to awaken Jamieson after he had been carried for 90 feet on the engine pilot. The locomotive got the worst of the encounter. Jamieson was not hurt. His car was not badly damaged. Railroad officials said it cost $67.72 to fix up the engine, and the court entered judgement accordingly.

Voice Of The People

Will you please insert the attached letter printed in the Globe, and written by W. J. Shean, of Toronto:

Modernism In The Church.

To the Editor of The Globe: Many members of the Methodist church are quite amazed at the fact that silence still prevails with the leading officiary of Methodist church on such an important matter as the statements made in the essay printed by the Methodist Book and Publishing Company, and recommended by the editor to be a good study for various church organizations, when the said essay sets forth arguments to disprove the Virgin Birth of Christ, and also the sacrifice of Christ on the Cross as an atonement for sin.

I am satisfied that I am expressing the views of the great rank and file of the Methodist people, not only in Canada, but all over the world, when I say "that we take no second place in our belief in the Virgin Birth of Christ, and also that His death on the Cross was God's great plan of salvation."

In my prison reform work I have proved it to be the power of God unto salvation to every one who comes to Him in repentance and faith. I have known men in prison who had gone into the depths of sin and crime, when punishment inflicted by the law had no effect, when the story of the crucified has lifted them from the depths of sin to a new life, and they have become good citizens.

Has modern theology anything better to offer? I think not. The words of the Apostle Paul, found in I. Timothy, Chapter 4, and first and second verses, are applicable to the present situation.

I have taken no part in the Church Union question, but I hail with gladness anything that will combine the forces of the great army of God's people in the spirit of love and unity to wage war against sin, but if the new Church is going to allow Modernism to control it then I would say, "Stay ye out from among them."

THE ORIGIN OF UNION.

To the Editor of The Globe (Toronto): My excuse for venturing to write on the question of Church Union is that, as many of our ministers have stated their point of view, a voice from the pews may not be unwelcome, especially as that voice belongs to an elder in one of the oldest congregations in the Province (St. Andrew's, Niagara, organized 1794), which has recently voted not to enter the Union. I may say that I am a whole-hearted Unionist, yet I consider myself absolutely loyal to our beloved Presbyterian Church, which some twenty years ago originated this movement, and whose every Assembly since that time has urged on the project, and whose members and sessions have twice voted on and sustained it by large majorities. Now, I would like to emphasize the fact that this movement is strictly an unselfish one. It was the demand all through the great Western Provinces for better, more effective church accommodation that forced the issue. All through this vast country there have been hamlets with two or more churches which were weak and non-supporting, while whole areas were churchless, and into these open spaces were coming from Central and Southern Europe hordes of people who had to be assimilated and taught high Canadian ideals. Now was the time to do this, not twenty years from now. That would be too late. Something had to be done to save the situation, and that at once. Co-operation was tried and failed—that is, it did not meet the needs of the situation. Then the General Assembly of 1917 unanimously took another step. They encouraged the formation of local unions, each church thus formed to be kept in connection with one or other of the old denominations until the completion of the larger union. The idea acted as magic and spread all over the land until now there are over 1,200 charges with more than 3,000 preaching stations in which old denominational rivalry and consequent handicap has subsided and the people are worshipping together in harmony. Now, I ask, could the old denominations do less than keep their plighted word to these churches thus formed? We Presbyterians pride ourselves on our reliability and steadfastness in matters of honor. We despise a person who breaks a solemn pledge, yet in a situation in which the honor of the Church of God is at stake we do not hesitate to repudiate our vow. What a shock to one's sense of the eternal fitness of things!

In the mass of correspondence against Church Union the very kernel of the question seems lost to view. The point is reiterated as to what "we" want and not what the urgency of the situation demands; what "our" wish is, not what the Lord asks of us. We in Ontario, with our complacent self-satisfaction, are keeping up two or three congregations in many small villages, and in cities are sitting in cushioned pews, amidst luxurious surroundings, listening to intellectual discourses and high-class music, while all through the thousands of square miles of prairies there are poor, lonely souls starving for the Bread of Life just because we are too selfish or too indifferent to place our offering at the feet of the Master and say: "I love my Church, even the very name of which has meant so much to me, but if it be Thy wish that I should surrender the name for the advancement of Thy cause and the good of Thy Kingdom, not my will, O Lord, but Thine be done."

We all deplore the bitter controversy that has arisen in this matter, but this is no new thing, as every great advance along moral and religious lines has been accompanied by conflicting opinions, divided homes, violent heartburnings and possibly years of strife. Owing to the weakness of mankind this seems to be the inevitable price of spiritual progress in the masses. In the present discussion I would account for the bitter strife in at least one of five ways: (1) Because of the different temperaments of individuals; (2) Because of the lack of accurate information as to the why and wherefore of the movement; (3) because of the blind attachment to the name "Presbyterian"; (4) because of the noble record of the Presbyterian Church we have grown to consider ourselves just a little superior to some other denominations, and, finally, (5) because of the persistent, and, at times, fairly frantic agitation of a few ministers in opposition to the movement, by which we lay people are so unsettled in our views as not to know our own mind. In conclusion, I would say that it is exceedingly painful to read letters in the press stating that this whole movement is one urged on by our ministers, who are seeking better positions and larger salaries. It may be true that there are a few self-seeking persons allied to this cause, for such can be found in every sphere of human effort, but I believe the great majority of our ministers are men of the finest calibre, men of large brains, generous hearts and noble natures; men whose only ambition is to advance the cause of the Master in this magnificent Canada of ours. No, despite the fact that possibly half of the Presbyterian denomination in Ontario will, for the present at least, remain out of the Union, I believe this to be the greatest advance in Christian thought and action of modern times. I believe the Lord will abundantly bless a movement in which the people surrender their personal attachment to a denomination because urged on by a purely unselfish desire to advance the Master's cause; to think and act for others rather than for themselves; in fact, to do unto others as they would have others do unto them. As I understand it, this is the pure Christian principle. W. D. CASKEY.

Local Druggists Have Modern Remedy for Colds

A Vaporizing Salve which is Rubbed Over Throat and Chest for Colds.

When Vicks VapoRub, the "external 'method of treating sore throat, bronchitis, deep chest colds, or croup, is applied over throat or chest, the ingredients are released as vapors by the body heat.

These vapor, inhaled with each breath carry the medication directly to the affected air passages, loosening the phlegm and relieving the congestion.

Colds are usually relieved over night.

THE STAR MAP FOR APRIL

This star map shows the heavens as they appear at 9 p.m. April 1, 8 p.m. April 15 and 7 p.m. April 30 in latitude 35 north though a change of 5 or 10 degrees north or south will make little change in the appearance of the heavens.

To view the constellations as they appear in the heavens hold the chart inverted or above the head with the top toward the north.

The most conspicuous constellations in view this month are Leo, The Lion, which contains the well-known Sickle, now directly southeast of the zenith, or point overhead, the Big Dipper in Ursa Major approaching the meridian in the northeast, Genini in the west, and Virgo and Bootes far over in the eastern sky.

Bootes, The Herdsman, contains the orange-colored Arcturus which is exactly equal in brightness to Capella, in Auriga, now visible in the northwestern part of the sky.

They are two of the brightest stars of the northern hemisphere of the heavens. Spica, in Virgo, is a bluish-white star less brilliant than Arcturus. About an hour later than the time for which this star map is given the planet Saturn will appear above the eastern horizon.

It is now near the boundary line between the constellations of Virgo and Libra, which is next to Virgo on the east.

The planet Mars will now be found far over the north-west. At the beginning of the month it will be a little north of Aldebaran in the Hyades, in Taurus.

The two are very similar in color, both being a deep red, but Aldebaran is now considerably brighter than Mars. During the month Mars will move rapidly eastward and by April 30 will be found some distance to the east of Aldebaran and about midway between the tips of the horns of Taurus.

On April 1 the distance of Mars from the earth is about 181,500,000 miles as compared with its distance of less than 35,000,000 miles at opposition last August.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir: For the faythers have eaten sour grapes and the children's teeth are set on edge. That is the true cause of all this pother about prohibition which is the new modernism in its most ungodly dress. Some have set themselves to make over the Word of God and to wash away from it all reference to alcohol. Others have set themselves to make over the works of God in the same likewise. Who are these self-satisfied poor things of the flesh and dust that set themselves up to make over God and His world? Who are they? Who are they that would visit the sins of the world upon God and His works? Who are they I say?

—MacIntosh.

WHAT IS TRUTH?—JOHN 18-38.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

For I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand; I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course I have kept the faith.—II. Tim. 4, 6 and 7.

These are some of the last words which we have in Scripture of the great Apostle to the Gentiles. He has reached the top of the hill from where he can see both the future and the past. As we view the past more than thirty years have come and gone since we are first introduced to a young man whose name was Saul. We have a vision of him urging on the murderers of Stephen, that noble witness of Jesus Christ. He sees that shining face, as he (Stephen) looks up to heaven and hears that wonderful testimony ere they beat out his (Stephen) precious life with stones. I see the heavens opened and the Son of Man standing on the right hand of God. But he rejects the dying testimony of this hero of faith and continues to persecute and put to death all who were believers of the Lord Jesus.

But, suddenly, as he goes on his mad course, about mid-day, a light above the brightness of the sun shines around him; and a voice is heard saying, "Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me?" And so here we have a sudden conversion. Saul, the persecutor, becomes Paul, the sufferer. For the Lord says, "I will shew him how great things he must suffer for my name sake."—Acts 9-16.

And who can read the record of those thirty years of service and suffering without their soul being stirred within them. But there is one more trial ahead, and that, the worst; Nero's axe will soon do its terrible work. But is he going to stand the ordeal? Will the grace that saved him still carry him on to victory in this last battle? Listen: Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness. (Margin says, victor's crown.)—II. Tim. 4-8. "Nero, you may take my head, but the Lord will give me a crown and a head on which to wear it." And again: For me to live is Christ; and to die is gain. . . . For I am in a strait betwixt two, having a desire to depart, and to be with Christ, which is far better. (Margin says, very far better.)—Philippians 1, verses 21-23.

Therefore we are always confident, knowing that, whilst we are at home in the body we are absent from the Lord: (For we walk by faith, not by sight)—We are confident, I say, and willing rather to be absent from the body, and to be present with the Lord.—II. Cor., chapter 5, verses 6-8.

But lest we should be burdensome to both printers and readers we must refrain from going deeper into this intensely interesting and momentous subject. In our next letter we will have the testimony of the greatest one who has ever spoken on what comes after death.

Very truly yours—T. C. Yonge, 190 Park Street, South, Peterborough, Ont.

THE PROBLEMS OF WEST HINGE ON POPULATION

More People Needed to Buy Goods From Eastern Canada.

FOR RETURN LOADS

Railways Must Have Freight Both Ways for Low Rates.

DRUMBELLER, Alta. March 31 (Special to the Examiner). — The question of getting Alberta coal to the Ontario market is one that affects the coal industry in the former province even more than it affects the consumer in the latter. At present the mine owner and the miner are suffering from the seasonal nature of the mine operations. From the standpoint of the operator his overhead at present is too high, because he has to keep a number of mine officials and miners at work while the mine is not producing, in order to keep it in working order The miner has steady work for about three months, occasional work for three months more and must remain idle the rest of the year. It would be possible to reduce the price of the coal, if the mines were working steady all the time, the overhead reduced and the miner able to work for lower wages.

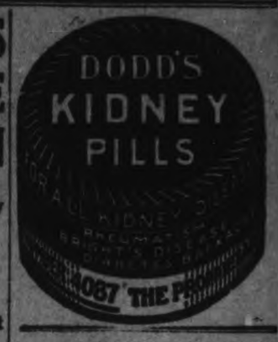
Canadians in the West as well as in the East are becoming more and more convinced of the fact that they must buy Canadian goods, if they are to be able to stay in Canada. The freight rate on coal could be further reduced, if return freights could be found for the cars going East loaded with coal. The obvious solution is the sending of goods manufactured in the East to the West. There are two factors preventing this solution. One is that Ontario and the other Eastern provinces do not produce what the West needs, and it has to come from the South.

The other obstacle is the inability at present of the West to consume enough goods to make it profitable for the East to produce them. What, therefore, is needed is a larger population in the West, and in a vigorous immigration policy both East and West can unite. The era of very large farms is passing in the West. A farm consisting of a section of land or 640 acres did not seem 10 years ago too big for a man to handle, but now half a section is considered quite enough, because farmers have for one thing learned to farm more intensely and go in more for mixed farming, and for another thing, irrigation has made it possible to make a better living on less land. The West is, therefore, ready for closer settlement. This would also make the present public utilities more profitable. The railways especially will profit by closer settlement, as it will make for a better use of the present lines and defer the building of new main lines must continue to be built. Opportunities for the young men from Eastern farms are excellent in the West, if they will come with the intention of working hard and staying with the job.

When the writer came to the West from Ontario several years ago, he was told most horrible things of what was awaiting him there, especially in the matter of winds. He was told that all the barns were being built round, so as to be protected from the wind. He has, however, found things not quite so bad, and although he has experienced a few wind storms, especially in Saskatchewan, he came through them unkilled and even unwounded. There is one wind that brings nothing but cheer and comfort, and that is the chinook wind, which is felt mostly in Alberta but will under favourable circumstances reached Saskatchewan. This wind comes up usually during the night, but on the evening before one usually notices what is called the chinook arch. This is a bit of blue sky in the West taking the form of an arch. The wind comes from British Columbia through the passes in the Rocky Mountains and raises the tempearture even in midwinter above the thawing point often making strangers think that spring has arrived. The wind last often from two days to a week and affords a welcome relief from the rigours of the winter.

Western cities are in the throws of publicity campaigns. Vancouver has just finished a successful drive for funds, Edmonton is in the midst of a campaign, and Calgary is talking of one. The object is to raise enough funds to advertise the cities and the surrounding country for a couple of years. Just at the time of writing Edmonton is setting itself to raise sixty thousand dollars They had a land settlement conference a few days ago, when the citizens met with the surrounding farming communities and settled upon a definite plan of filling up the farming land in Northern and Central Alberta. It is to be hoped that Eastern Canadians will avail themselves of the facilities offered by the land settlement boards, and that the Western cities will look for new settlers in their territories not in foreign lands but among their own countrymen in the East or at least among the British mother stock.

The past winter has been a very hard one in the West. The weather has kept quite cold, and an unusual amount of snow has fallen. It is anticipated that the rivers this summer will be full to overflowing, and it is possible that we shall have some damage from floods. Frost is still in the air, in fact it freezes every night. The first rainfall of the season occured in Alberta on Sunday, March 22. So far, therefore ,there has been a good amount of moisture, and the crops will have at least a good start this year.



TURNS DOWN FREEDOM.

Silvio Visconti Howls Outside Jail Until Admitted.

ROME, March 31 (Associated Press)—The incorrigibility and contempt for the police which made Silvio Visconti a thorn in the side of the authorities a half century ago, when he was a member of the famous Cipriano La Gala bandit band, stood him in good stead recently when he again, at the age of 94, found himself at odds with the forces of law and order.

Informed by the wardens of the Portici prison in Naples, where he had been incarcerated for 45 years, that he was free, he insisted that he wanted to spend the rest of his days in jail. Despite the aged man's protests, two caribineers took him to his native village, Gissuni-Vallepiana. But Silvio knew they could not keep him out of jail if he broke his good conduct parole, so he walked back the 300 miles to Naples, an heroic task for a man of his age, sat down in front of the prison gate and howled until the wardens were forced to admit him.

Money AT WORK

By LAWRENCE A. ADAMS

Assistant Marketing Specialist, U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

* * *

Competition in the retail field is keen. Every one is not fitted to run such a business successfully. More is required than enough capital to secure fixtures and a stock of goods. Experience is necessary, as is a pleasing personality and a knowledge of purchasing and pricing.

Adequate records and ability to analyze them is required as an insurance against incurring a constant loss. Many retailers now in business would be better off if they were to sell their enterprise and go to work for somebody else as clerks. This fact was brought out very forcibly in a survey of the retail meat trade. One out of four merchants was failing to earn the same wages which he would get if he was working for some one else.

REDUCE DIVIDENDS TO BUILD OFFICES

The London Banks Establish Many New Branches in Suburbs.

LONDON, March 31 (Associated Press).—The square mile of the "city" of London is gradually being changed almost out of recognition by new buildings, mostly erected by the big banks which are slowly crowding out other institutions of the commercial fraternity. It is said that, so anxious are these financial institutions to build vast new premises for their customers' needs, they will soon crowd these same customers out of the city altogether. Many commercial institutions have already had to seek premises further westward, in Aldwych and Kingsway, and by the time the new Bank of England is completed and the huge central office of the "Big Five" banks is built, several more commercial houses will have found it necessary to move further afield.

So keen are these big banks for custom that they open branches at every suburb of London, and on the most favorable site, the principle being to bring the bank to the customer's door.

Shareholders, at the various annual meetings of the banks, frequently complain they are paid only 12 to 15 percent, when from the business done larger dividends would be possible, but they are told it is necessary to build new offices and new branches, and that there must be large sums available for such purposes.

MAKING COOKS OF THE MERE MALES

English School Teaches Hubby to Cook While Wifey Works.

LONDON, March 31 (United Press).—English mamas-in-law have devised a new safeguard against the enslavement of "poor dear daughter" after marriage.

Nine hundred and four husky, able-bodied men are enrolled here in a school exclusively devoted to the production of male amateur cooks.

The curriculum is suited to the prospective or immediate needs of a man whose wife often is away from home—running for parliament, attending clubs, practicing law, trading on the stock exchange, or pursuing any of the other many occupations which only a few years ago comprised man's sacred domain.

The school goes a long way farther than simply teaching a man how to boil water. It teaches him the best way to fry "ham and" while, at the same time, holding the baby and pacifying a squalling three-year-old tugging at his trousers leg. It teaches him how to make all the courses in a six-round banquet. Altogether, there are about seventy different classes. The teaching staff declares their pupils are very keen, "much more intelligent than many girls we have taught."

Found Home For Dog In Declining Years

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 31.—A home—one befitting a companion and friend—has been found by 82 year old Jacob Siler for his dog, Joe. It's a farm, having all the requirements outlined by his aged master.

Joe is a fox terrier, but he is more than just a dog to Siler—a companion and a friend. The two have lived in a tiny house since the dog's birth ten years ago.

Recently siler offered a legacy of $5,000 to any person furnishing Joe a suitable home for life. A big farm, close to the city, a pond for Joe to swim in, a telephone, a dog and children for Joe to play with, a nearby settlement, and a nice big house, were the requisites.

Approximately 1,200 offers were received, and the place finally selected is the home of William T. Mertz, near Altheim, in St. Louis County. It not only will be the future residence of Joe, but also his aged master, for Mertz has offered to furnish both of them a home.

BURN MORE PAPER LIRE.

ROME, March 31.—Another instalment of Italy's paper money which is on the programme for destruction was burned Sunday in the presence of Finance Minister de Stefani, Nicola Pavoncelli, President of the Bank of Italy, and a large number of Government officials. The amount burned was 320,000,000 lire. Last Wednesday 100,000,000 lire in banknotes were destroyed in a bonfire.

The destruction of the money was carried out with formal ceremony in the courtyard of the Via Serpenti. Officials scrutinized the workmen who took the banknotes from thirteen sacks and threw them in small bundles into the flames.

NEWS OF BRITISH LOAN LEAKED OUT

Enquiry Failed to Locate the Channel of Disclosure.

LONDON, March 31.—(Canadian Press).—Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, came in for some heckling in the House of Commons last evening concerning the alleged premature disclosure on the Stock Exchange of the news of an issue of thirty million sterling conversion loan. Several Conservative members, the Communist Saklatvala and a Labor member pressed the point as to how the news had been divulged.

Churchill replied that immediately he had heard the loan was disclosed before the public announcement, he asked Sir Warren Fisher to fully investigate personally the matter, and Fisher told Churchill that after a full enquiry he was satisfied that no such disclosure had been made. Churchill stated Fisher had also informed him that the movement of prices which had been general and not confined to government stocks, was explicable by the state of the markets, and that the sales had not been abnormal.

Replying to another question, Churchill said that the prospectuses of the loan had been printed in the Bank of England, "and it was not suggested that any leakage occurred there." Replying further, Churchill caused laughter when he said: "Of course many people are interested in finding out what is going to take place in these matters; they make their living by doing so."

LAW STUDENTS OF SORBONNE FINED

Some Sentenced to Jail—Dean is Suspended.

PARIS, March 31.— The suspension Monday of Dr. Louis Berthelemy, dean of the Sorbonne Law Faculty, growing out of the rioting by Royalist and Conservative Republican students of the University of Paris on Saturday, caused unusual effervescence in the Parisian Latin quarter yesterday afternoon and projects were under way for anti-Government manifestations today.

Royalist students were already to stage a protest Monday afternoon, but the presence of a large group of communists dissuaded the "King's henchmen" as the Royalists are called.

After singing songs criticizing Dr. Georges Scelle, the international law professor who the students claim was imposed upon the school by the French Government, the young men dispersed, shouting "resign Scelle!" and "shame on Herriot!" The students then went to Dr. Berthelemy's house, where they shouted their loyalty to him.

The trial of the Sorbonne students who participated in Saturday's demonstration resulted in one medical student being sentenced to fifteen days in prison and a fine of fifty francs for "violence and rebellion." Others received suspended jail sentences, benefitting by being first offenders, and small fines.

ANNUAL CONCERT OF MARK STREET CHOIR

Excellent Programme Reflects Credit Upon V. Boorman For Training.

The annual concert of the Mark Street Church Choir was given last evening before an audience that filled the church to capacity. An excellent programme was rendered by the choir and assisting artists, in Mrs. Hazel Davidson McClelland, elocutionist Miss Isobel Donnelly, pianist; Mr. C. Rusau, violinist, and a quartette composed of members from Trinity Church Choir, in Mrs. H. Doig and Mrs. E. Kitney, also Mr. J. Ridyard, Jr., and Mr. V. Boorman, of Mark Street Choir.

The choir excelled itself last night and called forth enthusiastic applause after every number. To Mr. Boorman belongs a great deal of credit for the fine training of his organization of about thirty-five members. A careful attention to detail in phrasing and tone production is evident in their singing, and they show a thorough knowledge of their music.

Encores for the choral numbers were given, as for the other numbers on the programme, the vocal quartette "Flora's Holiday," and Mrs. McClelland's readings being particularly well received.

The opening selection by the choir, sung in splendid voice, was "Onward, Christian Soldiers," followed later by "The Roseate Hues of Early Dawn," "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," and "Soldiers of Christ, Arise."

Mrs. E. Kitney and Mrs. H. Doig gave vocal solos in place of two members who were ill, both being well received. Mrs. Doig sang "Spring is Here," with encore, and Mrs. Kitney sang "Love's Golden Dawn,' and "When My Ships Come Sailing Home." Several violin selections were rendered by Mr. C. Rusau, and Mrs. McClelland contributed a number of heartily-encored readings to the programme, in her usual fine style. Norman Watts gave a pianoforte selection.

The singing of the quartette, who gave a cycle of Old English melodies, "Floras Holiday," was exceptionally well received ,the audience enjoying the pretty music of the various solos and quartettes included in this selection.

The chairman for the evening, who gave an opening address, and also enlivened the entertainment with various humorous allusions during the progress of the programme was Mr. Joseph Wearing. Miss Isobel Donnelly played the accompaniments for the choral numbers, and Mr. G. H. King those of the soloists, Mrs. Doig and Mrs. Kitney, and the quartette.

At the conclusion of the concert, a banquet to the choir and assisting artists was given in the Sunday School rooms by the Ladies' Aid Society of the church.

EDMONTON, March 31. — In the interests of economy, the Alberta Legislature last night passed a motion introduced by W. M. The residence will likely be used for government offices at the end of the present year.

BUILDING HAS TAKEN A SPURT

Three New Dwellings and a Number of Enlargements Presaged.

TOTAL $15,000.

That March will constitute a record for several years in the amount of building permits issued seems probable today, even without those issued up to closing time tonight. Permits issued up until this morning call for an expenditure of over $15,000. The total for March last year was $7,850; for March, 1923, $2,115; for March, 1922, $10,020; and for March, 1921, $13,445. When the total for the month is added up tomorrow, it will show a substantial advance over the previous four years.

Three dwelling houses have been authorized this year, besides alterations to convert a house into two apartments and to add several apartments to an apartment house. Eight garages are on the list, and seven permits for re-shingling. Several permits have been taken out for repairs or alterations of various kinds. The largest single permit is for $4,000 for a gasoline station at the corner of Aylmer and Charlotte Streets to replace the Chinese laundry which has long been an eyesore at the corner. The permits this month call for an expenditure of over $15,000, not including those issued today.

HOUSES UNDERMINED By Quebec Floods

Farms Inundated and Many Towns Are Threatened—Rise Is Slow.

QUEBEC, March 31. — The situation in Beauce County, where the flood threatens to cause serious damage in a number of towns and villages, and farms along the bansk of the Beauce and Chaudiere Rivers, has changed little since yesterday, although considerable apprehension was caused by the rain that fell last night. The rivers, swollen by the annual spring floods continue to rise but as the rise is slow and the waters are not running fast there is little immediate danger.

Many farms are already inundated and the foundations of some houses are undermined by the sweeping waters.

MRS. BAYTOISAE TRIAL.

Charge of Being Accessory After the Fact of Husband's Murder.

HAMILTON, March 31.—(Canadian Press).—Mrs. Baytoisae, who is on trial along with three men on the charge of being an accessory after the fact of the murder of her husband, Joseph Baytoisae, was under cross-examination in the witness box again to-day. Replying to questions from the judge and counsel, Mrs. Baytoisae contradicted her statements of yesterday in several particulars. She previously stated that her husband did not know Panko Shabaha, one of the accused, but to-day she admitted that Panko and her husband were acquainted. She also admitted she had said of Panko, "He would tie up your throat and tear out your eyes." At times the witness was evasive, and Justice Kelly finally ordered her to answer questions "Yes" or "No."

Small and Light.

Small cars in Europe have engines with piston displacement of from 60 to 67 cubic inches, much smaller even than the 93-inch displacement to which racing cars in America have been brought down to for this year.

Why the Small Car.

The small car has been made popular in Europe primarily because its maintenance is low and then because taxes on it are low. In addition it is best for city conditions, being faster, easier to operate and easier to park.

PRICE OF COAL AT LOW LEVEL

Local Dealers Advise People to Stock Up on Coal Now.

PLENTY ON HAND.

The price of coal for April will be the lowest that can be looked for this summer, according to local dealers. There is plenty of coal at the present time, but the miners' wage agreement runs out on August 31 and some suspension of work is looked for. All the coal dealers with whom The Examiner spoke were unanimous in advising that coal should be bought now, as it might be hard to get later on.

Robert Hicks.—The price of coal for April is the lowest at which it can be handled. A suspension can be looked for when the wage agreement runs out on September 1.

McCarthy and Johnston (R Johnston)—The price of coal is as low as it can go. There will likely be a suspension at the beginning of September. Coal is plentiful now and the dealers are buying as much as they can handle.

T. Rehill Co.—There is plenty of coal now and the price is as low as it will be this summer. There may be a suspension when the wage agreement comes to an end on September 1.

Hodgson Bros.—There is lot of coal now. Shortage is the trouble ahead.

H. Dinsdale.—The price can't go any lower.

Kelly Bros.—Lots of coal just now. The price will likely go up when navigation opens up. There is likely to be a suspension of work at the beginning of September, and there may be a shortage of coal.

Cooney and Jopling (Mr. Jopling)—Everybody should stock up now, as a shortage is possible in fall.

FINE FEATHERS.

MANCHESTER, Eng., March 31. —A travelling feather merchant purchased two pillows from an old woman near here. An hour later he saw a man wildly chasing him. In the pillows the man had secreted nearly $2,000, his lifetime savings, without telling his wife where the money was hidden.

Scores of relatives are grouped about the pit-head, including many women, who have stood in the cold rain for fourteen hours in the hope of a rescue. When it was learned that only a miracle could save the men, there were distressing scenes.

MAIL ROUTES HAVE BEEN DISTRIBUTED

Millbrook District Men Have Tenders Accepted—General News.

MILLBROOK, March 31.— John Hatherly has received official notice that his tender for the rural mail route, No. 2, south of the village, has been accepted, duties to begin April 1st. S. Sloan's tender for Route No. 3, west of the village, has also been accepted.

Jas. Eastcott, formerly had the route which Mr. Hatherly is now to take over, and the late A. Hanna the one Mr. Sloan will serve. The latter has been covering the route during the late Mr. Hanna's extended illness, and since his decease some few weeks ago.

Geo. Sanderson is still in charge of R. R. No. 1, east of the village, the contract for this not having expired in March of this year as did the other two routes.

Review of Lessons.

The quarterly review of the lessons was taken up in the Methodist Sunday school on Sunday afternoon, Mrs. (Rev.) F. H. Howard, and the Superintendent, W. Fred Fallis, giving the talk, illustrated by lantern slides, which covered the period from the betrayal of Judas to the Ascension.

Lawrence Roland gave a recitation, "Sifted," when the slide showing Peter's denial was on the screen, and Wilma Fallis recited, "He has no hand but our hands," at the conclusion of the review.

The series of slides was the best yet used by the school to illustrate the quarter's lessons, practically every one being a copy of some famous painting depicting a scene in the final week of Christ's early life, and during the intervening forty day's period until the Ascension.

Successful Sale.

A successful sale of home-made baking, candy, etc., was held in C. C. Garside's store on Saturday afternoon, under the auspices of the Woman's Missionary Auxiliary of the Methodist church.

The leaders of five of the groups into which the Auxiliary is divided were responsible for the sale, Mrs. J. McKnight, Mrs. T. H. Aiken, Miss Mary Widdis, being among the active workers who carried it through to a successful conclusion. Mrs. Howard, Mrs. A. J. Brown, Mrs. C. C. Garside, and Mrs. Hugh Kennedy were others who gave assistance as required during the afternoon.

The tempting array of home-made bread, tea biscuits, tarts, pies and cakes were disposed of about as rapidly as they were brought in and displayed upon the counter, while the vegetables contributed by a number of members living in the country also found a ready sale.

As a rule the Auxiliary prefers to raise its finances by means of annual membership fees, life members' fees, Easter Thank-offering, free-will offerings, mite boxes, etc., but for various reasons the funds on hand at present are considerably less than at the corresponding period last year, hence the extra effort on Saturday to increase the budget which must be sent to the branch treasurer by May 7th.

Last year, including a bequest of $100,000 from the late Miss L. Pendrie, the Auxiliary sent $411.00 to the branch treasurer— the largest amount raised in its history.

The regular thank offering will be taken up on Easter Sunday morning when the Auxiliary, Circle and Band will attend service in a body, and the pastor, Rev. F. H. Howard, will preach a special sermon appropriate to the occasion. The thank offering last year was $76.30, and three new Life Membership fees amounted to $75.00.

FAMOUS BRITISH NAVAL FEAT VIVIDLY REPRODUCED

The British naval raid on Zeebrugge, the glorious exploit of the British Navy on St. George's Day, 1918, and the success of which turned the tide on the western front, has been reproduced in moving pictures in a most wonderful way.

The whole story is thrilling from start to finish, permeated with that British spirit that won the war. The story of Zeebrugge was reproduced under the guidance of the officers of the British Admiralty, surviving officers and marines, who actually took part in the heroic raid, going through their acts again, but this time before the camera.

Some idea of the tremendous task undertaken to put "Zeebrugge" on the screen may be gained when it is known that it cost $2,500,000 to reproduce, and then the Admiralty loaned the ships, etc., so that the British people may get the historic value of the raid.

The whole action at Zeebrugge is accurate in every detail, the soldiers on the deck being real soldiers, and the smoke screen being supplied by Alan Brock, of Brock's Fireworks, the brother of the wing commander who lost his life gloriously during the fighting on the Mole.

THEY STRENGTHEN WEAK KIDNEYS

So Says Madame D. Blanchard of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

New Brunswick lady strongly recommends them.

STE. JEANNE D'ARC, N.B., March 30.—(Special).—"I give you a testimonial of my health. I can recommend your Dodd's Kidney Pills as they have done me much good. They have greatly strengthened my kidneys, which were very weak. I recommend all persons suffering from kidney trouble to use Dodd's Kidney Pills as they are a splendid remedy."

What Madame Blanchard states is all that has ever been claimed for Dodd's Kidney Pills—that they are good for sick kidneys. The road to good health lies through the kidneys. If they are kept strong and well, all the impurities are strained out of the blood. If they are weak and out of order the impurities stay in the blood and disease is the sure result.

Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys in good condition to do their work of cleaning and purifying the blood.

A few minutes at the Laura Secord Shop will show you the very interesting way these dainty morsels are made. You are welcome at 380 George Street.

WAITER SUICIDES OVER PROHIBITION

Club Padlocked in Police Clean Up—Waiter Out of Work.

NEW YORK, March 31. — Prohibition has taken a toll of two lives here in the last few days—but not because of poison liquor.

Depressed by the padlocking of one of Broadway's dinner clubs, in which he worked, Alex. Chatut, a waiter, committed suicide on Monday.

Chatut is the second waiter from Moquin's restaurant, one of the clubs locked up by District Attorney Buckner, to die since the padlock order went into effect last week.

The police have not yet fully determined whether Armon Delysle, who was found dead on Friday, took his own life or died of natural causes.

Chatut's wife, who found her husband dead in a gas-filled room when she returned from shopping on Monday, told the police that her husband had brooded over the prohibition law as it affected waiters.

He had not been able to get another job after he was dismissed from Mouquin's when that place was closed.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Editor of Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Why have we got to have daylight saving discussed every spring. We have got along nicely without it all these years. Why should a few sporting organizations and office clerks tell the rest of the population what time to arise in the morning. We are told the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world, then why cannot the mothers have something to say in this matter. We mothers strongly oppose daylight saving.

I have four children of school age and they would all miss one hour's sleep under D. S. which is badly needed to fit them for studying so that they may pass in June. It is utterly impossible for any child to go to bed and sleep when the streets are full of noises of other children playing and running waggons and shouting, which is the case until 10 p.m. and later D. S.

The system is hard on the factory man who has to reach work at 7 a.m. He has to get up one hour earlier and cannot go to bed one hour earlier at night on account of the noise outside.

It seems to me to be a case of the rich joy riders telling the working class we must get up when he says. If the petitions are being signed why not give the mothers a chance to sign up.

Hoping you will print this letter in your "Voice of the People," I remain,

Yours truly,
A MOTHER

"TEX" RICKARD IS FINED $5,000

Fight Promoter Escaped Jail Sentence in Fight Film Case.

NEWARK, N.J., March 31.—Tex Rickard and his associates in the production of the Dempsey-Carpentier prize fight pictures, were fined from $1,000 to $7,000 each Monday for illegal transportation of the fight films.

The fines were: George L. (Tex) Rickard, $7,000; Fred C. Quimby, movie producer, $7,000; Jasper Mu[illegible], newspaper man, $7,000; Frank L. Flournoy, prize fight match maker, $1,000; Teddy Hayes, secretary to Jack Kearns and Jack Dempsey, $1,000. William D. Randolph, who pleaded guilty on the first day of the trial, was fined $500.

Sentence was passed by Federal Judge Bodine, before whom the case was tried. The charges were filed as a result of information which came into the possession of the government during the senate investigation of the department of justice a year ago.

Remarks from the bench made a week ago by Judge Bodine had caused fears by Rickard's friends that he might be sent to jail. Rickard's attorneys had said they would not appeal the case unless there was a jail sentence imposed.

SHAW'S GREAT PLAY OPENS IN TORONTO

Julia Arthur Stars as Maid of Orleans—Remarkable Cast.

TORONTO, March 31. (Special.)—Bernard Shaw's latest and by far his greatest play, Saint Joan, with the famous actress, Julia Arthur, as the Maid of Orleans, supported by a remarkable cast, and the original New York Theatre Guild productions, opened their Canadian tour of Ontario here last night, at the Princess Theatre, before a fashionable and distinguished audience.

The Shavian opus created the same profound sensation as it did on its previous engagement earlier in the season. Salvos of applause and numerous curtain calls attested to the brilliance of this much discussed play.

CURLING CLUB AT LAKEFIELD HELD BANQUET

Trophies and Other Prizes Presented at Dinner at "Lakefield House."

HAD BIG SEASON.

J. E. Galvin Elected President Succeeding Dr. S. J. Gibson.

LAKEFIELD, March 30 — The annual banquet of the Lakefield Curling Club was held in the Lakefield House on Friday evening at 7 o'clock. There was a good attendance, as more than fifty sat down and did full justice to the feast of good things provided by mine host, A. G. Lawless. After the viands had been cleared away the business of the evening was begun with the President, Dr S. J. Gibson, in the chair. Dr. Gibson in his address reviewed the season's activities which were in the main very successful, the mildweather of February and March making it difficult to get all the games played according to schedule. In addition to the local competition, open bonspiel and local bonspiel, a mercantile bonspiel was run off during the season. The Fitzgerald trophy for the local competition was presented to B. Q. Dench and his rink with pipes as the individual prizes. Mr. Dench's rink were: E. H. Northey, H. Kidd, R. J. Jory, B. Q. Dench, skip. Mr. J. H. Charlton's rink were the runners up and received Eversharp pencils. Mr. Charlton's rink were: P. Condon, D. G. Morrison, G. G. Connell and D. H. Charlton, skip.

The Casement trophy for the local bonspiel was awarded to Chas. Lake's rink with fountain pens as the individual prizes. F. L. Erskine, W. Watson, J. H. Payne, Chas. Lake, skip, with E. A. Tanner's rink as runners up. The latter received safety razors and were: J. J. McFadden, S. . Charlton, J. H .G. FitzGerald and E. A .Tanner, skip.

The Tanner cup (the vice skips' cup in the local bonspiel) was won by P. Spence's rink as follows, J. C. Strickland, F. L. Erskine, W. Watson and P. Spence, skip. The prizes were brush and comb sets. J. M. Simpson's rink, the runners up, received jack knives. The players were Dr. S. J. Gibson, E. Brown, H. G. Armstrong, J. M. Simpson, skip.

The Douro Cup, which is a highly prized trophy of local manufacture displaying to a great degree the tinsmith's art, was awarded to Chas. Lake's rink for having been beaten by the largest score in the local competition. The individual prizes of small bottles of ginger were awarded to H. J. Sutton, A. Darling, R. Murduff and Chas Lake, skip.

The boxes of cigars won in the Kentucky-Blowhard games were presented to the former rinks as follows: C. Chittrick, H. Kidd, C. Lake, Geo. Millar, skip, and J. J. McFadden, T. Brown, T. Crawford N. A. Moore, skip.

A pleasant feature of the evening was the presentation to Mr. S. W. Sutton, for the past three years a valued member of the club, of a tobacco pouch and pipe on the eve of his departure for Newcastle where he has been transferred as manager of the Sterling-Standard Bank. Mr. H. R. Wagar, in one of his inimitable speeches, made the presentation and Mr. Sutton made a graceful and fitting reply.

The election of officers took place with Mr. J. M. Simpson acting as chairman pro tem and resulted as follows: Past President, Dr. S. J. Gibson; President, J. E. Galvin; Vice President, C. S. Tanner; Secretary-treasurer, P. Spence. Executive committee—B. Q. Dench (chairman), H. G. FitzGerald, J. H. Webster, J. J .McFadden, W. A. Moore.

The secretary treasurer read the report of the season's financial status and it was gratifying to learn the healthy state of the Club's finances.

The speeches were especially good and on various subjects from grave to gay; among these specially worth mentioning were Messrs. J. M. Simpson, J. R. Hill and H .R. Wagar.

Votes of thanks were given to Mr. A. G. Lawless for the splendid banquet provided and served and to Mr. R. C. Chittick, the rink manager, for his good service during the year.

The banquet was successful in every way as meeting informally grievances were discussed and plans were made to make 1926 the banner season.

Property Transfer

Mr. J. C .Strickland has disposed of his property "The Victoria" at McCracken's Landing to Mr. M. J. Sage of Toronto, who has had considerable experience in running summer resorts and who last year ran a hotel at French River for the C. P. R.

Mr. Strickland purchased the property two years ago from Miss Morgan and ran the resort with success for two seasons.

Farewell Party

A very pleasant evening was spent on Thursday last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Bolton when a farewell party was brought by surprise in honor of their daughter, Gladys, as she will leave on Tuesday for Belleville to enter as a pupil nurse.

The evening was spent in music and dancing. After a dainty lunch being served the party broke up in the wee sma' hours of the morning.

Gladys wishes to thank her many friends for the kindness shown toward her and hopes it will not be long till she will have the pleasure of meeting all again.

SEES REAL CHANCE FOR DODGERS

Wilbert Robinson Figures His Team in Thick of Pennant Battle.

BROOKLYN'S BEST BETS

CLEARWATER, March 31. — "Sure! My club has a great chance to win the pennant. New York only beat us 1½ games last year and had all the breaks."

That is the way the genial Wilbert Robinson summed up the National League pennant situation as far as the Brooklyn club is concerned.

Robinson, one of the finest characters that has evergraced baseball, had an extra inning battle with Death last winter. The Great Umpire was on the verge of waiving him out several times, but he willed to live and won.

Despite a four-months' siege of illness in which he underwent several delicate operations and suffered great pain, "Uncle Robbie," as baseball best knows him, is still an optimist, can still smile.

Robbie Outlines His Reasons.

"Why shouldn't I hope to win the pennant? I have a great pitching staff, led by Dazzy Vance, the premier of them all, a destructive offense and a fairly good defense."

I pressed him for more definite reasons for his very positive pennant opinions.

"There are five logical arguments on which I base my pennant hopes, three of them are offensive, two defensive.

"My offensive weapons are Zach Wheat, Jack Fournier and Ed. Brown. Those three babies have a real punch at the bat, the power to break up any ball game with a timely base hit.

"Defensively, I have two of the most effective pitchers in the National League, Dazzy Vance and Burleigh Grimes.

"The rest of the team contribute equally important factors to the teams success, but the foundation of my hopes is based on the offensive and defensive powers of the five players I have named."

As you watch the Brooklyn club in action, one is not impressed by any one particular thing, unless it is the most important asset, consistency.

Vance, Grimes, Real Threats.

The fire, the dash and the speed of the Giants is lacking, but the timely base hit invariably looms up and the threat carried by Vance and Grimes is always imminent.

Robbie is confident that "Rube" Ehrhardt will win a lot of ball games this year. Ehrhardt is the young man who jumped from the Florida State League to the big show and proved to be a sensation by winning six straight ball games.

Ehrhardt has pretty good stuff and a most peculiar delivery. The ball is on the batter quickly. He seems to cut loose with it before he has actually completed his swing. This unusual feature of his pitching adds much to his effectiveness.

Of the recruits, Outfielder Cox, secured from Portland, is being banked on as a garden reserve. Cox can hit and field, looks the part of a big leaguer and should help Brooklyn.

The club will be very much the same as last season. As I said before, its play doesn't impress like the Giants, but it wins ball games and that's the way pennants are decided.

"Give us the kind of pitching we had last season and we will win in 1925," says Robinson. He means it and his players feel the same way about it.

VICTORIA WINS SERIES FOR CUP

Stanley Trophy Goes West After Seven Years in East.

THREE GAMES TO ONE.

VICTORIA, B. C., March 31. — The Stanley Cup, emblematic of the world's professional hockey championship, was returned to the west last night when the Victoria Cougars defeated Montreal Canadiens, and won the cup series, three games to one. The Westerners smothered Canadiens under a 6 to 1 victory.

A frenzied crowd of fans, which packed the rink, cheered the Cougars on to victory. The game was played under eastern rules.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

STAR'S VALUE

ORLANDO, March 31.—Manager Jack Hendricks of the Cincinnati Reds, is firmly convinced that a ball club is no stronger than its shortstop and reserve strength.

Last year there was a void at shortstop on the Reds, and the club suffered. Incidentally when injuries and illness upset the cub, he was handicapped by a limited supply of reserves.

"The trouble we had around shortstop last year and the way the Washington club looked when Peckinpaugh was forced out of the 1924 world series impressed upon me more than ever the importance of that position," said Hendricks.

"There is no more difficult spot on a ball club. In a sense the entire direction of the infield largely revolves around the play of the shortstop.

"That is why I am so pleased over the condition of Jimmy Caveney. A good year for him means much to the showing of the Reds."

Because of the apparent return of Caveney to old-time form and the addition of likely reserver material in the infield and outfield, Hendricks feels that he will be in the first four.

LUQUE'S CASE

In 1923, Adolfo Luque, the Cuban member of the Cincinnati pitching staff, was the sensation of the National League, topping the list.

Luque, in finishing out in front, got the breaks, won his close games because his club supplied the punch when needed. Last year Luque couldn't win consistently.

In discussing Luque's success of one season and failure of another, I was surprised when the Cincy players, almost to a man, informed me that Luque was just as good a pitcher last season as in 1923.

Perhaps no one was harder hit by the Cuban's failure to be a big winner than Manager Hendricks. Without telling him the viewpoint of his players, I made comment on Luque's reversal of form.

"Luque failed to win consistently last year, more because of failure to get the breaks than poor pitching. He lost a dozen close score games where an error by a Red player or the failure to come through with a hit decided the issue.

"Unless my memory fails me, Luque finished five games shy the 500 mark. I know of three games he lost 1-0 and the same number 2-1. A break that went against him decided every one of those six games."

Hendricks figures this is Luque's year to be favored by Dame Fortune and is counting heavily on him.

SPIRIT WINS

It is a difficult matter to give a definition of the phrase, "breaks in baseball." There are so many variations.

Failure to take advantage of opportunities, a costly error at a critical time, a marvelous play that stops a rally, the pinch-hitter who delivers and the one who fails, are just a few of the many breaks possible.

There is no denying that a hustling club makes and benefits by the breaks. Perhaps the Reds of 1923 excelled over last year's club in that respect and it played a part in Luque's rather ordinary showing.

It doesn't seem as though the Cincinnati club is to suffer in that respect this year. If spring train-

The NUT CRACKER BY JOE WILLIAMS

The Babe has squandered his entire fortune on alligator skins, reversible wrist watches and stuffed eye-brows and is flatter than the abdomen of a toy balloon following a head-on collision with a belligerent spear.

The Babe is not only tremendously wealthy, possessing a bank roll that would strangle a gluttonous truck horse, but is the very living image of thrift and frugality itself.

The Babe has gone back farther than the last surviving member of the old Orioles, and if he gets more than five home runs between April and October it will just go to prove that Abe Attell is still manipulating the game.

The Babe has finally reached the very apex of his form, having simply been spoofing with the clients in the past, and if he doesn't collect an average of four home runs a game it will be a terrific shock to his old grey-haired housekeeper back in Sudbury, Mass.

The Babe never carried more surplus suet around the waist in all his life, and if he can melt himself to 380 pounds by April 14, Houdini is a bush league magician and Sir Conan Doyle knows nothing about miracles.

The Babe is down to 203 pounds of solid bone and muscle, in the order named, and is in better condition than the original Mellon's food baby. The dear old lady who mistook him for Ann Pavlowa the other night wasn't so near-sighted after all.

The Babe and Miller Huggins get along like a couple of strange spiders in a kitchenette-model web. The Babe has no more respect for training rules than a French magazine art editor has for chastity.

The Babe and Miller Huggins are absolutely devoted to each other, and if the affair becomes any more serious, certain well-established court proceedings may be necessary to avoid a family scandal.

The Babe has no more interest in the Yanks as a team than Miss Salome had in hip-wiggling as a classical art. The Babe's chief interest concerns the personal progress of his warm and closest friend, Mr. G. Herman Ruth.

The Babe is the most self-sacrificing player on the team this year. The Babe persists in keeping himself in the background. This is not easy to do, either, when you have four chins and a wide assortment of stomach ruffles.

ANXIOUS FOR EARL OF YPRES.

LONDON, March 31.—(Canadian Press).—The Earl of Ypres(former Field Marshal French, who underwent an operation on March 19, has developed symptoms, which the bulletin issued yesterday described as "disquieting." There is increased anxiety over his condition.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., March 31—Over one million dozen of eggs, valued at $753,791, were handled by the Prince Edward Island Egg and Poultry Association during the year 1924.

OSHAWA READY FOR BIG YEAR

Many Players Trying Out For Every Place on the Team.

A NEW MANAGER.

OSHAWA, March 31.—(Special to The Examiner). — In the near future, the schedule for the 1925 season of the Central Ontario Amateur Baseball League, which is being prepared by Secretary Newton Thompson, of Belleville, will be handed out, and in anticipation of the opening games being set for Wednesday, May 20th, with Oshawa at Belleville and Peterboro at Kingston, the local senior team management have plans well under way for the early training. Last year it was decided to secure a manager who was experienced in handling a team along the finer points of the game, with the one in view being A. E. Reeves who, it was known, was going to take up permanent residence in Oshawa as an official of General Motors. The local executive have approached Mr. Reeves and obtained his consent, and he will take immediate charge of the team and start an early campaign.

Oshawa this year will have a great number of players to choose from with all last year's material intact. For the pitching end, 'Duke' Dainty, who has donned a local uniform for the past two seasons, will again perform from the fork handside of the rubber and he will have as an assistant another port sider, "Lefty" Lennox, who worked with Stouffville last year. For right-handers, Jimmy Breckenridge, of the old Central Ontario Leaside team: Alec Webster, who was with Brantford in 1923; Andy Sommerville from Orono, and "Hank" Morsison, who last year turned in a few innings locally, will all get the once over by Manager Reeves before the farming out to the intermediates takes place. For catcher, Al Tyson, who led the League backstops in fielding averages with not a miss in the twenty-six games played, will be given the burden of doing most of the receiving, with Jack Broad, who graduated from the intermediates of last year, as an understudy.

Many Infielders.

For first base, "Buck" Wilson, the old reliable, has already started the reducing process to his belt line in anticipation of strong opposition from Eddie Dugan, an ex-Central Leaguer from Peterboro, and Harry Kelso, an ex-Oshawa Red Sox Intermediate boy. Rowden and an old Kingston Pony player will be groomed for the middle station. Morrison, who covered shortstop the last two seasons, will be given a strong argument for the place by Lloyd Hall, a graduate from the Church League. The hole at the red light corner left by "Mickey" Murray's migration to Galt will be hard to fill, but waivers are being pressed on Morley R. Jacobi, of the Beaton auto circuit, for his John Henry to a local slip.

For the outer garden Walter and Reg. Fair, Ken. Roddick, "Slim" Critney, Cliff Warde, Cliff Palmer and others are going to try for a place. With a new-comer as manager looking the boys over, it will be necessary to "show something" before a berth as a playing member can be secured on the 1925 Oshawa Central Ontario team, and the eligibles are beginning to take things seriously.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

My "straight line" principle for the hips is a twin with the "pull down" principle. These two, working together, should make the swing very near automatic for most golfers. The automatic swing is the goal to strive for. More about the "pull down" later.

In the correct swing the movement of the body is kept to the minimum. You do not twist and distort the body at all—keep it simple. Thus, in the backswing the right hip moves straight out to the right from three to possibly five inches, depending on your build. In the forward swing—with the left arm at all times straight—the left hip is shot into the ball just as the clubhead meets the ball. The great distinction here is that this left hip is shot straight out—into the line of flight direction. Get that point clearly. The hip does not turn around to the left with the body. The right hip to the right, in the backswing; left hip shot straight into the ball in the forward swing. That's the "straight line" for the hips. Try it.

A number of visiting brethren were in attendance, including Past Grand Master Rev. Walter Cox, of Lakefield, who made the presentation of jewels, assisted by Past District Deputy Grand Master M. M. Mowry, who is an honorable veteran of Otonabee Lodge, and has passed his 50th milestone in the Order.

Welch, who is now a resident of Toronto and came in for the occasion, and Mr. George Baird, a member of Unity Lodge, No. 8, of Sherbrooke, Quebec, resident in Peterborough.

On Friday, March 13th, a lucky day for Otonabee Lodge No. 13, they and their competitors, the Peterborough Lodge, No. 111, engaged in a euchre-playing competition for a silver cup donated by E. V. Warne, the Otonabee Lodge winning the contest.

STORY OF TWO BOYS

How a Frail Little Choir Boy Became a Desperado, Trapped by a Jolly Fat Boy Who Became a Detective.

By GENE COHN.

HARTFORD, Conn., March 31. — Two boys were just reaching the long trousers age a score of years ago, one here and one in New York.

The one here, Eddie Hickey, was merely a good-humored fat boy and nobody expected anything of him.

The other, Jerry Chapman, frail and undernourished, was a diligent student and a devout little choir boy. His family hoped fondly that he might become a clergyman and a power for righteousness.

They face one another all day long now in the courtroom, principals in the year's greatest criminal trial, the fat boy who amounted to something and the good boy who became a bandit.

The fat boy, still fat, still smiling, hair parted in the middle, dry cigar gripped gently in his teeth, chair tilted back, is enjoying his role in the excitement. He is Edward W. Hickey, county detective, who found the address on the express tag which led to the arrest in Muncie, Ind., of the dread Gerald Chapman.

The anaemic one, still anaemic, studious-looking, hawk-beaked, sinister and hunted, is Chapman himself. This faded-out, blue-eyed little man, with gray streaks in his hair and a limp to his walk, is tense as a wild animal at bay.

He sits in a cage, a tribute to his reputation as a master mind and desperado, manacled grotesquely and surrounded by armed guards.

Chapman has never told what happened to alter his life's course when he was about 15. Perhaps it was a girl. Perhaps it was some scrape at school. Anyhow he quit hisclasses. He resented nearly everything, and particularly the health of the young bruisers he went with. He began to realize he must get along by his wits.

When he was 19 he was arrested on his first "job," a small larcency case. He served two years in the penitentiary, and the sentence seemed to have done him good.

When he got out a kindly oil company official, William Hertz, gave him a chance. He had him taught typewriting and pointed out a future of respectability. But offices irked Chapman and he went out as street car conductor in the Bronx.

Chapman himself.

And then the finishing stroke turned Gerald Chapman into an enemy of society. The police were keeping a lookout over him as an ex-convict, and they warned his employers. He climbed down from his street car with bitterness in his heart and took the wild, untracked path of crookdom.

Hickey meanwhile had started work as an iron moulder and slipped then into the easier task of delivering the mail. The Pinkerton detective agency was on his route. The Pinkerton men were friendly to the plump postman and their work looked interesting.

Finally he went to work with them. Underneath his smile and his joke he had those essentials, the seeing eye and the reasoning brain. During the war he worked for the government, guarding the factories around here against dynamiters. Later he became a county investigator.

Color of personality is as definitely lacking from Chapman as from the mysterious "Man of the Iron Mask" to whom he has been likened. He suggests nothing of the Dick Turpin type, or even of the recent wild west Roy Gardner.

He looks an intellectual business man, the impression being warped by his oddly-shaped head. His forehead falls back sharply from his brow and his head seems undeveloped above the ears.

Reading is his pastime. When he was arrested police found in his room a stained copy of the Oxford Book of English Verse and of Housman's "Echo de Paris." His favorite author is Robert Browning and he is an eager reader of history. When he gets a chance to be himself, he favors the debonair—yellow gloves and their accompaniments. Once they nicknamed him the "Duke of Gramercy Park."

But Chapman never escapes a note of the sinister, just as his gold-toothed nemesis never quite rises above the jocose.

ANNUAL PLAY OF LITERARY SOCIETY PETERBOROUGH COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE

(By Jeanette)

The annual play of the Literary Society of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute was presented in the Collegiate Hall last evening before a fine audience of over four hundred people, who seemed to enjoy every minute of the sparkling comedy "Come Out of the Kitchen," presented by members of the Society. The production last night was exceptionally well done, considering the youth of the amateur actors. Every part was enacted with vigor and enthusiasm ,the lines were well memorized, and the actors seemed to enter fully into the spirit of the bright three-act comedy which presents the difficulties of an old Virginian family, whose poverty and father's illness forces them to lease their home to a visiting party of rich Northerners . The servants who have been engaged to wait on the visitors desert them at the last moment and the four members of the family turn in and supply the missing service. The complications that arise out of the situation are funny in the extreme and the snappy dialogue provided by the authors of the piece made it entertaining and amusing from start to finish.

The programme, which finished at an attractively early hour, opened with some very well-played selections by the P.C.I. orchestra, which also provided music between acts. A few words of introduction were given by Harry Ebbs, president of the Literary Society, who announced that the proceeds of the production would be devoted to athletic and other undertakings by the pupils of the Collegiate Institute.

A feature that added greatly to the finish of the play was the appropriate costuming by the different actors and the very fine staging. Nothing, evidently, had been neglected by the young people in their efforts to present a real picture of the old South. Their accents were the brisk tones of Canadian boys and girls, but they succeeded admirably in reproducing the atmosphere of a Virginian home, with small details carried out in each act that rounded out the impression to perfection.

Edith Killaly, as Olivia, "Livy" Dangerfield, was the heroine. To her fell the main portion of the dialogue and the centre of the action at all times, and she carried off the honors in a realistic and charming manner. As Jane Ellen, the cook, in the scenes in which the Dangerfield family take the places of the missing servitors, in a blue frock and white apron, assisted by an Irish accent,she was exceptionally good. Jane Ellen proves to be a real heart-breaker. The visiting millionaire, Burton Crane, her employer, falls in love with her, and in company with solemn-visaged attorney, Solon Tucker, and Olivia's old friend, Randolph Weeks, haunt the kitchen, much to the detriment of the family's dinners. When Crane enters unexpectedly and discovers the butler (Olivia's brother inreal life) kissing the cook, he becomes very wroth.

Edythe Cottrell was extremely realistic in the role of Elizabeth Daingerfield, the member of the family who protests vigorously at all times against harboring and waiting on Northern upstarts. Later, as Araminta, the "upstairs girl," she falls foul of the extremely difficult ways of Mrs. Faulkner, Solon Tucker's sister, and guest of Burton Crane. Jean Gilman had this part, and carried it through in perfect manner. Her haughty bearing and imperious ways, combined with splendid costuming and coiffing, were immense. Although she had a disagreeable part to fill, she did it in splendid fashion, and her insulting remarks to the servants were the cause of much merriment to the audience and much resentment in the kitchen, where one particularly effective little scene is enacted, in a cleverly-contrived atmosphere of pots and pans, roller towels and gas range.

Margaret Hamilton, as Cora Falkener, the "managing" lady's daughter, was a dainty little foil to her difficult parent's presence, and succeeded bravely in outwitting her mother's plans for a rich marriage and in carrying out her own designs with regard to one Thomas Lefferts (William Yelland) a penniless poet with an engaging manner and entertaining habit of using poetic phrasing in his lighter moments. He was the only person in the house who was able to vanquish the overbearing Mrs. Faulkner.

The remaining feminine member of the cast, effective in her own particular part of a Southern black mammy, Amanda, was Florence Walton, an engaging colored lady in pink checked gingham, white apron, red scarf and pink bandana handkerchief about her bronze countenance.

The masculine parts were, without exception, just as excellently portrayed as those of the feminine members of the cast. Ross Lord made a businesslike and attractive Northern millionaire, Burtain Crane, ferreting out the mystery of the Daingerfield menage in his own way. Jacob Low was realistic as the middle-aged, philandering attorney, Solon Tucker, and Randolph Weeks, the Daingerfields' agents, and the only other personoutside of the family acquainted with the inner truth of the situation, was taken in excellent style by Gordon Richardson.

Two members of the cast who added much to the merriment and realism of the production, with their whole-hearted presentation of their roles, were Alexander Rogow, who was particularly good as Paul Daingerfield, later Smithfield, the butler, and Dalbert Gardiner, as his brother, Charles, who took the duties of the "boot" boy, Brindlebury.

As the play will be presented for the second time tonight, it would hardly be fair to tell just how it ends. The main attraction of the production lies in its snappy dialogue, the atmosphere of youthful vitality imparted to its presentation by the young and talented actors who carry out its entertaining scenes, and the careful attention of every detail manifested in a satisfying staging. There should be a capacity audience for its presentation tonight, as it is one of the most amusing productions put on by the Collegiate 'Lit,' even surpassing in attraction last year's very successful "Charm School."

At the conclusion of the performance last evening, Miss Killaly received a large bouquet of red carnations.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the production is composed of Miss Pearl B. Faint, M. A., Miss Alexandra Howson, B.A., Miss Mayme I. Montgomery, B.A., L. J. Pettit, B.A., V. R. Henry, M.A., C. S. Browne, M.A., and F. J. A. Morris, M.A., chairman.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

THE ORIGINALS IN "STEPPING OUT."

Canada's greatest annual attraction, The ORIGINALS, comprising many of the Original Dumbell favorites and several brilliant new artists of note, will appear at the Grand theatre on Good Friday and Saturday, April 10 and 11, with their latest, smartest, and best revue "Stepping Out." Critics everywhere have added their mead of praise to this particular production which is one continuous roar of laughter from the opening chorus to the close of the last act wherein the "Duchess," Leonard Young, performs with hilarious results.

Headed by those ever popular stars, Gene Pearson and Bob Anderson, the Originals this season without doubt the finest aggregation of talent since they started on tour in Canada in 1919. Brimful of comedy throughout wtih a great number of delightful song hits that will keep the town humming for weeks after the Originals have left us, "Stepping Out' has already become the most talked of of all the previous soldier productions.

Alan Murray, Jerry Brayford and Bertram Langley, are all too well known to mention in particular. Old and new friends who are flocking to see the new show say they are all cast in their very best roles. New members of the quartette include Thomas Dunn, Canadas celebrated baritone, and Gus McKinnon, tenor; Jimmy MacDonald, Norman Blume and Lionel Broadway are also new additions to the cast of the Originals this year and are already established favorites; "Stepping Out" is distinctly different from "Full O' Pep" or "Rapid Fire," their two predecessors. The production is under the management of Percy Campbell, as before.

AT THE CAPITOL

Noted Cowboy Star Proves His Versatility in Elaborate Production of "Dick Turpin."

A GALLANT CAVALIER.

Abandons Breezy Style of American Westerner for Courtly Manner of Ye Gay "Young Blood."

Tom Mix has become revolutionary, cinematically speaking. It may sound utterly unbelievable, but he has sidetracked his chaps and sombrero and donned the silks, satins and laces of the early-day bandit of Old England for one picture at least. This one picture, which marks such a decided departure from his usual screen habits, is none other than an elaborate picturization of "Dick Turpin," announced as the attraction at the Capitol Theatre beginning Thursday.

Turpin, you know, holds the record as England's boldest bandit of all time, and, his one saving grace was that he robbed the rich to feed the poor. Fiction license has been taken with history somewhat in this film version to also make him one of the most dashing of lovers and he wins the hand of one of the fairest ladies in the land in a most astonishing manner.

According to the consensus of opinion among critics elsewhere, Tom has proven his versatility as an actor of stellar proportions with a zest in this latest portrayal of his. Tony, his renowned horse which has been featured in so many of his starring vehicles, balked at the idea of playing the part of a prancing mare and another horse had to be substituted to serve in the role of "Black Bess," the mighty steed which broke all road records.

"Her Night of Romance," the offering at the Capitol Theatre for the first half of this week, is one of those entertaining productions with a peppy star, a romantic plot and an atmosphere of real fun that adds zest to the most pathetic situations. It is really amusing from start to finish, and the audiences at the theatre yesterday had plenty of entertainment in watching the pretty Constance Talmadge and her hero, Ronald Colman, in "Her Night of Romance."

Constance Talmadge may not be as beautiful as her more famous sister, Norma, but she certainly doesn't pose as much, and she has a very refreshing, natural style of acting that keeps the attention riveted to every little action. As the American heiress, travelling in England, and hounded by fortune-hunters, she has plenty of scope for getting a great deal of humor out of the various situations in which she finds herself. Disguised as a homely schoolma'm, she is a scream. Later, installed in a wonderful English home, she has her "night of romance," romantic enough but made out of the ordinary by the producer's treatment. The humor of every situation is drawn out to the last minute. Even when Connie weeps, she seems to see the fun behind her tears, and she makes the audience see it too. The scene where the indigent lord proposes to his sweetheart, then, overcome by a sleeping-draught potion and a little too much wine, yawns in her face as she accepts him, is ludicrous in the extreme. This little twist to romantic situations is apparent throughout the entire piece. When the young man is about to depart in haste and the lady wishes him to stay, she appeals to her father, who devises an ingenious scheme to keep him.

"Her Night of Romance" presents love-making at an entirely new angle. It has an attractive theme and is handled in a manner that makes it a laugh throughout. With its interesting star and its bright atmosphere, it makes a thoroughly entertaining picture.

'SCARAMOUCHE' OPENS TO BIG CROWDS AT THE ROYAL.

"Scaramouche" has been reviewed before. The reading public already know that Rafael Sabatini, the author, was awarded the $10,000 prize offered for the best story submitted in 1924.

The story of love and strife holds the interest from first to last. We cannot recall any picture with such massive and artistic settings and the photography is a joy.

A simple tale—a girl, beautiful, cultured, innocent, enamoured of a youth, handsome, adventurous, poor. Against him a powerful rival, with wealth and a noble title, aflame with desire for the girl.

Amid scenes of prodigal splendor in the Royal court of France, through gaiety and adventure of Paris and on through troublesome times of the French Revolution — truly a big picture! One of the vital parts in all successful pictures is contrast—and here we have the rapture of young love against the roar of the French Revolution—the musical accompaniment is written for the production and under Mrs. Foster's able direction adds much to a perfect evening's entertainment. We're going to see it again.—Fan-Fan.

MISS DANA HELPS ANTIQUE VASE TO BE MORE ANTIQUE.

Metro Star Says Crack She Made Adds to Value— Director Cline Wonders—$250 Sevres Urn Part of Set in "Along Came Ruth."

Does Viola Dana owe the Metro studios $250 for a French Sevres vase she cracked during the filming of a scene for her new Metro starring picture "Along Came Ruth," which is now playing at the Regent Theatre. This question came up recently when the little star accidently struck one of the vases with a duster and put a large crack in it.

Two vases, their value totaling $500, were used in the furniture store setting which is a part of "Along Came Ruth." Before the filming of the fatal scene began, Edward Cline, who directed the picture, told Miss Dana that the vases were expensive and suggested that while dusting them she exercise a certain degree of gentleness.

"They are quite fragile," he said, "on account of the many cracks. That indicates their great age and therefore enhances their value."

Four feet of film had not been ground through John Arnold's camera before the duster accidently crashed against one vase and cracked it from top to bottom.

"That probably will cost you about $250," advised Mr. Cline in his most encouraging and cheerful manner.

"I can't see that," replied the petite little Metro star. "You just remarked that the cracks are what made the vases valuable. If that's the case the crack I put in that one should increase its value a hundred dollars at least."

"Along Came Ruth" was adapted to the screen by Winifred Dunn from the stage play by Holman Day, a Henry Savage production.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.
The writer apologizes again to himself and the public for keeping his name before the public under the above heading. I assure all that this would not be done if I was not compelled to do so. It is not necessary to state the reason of doing this, and also occasionally referring to personal experiences. The late Mr. Andrews, a Presbyterian minister at Keene, for many years, wrote me one time, saying I was the greatest example of the "perseverance of the saints" he ever met. Some thirty years ago there were some who were interested in my spiritual well-being. One of them came to the conclusion it was no use dealing with me, for the simple reason that I had no faith. He very nearly hit the nail on the head. Knowing something of my natural make up, I can say two natural traits of my character are non-perseverance and doubt. If perseverance and faith is now my portion, it must have come from some source outside of the piece of humanity that is known by the name of M. T. Butcher. 1d77 9936

"GINGER GROUP" REPRESENTED ON PETERSON CONTRACT COMMITTEE, INQUIRY'S SCOPE IS BROADENED

Independents Stir Up Clash With Progressives and Predict Losses in Election.

15 ON COMMITTEE.

Empowered to Consider Any Method to Secure Control of Ocean Rates.

OTTAWA, April 1. — (Canadian Press).—After some of the liveliest criminations of the present session, the House yesterday appointed committee which is to consider Petersen contract. As the motion went through, the membership fifteen, as originally proposed by Premier King, was unchanged but was adopted with an understanding that one of the regular Progressives will retire and give place to representative of the new Independent group of thirteen. The authority of the committee also is enlarged. It will now be empowered consider not only the Petersen tract but any other method that rs effective control of ocean was over-representation on the mittee that exchange of compliments was the sharpest. W. C. od, of Brant, who has been urging representation for the Independent group spoke of a conversation had with Robert Forke, Progressive leader, "when endeavoring to re justice privately." Mr. Good he had been given to understand by Mr. Forke that he couldn't representation through the Progressives. This, Mr. Forke emphatically denied.

At another point, J. T. Shaw, of West Calgary, prophesied that after electors got a chance, there uld be a "sad remnant" of the Progressives left.

"I hope," warmly retorted Mr. Forke, "that the hon. gentleman is not as good a prophet as he imagines himself to be."

Moved By Premier.

Premier King, at the opening of the House, moved the appointment of the special committee on the agreement entered into between the Government and Sir William Peterson.

Before moving the resolution, Mr. King said that his attention had been drawn to the fact that some members felt that the drafting was not sufficiently broad to permit the committee to enquire into other methods of controlling freight rates, as well as the one proposed by the Government. The idea of the Government had been that the committee could very well conduct an investigation of the method proposed by the Government, without also investigating other methods. However, in order to remove any misunderstanding, he proposed, with the permission of the House, to add to the resolution, the words "or by any other method that offers effective control."

This proposal was received with applause from the Progressives.

Ginger Group's Demand.

Robert Gardiner (Progressive, Medicine Hat) protested against the lack of representation of the "Ginger Group" in the proposed committee. The names of eight Liberals, four Progressives and three Conservatives appeared at present, but not one member of the group of thirteen members to which he belonged.

Premier MacKenzie King pointed out that in naming the members of the committee, the usual practice had simply been followed.

Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, agreed with the contention of Mr. Gardiner. He suggested that as the Progressives had four members, one of them might be replaced by a representative of the group of which Mr. Gardiner was one.

W. S. Woodsworth (Labor, Centre Winnipeg) said that the members of the group felt that they could [illegible] the 11 members of the so-called "Ginger Group" in asking representation on this committee. "We [illegible] 13," he said.

"[illegible]y number," called out [illegible]ber.

"[illegible]e wide onen for re[illegible] Mr. Woodsworth, [illegible]y that while uniting [illegible]rs of the "Ginger [illegible]-representation on [illegible]e wished to make [illegible]r that the Labor [illegible]ed responsible to [illegible]. page 3.)

SEEDING IN MANITOBA.

First Planting Yesterday—Season Is Earlier.

WINNIPEG, Man., April 1—The first seeding operations reported this season got under way at Gretna, Man., Tuesday. Throughout the prairie provinces generally, it is expected that seeding will become general about the middle of April, which is two weeks earlier than usual. The heavy snowfall has provided the entire west with abundant moisture.

Reports have been received from British Columbia of heavy frost damage to stone fruits and parts of the apple crop, while for the first time in twenty years the fall wheat crop in the boundary section of the Pacific province are said to have been a total failure.

COMMONS' FIRST EVEN DIVISION

Deciding Vote of Speaker Prevented Technical Defeat of the Government.

MADE HISTORY.

OTTAWA, April 1 (By Canadian Press) — For the first time in its history—so far as available records indicate — the house of commons yesterday divided evenly and the speaker was called upon to give his casting vote. There have been occasions before of an even division in committee, but not in the house itself with the speaker presiding.

On Tuesdays and Friday evenings, the house, under its rules, devotes the first hour to private bills, but private bills rarely exhaust the whole hour and the house automatically returns to the regular business. Tuesday, however, D. F. Kellner of East Edmonton, moved that when private bills have been disposed of on Tuesdays and Friday evenings, the balance of the hour shall be devoted to public bills and orders. This if adopted, would have given an opportunity for further discussion of some of the private members' notices which have already been discussed.

When Mr. Kellners motion was put, the house divided, 93 for, and 93 against. Thus, for the first time, Mr. Speaker has exercised his casting vote.

He voted in the negative and Mr. Kellner's motion was lost.

Furthermore, by the casting vote of the speaker, the government escaped a technical defeat. Before the division, Hon. Ernest Lapointe intimated that, as a special committee was considering the rules of the house, the government could not accept the Kellner motion.

In the vote, Conservatives and Progressives, with wo exceptions, voted for the motio. Liberals and the two Progressive voted against. The speaker, in his casting vote, supported the government.

DUPLEX STAFFS STIR MACLEAN

South York Member Singles Out Staffs for Senate and Commons in Criticism.

OTTAWA, April 1.— (Canadian Press.)— A murmur of astonishment, mingled with amusement, could be heard in the House of Commons Tuesday afternoon, when W. F. Maclean (Conservative, South York), attacked the "duplex staffs" for the Commons and Senate. Mr. Maclean, at the time, was condemning the operation of two railway systems in Canada when, in his view, one joint management and ownership would give a much better and more economical service.

"Coming in a centre door of the Parliament Buildings, under the tower, what do I see?" said Mr. Maclean. "Duplex post offices, double manned with two postmasters, and two deputy postmasters — one for the House and one for the Senate—and double sorters in the two offices. Further, a duplex system of accountancy and a battery of clerks as timekeepers on members and senators and a double staff of writers of indemnity cheques for the two houses, also duplicate barber shops, duplicate Hansard staffs, duplicate messenger staffs—"

"Order," said the Speaker, reminding Mr. Maclean that the motion under discussion was one for the appointment of a special committee.

And Mr. Maclean turned again to the business before the House.

All Fools' Day Jokes To-day Took In Mr. Fox

One of the jokes of the day in Peterborough, was to leave a message in some office for Mr. Jones or Miss Doe to call 990-r 2 and ask for Mr. Faux.

Mr. Fox was not called to the phone.

PETERBORO MAN CALLS HIMSELF MARRYING FOOL

Frank Webster Held in Chicago For Deportation—Three Wives.

FORGOT DIVORCES.

Engagement to Fourth is Broken Off By Detectives To-day.

(Special to the Examiner.)

CHICAGO, April 1. — When Mrs. Frank Webster number three of Peterboro, learned of the existence in Madoc of Mrs. Webster number two and then found Mrs. Webster number one lives in Toronto, and that Frank had omitted the formality of divorces from either before his third marriage, the first lady mentioned made it so hot for Frank in Peterboro that he came to Chicago without regard to passport or immigration regulations.

That is how the gentleman in question explained it to-day to the detectives who arrested him at his home, 7117 Aberdeen street, on complaint of the immigration authorities.

The latter admitted it as probable Frank will be deported, and his recently announced engagement to Miss Agnes Kelly, 7238 Carpenter street, will be broken off

Webster summed the whole thing up for the benefit of the detectives with the statement "I'm just a marrying fool!"

CONFERENCE ON GAS TANK SITE IN ASHBURHAM

Committee of Council to Meet Representatives of Oil Company and C.N.R.

COMPANY HELPS.

Ald. Denne Suggests Assistance From Peterboro for Nova Scotia Relief.

Mayor Turner, Aldermen Denne, McIntyre and Fife will confer with the officials of the British-American Oil Company, to try to get another suitable site for their gasoline tanks.

This was the decision reached by the City Council at a special meeting last night to consider the protest of a number of the residents of East City against the proposal to build gasoline or oil tanks on the property of the Canadian National Railways just south of Hunter street.

F. A. Jones of the British American Oil Company was present, and explained the position of the company, and F. R. Locke spoke for the railway.

The Mayor recounted the steps that had been taken in letting the permit to the British American Oil Company.

Alderman Phelan said that he thought the Council had acted hastily in giving permission and that a more suitable site could be found farther north. He thought that the company would be willing to move to another place.

Alderman Crowe said that if the minutes had been published the people would have had a better chance to protest. He thought that the company should be recompensed for any expense.

Alderman Greene said he would like to know what action had been taken by the underwriters with regard to the explosion of a gasoline or oil tank in Toronto.

Alderman Jones said that he had made the motion and that the site was beside other tanks, and he could see nothing wrong.

Regrets Opposition.

F. A. Jones of the British American Oil Company, said that the company was sorry that any trouble had occurred. Their plants were thoroughly inspected, and were passed by the Underwriters' Association.

Alderman Phelan moved that the former motion be rescinded, and Alderman Greene seconded his motion.

Mr. [illegible]s could not see how the com[illegible]ould draw back now. He sai[illegible]at any time the plant be[illegible]ace they would have to

PERMIT ISSUED FOR ONE HOUSE TO COST $200

Contention That Building Is Expensive Not Made by Mr. Stevens.

MARCH RECORD.

First Quarter of 1925 Makes Best Show For Several Years.

A dwelling - house to cost $200 would seem to be a pipe dream in these days, but a permit was issued yesterday to George Stevens for its construction at 362 Mark Street. Of course it will not be of great size, in fact it will have only two rooms, and the material from foundation posts to roof will be wood, but even so a few of these should solve the problem of 'owning your own home' for some people who feel the urge that comes in the springtime to build a little house just for two.

The building permits for March totalled $15,527, and there were 30 issued. There were three dwellings authorized. A house to cost $3,500 will be built at 612 Gilmour Street by John Smith. M. Hopcroft will construct a cottage on Euclid Ave. at a cost of $1,000, and Mr. Stevens will build his little house in Ashburnham. Permits for amounts ranging from $4 to $150 for garages, sheds and minor repairs bring up the total of permits while the alteration of buildings to provide apartments at 264 Hunter Street, owned by John Fligg, and, at 549 Bethune Street, owned by Miss Barnard, help to boost the value. Alterations to the Sun Life building will cost $1,000, and a new store front at 291 George Street calls for the expenditure of $500.

This Year's Record.

The first quarter of 1925 compares favorably with former years. Thirty-seven permits were issued, and $21,002 will be expended on construction work. Last year 24 permits called for $11,475, and in 1923 there were 18 permits for $13,810. The only recent year to show more spring activity was 1922, when the first quarter's permits amounted to $21,810. The total was lower in 1921 with $19,637.

MISS MACPHAIL EXPLAINS WANT OF THE MINERS

Distress Immediately Followed Refusal of Credit at the Company's Stores.

HAD NO MONEY.

Three of the Steel Company Directors Are Members of the Senate.

OTTAWA, April 1. — (Canadian Press).—J. F. Johnston, Progressive member for Last Mountain, resumed the debate on the budget in the House of Commons Tuesday. He referred first to the proposal to appoint a tariff board, stating that the farming interests would expect to be represented on this board, and would not be satisfied without representation. He was glad that the Government had withdrawn the amendment to the dumping clause, and his only wonder was that such an amendment had ever been proposed.

"In my opinion, protection breeds trouble, and tends to mistrust in governments," said Mr. Johnston. The protective system had proven a failure as a means of bringing prosperity to this country, he argued. Canada, under protection, had not enjoyed the growth which this country should be experienced. He pointed out that reductions had taken place in prices of agricultural implements since the present Government had decreased the tariff on these implements.

Loss of Factories.

Mr. Johnston said that Mr. Meighen had gone about the country claiming that 2,000 factories had been closed in Canada in 1924. Mr. Johnston read a list of the factories producing various commodities which had opened and which had closed. The net loss to Canada was 417 factories, not 2,000, as Mr. Meighen claimed. Mr. Johnston gave instances of companies working in Canada successfully on a free trade basis.

Mr. Johnston undertook to refute statements made respecting the profits of the railways in Western Canada. He claimed that grain handling in Western Canada was the most lucrative end of the railway operations of either railway company.

Mr. Johnston stated that in his opinion the producers of wheat in Western Canada had been harder hit by exorbitant rates charged by lake carriers than by rates on the ocean. He thought that "when the rush of grain is on and the rate to Buffalo is one-half cent lower than the rate to lake ports, our coastal laws should be suspended."

Britain Getting Wetter And Milk Isn't Blamed

BRITAIN GETTING ..... LONDON, April 1 (Canadian Press).—Great Britain is getting wetter, according to figures compiled by the United Kingdom Alliance, a big prohibitionist organization.

In a report just issued, the Alliance asserts that during 1924, the total beer bill of the country was 198,000,000 pounds, against an expenditure for milk of 76,000,000 pounds.

The Alliance also figures that the total spent on all intoxicants in 1924 amounted to 316,000,000 pounds as compared with 307,000,000 million pounds in 1923.

SELF STARTING TRUCK CRASHED INTO WOMEN

One Dead in Ottawa and Another in Hospital.

OTTAWA, April 1—Leaving his auto truck outside a store on Bank Street early last evening, George Lacey of this city was surprised to see it start off, go three blocks along Lewis Street to Elgin where it mounted the curb, running into a group of two women with a baby carriage. One of the women, Mrs. George W. Bailey, died within a few minutes while the other woman, Mrs. George McEwen, is in hospital with a fractured leg. The baby, belonging to Mrs. Bailey and aged two years, was not badly hurt. Lacey is under arrest. The truck continued across a lawn and stalled when it hit a stone wall.

EASIER MONEY FOR FARMERS OF CANADA RECOMMENDED IN TORY'S REPORT AS AID TO AGRICULTURE

Rural Credits Based on Co-operation Between Federal and Provincial Governments.

FUNDED BY OTTAWA.

Report of Two Years' Investigation Tabled in House of Commons Tuesday.

OTTAWA, April 1.—Long term credits should be provided at moderate rates of interest for the development of agriculture in Canada, and the best system of rural credits would be one based on co-operation between the Federal and Provincial Governments. This is the chief finding of Dr. H. M. Tory, president of the University of Alberta, whose report was tabled in the House of Commons Tuesday. Dr. Tory, who has been studying the subject on behalf of the Federal Government for two years, finds that "an immediate improvement in methods of agricultural financing is imperative if Canada is to maintain her place in world agriculture."

After reviewing several methods of rural credits, Dr. Tory recommends that the Federal Government raise money on its own credit, advancing it to the Provincial governments on their guarantee of principal and interest, for farm use only. The Provinces would have administrative control, through local boards. Dr. Tory also found the United States system of farm loan boards feasible in Canada, and next to be considered.

Ten Million Required.

No amount is specified as necessary to the establishment of the system, Dr. Tory recommends. Earlier in the report, discussing the proposal to subsidize a combination of joint stock companies, Dr. Tory mentions that it had been estimated that a total capital of $10,000,000 would be required, with a smaller sum to start with.

Dr. Tory is emphatic in his opinion that some financing body which will "think in terms of the agricultural industry" only, must be formed in Canada if a solution of rural credits is to be found.

Instructed by the House of Commons last year to continue his researches, with particular reference to co-ordinating the activities in the various provinces, Dr. Tory found that while seven provinces had rural credit schemes, practically no credits were being extended, because the provinces had no money to do it with. In five of the provinces visited, he found a willingness to have a Federal scheme.

After reviewing the changed conditions in Canadian farming, the increased cost of establishing and maintaining farm, and the necessity for competing in world markets with countries which already have complete and ample financial organization for farm purposes, Dr. Tory says that what is needed in Canada is a financial institution definitely designed to deal with agricultural problems.

Baneful Propaganda.

In his general observations, Dr. Tory deplores the propaganda which he finds has been spread by both sides in the controversy in the West over certain provincial legislation dealing with farm lands. An impression had been formed that the legislatures had been influenced to "interfere in the interests of borrower as against the lender." Dr.

ADULTERATED BUTTER.

Montreal Dairy Merchants Fined $400.

MONTREAL, April 1.—Declaring that the offences have been systematic and in open defiance of the law, Judge Cusson yesterday imposed the maximum fine of $400 on A. Poupart and Company, dairy merchants of this city, for substituting inferior fattening matter, such as cocoanut oil, for cream in the manufacture of butter.

Philippe Monette, counsel for the prosecution, complained that enormous harm is being done to the Canadian dairy export trade, Canadian butter being rejected as inferior on the foreign markets on account of the substitution of inferior fattening for cream. The advocate representing the firm pleaded guilty on behalf of his clients, requesting a minimum fine of $200.

LITTLE HOPE OF SAVING MINERS

Take Three Weeks to Pump Out Newcastle Mine—38 Entombed.

CAUGHT BY WATER.

NEWCASTLE, Eng., April 1— Late last night it seemed as though nothing short of a miracle would serve to save the 38 men and boys who were caught Monday by a sudden rush of water into the Montague colliery at Scobwood.

Rescuers, however, were still laboring with great energy on the installation of giant pumping apparatus in an endeavor to free the mine of water. The company's consulting engineer nevertheless ruefully admitted that there was no further hopes to be entertained for the entrapped workers, as even with the hardest kind of pumping it would take three weeks to reach the victims. It would be impossible, he declared, to send down divers into the rushing torrent, and moreover poisonous gases filled the places where rescuers would have a possible chance to operate.

The Bishop of Newcastle yesterday headed a number of spiritual comforters of all denominations who gathered at the pit head where grief stricken relatives of the men still clung to the seemingly vain hope of ultimate rescue.

DISGRACE [illegible] TWO WOMEN TO DEATH IN LAKE

Daughter's Dishonor Revealed as Motive in Double Suicide Near Bancroft.

UNCLE INVOLVED.

Coroner's Inquest Clears Up Tragedy That Wrecked North Hastings Home.

BANCROFT, Ont., April 1.—That Mrs. Nettie Wilson, aged 42 years, and her daughter Shirley, 14 years old, committed suicide by drowning on March 18th, was the verdict of Coroner Dr. Lamb's jury, which on Tuesday afternoon investigated the double tragedy which happened at Fort Stewart, on Fraser Lake.

Three pathetic letters were put in, having been written by Mrs. Wilson to her husband, Chester Wilson, to a girl friend, and to the parents of Mrs Wilson.

These indicated the disgrace brought upon the family by the condition of the daughter, which was proved by the autopsy. Mrs. Wilson had mentioned in the letters her brother, Edward Isaac Gates, as involved.

Chester Wilson, the broken-hearted husband and father, told of first learning from his wife the cause of the worry which she had been carrying for some time. The revelation came the night before the double tragedy, and Mrs. Wilson then told him they would soon be out of the way.

Mr. Wilson told next day of finding tracks leading to the ice hole in the lake in which the bodies were ultimately found.

Gates was brought into the coroner's court during the inquest, and was very much affected as he heard the letters from his dead sister read. He later was brought before Magistrate Jarman and committed for trial on a charge of carnal knowledge.

Two statements made by Gates to the provincial police were put in as exhibits.

POSTAL WORKERS MAY GET FULL PAY

Money For Two Months Withheld For Strike May Be Granted.

MONTREAL, April 1—The Gazette today carries the following in its news columns: "Post Office employees who struck last June have receive information from Ottawa inducing them to hope that, before the present session ends, the government will accord them the money they lost in July and August through being reinstated for two months at minimum salary instead of at the rate they were receiving prior to the strike.

"At the end of the strike, most of the letter carriers and post office clerks who quit were allowed to return to work, but with the understanding that they resumed duties virtually as new employees and therefore at the minimum wage for each grade. Thus they were placed on a par with the strike breakers who had been employed when the old workers struck.

"Since September representatives of the men have been agitating for payment of the difference between the minimum rate received during July and August and the old rate that was effective once more on September 1. It is now thought that the supplementary estimates brought before Parliament at the end of the session may contain provision for payment of the desired sums. The question, it is understood, will go before the House during debate on the civil service estimates, when salary reclassifications and bonuses will be on the order of the day."

C.N.R. HAULAGE HEAVIER.

Carried More Grain Than C.P.R. Last Year.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 1 — The Canadian National aRilways hauled more grain to the head of the lakes last year than did the Canadian Pacific. A return tabled in the House yesterday shows that the National road hauled 3,809,175 tons, while a return tabled some time ago gave the quantity travelling over the Canadian Pacific to Fort William and Port Arthur as 3,871,661 tons.

To Vancouver the C.N.R. hauled 384,922 tons; the Canadian Pacific 961,500 tons.

The rate per ton mile on the eastboun dgrain was 0.496 cents on the C.N.R. The Government was not able to give the rate per ton mile on this haul on the C.P.R.

CHOIR BANQUET.

Ladies' Aid of George Street Entertains Musical Organizations.

The annual choir banquet tendered by the Ladies' Aid Society of George Street Methodist Church to the choir, orchestra and their friends, took place last night in the Sunday School hall. The decorations, in charge of Mrs. G. L. Stevens and Mrs. H. F. Foote, were attractively carried out in the purple and yellow of Easter.

Rev. W. H. Young acted as toastmaster, and proposed "The King," which was responded to in the usual manner. Mr. E. E. Ingall proposed "The Choir," responded to by Mr. J. H. Renwick; the toast to "The Orchestra' was proposed by Mr. C. Smith, and responded to by Mr. W. H. Cunningham; and the toast to "The Ladies" was proposed by Mr. C. Thorpe and responded to by Mrs. J. Brock, social convenor, and Mrs. B. Shortly, president of the Ladies' Aid Society.

The Misses Tretheway contributed a guitar and vocal duet to the programme, and community singing was enjoyed by all. Mr. Charles Peaker was the speaker of the evening, and gave an informal talk on the life, work and character of Johann Sebastian Bach, illustrating his address with several well-played pianoforte selections of the great composer's works.

Mrs. W. H. Young and Mr. Peaker also gave an instrumental duet. A hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Peaker was moved by Mr. A. Lillow and seconded by Mr. F. Ivey.

DOURO TOWNSHIP TO CELEBRATE ITS ONE HUNDREDTH ANNIVERSARY IN OLD BOYS' AND GIRLS' REUNION

P. G. Towns is Moving Spirit in Ambitious Programme for June.

BIG HOMECOMING

Exhibits Will Show Work and Triumphs of District Pioneers.

DOURO, April 1.—Arrangements are being made at Douro for the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the settlement of the township, also the old boys' and girls' reunion, which will be held during the week beginning June 21 and ending June 27. It is expected that hundreds of old boys and girls will return to visit the township where they first saw the light of day.

There will be an exhibition of ancient relics, such as implements, vehicles, costumes, furniture, guns, and so forth, used by the first settlers as well as the latest and most up-to-date machinery, implements and vehicles which are used at the present time.

The former exhibit will give an idea of the toils and labors, cares and worries of the first settlers and their happiness in want and privation. It is intended to show that wealth and happiness do not always go hand in hand. As vivid a picture will be given of the early settlers as can be produced.

Big Programme.

During the day there will be games and sports, such as baseball and football, between teams from surrounding municipalities. There will be running, jumping, racing and tug-of-war, also team drawing contest. There will also be an exhibition by Indians in their war dress and public speeches and debates. Each school section is to procure the oldest school teacher who has taught in that school to again teach school with as many as possible of the pupils of long ago. The teacher whose age with that of the ex-pupils aggregates the largest total will receive a good prize as a token.

There will also be an old boys' and girls' popularity contest open to any old boy or girl on the ground, each day. Each person buying an admission ticket will have a vote in the contest. There will be an entertainment of some kind each night.

The exhibition will afford ample opportunity to manufacturers and manufacturers' agents of up-to-date goods to advertise their goods as it is expected that there will be thousands of people from the city as well as the country attend, as the event will be of real interest to old and young. The reunion will bring long absentees together to meet their friends on Douro soil. A valuable souvenir will be awarded to the person coming the greatest distance to attend. More particulars will be given from time to time.

The Moving Spirit.

The above draft of the plans has been given The Examiner by P. G. Towns, the originator of the idea and the moving spirit in the preparation for the event. The week of June 21 to 27 should be a week of joyful reunions, pleasure and entertainment. But the help of every individual will be needed. It is "a tall order" for a rural district to put over an event of this magnitude but with the leadership of the man who made the fair of last fall such a success there is no doubt that the week of the reunion will be long remembered.

Personals.

Mr. Maurice O'Brien is spending a few days with his daughters in Peterboro.

Messrs. James S. O'Brien, Joseph C. O'Brien and John McMurray, who have been in northern lumber camps, have arrived home.

Messrs. Arthur Devlin and Leo Crough are leaving this week for the Canadian West.

ROMANCE PASSING.

DUBLIN, Ireland, April 1.—Modern science is taking the romance out of the region "where the River Shannon flows." A huge hydro-electric development project has been started on the river.

Other romantic and historic spots are being stamped with the progress of science. Gasoline motor cars now churn up the mud on the road to Mandalay; a railroad runs through the famous Nottingham forest, and a large dam is being built on the Jordan River in Palestine.

SERIOUSLY ILL.

SIR ADAM BECK,
Chairman of the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario, Who Is Reported Gravely Ill at Baltimore.

UP-TO-DATE BESTS

BESTS, April 1.—Campbellford and Meyersburg would make one tired with their senile boasting. They are not up to date at all. Ask anyone what's the latest, prettiest, niftiest thing today—the flapper. And here we have a flapper hen. She has bloomed forth with the plumage of a rooster. By appearance she cannot be distinguished from a rooster and the resemblance goes so far that she even possess the two sickle feathers on the tail.

TAX ANNOUNCED ON SOFT DRINKS BEER AND WINE

Supplementary Estimates Include $60,000 For Increased Sessional Indemnities.

RURAL AFFAIRS.

Report of Committee on Agriculture Stresses Need of Co-operative Marketing.

TORONTO, April 1.—The details of the beverage tax announced in the Budget speech were brought down in the Legislature yesterday by Hon. W. H. Price, Provincial Treasurer. Stripped of its technical terms the tax means that 4.4 beer is to be taxed at 10 cents a gallon; drinks such as ginger ale at 5 cents a gallon and native wines 50 cents a gallon. The tax on the wine was a surprise. By the method of taxation the tax is placed on the consumer, but the manner of collection is left to regulation and is not covered in the bill.

Tecnically, soft drinks and drinks containing up to one per cent. alcohol by volume are taxed five cents a gallon and above one per cent. by volume up to two and a-half per cent by volume (4.4 proof spirits) are taxed 10 cents a gallon.

Supplementary Estimates.

Further supplementary estimates to the amount of $3,840,822 were brought down. Under the heading legislation is an item of $66,000 for sessional indemnities, etc. This is for the increased indemnities for members.

The major items in the estimates are Premier's department, $1,600,000, and education $1,623,664. In the former the vote is for Hydro for work in the Chippawa, such as completion of developments units and transformer stations. There is $100,000 for the Georgian Bay system and $800,000 for Thunder Bay. There are grants to the universities as follow: Toronto $935,626; Queen's $260,000; Western $250,000.

Other big items are: Boys' School at Bowmanville, $200,000; Sudbury Court House $40,000; Mothers' Allowances $100,000; Queen Alexandria Sanitarium, London, $50,000. For building purposes if an equal amount is raised by other means, and the institution is open to all patients from Ontario. Canadian Nation Institute for the Blind, $25,000.

Agricultural Report.

The House also debated the report of the special committee on agriculture and its recommendations. Dr. Jamieson (South Grey) who was chairman of that committee made a very comprehensive survey of agricultural conditions in this province, touching on Hydro power, freight rates rural depopulation and markets. The latter question, he thought, the greatest confronting the farmers of Ontario today. A. Belanger (Liberal, Russell), who was also a member of the committee, said that there was too much uniformity on the schools courses in rural and urban schools. He did not think the teaching of technical agriculture necessary in the lower schools but he thought their literature and general curriculum should be more adapted to country life. Examinations, he said, would not be the same in city and country.

The debate was based particularly on a resolution asking the House to concur in the following recommendations of the committee: That the railways be asked to reduce the minimum rates on mixed cars containing cattle with other stock; that they be asked to reduce the rates on feeder cattle when carried from public stock yards to farms.

Power for Farms.

Dr. Jamieson was of the opinion that portable farm lighting units while satisfactory were beyond the means of the ordinary farmer owing to the outlay involved in the first place. He stated that the committee had received a proposition for the generation of power by the use of windmills, and he thought that a scheme might be devised whereby the municipality and the government could advance the money for the purpose on loan to the farmer. Dealing with reforestation, Dr. Jamieson regretted the export of small trees for the Christmas season, and suggested that an embargo should be raised against such cutting.

Dr. Jamieson dwelt at some length with freight rates, although admitting it a Federal problem, he thought the publicity from the committee and the talk in the House would assist. He referred particularly to the Atlantic shipping combine, stating that the committee had received complaints that the rates were so high that all the profits from Canadian cattle export trade was diverted from the producers. Dr. Jamieson said he did not propose to comment on the attempt being made by the Federal government to combat the combine, as there seemed to be strong opinion both ways as to the wisdom of the step.

"At any rate the agricultural committee can claim the credit of stirring up the Federal Government. It seems to me that the government, being the owner of 55 steamships, should have been a strong factor in controlling North Atlantic rates, but it is understood that these same government steamers entered into and formed part of the combination in the maintenance of high rates."

Public Health.

Dr. Jamieson said that he believed that the time was coming when the government would find it necessary to care for the health of all people and provide for medical attendance and nursing, with the same care as they now provide for the education of all children in the province. He pointed out that there was a rapidly growing number of small hospitals in the province doing admirable work. He said he had been assured by the Minister of Health that the interests of small hospitals would be safeguarded by arranging that they be affiliated with some larger provincial hospital, where nurses for the smaller institutions could be trained. He expressed his personal opinion that the nurses trained in the smaller hospitals were as efficient as those trained in the larger.

Co-operative Marketing.

Dr. Jamieson pointed out that necessity for co-operation and better marketing among the farmers, especially in Britain which was the most critical market in the world. Most other agricultural countries of the world, he said, had systems of co-operative marketing.

"It is clear, however, that the farmers must be co-operatively organized before they can be facilitated in any large way by the state," said Dr. Jamieson. "The slogan of co-operation is better farming, better living and better business. The committee came to the conclusion that everything depends upon better business." Dr. Jamieson, referring to interviews with the retailers throughout the province, said they were complaining of the inroads made by department stores and mail order houses, and if their views were correct, it would mean the closing of many retail shops and permit business to become concentrated in the hands of half the number now operating.

Business Conference.

A round table conference of all occupations and business classes had been called, and he hoped that such conference would bear fruit, as each now knew something of the viewpoint of the other. He also spoke of the necessity of tax reduction and stated that if this were a poor country there might be some reason for pessimism, but with the natural wealth of the country, the outlook was bright. "The solution of all our difficulties could be met with a call for more people to pay the taxes."

Dr. Jamieson did not think that so-called rural depopulation was alarming "as our agricultural production is increasing owing to improved methods, scientific methods and the use of labor saving machinery. He thought that there was a mistake in sending the brightest boys to the cities, as farming needed more education and ability than most city occupations.

Empire Trade.

Dr. Jamieson, in conclusion, said that the greatest problem was that of marketing, and that it would require the best brains in the province co-operating with other provinces and the Dominion to accomplish anything worth while. He pointed out that the United States by tariff had shut out our farmers from its markets, "but we members of the great British family also have everything within ourselves, and there is no reason why we should not take a leaf out of the book of the United States and live amongst ourselves. It may be only a dream, but some dreams come true, and by a system of evolution, the Mother Country and the great Overseas Dominions may be able to make such trade arrangements as will give us all the best the market in the world, just as we all stood shoulder to shoulder during the Great War."

Bills Introduced.

A bill to amend the Optometry Act provides that the Board of Optometry may make arrangements with any recognized university for courses of study for qualification as optometrists. Another Act introduced provides that registry districts do not change when the electoral district boundaries change.

The Minister of Agriculture introduced a Bill reducing the grant to individual horticultural societies from $800 to $600, thus permitting a greater spread of the total grant of $20,000.

NERVOUS SYSTEM VITAL SOURCE OF BODY POWER

YOUR nervous system is the vital force of your body; the force that gives energy to every organ and every muscle. So great is the power of the nerves that a tremendous shock, such as fear, may cause death.

A lesser nerve shock will blanch the cheeks, make the knees tremble, cause the heart to beat wildly or almost paralyse breathing.

To sustain our vitality we must nourish the nervous system. When we restore lost nerve power we find ourselves filled with new strength.

Nervous, exhausted men and women can quickly regain their nerve power. As they rebuild their nerves they soon see the signs of returning vitality.

Wincarnis gives to the nerves the very elements they must have to be nourished back to energy. For fifty years this nerve restorative and strength giver has reinvigorated those who were weak, thin, pale and so easily discouraged that life seemed scarcely to hold any real happiness.

If you are lacking in vital nerve force, go to your druggist to-day, obtain a bottle of Wincarnis, and begin the safe Wincarnis treatment.

Wincarnis is so effective that only three tablespoons a day need be taken. Try Wincarnis and see the difference just a few days will bring.

MISS MACPHAIL

Mr. Johnston defended the expenditure involved in sending three commissioners from the Canadian Parliament last year to visit Wembley during the British Empire Exhibition. A report had been made to the Minister of Immigration, in which it was recommended that Canada should participate in the Exhibition for 1925. Whether such a recommendation had resulted in the Government's decision he did not know; but he was glad that the Government had decided to participate again.

There was election talk in the air, said Mr. Johnston, and people wondered what the issues were to be. He expressed the view that the Progressive party was not going out of business in the next decade or two.

Miss MacPhail's Visit.

Miss Agnes MacPhail (Progressive, South-East Grey) offered her congratulations to Hon. George P. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals, at the opening of her speech. "I believe he is the most loved member in the House," she said, while members on both sides applauded. She proposed, said Miss MacPhail, to deal with one subject, the situation in the colliery districts of Nova Scotia. The British Empire Steel Corporation, as everyone knew, was a hugh merger of 14 companies, who went into the combination with a capital of $83,000,000, and came out with one of $102,000,000. "It is an excellent example of the pampering of industry and the neglect of humanity which forms part of that great machine," Miss MacPhail said.

Before visiting Cape Breton, she had wondered, said the speaker, how miners and their families could be reduced to starvation in three weeks. When she arrived there, she realized that the last three weeks were merely the culmination of a long period of want. For four years the miners had not had enough work; for a year and a half, they had had almost no work. As one woman said, for one and a half years they had just enough to eat. Therefore when the strike was declared and the credit of the stores shut off, a lot of the families had nothing. Miss MacPhail said that the miners thought that work had been given to them in such small quantities for some time past in order to force them to accept the ten per cent. cut in wages which the company wished to put in effect.

The company was not a Nova Scotia concern, said Miss MacPhail. A number of the directors were abroad. "Three of the directors sit in the Senate, which is tremendously hard on the company," she remarked. She enumerated the places which she had visited, mentioning a meeting of 2,000 miners which she attended in the Savoy Theatre at Glace Bay.

"GINGER GROUP"

their Labor affiliations. He thought it only fair that the group should be represented.

R. H. Halbert (Progressive, North Ontario) said that he had been a member of the striking committee. He pointed out that the group which was now asking representation on the shipping committee was over-represented on the standing committees. This group had a very large representation on the banking committee, for instance. "If they have formed into a political group, who is their leader?" asked Mr. Halbert.

Warns Progressives.

J. T. Shaw (Independent, Calgary West) remarked that Mr. Halbert seemed to think that when a few members got together to try and secure representation on a committee, they were forming a new political group. He had no desire to participate in the formation of such a group. "I believe that when the electors get a chance there is one group in the House which will be sadly depleted. That is the group to my immediate right," Mr. Shaw said. He thought the committee should represent the views of the House fairly.

Robert Forke, Progressive leader, said he would like to be quite sure as to which group Mr. Shaw was referring to in his prediction on the next general election.

"I don't want the honorable gentleman to be under any delusion," immediately stated Mr. Shaw. "I was referring to the Progressives."

Mr. Forke said that he hoped Mr. Shaw was not a good prophet. He did not think anyone lacked a square deal as far as committee representation was concerned. As Mr. Halbert had said, the group asking representation was over-represented on standing committees. He had not even known that they desired separate representation on the shipping committee. For himself, he wanted them to have any privilege which they were entitled to, and would agree to the group naming one of the Progressive members on the committee. He insisted that the appointment of the members of his party on this committee had been done absolutely without scheming, and that there had been no intention of discriminating against the group.

Couldn't Get Representation.

W. G. Good (Progressive, Brant) said that he had taken the matter up with the Conservative and Liberal whips, after being definitely informed that the "Ginger Group" could not get representation by the Progressives. The simple fact was that the group could not get representation in any other way.

"You chose the hon. member for Last Mountain (J. F. Johnston) as Progressive whip," interjected W. F. Carroll (Liberal, South Cape Breton).

"I did not," retorted Mr. Good.

Mr. Forke stated that when Mr. Good had come to him seeking representation, he had simply told him to go to the Government.

"I was certainly given to understand that I couldn't get representation through the Progressive group," said Mr. Good.

Too Many Groups.

L. H. Martell (Liberal, Hants), rising to a point of order, protested against the recognition of numerous parties in the House of Commons. First there had been the two old parties, then the third party (the Progressives) had come in, and finally the Labor party.

"Now, in the name of Heaven, when are we going to stop?" asked Mr. Martell.

He might not agree with his party on certain points, and choose to become the leader of a group of his own.

Speaker Lemieux ruled that a point of order was not well taken.

The amenities, if not the rules of the House, required that all members be given fair recognition. He would be remiss in his duty if he did not recognize those members not in the main groups.

He suggested that, as the budget had precedence over other business, the matter might be decided as agreed by the Progressive leader, by allowing the new group to name one member of the Progressive representation.

Mr. Good suggested that the situation might be adjusted by the addition of four members to the committee, one from the Conservatives, one from the new group and two from the Liberals.

Offered to Resign.

Harry Leader (Progressive, Portage-La-Prairie) said he had offered to resign from the committee in order that one of the names of those on the group asking representation might be put in his place.

The Prime Minister said there seemed to be a disposition that all groups should be represented. He therefore suggested that the motion should be passed on the understanding that an arrangement be made between those members offering to retire in order that one of the group of 13 might sit on the committee.

The motion was then carried without division.

tear it down for their own protection. They now had to truck their products from Cobourg and must get their tanks up quickly.

Alderman Denne asked if the company were willing to let it stand over until the Property Committee could look into it?

F. R. Locke, of the C.N.R. said that the railway had given the matter serious consideration, and that their operating department had passed on it.

Ald. Jones asked what position the city would be in if they withdrew the permit?

Alderman Fife thought the mater should be settled without rescinding the motion.

Alderman McIntyre said the resolution should go through, as conditions were different to what the Council had understood.

Alderman Phelan said he wanted the former motion rescinded so that the company should understand that they could not under any circumstances build on the debated site.

Proposed Interview.

Alderman Fife said that if the motion were rescinded the company could go on building. He would prefer to stop the building long enough to confer with the company and the contractors.

Alderman Turner's opinion was that the company would be pleased to confer with the city. He moved an amendment that Mayor Turner Aldermen Denne, McIntyre and Fife be a committee to confer with the representatives of the company and the C.N.R. to choose another site, and that the company be asked to hold up work. Alderman Fife seconded the amendment.

The amendment was passed and Alderman Phelan called for the yeas and nays:

Ayes and naps on the amendment: Nay: Phelan, McIntyre and Greene

Aye: Jones, Turner, Fife, Crowe, Denne, and Mayor.

Alderman Stocker did not vote.

Mr. Jones said he would try to get authority from his company to stop work.

The Mayor read a letter from Dr. Moir inviting the council to attend the Halliday Memorial Lecture on Thursday night.

Alderman Denne suggested that the Council should take a hand in the Nova Scotia relief work.

PARALYSIS VICTIM.

Harvey Brooks of Omemee, Has Made Some Improvement.

OMEMEE, March 31.—The many friends of Mr. Harvey Brooks, a well-known farmer, living west of the village, will learn with regret that he suffered a stroke of paralysis, while resting in bed, early Thursday morning. The stroke affected his right side, but there is a slight indication of improvement, he being now able to move the fingers of the right hand a little. Mr. Brooks who with his wife, has been living retired in the village for several years, had returned to the farm about two months ago, in order to be of assistance to his son, Mr. Russell Brooks, during the spring work. His many friends will trust for an early recovery.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 1, 1925.

THE BEVERAGE TAX.

The beverage tax announced by the Provincial Treasurer yesterday of ten cents per gallon on 4.4 beer, five cents per gallon on all soft drinks and fifty cents per gallon on native wines is not, in the case of the first two items at least, as heavy as many people imagined from the estimate of $2,500,000 revenue from this source made by Hon. W. H. Price in his Budget speech.

When the levy was first mentioned it was feared that a tax on all beverages would perhaps result in the price of soft drinks being raised, but "pop" will continue to retail at the same price under the 5c per gallon tax.

The beer tax of 10c per gallon will not materially increase the cost of that beverage.

On the other hand, the 50c levy per gallon on native wines will not contribute much to the popularization of the beverage product from the grape district.

New forms of taxation are never popular, but it is not likely that the beverage levy will press very heavily upon anybody.

THE KU KLUX KLAN.

Reports from various sections of Canada indicate that Ku Klux Klan organization work is being carried on and that the hooded order—by the way, there seems to be two different Klans seeking a foothold in this country—is having some success in securing members.

The news is disquieting, although, of course, so long as the organization confines its work to lawful activities there is nothing that can be done by the authorities to stop the progress of the movement.

If people want to don bed sheets and go through the silly mummery of the Klan ritual, they cannot be prevented from doing so.

Viewed from that angle the movement is nothing but nonsense, but, unfortunately, there are other angles.

The sinster part about the whole thing is that the basis of the organization is religious and racial intolerance.

It feeds upon nothing higher than bigotry, and it seeks to keep alive a spirit of hate and distrust and suspicion.

The Examiner's opinion of the mentality of Canadians will be considerably lowered if the Ku Klux movement succeeds in securing many members in this country.

DOURO'S CENTENARY.

The township of Douro is arranging to celebrate in June, with an appropriate programme, featured by the presence of former Douro residents from far and near, the hundredth anniversary of the settlement of the township.

In this respect Douro is setting an example for the county capital, and the promoters of the centenary celebration are to be congratulated upon the enterprise and vision they are showing in commemorating the beginning of their municipality.

The first real settlement of Douro took place in 1825, when part of the contingent of immigrants brought to this district by Hon. Peter Robinson—from whom Peterboro obtains its name—took up land in the township and began hewing homes and farms for themselves from the virgin forest.

Proper recognition of the debt of gratitude that is owing to these heroic pioneers will be made during the celebration in June, and among the features will be an exhibition of relics of the early days of the Province that will afford some idea of the difficulties and hardships that beset the paths of the men and women who turned a forest into a prosperous township.

Douro is showing a fine appreciation of the fitness of things in making the one hundred anniversary a red letter occasion.

THEY WANT THE TRUTH.

The aim of the Ferguson Government to have the Legislature prorogued by Easter under ordinary circumstances would be highly commendable.

It has always been the contention of the Examiner that sessions of the Legislature have been needlessly prolonged, that much time has been wasted, and that the Province has been put to unnecessary expense as a result.

The winding up of the business of the present session by the end of next week would, except for one thing, be regarded as a demonstration on the part of the present administration that they are alive and business-like.

If the carrying out of such a programme, however, blocks an inquiry into the Home Bank transactions prior to the advent of Hon. Peter Smith into the office of Provincial Treasurer, public opinion will be inclined to favour the Legislature continuing its sittings.

The mystery surrounding the disappearance of $42,000 alleged to have been paid by the Home Bank in secret commissions demands a genuine effort to get at the bottom of the whole affair—and so far the Government has not only failed to show any eagerness to delve into that question, but rather an anxiety to bar the door completely.

In that attitude Mr. Ferguson and his followers are out of touch with public opinion.

The people of Ontario want the whole miserable affair cleared up—and they are not looking at the matter through political spectacles in that desire.

THE GERMAN ELECTION.

While each of the twenty odd political parties in any will draw its own conclusions from the vot- ch took place yesterday to elect a successor bert, the one outstanding fact which will im- T on those who look on the election from which freshly that the Republic is holding its own and ent at least the swing of the pendulum m is checked.

Sloa the candidate of the Nationalist es polled the largest number of the three Republican ts and Centrists was ainst about 10,387,000 for the Nationalists. Although the number of votes polled only amounted to about 70 per cent. of those qualified to go to the polls, yet it is a fair presumption that more than one-half of the nation is in favor of continuing the Republic at least for the present.

After more than six years the German Republic therefore finds itself in a fairly strong position. It is true that those who oppose the Republican idea point to the days under the Empire when they had plenty to eat and Germany had a place and was a power in the world. It is natural that the Republic should be held responsible for all the ills that have affected Germany financially and socially since the downfall of the Monarchy and the differences and lack of cohesion among the several parties upholding the Republican ideal have given the Nationalists ground for some bitter comment.

The curse of Germany today lies in its multiplicity of political parties. In a House of over 500 members the largest party today has not more than 130 members. Still on the great question of Republic or Restoration of the Monarchy Germany votes for Republican. The Socialists, Democrats and Centrists today command 232 votes in the Reich, while the Nationalists, the People's Party and the Bavarian People's Party, which makes up the Monarchist group, have from 185 to 195 members, the number being difficult to determine, since small scattering groups would be willing to throw their voting strength on either side of the scale in case of a decisive struggle. The balance of power is largely in the hands of the 41 Communists who oppose both the Republic and the Monarchy and desire to set up a form of government similar to that of Soviet Russia.

The weakness of the Monarchists lies in the fact that they cannot agree among themselves as to who should be their king. Of the twenty-one kings, princes and grand dukes who lost their orbs and sceptres with the defeat of Germany in the field there is no outstanding figure on whom the majority would agree. It is admitted that Wilhelm will never return to Germany save when he is brought back to rest with his ancestors, while the Crown Prince, who is not without a certain measure of popularity, is scarcely the idol for whom men would fight and, if needs be, die. There is the question of Hohenzollern or Wittelsbach, complicated by the religious issue and the relationship of Bavaria, and also of Prussia, towards the new Monarchy. The Republican spirit also gains strength from the fact that Germany is far more like the United States, in that it is a collection of States among whom the idea of Statehood is strong, raher than a cohesive unit such as Britain.

Germany is passing through the stage that France went through after her great Revolution. There were the same bickerings then among the Royalist rivals and questions of political and social reorganization were more pressing than foreign problems.

Under the terms of her constitution Germany must go to the polls again on April 26th. It will be well for the Republicans to determine upon a compromise candidate on whom all three great parties will agree. Otherwise the good work of the last six years may be undone overnight and the long, toilsome road of rehabilitation may have to be traversed once more from the bottom of the hill.—Montreal Star.

THE AMBASSADOR OF EMPIRE.

Once again the Ambassador of Empire has left his home to carry British prestige to new colonies, new dominions and new countries. Today, with the Prince of Wales on board, H.M.S. Repulse sailed out of Portsmouth harbor for a six months' visit to Africa and South America. Last year the invitation of President de Alvear of Argentina was accepted and Mr. Hertzog confirmed the invitation which his predecessor in office had already extended to visit South Africa. Since then the Republics of Chile and Uruguay have also invited the Prince to pay them a visit and it has been arranged to hold a durbar of the head Ashanti chiefs at Kumasi, in West Africa. His will be a crowded program.

Last month, when the vote for the voyage was being considered in the House of Commons, David Kirkwood, a Scottish Labor member, acting, as he said, for the Executive of the Parliamentary Labor Party, raised the matter in a fiery speech, in which he spoke of the Prince's voyages as "all this humbug that's going on." In the course of the debate, Walter Guinness, replying to another Scottish Labor member, said that the money which was to be voted "would be no more spent on the Prince than money which was spent on a foreign mission." To the credit of British Labor as a whole, Kirkwood carried little support, even in his own party. The Prince has justly been called the greatest ambassador of the British Empire.

In Glasgow they may not know his real value, but on this side of the Atlantic, we are in danger, in our enthusiasm, of setting that value too high. Every few months it is rumored that he is about to come and see us again. The wish indeed is father to the thought. Only two days ago it was necessary for his staff to deny most emphatically that he intended to pay a visit to the Atlantic States and Bermuda on his return journey. He will have enough to do, as it is.

At Kumasi, the city which was relieved by Col. Willcocks in 1900, when the garrison had become so weak with hunger and fever, that few of them could still stand on their feet, he will receive in durbar the Ashanti chiefs, the sons and grandsons of the warrior leaders who fought Britain continuously from the very beginning to the very end of the nineteenth century. Last year, it will be recalled, King Prempeh, the last Ashanti king, was permitted to return home after twenty-eight years of exile; a fitting dispensation preparatory to the visit of the Prince. Where, too, in history, is there a more magnificent gesture, a more brilliant example of magnanimity, than in the granting of independence to a United South Africa in 1909? In the first part of his tour, the Prince will have much to remind him of the greatness of the race to which he has the fortune to belong, the race which Macaulay called "the Imperial race."

Nor will he have a chance to forget them in South America. He will cross the Andes to Chile, so the itinerary says, the country which largely owes its independence to Bernardo O'Higgins, an Irishman who had been educated in England, and who became the head of the first permanent national government of that country. Canadians may feel that since he is now a Canadian, he should come and look us up each year. But we should not forget that Britain has set her mark on many other places under the sun, and that it is his duty and desert to visit them as well as us.—Montreal Star.

A THOUGHT.

STRAIGHT THINKING.

A good many people approach an idea like a moth attracted by an arc light. They beat their brains against it, fly around it, and eventually go on to something else, quite convinced that with so much fuss something really important must have been accomplished. But the idea remains suspended just where it was before. With people of this nature the simplest things become complex. Their natural element is confusing, and where they do not find it they create it. They forget that success consists so largely of thinking straight of keeping one's thoughts clamped to the subject in hand, of retaining a fine clarity of mind.

The world is hungry for men and women who can be faithful to one thought at a time.

EGG MARKETS

OTTAWA, Ont., March 31—The tone of the market is quiet and prices are holding fairly steady. It is reported that one western Ontario packer has commenced storing. There seems to be a surplus of local fresh on most Canadian markets and in Winnipeg it is anticipated that a car will be shipped East in the next few days. Storage operations have also commenced in British Columbia. Prices in the United States are about 6 cents higher than when storing commenced a year ago.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 31—Crop reports which bordered on the sensational and which pointed to extraordinary abandonment of wheat acreage this season did much to turn wheat prices upward today after the market had suffered a collapse of 6½ cents a bushel. Wheat closed nervous and irregular at a range varying from one cent decline to 1½c advance as compared with 24 hours before. Today's finish was at 1.46 to 1.46½ for May wheat and 1.37⅛ to 1.37¾ for July, with corn 1⅝ 50 cents down.

According to one of the leading crop authorities here, the 1925 April condition of winter wheat is estimated at only 74.1 per cent as against 81, in December last and 83 per cent at the beginning of April last year. Based on his figures concerning probable abandonment of acreage, the 1925 winter wheat yield expected would be cut to 480,000,000 bushels as compared with 590,000,000 bushels actually harvested in 1924. It was late in the day, however, before it became known that buying which had developed after the earlier overturn of values was due largely to the crop outlook as thus presented. Renewed export buying helped also to lift prices in the last part of the day, announcement being made that 500,000 bushels of wheat and 1,500,000 bushels of rye had been purchased for shipment to Europe.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Man., March 31—Wild price fluctuations featured trading on all markets here today. Wheat which worked within a range of eight cents recovered sensationally during the latter part of the session, May closing at $1.48½ 1⅜c below yesterday's final quotations; July, narrowed the spread between the nearby future closing at $1.48¾, 1¼c lower, while October advanced 1½c at $1.30½.

The session betrayed nervousness throughout and shortly after the opening, the market was flooded with selling orders, May slumping 8 1-3 cents to reach the low point of $1.41¾. On this break a good class of buying developed and offerings eased up considerably, with a resultant upturn in prices. Minor recessions were later recorded but export buying against sales worked at the seabord, steadied the market appreciably.

Liverpool cables came 6¾ to 7⅛ pence lower, reflecting the decline on this side, yesterday. Private cables intimated that the European markets were demoralized and importing houses were reported to be in financial trouble owing to the drastic recessions here. The volume of trade was comparatively light and the seaboard reported no export business worked overnight.

MONTREAL GRAIN

MONTREAL, March 31 — The export trade in wheat here today was very quiet, but there was some demand from foreign buyers for oats and barley and sales of odd loads were made to the United Kingdom for first-half April shipment. There was no further developments in the local market for cash grain, prices for oats being about steady, but the demand for car lots for domestic and country account was limited and business was quiet.

Prices for winter wheat grades of flour were steady at the recent declines noted. During the month of March prices fluctuated $1.90 per barrel, first patents selling as high as $11.40 per barrel and closed at the lowest at $9.90. The foreign demand today showed no improvement, there being no firm bids in the market. The market for winter wheat flour was without any new feature to note, the demand being of a limited character.

While the undertone to the egg market was easier, prices did not show any further change but prospects are that values will reach a lower level in the near future owing to the more liberal supplies coming forward. The demand was limited. The receipts today were 2,064 cases, as against 2,372 for the same day last week, and 2,949 for the corresponding day a year ago.

The feature of the butter market was the stronger feeling that developed and prices advanced ½ to 1 cent per pound which was attributed to the increased demand from United States buyers for fresh made creamery butter and also to the fact that local buyers showed more disposition to operate with the result that a moderate amount of business was transacted. There was no further change in wholesale jobbing prices, finest creamery butter selling at 34 cents per pound in solid packages, and 35 cents per pound in one pound blocks.

Receipts of butter were 467 packages, as against 442 for the same day last week, and 134 for the corresponding day a year ago.

The receipts of cheese today were 1,771 boxes, as compared with 5,830 for the same day last week, and 58 for the corresponding day a year ago. There continues to be a steady demand for all the fodder made cheese coming forward and the tone of the market was firm with latest sales of Western No. 1 white and coolred being made at 22½ to 23 cents per pound, and No. 2 grades at 21½ to 22 cents per pound, and Quebec 20 pound cheese at 24 to 24¼ cents per pound.

Beans were steady at $2.70 per bushel.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, March 31—Sterling exchange rates were quoted here today as offlows:

Sterling demand—$4.77¾.

Sterling cables—$4.78¼.

Teach your child Internal cleanliness

THE mother who permits constipation in her baby or older child is risking the health, even the life, of her little one.

Fretfulness, feverishness, night terrors, grinding the teeth in sleep, biliousness, coated tongue, loss of appetite, any of these may indicate constipation. Poisons from the child's stagnant intestine are flooding the little body, and if left unchecked may lead to serious consequences.

Avoid Laxatives—Say Doctors

A noted authority says that laxatives do not overcome constipation, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition.

Medical science has found in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and hastens its passage through and out of the body. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water, it is harmless.

Let your infant or child have Nujol regularly, and see rosy cheeks, clear eyes and happiness return once more.

Nujol is used in children's and general hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world.

A LOVE EPIC OF THE FAR NORTH

CHAPTER XXVII.

The next morning Bush McTaggart heard the clanking of a chain when he was still a good quarter of a mile from the "nest." Was it a lynx? Was it a fisher-cat? Was it a wolf or a fox? Or was it Baree? He half ran the rest of the distance, and at last he came to where he could see, and his heart leaped into his throat when he saw he had caught his enemy. He approached, holding his rifle ready to fire if by any chance the dog should free himself.

Baree lay on his side, panting from exhaustion and quivering with pain. A hoarse cry of exultation burst from McTaggart's lips as he drew nearer and looked at the snow. It was packed hard for many feet about the trap-house, where Baree had struggled, and it was red with blood. The blood had come mostly from Baree's jaws. They were dripping now as he glared at his enemy. The steel jaws hidden under the snow had done their merciless work well. One of his forefeet was caught well up toward the first joint: both hind feet were caught, a fourth trap had closed on his flank, and in tearing the jaws loose he had pulled or a patch of skin half as big as McTaggart's hand. The snow told the story of his desperate fight all through the night; his bleeding jaws showed how vainly he had tried to break the imprisoning steel with his teeth. He was panting. His eyes were bloodshot. But even now, after all his hours of agony, neither his spirit nor his courage was broken. When he saw McTaggart he made a lunge to his feet almost instantly crumpling down into the snow again. But his forefeet were braced. His head and chest remained up, and the snarl that came from his throat was tigerish in its ferocity. Here, at last not more than a dozen feet from him—was the one thing in all the world that he hated more than he hated the wolf breed. And again he was helpless, as he was helpless that other time in the rabbit snare.

The fierceness of his snarl did not disturb Bush McTaggart now. He saw how utterly the other was at his mercy, and with an exultant laugh he leaned his rifle against a tree, pulled off his mittens, and began loading his pipe. This was the triumph he had looked forward to, the torture he had waited for. In his soul there was a hatred as deadly as Baree's, the hatred that a man might have for a man. He had expected to send a bullet through the dog. But this was better—to watch him dying by inches, to taunt him as he would have taunted a human, to walk about him so that he could hear the clank of the traps and see the fresh blood drip as Baree twisted his tortured legs and body to keep facing him. It was a splendid vengeance. He was so engrossed in it that he did not hear the approach of snowshoes behind him. It was a voice—a man's voice—that turned him round suddenly.

The man was a stranger, and he was younger than McTaggart by ten years. At least he looked no more than thirty-five or six, even with the short growth of blond beard he wore. He was of that sort that the average man would like at a glance; boyish, and yet a man; with clear eyes that looked out frankly from under the rim of his fur cap, a form lithe as an Indian's, and a face altogether that did not bear the hard lines of the wilderness. Yet McTaggart knew before he had spoken that this man was of the wilderness, that he was heart and soul a part of it. His cap was fisher-skin. He wore a windproof coat of softly-tanned caribou skin, belted at the waist with a long sash, and Indian fringed. The inside of the coat was furred. He was travelling on the long, slender bush-country snowshoe; his pack, strapped over his shoulders, was small and compact: he was carrying his rifle in a cloth jacket. And from cap to snowshoes he was travel-worn. McTaggart, at a guess, would have said he had travelled a thousand miles in the last few weeks. It was not this thought that sent the strange and chilling fear up his back, but the sudden fear that in some strange way a whisper of the truth might have found its way down into the south—the truth of what had happened on the Gray Loon—and that this travel-worn stranger wore under his caribou-skin coat the badge of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police. For that instant it was almost a terror that possessed him, and he stood mute.

The stranger had uttered only an amazed exclamation before. Now he said, with his eyes on Baree:

"God save us, but you've got the poor devil in a right proper mess, haven't you?"

There was something in the voice that reassured McTaggart. It was not a suspicious voice, and he saw that the stranger was more interested in the captured animal than in himself. He drew a deep breath.

"A trap robber," he said.

The stranger was staring still more closely at Baree. He thrust his gun stock downward in the snow and drew nearer to him.

"God save us again—a dog!" he exclaimed.

From behind, McTaggart was watching the man with the eyes of a ferret.

"Yes, a dog," he answered. "A wild dog, half wolf at least. He's robbed me of a thousand dollars' worth of fur this winter."

The stranger squatted himself before Baree, with his mittened hands resting on his knees, and his white teeth gleaming in a half smile.

"You poor devil!" he said sympathetically. "So you're a trap robber, eh? An outlaw? And—the Police have got you! And—God save us once more—they haven't played you a very square game!"

He rose and faced McTaggart.

"I had to set a lot of traps like that," the Factor apologized, his face reddening slightly under the steady gaze of the stranger's blue eyes. Suddenly his animus rose. "And he's going to let him starve and rot in the traps, to pay for all he's done." He picked up his gun, and added, with his eyes on the stranger and his finger ready at the trigger, "I'm Bush McTaggart, the Factor at Lac Bain. Are you bound that way, M'sieu?"

"A few miles. I'm bound up-country—beyond the Barrens."

McTaggart felt again the strange thrill.

"Government?" he asked.

The stranger nodded.

GARNET BARLOW FUNERAL HELD

Big Cortege Attested Popularity of Havelock Man—Masonic Auspices.

OVERSEAS MAN.

HAVELOCK, April 1 — The funeral of Garnet James Barlow, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Barlow, who died on Wednesday, in the private patients' pavilion, Toronto, took place from his father's residence on Saturday afternoon, under the auspices of the Trenton Lodge A.F. and A.M. Service was held in St. John's Anglican church, and was conducted by the rector, the Rev. T. H. Stanley, assisted by Rev. R. A. Cranston of the Presbyterian Church, Trenton.

Many citizens and friends gathered at the church to pay a last tribute of respect to one who was held in high esteem.

The deceased who was an employee of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. was in his 31st year, and was born in Havelock. About nine years ago he was transferred to Trenton where he resided until his demise with the exception of the time he was overseas.

The news of his death, although it was not unexpected as he has been ill for nearly two years, cast a gloom over the entire community. Up until ten days ago, when he took a change for the worse, he appeared to be recovering and had assumed office work the first of the year.

Much sympathy is felt for the family, especially his mother, who is seriously ill.

Besides his bereaved wdiow and baby, he leaves to mourn his loss his parents, two sisters, Mrs. S. Cross of Toronto, Mrs. Edward Williams of town, four brothers, William, John, Reginald of Toronto, and Ward of North Bay.

The floral tributes were most beautiful and numerous and testified in a mute way to the high esteem in which Mr. Barlow was held.

STRONG APPEAL FOR INDIA'S AID

Earl of Birkenhead Says Self-Government Will Come By Co-operation.

LONDON, April 1. — (Canadian Press).—The Earl of Birkenhead, Secretary of State for India, speaking in the House of Lords last night made a powerful appeal for peace and co-operation between the British and Indian peoples. He was setting the seal of the Baldwin Government's approval on the drastic extra-legal measures that the late MacDonald Labor Government found itself impelled to authorize to suppress widespread revolutionary conspiracies and crimes in Bengal.

Lord Birkenhead testified that in his opinion, reached through investigations, the measures taken by the MacDonald Government, remarkable and unprecedented as they were in the history of India, were completely justified by the exceptional conditions that prevailed in Bengal. The Secretary declared that his predecessor, Lord Olivier, would have failed in his duty had he neglected to authorize them. Lord Birkenhead complimented the former Labor Secretary for India upon the performance of his painful duty, which must have been shattering, he said, to the prepossessions of some of his Ministerial colleagues.

Alluding to the recent speech of the Swarajist leader, Dr. Das, repudiating a policy of violence in the attainment of the Swarajist aims, but calling also for the abandonment of a policy of suspension and repression on the part of the Government, Lord Birkenhead disavowed any desire by the Home or Indian Government to repress political opinions, which appeared to be what Dr. Das meant by repression. He added that if Dr. Das would go still further in sincere co-operation with the Government to prevent crime and violence there would be no difficulty about abolishing these exceptional measures. There must, however, be no ambiguity.

"With honest co-operation," he continued, "the way is open and easy for what we all desire—the progressive realization of responsible government in British India as an integral part of the Empire. Never will it be reached by the road of violence and desperate crimes."

TRAVELING PASTURE

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1—Here's a yarn from Bella Vista, Calif., to believe or not. A farmer has three sheep that are a traveling pasture. While being fed with cattle hayseed dropped into their wool. Recent rains and the warmth of their bodies caused the seeds to sprout and now their backs and sides are covered with grass.

COLBORNE HAS AGED RESIDENT

George E. Walker, 88, Contests Honors of Age With Samuel Black.

LIBERAL, TOO.

(By a Staff Reporter)

COLBORNE, April 1 —The Examiner last week published a cut of Samuel Black of Warkworth, who at the age of 92 is said to be the oldest Liberal in Northumberland. This village has a resident who is runner up for that honor, George E. Walker, 88 years old, who is related by marriage to the Warkworth nonegenarian, Mr. Black's son being married to a daughter of the other, the couple residing in Percy Township on the Black family homestead.

Mr. Walker was born in Cramahe Township of English parents in 1837, the year of the breaking out of the Mackenzie Rebellion and he lived on the same farm, boy and man, until he retired and with his wife came in 1901 to reside in Colborne. In Central Ontario only occasional echoes were heard from the trouble started by discontented Liberals.

The principles of Liberalism were instilled into the developing mind of Mr. Walker from his earliest infancy and he read no newspapers except those that in those days supported the party so vigorously.

The first vote cast by Mr. Walker when he came of age was for James L. Bigger who represented what is now the riding of East Northumberland, in the Parliament of Upper and Lower Canada, before the days of Confederation. He has heard platform speeches from nearly all of the leaders on both sides who took a prominent part in forming the Dominion of Canada out of the then existing provinces. His recollection is that as an orator the late Hon. George Brown was the most forceful of them all but admits that he may be a trifle prejudiced in his judgment. In all his long life Mr. Walker has never cast a Conservative vote. On the rare occasions when there was no Liberal candidate in the field, Mr. Walker lined up with the Progressives. He believes that the party of his choice has a better chance to win in the next election than they have had for years as Northumberland is essentially an agricultural community and times are good with the farmers.

Another daughter of Mr. Black is Mrs. Dean McGregor of Cordova Mines. His son, Clarence, resides on the farmer where his father lived so long.

Shipment of Apples

Ben Coyle, one of the largest apple dealers in the Colborne district, made on Monday his last shipment for the season. The fruit, which was of the Ben Davis variety and in excellent condition, will go to Port Arthur and Fort William. Robert Snetsinger has two or three carloads yet in stock. The market for apples is dull.

Over 50 per cent of the land in the territory surrounding Colborne is now set out in fruit trees, and sorting apples in the warehouses here gives employment to from 15 to 30 men during the winter.

TOO GENEROUS

DENVER, April 1 — An income taxpayer here tried to give Uncle Sam more than one-third of his income of $1626. He thought the $1000 exemption for unmarried men meant that all above that amount had to be paid to the government, so he sent his check for $626.

BOARD OF WORKS TALKS ROLLERS

Not Decided Whether To Repair Old Roller or Buy New One.

The question before the Board of Works last night was again, "Shall we buy a new road roller or have the old one repaired?" Alderman Crowe was the spokesman of the repair faction and Alderman Fife led those who wanted a new roller. Alderman Fife thought it was poor business to have the roller repaired, even on a guarantee from the William Hamilton Company to keep it in repair for the season, as he feared it would be in the shop when needed most. Alderman Crowe thought that the roller would be thoroughly repaired, and would last for more than one year, and the city would be in a better positon to purchase a new one later on. It was finally decided that the Mayor, the Chairman and the City Engineer should see the William Hamilton Company, and if they would make a guarantee satisfactory to the committee the old roller would be repaired, and if their offer were unsatisfactory, then the Chairman and Engineer should go and see some gasoline and steam rollers and find out which would be suitable.

A question that caused some difference of opinion was whether the sum of $600 mentioned in the Hamilton Company's letter included everything or if there would be further charges when the roller had been thoroughly examined.

Prices of New Rollers.

Quotations on various makes of rollers were supplied by Mr. Parsons. The one that seemed to interest the members most was the Sawyer-Massey 12½-ton roller, made in Canada, and delivered in Peterboro at a cost of $6,300 and the old roller. The Waterous Engine Company quoted $6,100 for their roller, delivered in Peterboro. The Engineer said that this was assembled in Canada, but that he thought some of the parts were made in the United States. The J. I. Case Company, an American firm, asked $6,100 and the old roller for a 12-ton steam roller and $6,800 and the old one for an 11-ton gasoline roller. Other gas-engined rollers were the Buffalo-Springfield at $7,115 and the Huber 10-ton at $6,322.

Alderman Turner was doubtful about the gasoline engines being suitable for such heavy service, while the Mayor and Alderman Fife expressed the fear that if a steam roller were obtained it could not be traded in in ten years when the gas engines would be the standard.

The Canadian Pacific Railway sent back an agreement putting the responsibility for any damage whatever caused by the storm drain under their track on Townsend street on the city. The Board instructed the clerk to write to the Railway Company that the city would accept the standard agreement approved by the Railway Board but could not accept the form of agreement submitted.

Several complaints were made by the aldermen about different bad places in the roads or sidewalks. In two places these were ascribed to bad planking on railway crossings.

Must Reside in City.

The Board of Works recommended, on motion of Aldermen Turner and Crowe, that the man who had run the sweeper last year be hired for this year provided that he resided in the city.

A motion of the Mayor and Alderman Jones that the city's name be marked on the sweeper and the City Engineer's car was carried.

The Engineer's mention of the practice of putting chairs in the aisles at crowded meetings, brought up by the large crowd at All Saints' Church on Thursday night, was referred to the Police Commission.

A letter was read from Ed. Courtney on behalf of George Carpenter, asking that the sidewalk promised be built as soon as possible. He will be advised that this is on the programme.

Crossing Requests.

The Mayor reported that the President of the De Laval Company had asked for a crossing in front of the plant. Alderman Turner called attention to the Nashua crossing.

The Chairman said that these would be built if it were possible.

Alderman Stocker asked for information about the outfall sewer plans. Mr. Parsons said he had not had even a reply to his last letter. If nothing is done by Saturday the matter will be taken up with W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P.

Alderman McIntyre asked what had been done about the Bethune Street sewer. The Chairman said that the by-law had not passed Council.

Missing Since November.

Church May Shelter Missing Daughter of Lord Tredegar.

LONDON, April 1. Canadian Press —The whereabouts of Hon. Gwenyth Morgan, daughter of Lord Tredegar, who disappeared from her London residence last November, is still a mystery.

Lord Tredegar has offered a large reward for information leading to her discovery, and police and private detectives have made an exhaustive but unsuccessful search for her.

The belief is now gaining ground here that she is either dead or held captive.

There is also some belief however that she might have joined the Catholic church, and entered a convent, as her brother, Hon. Evan Morgan, recently was converted to Catholicism and is now in Rome.

MAIN BUSINESS BLOCK OF CACHE BAY DESTROYED WITH ONE DEATH

Seven Families Homeless and Property Loss is Estimated at $60,000—Fire Started in Garage Early on Tuesday Morning.

BOY MISSED BY EXCITED PARENTS.

CACHE BAY, Ont., April 1. — Fire originating from an unknown cause in a local garage swept the main business block of Cache Bay, at an early hour on Tuesday morning, and resulted in one death, seven homeless families, and property loss of approximately $60,000.

Among the buildings that are a total loss is John Lavoie's livery barns and garage, the Rusk apartment house, G. D. Martin's general store, Max Gregg's home, Joseph Vermet's home, and the ice house, store houses, barns and huge root houses of the Cache Bay's Stores Ltd.

John Vermet, the four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Vermet, was burned to death as he lay in his bed and the charred remains were recovered in the ashes of the home after the fire had abated.

Started in Garage.

The Vermet house was adjacent to Lavoie's garage, where the fire started, and in the excitement of the moment the parents escaped with the other five children, each thinking the little boy was with the other parent.

The fire was first noticed at 4:30 o'clock but it had made such headway that efforts of the volunteer fire fighters, under James Beck, were of little avail, and it was not until 6.45 that it was under control.

The local fire fighters were assisted by six volunteer firemen and the chemical fire truck of Sturgeon Falls.

Two streams of hose were played on the blaze continually by the local fighters, and had it not been for their heroic work nothing could have saved the village, for the fire was fed by a high wind.

For some time serious concern was felt for fear the fire would sweep across the tracks into the lumber yards of the Gordon Lumber Company, but the untiring work of the fire fighters prevented this catastrophe.

It is believed that the fire started in the shoemaking shop of Tony Jacobello, in one corner of the Lavoie garage and stables, but no cause has been discovered. The building, largely of frame constructoin, fell a ready prey to the flames.

SOUTH AFRICA TO CHANGE ITS TARIFF

May Abolish or Reduce the British Preference.

CAPETOWN, South Africa, April 1 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's).—The Capetown Argus yesterday said the news that the South African Government is contemplating a new tariff system, by which the preference on British goods would be either reduced or abolished in the Budget which will be introduced in parliment next Wednesday is at least, very disquieting. South Africa, it declares, is evidently content to be a member of the great family of the British Empire, and it would indicate a tendency towards disruption if the head of that group were penalized by a daughter dominion because of the accident of politics which brought a certain section consisting of an alliance of Boer irreconcilables and the Labor party into power.

The report of the Board of Trade which is expected to guide the Minister of Finance in his Budget statement, it is said, recommends that a special preferential tariff be given to countries reciprocating with South Africa, and a higher tariff to others. Holland and Germany, it is reported, will be given the "most favored nation" treatment.

ARGUMENTS ARE AIRED ON PLAN TO SAVE LIGHT

Some People Cannot Accomodate Themselves to Change in Time.

OPINIONS VARY

Some Want to Tell Time by Sun Like Distant Forefathers.

The question of bringing up once more the matter of daylight saving in Peterboro has raised a great deal of discussion among citizens generally. Arguments pro and con include some varying viewpoints. The women who like it and those who don't appear just about as evenly divided as the men who like it and the men who don't.

Harking back to the days when the city moved its clock on and got up an hour earlier in the morning, there come to mind some of the objections and commendations of the system. Oddy enough, although most of the girls employed in factories liked it at that time, the men did not. It was supposed then to give the men an extra hour in the day to work in their gardens, and also to help them save electricity. They said that the saving in lightning juice, except in the spring and late fall, was negligible, and that the garden idea didn't work out either, except in this way, that the office man who usually rose to work in his garden in the morning, neglected it altogether and spent the extra afternoon hour at games. As for the factory employee, he didn't want to workout under the sun when he came home from work anyway. He was usually hot and cross and wanted something to eat, while his wife, on the contrary, felt that it wasn't time to prepare the evening meal and was just settling down for a little rest after a strenuous day. Perhaps a domestic quarrel would ensue, or if the meal was ready at an early hour, then the man was hungry by bedtime and required something more, thus making four meals a day instead of one. The mothers also thought that the children lost one of the best of their sleeping hours in the cool morning and didn't make it up in the hot night hours.

"It's an insult to the intelligence," declares one Peterboro man, who is strongly against the movement. "If people want to make an arrangement with their employers to work an hour less in the afternoon, why an hou rless in the afternoon, why can't they do it, rather than turn the clock on?"

The other side of the picture presents the opposite aspect. Morning is the time for work, particularly in the hot days, declare these citizens. Work an hour longer in the morning and an hour less in the afternoon, when the weather is warm and sticky and you don't feel like working, anyway, after consuming a heavy mid-day meal. Early rising is beneficial to the health, as all physicians will tell you, and a fine summer morning, with the dew on the grass, is the ideal accompaniment to a desire to-work hard, with the feeling in the back of one's mind that a short afternoon will give an opportunity to offset morning exertion by providing extra daylight for recreation.

Some mothers say their children are not affected in any way by the change, and point to efficient training to make them go to sleep and get up at a different time than usual. They think, too, that it is better for the scholars to be out of the stuffy-room at three, instead of four, and to get in the extra hour's tuition in the morning, by starting at eight, instead of nine o'clock.

Between the two groups stands the bewildered individual who thinks it's a good thing to get off work earlier in the afternoon, if it can be managed, but doesn't like getting up earlier in the morning, and who seems to be constitutionally unable to adjust himself to the change. To those superior-minded people who assert that there is no difference at all in sleping hours, and that any right-attuned person should be able to get the same amount of sleep, as long as he stays in bed the same number of hours, he can only repeat weakly that it doesn't seem the same, and thus put himself at once in the category of those nervous creatures who are unable to give a concrete reason for an opinion. To say to those who favor the change that you cant' go to sleep by the clock, and that the fact that it points to eleven reminds you emphatically that it's really only ten, or that you don't want to eat your dinner at eleven by the sun, even when you had your breakfast at seven, stamps you immediately as below par in intelligence, and not worth arguing with.

Tragedy of Womanhood In Cape Breton Strike Area Feelingly Told By Canad a's Woman M.P. After Visit

OTTAWA, April 1 (Canadian Press).—Miss Agnes MacPhail, Canada's woman M.P., gripped the House of Commons last night with her story of what she had seen in the mine fields of Cape Breton. By both sides of the house she was accorded close attention, rarely accorded to any but party leaders.

"I met the moderates and the reds," said Miss MacPhail, "and by the time I had spent two days in Glace Bay nobody looked red to me. I think if I lived there long I should be a lot redder than anything I saw."

She talked of the distress she had found, of how, in one dilapidated house she found two families sleeping half a dozen to a room, half starved and thinly clothed. She spoke of the tragedy of womanhood there—brief youth, many children, poverty, early age, dependency and death.

The British Empire Steel Corporation, charged Miss MacPhail, had brought in immigrants even during the worst times, dumped them down where there was no work for them, and done absolutely nothing for them after getting them here.

"It did not seem difficult for the company to get protection on coal,' Miss MacPhail added, "but the government gives no assurance that that protection is to go down to the worker."

It was, she went on, hard to explain the attitude of the Nova Scotia Government unless they were afraid of this "Industrial monster." Was it to be wondered at, Miss MacPhail questioned, that the miners had come to regard the industry as heartless, the courts as unjust and the politicians as rascals?

PART OF ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL CLOSED

Eastern Section of London Edifice to Be Strengthened.

LAST SERVICE.

LONDON, April 1.—The people of London yesterday had their last unobstructed view of the interior of St. Paul's Cathedral for probably the last service was held under the the las tservice was held under the famous dome prior to closing the entire eastern part of the edifice for the work of strengthening it.

The whole area under the dome, together with the transept choir and Jesus chapel, will remain closed to the public until the Cathedral has been made safe. There was an unusually large number of visitors to the Cathedral throughout the day. Some touching incidents were observed as many aged visitors took what probably was their last look at the interior of the famous edifice.

At the close of last night's impressive service, which had a strong valedictory character, many persons lingered in the Cathedral as though loath to leave it. One woman, dressed entirely in black, walked slowly to the rail of the altar, where she knelt and silently prayed while a verger patiently waited with the chancel rail gate ajar for her to leave. She will be the last worshipper at the high altar until the restoration of the building is completed.

In the future services will be held in the western end of the nave and St. Dunstan's chapel. The accommodations for worshippers will be reduced from 6,000 to 1,000.

OMEMEE FARMERS BEGIN PLOUGHING

A Little Work Already Done on High Land.

OMEMEE, April 1.—Spring work has commenced on a few farms where the land is high, but to no great extent as yet. Mr. Ira Rehill intended sowing a field on Friday, but was prevented by the rain. Other farmers have commenced ploughing and getting everything in readiness.

A Merry Social.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Parsons was the scene of a merry gathering on Friday night when their daughter, Miss Lila, entertained the members of the Methodist choir and a few friends. The evening was spent in contests and various games, such as a "thrilling aeroplane ride," a tined honeymoon in which four couples were, two at a time given a closed suitcase and club bag, containing old style wearing apparel. The contestants had to open the travelling bag, array themselves in the contents, close the bags again and rush with them to a given point. On their return they replaced the garments worn and again closed the bags. The prize was given to the couple who could accomplish this in the shortest time, the winners being Mrs. E. W. Rowland and Mr. F. Lowe. Many songs were rendered during the evening and a jolly time enjoyed by all.

Church services were cancelled in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday last owing to the illness of the pastor, Rev. J. A. Black.

Mr. Thomas H. McQuade, a lifelong resident of this vicinity, celebrated his eighty-first birthday on March 18th, with his sister, Mrs. Charles Ivory.

Messrs. Eli and Ned Dancey have rented the ranch owned by Mr. B. Rehill and are purchasing young cattle to pasture on it.

BOYCOTT ORIENTALS.

S. O. E. on Pacific Coast Would Put Up Bars.

VICTORIA, B.C., April 1.—Sixty organizations which met here a week ago, under the auspices of the Sons of England, to discuss the Oriental question, have resumed discussion of the problem, and resolutions advocating a boycott of all Orientals, urging legislation to put an absolute stop to further Oriental immigration, and laws to make it impossible for Orientals to own or lease land in the province are now being considered by a committee which will report at some future date to the main body.

BUBNBRAE FARMERS HAVE NO CONTRACT

Flat Rate For Hydro Was Discontinued Months Ago—Meters In.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 1. — The farmers in the Burnbrae district who have been using Hydro power and light since 1912, have not yet signed a new agreement with the Commission for a renewal of the service on a new basis. Some months ago the flat rate for charges was abandoned and meters were installed, the Commission stipulating that patrons should sign a 20-year contract.

The majority refused to accept these terms and a number of meetings were held in an effort to effect a settlement. The latest conference brought an offer from the consumers to compromise with a 10-year contract, and this ofer is being considered by the Hydro officials.

The meter system has meant a reduction in cost to several of the larger consumers, including Alex. Hume and Son of Burnbrae, and George Brady, merchant at Hoard's Station.

The power line has not yet been extended through the Menie district, although a sufficient number of prospective consumers has been secured to justify the expansion. The farmers hesitated when the system of charges was changed and it is now the general opinion that the building of the transmission line will under new regulations cost them little or nothing.

St. Andrew's Y,P,S,

Thomas Campbell presided at the regular meeting of St. Andrew's Y.P., Monday evening, and the topic was taken by Miss Kathleen Connor, who dealt with some interesting features of life in Africa. The members of the society are rehearsing for a play, which will be presented in the school room in a short time.

Boy's Eye Injured.

While Donald, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dunk, Front Street, was playing with his brother, Melvin, Tuesday, he was accidentally thrown to the ground when a piece of wood penetrated one of his eyes. A doctor was called, and though the injury is painful, the little fellow is in no danger of losing the sight of his optic.

Viva, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dunk, who has been seriously ill for some time, is recovering.

Birthday Party.

Mrs. A. C. Ferguson, Booth Street, gave a party to some of the friends of her daughter, Vivian, to celebrate the sixth birthday of the latter. The guests numbered eight, and the affair was thoroughly enjoyed by the little people.

THOUSANDS EXECUTED BY SOVIET IN GEORGIA

Population Are Kept in Terror By Cheka.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 1.—An American observer who has just arrived from Georgia, said the Soviet regime has become much stiffer there since the revolution last autumn. The population lives in terror of the Cheka and mutual suspicion characterizes the whole national atmosphere.

According to local estimates, the number of counter-revolutionists executed after the autumn revolt was between 3,000 and 4,000. The Cheka carries out now continual arrests for any or no reason.

The people as well as the Administration are living on their capital. There is no production. Private trade is still prohibited so as to prevent the non-Communist classes getting economic power which would again threaten the political power of the Communists.

Food, clothing and other necessities are enormously dear. A pair of shoes costs $225. A Georgian traveller who left Batum on the same boat as the American was able to sell an ordinary second-hand suit for $180. The impression left by the general economic and political conditions of the country was that this system of minority rule was making straight for a crash.

PRESENTATION TO MONAGHAN COUPLE

People of Bailieboro District Give Table to Newlyweds.

A very enjoyable gathering was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Marshall Willan in South Monaghan, when the members of Christ Church, Bailieboro, assembled together to wish them bon voyage on the sea of matrimony. Owing to the absence of Rev. Mr. Allen, the chair was taken by Mr. F. Waterman, who fully explained that they had not come to do any harm but simply to wish them every happiness, and called upon the Church Wardens to more fully explain why they were intruding, which they did in the reading of the following address:

"Dear Mr. and Mrs. Willan,—

"We have met here this evening to extend to you our congratulations on your marriage and to give you a warm welcome to our midst. You will find, we are sure, that we all have interests in common and can rejoice in each others prosperity and happiness. Not only as members of the community but as fellow-members of the church are we glad to have you with us, and trust you will find, as we all do, in connection with Christ Church, Bailieboro, ample scope for your energies and in the church's work your highest pleasure and happiness. That God may bless you both in your married life and give you abundant success and prosperity is the wish of us all.

"We ask your acceptance of this library table as a mark of our appreciation and good wishes.

"Signed on behalf of the congregation—Thos. Wood and R. F. Wood, Wardens."

Although taken by surprise, Mr. Willan, on behalf of his wife, replied in a few well-chosen remarks, thanking them all for their kindness and good wishes, and bestowed to all the freedom of their home, which all thoroughly enjoyed.

After an impromptu programme of short congratulatory addresses, music, etc., the evening was spent in social intercourse. Supper was served by the ladies of the congregation, and a very pleasant evening was brought to a close.

PACIFIC FORMS CRUX OF PEACE

Neither America Nor Japan See Whither They Are Heading

SAYS SENATOR.

PARIS, April 1 (Canadian Press) —If war ever breaks out in the Pacific, the victims will be counted by ten of millons. This was the statement yesterday of Senator De Monzie, who arranged for the recognition of Soviet Russia, and who is now engaged in preparing a report on French colonies for the Senate.

"Neither America nor Japan," he said, "seem to realize what they are headed towards; but we, with our Indo-China and Pacific Islands can see the danger as it exists. Who is going to control the Pacific—United States or Japan? We class their interests as the most important international fact or with the possible exception of Soviet colonial plans.

"Moscow is building a new type of Empire. Moscow is working to break down all existent colonies systems, turning each colony into a Soviet state dependent upon Moscow.

They are working to affiliate to Moscow by revolution all British, French, and other colonies, but the system of power they foresee is even bigger, as they are working for Soviet states in China, India, Turkey, Arabia, Egypt and the Balkans, all affiliated with Moscow..

"The struggle for control of the Pacific and the formation of an Asiatic Soviet Empire are coming simultaneously, and unless we succeed in stopping Soviet propaganda as well as arranging a reasonable settlement of the Pacific problem, we risk seeing the world turned into a battlefield on five continents and seven seas."

THE GRENFELL LABRADOR MISSION.

No. 4. The School-Orphanage, Cartwright.

Due to the untiring efforts of Dr. H. L. Paddon, of the Grenfell staff, and Rev. Henry Gordon, Anglican missionary, while on furlough, there arose at Cartwright, Labrador, in the summer of 1920, a school-orphanage where between forty and fifty "flu" orphans in that section were gathered in, housed, clothed, fed, taught and trained to become good citizens, later, of their own country. A staff of matron, graduate nurse, teachers and domestics are in charge, while Rev. Henry Gordon has been general supervisor, because his home is at Cartwright. This school has proved a wonderful adventure in child life. Already the children have an entirely different look, due to a comfortable home, care, cleanliness and instruction. When they arrived they were largely dull of eye, heavy of foot and stolid, due largely to mal-nutrition, and monotony. To-day they are as keen mentally and physically as any normal children. They have come into their own. They are awake.

Just one illustration of what contact with a real, live missionary meant to one little half-Eskimo boy. Two years before the "flu" epidemic struck the Labrador, the Rev. Henry Gordon took about fifteen boys from his district into camp for two weeks. A camp run on similar lines to our "Y." or scout camps. At that time Jimmie, the half-Eskimo, was nine years old, and the youngest boy at camp. For a whole week Jimmie never took any interest in anything. His eye never lit up, he took no part in the sports and games. Finally, one day, when all the rest were in swimming, they began to "rag" Jimmie. "Aw, Jimmie, come on in. If you'll come in swimming to-day we'll give you three British cheers." Jimmie hesitated, then off with his clothing and went in with the others. He got the cheers all right, but he got much more that day, for he wakened up and found himself. From that day on Jimmie's eye kindled, he did every stunt any boy did and went home a different boy.

The sequel came two years later, in 1918, when the "flu" swept that lone land. Jimmie's home was several miles from any other house. There were several younger children, Jimmie was now eleven. No help came for about three weeks. Both parents died. Jimmie cut firwood and kept the house warm, and then foraged around and sufficient food to keep them all alive. Without that camp experience Jimmie would have laid down to die and let the younger children die too, but he didn't just because he got wakened up under the contact with finer minds, trained to get the best from people. That is the sort of thing that is happening in our school-orphanages and do you not think it worth while to help?

All who are interested in the work of the Grenfell Labrador Mission are reminded that the annual membership fee is only $2.00, which includes the quarterly magazine, Among the Deep Sea Fishers.

Subscriptions may be received by The Examiner, or may be sent to Mrs. Gerald A. Wood, local treasurer, Box 990, Peterborough.

Bees Prevent Wren From Raising Family

ABERDEEN, Wash., April 1.—How the maternal instinct of a tiny wren twice in as many years was frustrated by a colony of wild bees has been related here by Samuel Benn, a bird lover of this city.

For two years, Mr. Benn said, he watched a wren carrying material to build her nest in a bird house he had erected, and although she occupied it for a time each season and laid her eggs, no baby wrens ever put in their appearance.

Recently when he was changing the location of the bird house, Mr. Benn discovered that both years wild bees had taken possession of the nest and had formed their honeycomb over the mother wren's eggs. The second nest had been built over the honeycomb and the wreckage of the former season's hopes.

SOVIETS ALTER EUROPEAN LINE

Russia is Now Aligned With Asia Rather Than the Western World.

CONSIDERED MENACE

By HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

GENEVA, April 1. — (United Press)—Has Russia ceased to exist as an European nation?

Must the western boundary of Asia be regarded in the future, at least in a political sense, as beginning from the eastern frontiers of the Baltic states, Poland, Czecho-Slovakia and Roumania?

These are two serious questions now being asked in League circles which are frankly looking askance at the gradual disappearance of Russia as an integral factor in the European political readjustment and her steady trend towards assuming the leadership in Asiatic development and politics.

How far Russia is now separated from being a factor in European political life is indicated by the fact that in all of the projects now under discussion for creating a security alliance in Europe, Russia is never considered as being a possible member.

French public opinion, which demands an all-European security pact as against the British thesis of a purely western front alliance, specifies always that the European alliance will only extend to the eastern borders of Poland, Czecho-Slovakia and Roumania.

That portion of English public opinion which also favors the French thesis of an all-European security pact, is also obliged to exclude the possibility of Russia being a member.

While, as it is pointed out, if Russia has slipped out of European political life and back into that of Asia, it is no one's fault but her own, the future menace of such a situation is rendered none the less grave. As a matter of fact it is generally accepted that this is now precisely the policy of the Soviets.

The latter, having failed in their efforts to bring about a general communistic regime in the European states are openly employing most of their propaganda in the Asiatic countries. Should they meet with greater success there than in Europe, they would have back of them the possibilities of a Russian-Asiatic block reaching up to 900,000,000 people.

Before the war, Russia was held solidly in the orbit of European political influence by various factors.

First of all, the Triple Entente, with the opposing combination of the Triple Alliance, forced Russia to play the game with the European powers. Germany constituted a menace that made it necessary for Russia to look to Europe for help.

In the second place the various alliances between the Russian Royal family and the royal families of several of the leading European nations created another strong bond which held Russia within the sway of European politics.

Thirdly Russia was dependent upon European nations, especially France, for her heavy loans and here again she had but little choice except that of remaining essentially an European nation in her political, action, thought, and alignment.

Now all of these factors and necessities have disappeared and Russia is left free to throw her destiny either with Europe or Asia as she may choose. There is every indication that she has definitely decided to throw herself with Asia.

This decision is also fostered by the fact that no European nation is making any serious effort to try and keep Russia within the orbit of European politics, regardless of the grave danger that may eventually exist for European civilization.

According to League circles more attention is now being paid in Europe to a possible temporary German menace than to a future Russian-Asiatic danger, that would be infinitely more great.

Some Whose Property Was Damaged in Air Raids Have Received Nothing.

LONDON, April 1.—Englishmen who suffered damages during the war from the German air raids over London have been paid a total of $25,000,000 as compensation by the government. This amount is, however, considered inadequate by the claimants, some of whom have received nothing, and they now suggest that German reparation money be diverted to their benefit.

FEMININITY IN EVERY LINE OF THE NEW FROCK

Clinging Vine Variety Inspires Valentines, Says Their Creator.

COQUETRY IN GOWNS

Delicate Tints, Soft Materials and Flower Effects for Spring.

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS

NEW YORK, April 1.—Down in her heart, beneath her surface independence and her serviceable serge suit, very normal woman cherishes a weakness for rainbow-hued taffetas, cobwebby laces and clothes that shriek of femininity—the old clinging-vine variety.

And the impulse to barter the monthly income for one exquisite shell-pink taffeta is not easily reckoned with.

Such temptations lurked in the fashion salon of Henri Bendel when I last visited it. Bendel had just created a number of frocks for Patricia Collinge, and I was present to witness her satisfaction with them.

"Just like a valentine," was her comment on seeing a long-waisted model of hand-embroidered georgette, with three boquets of silk flowers surrounded with an old-fashioned lace frill.

Would Inspire Valentines.

"Such a frock would inspire valentines and declarations of undying affection from men," Bendell laughed. "For centuries women have snared men's hearts with just such a dress. Though the lines change the formula is always the same simple white with flowers.

"An actress knows the value of dressing for her parts. She isn't definitely the old woman or the vamp or the ingenue until she is in costume.

"This is a valuable lesson for all women to learn. It is much easier to be charming in decorative gowns than in a tailleur.

Absolute Femininity.

"Here is such absolute feminity that no woman could wear it without subconsciously assuming the wiles of the Victorian age. Coquetry, too, is written all over the green taffeta frock with the straight waistline and the ruffles of chiffon embroidered in silver.

"It has become the mode recently to despise obvious attempts to be picturesque and pretty. Yet women make their battle with life much harder when they refuse the cooperation of the very feminine frock. It has its time and place in our lives."

The day of severe effects is passing, Bendel says.

"The more feminine type of woman is replacing the flapper, and, naturally, she must dress for the new role," he says. "Women should never cease to be decorative, no matter how efficient they become.

Delicate Tints for Spring.

"There is no time when delicate tints, soft materials and flowers effects are more appropriate than in the early spring, when they fit naturally into nature's pageant. They are as potent as April herself in turning the young man's fancy to thoughts of love."

Even if a woman has a limited social life, and must consider the practical side of her clothes problem very carefully, Bendell believes she is entitled to one really lovely, though possibly impractical, frock.

"For its psychological value," he concluded. "Life can never become entirely dull to the woman who own a picture frock and wears it at the right time. It's a form of preparedness that should not be overlooked."

QUEBEC EXCLUDES ONTARIO RAILWAY

Premier Ferguson Surprised By Taschereau's Refusal To Permit Extension.

QUEBEC, April 1. — (Canadian Press).—Premier Taschereau is opposed to the principle of extending the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway into the Province of Quebec and has informed the chief commissioner of the Ontario Government-owned line, George Lee, and Commissioner L. T. Martin, that as far as the Government of this Province is concerned, everything possible will be done to prevent the Ontario Government extending its branch line Quebec-ward. The two commissioners, accompanied by counsel, saw the Quebec Prime Minister yesterday.

Ferguson Surprised.

Premier Ferguson, when informed last evening that Premier Taschereau had taken a stand against allowing the T. and N. O. to build a line into the Rouyn goldfield, expressed great surprise. He said that Vice-President Robb and other officials of the Canadian National Railways had urged the Ontario Government to build the line.

TOBACCO HELPS TO CAUSE BALDNESS

Scientist Says There is Great Increase in Bald Pates.

LONDON, April 1.— Assertion by H. J. Harper-Roberts, a Manchester scientist, that smoking is one of the causes of baldness, which, he said, was greatly on the increase, has caused much comment throughout England. If the spread of baldness was not checked, said Mr. Harper-Roberts before members of the London College of Physiology, the result would be a race of hairless people throughout the civilized world.

Baldness, the speaker averred, was more pronounced in cities than among the peasantry. There were three classes of baldness, namely, congenital, senile and premature. In ten per cent. of the premature cases cures could be effected at a definite age by proper treatment. In cases of feverish illness or poisoning of the system, the blood pressure and low condition of the patient brought about baldness. Smoking, said the speaker, which introduced poison into the blood, was also unquestionably a cause of it.

Commenting upon the foregoing, the Telegraph says: "Europe has only known tobacco for some 400 years. There were bald men before that. Ceasar, for instance, and Aeschylus. One heavy smoker, like Tennyson, goes bald; another, like Carlyle, keeps his hair on. But even if it were proven that tobacco causes baldness, we doubt whether too smokers in England would give up the weed."

ONLY THE MOTHER KNOWS ABOUT THE COUGHS AND COLDS OF THE CHILDREN

It is hard to keep them from taking cold; they will run out of doors not properly clad, or have on too much clothing; play too hard and get overheated and cool off too suddenly; get their feet wet; kick off the bed clothes at night, and do a dozen things the mother can't prevent.

The prompt use of

will check the cough or cold before any serious lung trouble can possibly develop.

Mrs. Everett E. Keetch, R.R. No. 2, Fredericton, NB, writes:—"My little boy, age nine years, had a dreadful cold which left him with a bad cough I tried Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and after using three bottles he was completely relieved. I would advise all mothers to use this remedy for their children as it is an excellent medicine."

GRENADES BURST ON SHIP.

Two Sailors Killed and Crew Deserts Craft in Melilla Harbor.

MADRID, April 1.—While a cargo of hand grenades and aeroplane bombs was being unloaded from the steamer Lazaro in Melilla Harbor, a box of grenades too roughly handled exploded, killing two men and wounding five.

As the hand grenades continued to explode a panic followed, and its captain and crew deserted, as they feared the ship would blow up.

A Major of engineers and three sailors boarded the Lazaro at the risk of their lives and cast off her moorings. The vessel was then towed several miles out to sea and some of the boxes of explosives were thrown overboard.

SAVED IN VAIN.

"Woman," said the dejected young man, "is a disappointment and a fraud."

"Indeed?" said his friend.

"Yes, I saved up all my tobacco money and lived on porridge for two weeks to take Miss Truelove to the opera and a supper. Then I asked her to marry me and she said she was afraid I was too extravagant to make a good husband!"—London Tit-Bits.

FOR AFTERNOON OR OFFICE

Here are two practical frocks that would look equally well at a fashionable tashionable tea or in the office. At the left is a straighline model with metal embroidery and crushed sash forming a panel at the side, as the only trimmings. At the right is a frock of black and white Foulard with an overskirt ofblack serge. It is trimmed with tiny buttons along the sides.

(By Hortense Saunders.)

NEW YORK, April 1.—It is the practical dresses you buy that pay you big dividends on your clothes investment.

"And it is only when you are fortified with good conservative models that you can afford to take the plunge and invest in the speculative models that may prove to be valuable to you, or may turn out to be quite worthless," according to Henri Bendel, New York style authority.

We are apt to jump at the conclusion that practical clothes are uninteresting, but wait—the two frocks pictured with this fashion letter show you just how attractiveness and practicability can be combined to the advantage of both.

An All-Round Frock.

I particularly liked the black and white spotted foulard with the overskirt of black serge and the tiny buttons at the sides, and the pipings of Alice blue satin at the neck and sleeves. That dress could go to an office in the morning and tea at the Ritz in the same day and be appropriate for both occasions. Such an outfit is a real friend.

Bendel called my attention to the other straightline model with the gold metal embroidery and the crush girdle forming a sash at the right side.

"Here is a dress," he said, "which takes on the atmosphere of its surroundings. In a dark silk it would be unobtrusive and could be worn all day, but it would also be quite festive enough for the matinee, tea, or even an informal dinner in an ordinary restaurant or hotel.

Not Too Many Changes.

"There was a time when women considered it smart to make several changes of costume during the day. But that was when social life was less arduous and before the complications of business and professional life.

"Today, most women have but three types of clothes—day, sport and evening—and many have only two, day and evening. A dress that is to be worn all days gets very hard service and must be on very practical lines. But at the same time, it is during the day that the business and professional woman really needs to be most sure of her clothes, so that she need give them no thought after she has made her toilette for the day."

The practical element of clothes is being stressed more today than ever before, he assured me, but there is more latitude in selection.

"In color, for instance," he said, "there is a decided preference for the new shades. While many women stick to conservative black or blue for their street clothes, they introduce touches of brilliant color that give the gown character and snap.

Not So Severe Now.

"The severity of last season has been tempered by a gracious touch of femininity. For those who do not like tailored models there are softened effects, skirts with an interesting flare or flounce and a neckline that is not afraid to add a frill jabot or tie to create a little interest.

"Printed silks offer an interesting way out of the routine color chart, and combinations of printed and plain fabrics have much charm."

SLENDER LINE IS POPULAR

The slenderizing line of this silk gown, printed in navy blue and white, should endear it to the hearts of all those women who can't quite decide to take no food with their meals. The vestee and front panel are of pleated georgette crepe and there is a collar of ecru lace. It is caught together at the front with an ornament of beads and two long tassels.

Money
A WORK

How much should a retail store spend for advertising?

Advertising as well as other expenses must pay returns for money spent. There are perhaps no two stores which require exactly the same amount. As in all things, peculiar conditions govern particular cases. Amounts spent by other stores handling similar merchandise, however, guide the way to a correct advertising expenditure.

Specialty stores spend about 3½ cents out of each dollar taken in for advertising. Large department stores spend a somewhat similar amount; the smaller ones spend about half as much. Jewelery stores ordinarily spend from 2½ to 4 cents per dollar of sales, depending upon the size of the store. Shoe stores get along with an expenditure ranging from 1½ to nearly 4 cents and again the largest stores spend the most. Grocery stores ordinarily advertise very little compared with these other stores, spending less than half of one per cent on an average. Hardware stores spend somewhat over half of one per cent of sales.

ANOTHER CORNER TO BE BRIGHTER

Old Shack at Charlotte and Aylmer is Being Torn Down.

The demolition of the old laundry building at the corner of Charlotte and Aylmer Streets has commenced. Yesterday the billboard that sheltered and supported the east side was removed, and to-day workmen are taking off the sheathing on the west side as a start in pulling the structure apart. Tearing down the house on Aylmer Street that occupied the north half of the lot is about finished.

They are not expensive either—60 tablets—60 cents and children take them like candy.

SIGNS OF SPRING.

When Sol's smile waxes warmer and the bard begins to sing
As cheery as a meadow lark, of all the charms of Spring,
Telling in notes of rapture how the snow-wreaths on the hills
In the sunshine are dissolving into rushing, roaring riils,
Of the passing of grim Winter, and the soft and balmy breeze,
Of springing grass and oflwers, bees, and birds, and leafy trees.

When the maidens skip the rope, with light untiring feet,
And school boys play their marble games on every city street,
When dogs and cats and chickens roam, the neighborhood at will,
Vexing ,provoking, tempting mere man to deeds of ill,
And, ah, at dawn of day there falls upon our slumbering ear,
Rousing us from snug, cosy snooze, the voice of chanticleer.

When good housewives don the dust cap, and make a mighty spurt,
Armed with mop and broom, to grapple in a grim campaign 'gainst dirt lated and forlorn, till the home is topsy-turvey, desolate,
And our household goods and chattels the verandahs close adorn,
From the cellar to the attic, there is is not a place to sit,
And things look as if a cyclone here had staged a famous hit.

That 'tis the annual cleaning time, a dunce may understand,
For the sound of carpet-beating is heard throughout the land,
Scrubbing, scouring, painting, with mighty force prevail,
And woe betide the wretch who leaves on fresh laid paint a trail,
Pooh hubby dines amid the wreck, and sleeps where'er he may,
(Small wonder) with unseemly haste he hies himself away.

When like the fabled nectar, which the gods once quaffed so free,
The honeyed sap is flowing from the fresh tapped maple tree,
With firm hopes of future harvest, Which no faithless doubting knows,
The seed upon the sunny soil, the sturdy farmer sows.
When lambkins gaily gambol, in green pastures by the brook,
The barefoot urchin angles like Izaak, with line and hook.

That these all are harbingers of Spring, none ever will deny,
And the sweet nymph with all her charms is surely drawing nigh,
To us all, sincerely welcome, will her gentle advent be,
For beauteous is the folwer-gemed robe, she spreads o'er land and lea
So if to glad our longing eyes these pleasant signs apepar,
Then be sure that Spring's not only coming, but is really truly here.

ART STUDY CLUB DISCUSSES WATTS

Mrs. L. J. Pettit Presents Paper on Painter of Ideas.

A meeting of the Art Study Club, of the Woman't Art Association was held last evening at the home of Mrs. E. W. Borbridge, when an interesting paper on Watts, the painter, was given by Mrs. L. J. Pettit.

George Frederick Watts was born in 1817, and died in 1904, at the advanced age of 87 years. He has been described as a painter of ideas, more than of things, and his themes were greatly appreciated by those to whom they appealed. He was a retiring disposition. He was reticent in the extreme and did not wish at any time to be known as a public character. Outside of an intimate circle of friends there were few who knew much about him. He is described as a "courtly old gentleman, whose message was delivered, and whose work was accomplished, and who waited for its complete acceptance." As far as the next generation is concerned, Watts will have become to it an entirely historical figure, and as time proceeds the real Watts will become less known.

He was the son of a maker of musical instruments, and was himself passionately fond of music. He had talent, and had he decided to follow his musical bent, might have been ranked among the great composers as he was constantly receiving impressions of beautiful music. He said that his paintings were inspired by an intuitive appreciation of beautiful musical themes. Circumstances seemed to sway him toward the realm of art, but we cannot say that he would have been a less worthy musician or an obscure master of literature.

Among his friends he numbered the violinist, Joachim, Tennyson and Ruskin.

His first artistic attempts were childish copies of plates from a prayer book and imaginative illustrations of Homer and Scott. He admits no other master than the Elgin marbles of Phidias, the Greek. He was a visitor rather than a student, at schools and studios. He received his impressions from Nature and other things. In 1843, with three hundred pounds prize money received in a competition for decorations of the Houses of Parliament, he visited Italy, where he remained for four years, the guest of the British ambassador, Lord Holland. His natural simplicity, dignity and charm and capacity for making lasting friends, seemed to be the outstanding traits in his character.

A fact that is not generally known is that of the marriage of Watts in his forty-seventh year to the actress, Ellen Terry, then a girl of only sixteen.

Apparently the parties most interested had the least to say. This arrangement was evidently brought about by their friends, who did not try to foresee the consequences of joining the lives of a middle aged idealist and a sixteen-year-old inexperienced and romantic girl. They lived together only a year, and then they separated. Many years later Watts secured a divorce. In some ways this marriage was a happy one and probably would have been quite successful, if both parties had tried to understand each other better.

At the age of sixty-nine Watts married Mary Fraser Tyler, and this second union proved to be a happy one. Through the wise attendance and devoted companionship of his wife, he lived to a patriarchal old age.

Watts was twice offered, and twice refused, the title conferred upon so many artists.

The work of Watts as a painter was commenced at the age of seventeen. From then on through his youthful years ensued a period of accomplishment, followed by recognition and finally independence. He was fortunate in that, after a time of inappreciation and struggle, he received just consideration and the applause of a critical public. He was a man with a message, and his pictures are for all time. Neither a philosopher nor a scientist, his themes are largly symbolical. Among the most notable of them are his "Hope," "Sir Galahad," "Time, Death and Judgment," and "Death Crowning Innocence." He painted about eight hundred pictures, many of which are exhibited in the Tate and the National Galleries, England, the British Dominions and the United States posses most of them.

Watts might early have been a master of brilliant and strong technique had he so chosen. He tried to emulate all his life the example of Attic art and the Venetian painters. His art holds much of splendid coloring, richness and vitality.

At the conclusion of Mrs. Pettit's paper, it was announced that the next meeting of the club will be held on Tuesday, April 14th, at the home of Mrs. L. J. Pettit, when Mrs. V. S. Foster will give a paper on Holman Hunt.

FIRST BREAK IN STRANGE EXILE

British Clergyman, on Visit From Lonely Isle in Atlantic.

FIRST SHIP TO CALL.

CAPETOWN, South Africa, April 1 (By Canadian Press). — A strange tale of exile on the lonely isle of Tristan da Cunha, which lies almost directly in the middle of the Atlantic, between South Africa and South America, was told by Rev. Martyn Rogers, when he arrived here recently on his return to England.

In 1921 Mr. Rogers took his young wife out to the lonely Tristan de Cunha for his three years' mission, and how, after working as doctor, missionary and school teacher in the world's most isolated community — Tristan da Cunha is almost two thousand miles from the nearest steamer lane, and almost as much from Cape Town—he is going back with his wife and a two-year-old son Edward, who is the first white child ever to be born on the island.

For two years there had been no mailboats at Tristan, when the Ramon de Larranga steamed up to the island recently. It was thus the merest chance that Mr. Rogers was able to leave.

"To be back in the city is a queer business," said Mr. Rogers. "I feel almost as though I had been on a trip to the moon. Towards the end of our stay on the island there was such food shortage that my health suffered, and my wife and child were beginning to feel the heardship. The island potato crop failed. Cattle died. We drank tea only a few times a week.

"But I do not regret one moment of the time we spent there," he said. "There was so much to do. My wife and I were busy in school — our pupils' ages ranged from 4 to 40—every day. There were four services to hold on Sunday. Often we had to attend serious accidents, and the medicine chest was always open. I had my troop of Boy Scouts to train, and my wife taught domestic and religious subjects to the women and girls of the island.

"The greatest hardship of life on Tristan is the length of time which passes between visits from the outside world. Weeks are spent in vain longing for ships which never come. The islanders ask for but one mail a year.

It was just after daybreak on February 4 when someone shouted "Sail-ho." Instantly there was movement everywhere. Women left their kitchens and ran to catch fowls, geese, and other livestock for bartering purposes. The men dashed down to the beach and launched their canvas boats.

Captain Jones, the master of the Larranaga, offered us a passage.

We visited a few sick people, held our farewell church service, and married two couples. At the service the sounds of sobbing could be heard about the joyous strains of the wedding hymns. I s hall never forget that scene.

"On the Beach some of the women clung to my wife as though they could not bear to part with her; but the steamer's siren blew, and as we went aboard the islanders gave hearty cheers for the missionary and three more for Captain Jones.""

The inhabitants of Tristan da Cumha are petitioning the British government to send a warship to the island annually, Mr. Rogers said.

OWNER OF LARGEST RANCH IS DEAD

Mrs. H. M. King Was One of Richest Women in United States.

KINGSVILLE, Texas, April 1.—(Canadian Press).—Mrs. Henrietta M. King, one of the richest women in the United States, and owner of the world's largest ranch, died at her home here last night, aged 93.

Mrs. King inherited large property from her late husband, Captain Richard King, a cattleman and soldier of the early days. The ranch borders the Gulf of Mexico for nearly 100 miles, and comprises 1,280,000 acres. The number of her herds is not definitely known, but more than one hundred thousand calves are branded each year.

The advance of land values from a few cents to many dollars an acre brought Mrs. King a huge fortune.

MANY INSTALLATIONS.

Plumbing Inspector's Report Shows 29 Old Houses Fitted Up.

A. G. Metheral, plumbing inspector, issued 34 permits for plumbing during March. Plumbing was installed in 12 old houses during the month, bringing the year's total up 29. He made 22 water tests and 14 smoke tests during the month, approved eleven layouts and made 41 miscellaneous inspections. There were more plumbing fixtures installed this year than in March, 1924.

CUSTOMS RETURNS.

Figures For Month and the Fiscal Year Show a Decrease.

Customs returns for March were $56,816.79 and for the year ending March 31, $888,739.85. Both these figures show a decrease from the figures for March, 1924. Last March the total was $80,797.91, and for the year ending March 31, 1924, the total was over $1,115,000.

It is going to be a pastel summer! And the loveliest shades you ever dreamed of are leading the mode to a more utterly becoming beauty than ever before. Soft shades of peach are most popular while lilac or lavender, pale green, blue, light yellow—in fact all the most exquisite pastel shades form a close second. White has passed it zenith of popularity and if one does not wish to wear the pastel shades a lovely tone of ivory or an oyster white is very smart.

For Cooler Days.

For early Spring sports wear and for cooler days of summer kasha in soft pastel tones is very popular and natural kasha seems to have taken the smart world by storm. These kasha frocks are newest in the two piece models. The skirts are fuller than before allowing much more grace and comfort of motion. Many of them have an inverted pleat in the middle or side front for though this year's skirts are fuller, the lines, especially of sport frocks, are straight. Some of these skirts are entirely pleated while others have a circular fullness just across the front.

The blouse is generally a simple straight little slip on with a "V" neck.

But though the two piece costume reigns as favorite, some smartly simple kasha frocks are one piece. These one piece frocks, for variation's sake, are frequently seen made with a lighter shade of kasha from the neck to the hipline, and a slightly darker shade from the hipline to the bottom of the frock. Many perfectly charming color combinations are seen, some of the loveliest of which have oyster white or natural kasha combined with an exquisite pastel shade.

The Ensemble.

The ensemble costume is so popular now that as might be expected its sway has extended to the world of sports. The ensemble suit of kasha is the very smartest and it is also very practical for the coat can frequently be used with all one's other sport's things.

The chic of flannel must not be overlooked in this rage for kasha, as many a smart flannel sports frock will be seen at all the most fashionable summering places.

The Sports Coat.

Of course with kasha as the leading fabric, many of the sports coats are developed in it. They are designed on very straight slender lines with narrow shoulders. Many are unlined and have a very simple treatment of the neck and wrist line—usually without fur trimming. Some very smart models of these most useful coats are knitted and embroidered in bright wools.

The woman who goes in for active sports always needs a sweater and skirt in her wardrobe. And the smartest designers have not neglected her needs. Natural kasha or cashmere fashions many a simple skirt ideal for the most strenuous of sports. Some of these skirts are pleated, others are straight of line with an inverted pleat in the front to allow easy motion. These skirts are also very popular in all the soft pastel tones of the season.

Quite the most popular sweater seen with these skirts is a simple round or "V" necked little slip on. These sweaters are newest with long sleeves. They are very attractive when they match the tone of the skirt or in a pastel shade as a contrst to a skirt of natural kasha.

For Warmer Days.

Of course, for really hot weather, lovely cool looking crepe de chine will be the fabric. And how exquisite pastel tones are in crepe de chine. These crepe de chine frocks will be made in the same simple styles as those of kasha.

SENSATION CAUSED ABOUT WEMBLEY

British Empire Exhibition Marked By Corruption, Says M. P.

LONDON, April 1.—The Biil relating to the Wembley Exhibition passed its second reading in the House of Commons Tuesday. Under it, the Government guarantees the exhibition for its second year against loss to the extent of £1,100,000.

LONDON, April 1 (Canadian Press.) — Something approaching a sensation was created in the House of Commons late last evening when Sir Alfred Butt, Conservative member for Balham, and a prominent theatrical owner and promoter returned to his former allegations concerning corruption in connection with the British Empire Exhibition.

Sir Phillip Cunliffe, Lister, president of the Board of Trade, replying to Sir Alfred, failed to give an entirely clear account of what actually happened. The business was evidently tangled up wholesale. He suggested that as the matter would probably eventually become the subject of civil proceedings it was necessary to use discretion in discussing it.

OPPOSE TREATY.

German Wine Growers Fear Spain's Competition Through Pact.

BERLIN, April 1 (Canadian Press) — The proposed comemrcial treaty between Germany and Spain was rejected today by the Reichstag's commission, which declined to refer it to the plenary session of the Reichstag and passed a resolution asking the Government to initiate new negotiations. The Government's present draft of the treaty is determinedly opposed by the German wine growers, who charged its acceptance would enable Spain to flood Germany with cheap wines.

DANGER OF COSMETICS.

Hair Lotion, Face Creams and Enamels, May Contain Poison.

"Here's something for you to read!"

And Mr. Mann chuckled as he pointed out to Mrs. Mann an article on "Poisonous Cosmetics" appearing in a leading magazine.

"Among the poisonous substances found in cosmetics," the article read "are lead, mercury, arsenic and wood alcohol.

"Dr. Cole reports a severe case of acute lead poisoning due to the use of a hair potion applied in a beauty parlor. The lotion was found to contain 23 per cent of lead acetate.

"Cases of neuritis have been reported from the same cause. Lead is also found in various face creams and enamels," the article stated.

"In one case the patient had paralysis of the face and limbs and was unable to walk as the result of the use of certain well-known enamel cream.

"Mercury sometimes is used in skin bleaches, hair dyes and face creams. Bleaches and freckle lotions often contain chloride, or corrosive sublimate.

"A new hair dye, containing a large amount of arsenic, is now being widely exploited. Its use produces disastrous results."

"DRY BLOTTERS" FOR JAPAN

Temperance literature, to be distributed through Japan, is piled high in the headquarters of the Tokyo Prohibition Society, as the picture shows. Though the prohibition movement is being carried out on purely economic grounds, the "dry blotters" have made little headway in interesting the people, it is claimed.

THEATRE BOX PASSES.

New London Theatres Leave Them Out as Princes Sit in Stalls.

The new London theatres that are now being built have no boxes. Managers say that the day of the box is over, and are surprised that it has taken the public so long to see what uncomfortable parts of the theatre they are. The young Princes hardly ever use a box, but much prefer being in the front row of the stalls. It has been noticed that the Prince of Wales whenever he visits the theatre, is almost invariably to be found in the front row of the stalls, right at the left hand side, and he generally slips in just after the curtain has risen.

NEW YORK, April 1.—(Canadian Press).—The announcement of the termination of wire leases of the Postal Telegraph Cable Co. to several racing news services to take effect May 1 has been made by the telegraph company. The wires over which the company resumed control are between New York and Chicago and New York and New Orleans.

The leases are terminated because these wires are needed by the postal company for other traffic, company officials said.

CALL OFFICERS

Harris would be present on Thursday to give evidence concerning the bond deals with the Provincial Securities Company, which investigation is being continued from where it left off last year.

The examination of Major Nash, the accountant who investigated the Harris accounts, was then continued. The gross profits to the Harris Co. were $123,000, said Nash.

Provincial Securities profits in the sale of Government bonds was $31,000. With these profits, the bonds were bought but Major Nash had been unable to trace the sale of any of them.

It was apparent, however, that the Browning, Harris, Northey Co. purchased bonds which were of the same identity, issue and maturity as those bought by the Provincial Securities Co., with profits from the sale of Government bonds. Some were bought from Mr. Harris, some from Mrs. Harris and some from F. C. Biggs, former Ontario Minister of Public Works. Nash added that he could find no trace of any sale of bonds to Mr. Biggs from Provincial Securities or Mr. Harris, although he did trace sales later from Biggs to the Browning, Harris, Northey Co.

Major Nash said Biggs sold to the Browning, Harris and Northey Co. bonds to the par value of $26,433 of the same issue and maturity as those originally bought by Provincial Securities. The purchases were made on June 22nd, 1921. This fact was shown by the books of the Browning, Harris, Northey Co. Some of the ledger sheets were missing. Sheets were also missing from the cash book.

Biggs Speaks

Major Nash then testified regarding the purchase by Provincial Securities on February 14, 1921 of $10,000 Saskatchewan bonds. On May 5, 1921, Mr. Biggs sold $4,000 Saskatchewan bonds to Browning, Harris, Northey. Saskatchewan bonds were the following day deposited in the bank in Hamilton by the Browning, Harris, Northey Company and their serial numbers were the same as those in the original purchase by Provincial Securities. Major Smith could find no entries to show how Mr. Biggs got possession of the bonds.

Mr. Biggs then spoke for himself saying he never received any bonds from Mr. Harris that he did not pay for. He asked time to consider the evidence and collect vouchers and then make a statement under oath. The committee agreed to the suggstion.

"Vanity cases used 3000 B. C."

SCIENTIFIC excavations in the ancient city of Kish, so we are told by a news dispatch, shows that women carried vanity cases forty-nine centuries ago. Why did not the luxuries of that old civilization spread to the rest of the world? Why were the delicate and pleasure-bringing things of life buried and hidden away for so many ages?

Without the printed word, information could hardly be spread to other countries, and the knowledge of events and things could scarcely be preserved. To-day, if a better rug is produced in Kurdistan, it is soon advertised for sale in American newspapers. If a better necklace is made in China, a printed advertisement will shortly describe it and quote the price on the other side of the globe.

Advertising publishes the secrets of good things from one end of America to the other. The newest and best products are told about, fully and truthfully, wherever the public press is read.

Read the advertisements and you keep from being buried like Kish.

Advertimements tell you what is best to buy—Where to get it and what to pay for it.

RICKEY BELIEVES CARDS HAVE CHANCE

"All We Want Is Some Good Pitching and Will Get There," He Opines.

STOCKTON, Calif., April 1. — "The Cardinals are going somewhere this year. I'm not saying this to please or to fool you. I told you in 1921 and 1922 we expected to go somewhere, and we did.

"All we want is some good, average, sensible pitching and we will get there. We have everything else."

Thus said Branch Rickey regarding his 1925 Cardinals. And with his pitchers showing rapidity in getting into form, Rickey's other statement seems to be borne out.

Bottomley One of Stars.

For instance, in his infield he has Jim Bottomley who hit .370 last year, and broke a world record of 32 years' standing when he made six consecutive hits in one game, driving in 12 runs. He'll hardly be moved from first base. Second is the property of Rogers Hornsby, five times leading hitter of the National League.

Lester Bell, who led the American Association hitters with .365 for 154 games, is to start at third. At short, the Cardinals boast Jimmy Cooney, who fielded .969 last season—a new high record for shortstops. His five-year fielding average is .957.

There is strong infield reserve power, too. Any one of the second stringers may crowd into the regular line-up. Freigau is going to battle Bell and Cooney all season. "Specs" Hoporcer is again on deck. Tommy Theveneau, a star with Syracuse last year, is back, while Waddy Holm, though signed as a catcher, likes to play the infield.

In the outfield there is Ray Blades in left, Shinners in right and Heinie Mueller, centre, who polled impressive averages last year. Chick Hafey, Stanford collegian, who hit .391 in the Texas League; Taylor Douthit, Walter Roettger, an Illinois University star; Johnny Peterson, Jack Smith, Max Flack and Schinki are other aspirants, from whom Rickey can select formidable hitters against any pitching.

Mike Gonzales isn't the only impressive figure in the Cardinal catching division this year. Henry Vick, an All-American centre while at Michigan, is back from a seasoning at Syracuse, and working on batting faults, hit .333 last year instead of his usual .250.

Schmidt Back as Coach.

Walter Schmidt, after nine years with Pittsburg, is with the Cardinals, and in addition to important coaching work, will probably be the second catcher. He is expected to do much in instructing the youngsters.

Bool is another likely looking young receiver and Rickey has the choice between Bool, Vick and Holm for his third catcher.

It's a happy, peppery, hard-working crowd Rickey has out here—a clean playing, clean living bunch, going at top speed under the encouraging Rickey tactics. And they all have taken to heart his prediction:

"We're going somewhere this year."

INSIDE GOLF

by CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

The average player's sense of the golf swing goes wrong when it makes him think that the whole body turns from right to left with the swinging of the club. It seems obvious that it should so swing, but it doesn't.

When you adopt the "straight line" principle you will observe that the left arm keeps straight and that the head stays down. It is imperatively important to keep the head down. It makes little difference if the head moves back and forth some with the swing, but it must stay down. The player must be careful, too, about the right side—it has a tendency to collapse as the club-head nears the ball. Keep the right shoulder up as you come forward. The finish should find the right foot "dragging" over to the left, the whole tendency of your weight being to go forward. The left hip may in practice, turn some to the left at the finish of the swing, but the hip line has been straight through the ball, and if it does so turn it will be after the hip punch has been applied to the ball.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

PITCHING STAFFS.

TAMPA, April 1.—The chief concern of Manager Stanley Harris of Washington is his pitching staff.

In doping out his chances to repeat, Harris has positive convictions about the batting and fielding power of his team, but his pitching is a problem.

Discussing the pennant race with the various managers in the National and American Leagues, I find with one or two exceptions, pitching is their greatest worry.

After dwelling on the strength and weakness of their clubs and predicting where they should finish, all of them manage to get back to pitching and make the reservation, that what they have just said depends on the pitchers delivering as they should.

* * *

For years it has been a baseball axiom that pitching is about 70 per cent. of a club's strength. If you would believe the major league managers, it is all of that and then some.

* * *

ABOUT SOUTH PAWS.

A majority of the managers are stressing the value of left-handed pitching, particularly those blessed with an imposing array of portsiders.

On the other hand, leaders who are shy southpaws, are hoping that the stunt is being overplayed, that the over-supply will wear out the novelty of that style of pitching.

Eddie Collins is one manager who is taking that slant of the situation. As a matter of fact, he is forced to, because of a dearth of southpaws on the Chicago roster.

Collins is trying to believe that the great number of left-handers in the league will tend to make right-handed pitching the unusual, rather than routine. Having many good right-handers, he is hopeful of profiting thereby if the theory works out as anticipated.

However, Collins admits he would feel much better if he had a couple of star southpaws to sandwich in between his right-handers.

* * *

In all probability the great number of southpaws in the American and National will cause the managers to go back to the system of having capable reserves to cope with the pitching of the opposition.

* * *

PLEASE EXPLAIN.

The power that southpaws appear to have over the batters, left-handed hitters in particular, still remains something of a myth.

It is a fact that while left-handers seem no stronger against right-handed hitters than do right-handed pitchers against left-handed batters, there is a difference when they go against their own style.

The truly great batters of the game are not so affected. Left-handed hitters like Wheat, Roush, Speaker, Collins and many others, hit the southpaws about as well as right-handers. It is the average, the ordinary batter who suffers.

* * *

For years this has been explained by the fact that southpaws were always in the minority and offered the unusual in pitching. That theory may be exploded this season.

In all probability they are discussing either the best way to win the pennant or why they both failed to break 90 in the morning golf round. One is about as important as the other.

KEEPS HER YOUNG

NEW YORK, March 31.—"Men will play on the square with you if you are a good sport yourself."

This is what Mrs. Mamye E. Farr, grandmother, business woman and athlete, has found out on the bowling alleys. She plays with men for the fun of the game, without asking concessions under the protecting excuse of her skirts. She plays such a game that any man is proud to win from her.

"Men in general are game sportsmen," says Mrs. Farr. "They are not raising quibbles and causing delays all the time. They have been lovely to me. There never has been any attempt to embarrass me or to take an unfair advantage."

It was late at night when the motherly-looking woman with the gray streaks in her reddish hair walked out to the "open" game at the bowling alleys. Any newcomer may join the "open" game. But the half of the players whose scores are lowest must pay for the top half. None but good bowlers venture into the game. "Sure," they said without enthusiasm when the strange matron asked if she might join the game.

Someone after her first shot picked up the crayon and scored opposite her name the little cross which means a "strike." Soon there were a row of "strikes" and "spares" to her credit. The crash of the tenpins when she fired a ball was the surest praise. Men gathered from other alleys to watch her. She did not have to pay for that game.

Mrs. Farr regularly bowls a score of around 190, and usually it is beyond 200. Once this winter she went to a high of 256, and two nights later she scored 254.

Bowling fits into her schedule at the end of a hard day's work. It is her way of resting, as well as her pleasure and exercise. She appears at the Thum alleys about 11 o'clock four or five nights a week, and, as she says, "I'm the last one out when they close the doors at 1 o'clock."

Mrs. Farr says, "The way to stay young is to keep your love of play and not be afraid of adventure."

The NUT CRACKER

BY JOE WILLIAMS

TAMPA, April 1.—Everybody is down to weight in the Washington camp, including Clarke Griffith's bank roll, which is plenty underweight. It will start the season in a weak, anemic condition.

Various members of the new championship team have been taking Mr. Griffith's bank roll out for long, strenuous rides through the hazardous valleys of More Doughville. A good time has been had by all except Mr. Griffith.

The Griffith B. R. was a sturdily built, well-muscled article last October, apparently capable of holding its own in any kind of smart financial circles. But the holdout moths got to it.

Mr. Griffith pulled a boner bigger than the hind leg of a truck horse by announcing the club had declared a 40 per cent. dividend. This was an open invitation for the hired hands to join in a rousing, inspired chorus of the "Gimmies."

Mr. Griffith's savings account may recover, but it will never look the same. Walter Johnson is one of his idols, but he'll probably never be able to read that Walter is the highest-priced pitcher in baseball without experiencing acute pains in the vicinity of his bank balance.

Bucky Harris tells interviewers the champions will repeat. Mr. Griffith is not so pessimistic. "Maybe they'll rattle home seventh or eighth and the club can save a dime," he says hopefully.

Washington is the only camp in the works where the phrase, "youthful phenom" is not getting its usual spring workout. This has been benched for such stimulating lines as "peppery octogenarian" and "sprightly antique."

Vean Gregg is the most important rookie in the menagerie. Gregg is older than the original gag about the Two Irishmen. Still they say he has more stuff now than ever, including a pair of crutches.

Peckinpaugh's collapsible knee, which provided the sob sisterhood with such great quantities of their favorite fruit during the world series, has been reupholstered and the old man is bobbing up and down at short with a fine senile enthusiasm.

This shouldn't surprise you. Peck can leave an empty glove and his home telephone number anywhere between third and second and get more out of the position than 14 or 15 major league shortstops you might name offhand.

NEEDS 181 GAMES TO EQUAL RECORD

According to the records Ty Cobb needs 181 games to equal the long-time playing record now held by Hans Wagner. The Georgian hopes to reach Wagner's figure during the next couple of seasons. Wagner's mark is 2785 tilts made over a stretch of 21 campaigns.

LENGLEN TO PLAY.

Sends Entry For Wimbledon Series.

PARIS, April 1—(Canadian Press)—Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, who has been playing in her old-time tennis form along the Riviera, has decided to return to the scene of former glory and enter the Wimbledon championships this summer.

She telegraphed friends in Paris Tuesday of her decision, saying that she had recovered entirely from last year's attack of jaundice, and added that she was ready for a strenuous court campaign.

Mlle. Lenglen will enter the international tennis championships in Paris, beginning May 27, after which she will go to London for a rest and practice preparatory to the Wimbledon classic.

Red, White and Blue Atmosphere At Golf Club "For Men Only"

NEW YORK, March 31.—The Bronxville Golf Association has posted a "Man Only" sign at the gate of its new course out in Mt. Vernon.

They've unfurled a red, white and blue banner of freedom overhead. The colors represent the snappy red coats and white knickers of the caddies and the atmosphere turned indigo by the free and unlimited expression of opinion when a stroke goes bad.

These acres are the final defensive citadel of harassed males. Driven from barber shops, smoking rooms, offices and clubs by competing femininity, they have taken their stand like Horatius at the bridge, then battle cries, "They Shall Not Pass" and "Father Adam, We Are Here."

The distinctive uniform for members of this male battalion of death will be the red blazer. With no women around, however, they don't have to play as if on Easter parade. If a man's taste runs to frayed and buttonless gear of three seasons ago, he can wear it without embarrassment.

Tea on the clubhouse veranda won't be featured. It might be worth while to hunt refreshments in the locker room, in confidential, modern man-to-man style. But no frills.

Uniformed caddy at the exclusive Bronxville Country Club.

"Fore" will be again an alarm siren which clears the right of way. Energetic golfers won't be held up while a feminine pair down the fairway deliberate over their costumes.

Apoplexy and the wear and tear on golf equipment will be reduced. Repression will be eliminated. If unkind thoughts suggest themselves, they can be given verbal expression. It will be unnecessary for the plagued spirit to burst from internal combustion of profanity. One will not have to break his sticks and cast his caddy bag into the pond. He can simply shout to high heaven.

Sociologists see in the new exclusion rule a helpful sign for the race. For all of modern day's effeminizing of man and its masculinizing of women, there's a difference. The Bronxville men in 1925 are asserting their distinctiveness. Women must be kept in their places.

Only 100 men may be admitted to the club. It is the ultra in exclusiveness. Legend tells that the grounds were purchased in 1770 for a pint of silver shillings. A single membership now, a one-hundredth part in the proprietorship, should easily be worth a pint of silver or even of whisky. And as the feminine encroachment outside presses nearer, the value of membership should increase.

EASIER MONEY

Tory finds that some of these priorities were intended to help both borrower and lender, as in the case of seed grain liens.

Dealing with the increased difficulty of getting loans for agricultural purposes, Dr. Tory finds that is due to general conditions, and recommends that propaganda on the subject should cease, restrictions placed on such borrowings should be removed, and discretionary power be left to the courts or to some public body appointed for the purpose.

The chief aim of the Rural Credit System, he thinks, should be to establish homes and build up moderate sized farms.

On the subject of intermediate credits, Dr. Tory has not materially changed his recommendation of last session. He recommends the development of co-operative local organizations for this purpose.

Reasons for Plan.

Dr. Tory gives the following as his reasons for recommending the adoption of a plan of co-operation between the Dominion and Provincial Governments:

1. Through the agency of the Dominion Government money can be obtained at the lowest interest rate possible, a most important consideration.

2. The machinery for making loans, already available in some of the provinces, could be utilized with modifications, thus giving the advantage of past experience in dealing with the problem. Any province not already having the machinery and desiring to take advantage of the plan could create the necessary machinery as defined in the Act.

3. The cost of administration would be smaller, especially in the beginning than by any other method.

4. The administrative board could be given sufficient authority to free them from political control while being backed by and having the supervision of the provincial authorities.

5. The burden of supervision upon the central board, which in a country so spread out as ours, would be a method of some difficulty, would be greatly lessened. From an administrative point of view so far as the Dominion government is concerned this without question would be satisfactory.

Optional to Provinces.

6. Some of the Provinces of Canada might not desire to take advantage of any scheme. In that case, they would not be compelled to assume any responsibility, as they could remain out of the arrangement.

7. It would have the great advantage of placing upon the local authorities the responsibility for making and collecting the loans with their own credit involved. Local conditions would certainly be better understood by responsible local parties.

8. By establishing proper supervision from the beginning and keeping attention directed upon the possibility of ultimately having an independent organization, as described under paragraph three above, the Provincial Board could easily become the local unit of a co-ordinated scheme later on by uniting them under a common authority. Provision can be made in the original Act to bring this to pass in due course. Time would, in this way, be given for the idea of a Federal system to mature and to materialize.

Dr. Tory recommends that an act be prepared and submitted to Parliament embodying the foregoing suggestions.

Intermediate Credits.

The foregoing recommendations Dr. Tory applied to long term mortgages. In regard to intermediate credits, that is credits for a period longer than the ordinary banking transaction, which is usually from three to six months, yet shorter than the short-term mortgage, which is usually for five years, Dr. Tory has other recommendations to make.

In this regard, he is of the opinion that the developments of co-operative organizations is the proper way to proceed and for the following reasons:

1. It will give the farmer himself the experience which will teach him how to use money advantageously and in a business way.

2. It will, if successful, lead ultimately to financial independence by putting him in relation to a self-supporting financial institution through which capital can be commanded.

"I am further of the opinion," said Dr. Tory, "that the organization, supervision and control of this type of credit should be left to the provinces. Dominion supervision would be difficult and expensive."

HUGGINS SATISFIED WITH YANKEES

Mite Boss Feels Club Has Strength to Win If It Shows Right Spirit.

BY BILLY EVANS

ST. PETERSBURG, March 31.—Miller Huggins, mite manager of the New York Yankees, is more than satisfied with the chances of his club to do a comeback.

Huggins, not inclined to enthuse, always conservative, feels that his team has the strength to win if it has the will.

The Yanks will be much the same ball club as last year as far as the personnel, but if spring training is any criterion, a much different aggregation as to spirit.

Last season the Yankees were careless, particularly in the spring. A great ball club, it failed to perform properly some of the fundamentals of the game.

Spirit Came Too Late

I recall several contests in which the failure of a batter to run out his hit at full speed resulted in defeat. Similar omissions proved equally costly. The thought of some of the athletes seemed to be that the club would go out and win when it wanted to.

During the last half of the season it was apparent that Washington and Detroit were dangerous contenders, the Yankees played the game they are capable of, but those early season reverses proved too big a handicap.

"When I visited the training camp of the Detroit Tigers at Augusta, Manager Ty Cobb was emphatic in his opinion that New York was the only club he feared.

"The Yankees are a great ball club," said Cobb, 'much better than they showed a goodly part of last year. Thats' the team I have to beat if I am to win."

Unquestionably the Yankees are a greatball club, a team with a great defense, the possessor of a real punch and backed up with a sterling pitching staff.

If the Yankees of the last four or five years had an outstanding weakness, it has been lack of spriti. A take-it-for-granted spirit, rather than a fight-to-the-finish attitude, characterized their play.

The Yanks I watched in this "city of sunshine," as the press agent pulls it, seem to have taken a new lease on life as far as spirit is concerned. I never saw the Yanks do so much chattering, show so much "pep."

That one thing augurs well for the chances of the club to come back. There never has been any question about the team's ability. Add to this the fine spirit that every player from star to lowly substitute is showing and you have the answer to why Tyrus Raymond Cobb has so much respect for New York.

Miller Huggins, in discussing the chances of his team, says there are four reasons why the Yanks are more formidable than last season.

Three of the four reasons are Pitcher Urban Shocker, Catcher Steve O'Neill and Outfielder Earl Combs. They are regulars.

Looks to Shocker, O'Neill.

The other reason is the increased reserve strength as a result of picking up some likely material from the recruits, most prominent being Outfielder Henry" Nick Cullop, Infielder Wanninger and First Baseman Lou Gehrig, a holdover from last season.

Huggins is positive that Shocker will win consistently, that Steve O'Neill will be a great help to Wally Schang, and that Earl Combs will be one of the league's sensations.

A great ball club that has taken on a new spirit, and added strength due to capable reserves, makes Manager Miller Huggins feel that the rest of the field in the American League is going to have a tough time beating New York to the wire.

SHIP PROVISIONS TO CAPE BRETON

Peterborough People Asked To Help Committee Gathering Supplies.

A number of citizens, feeling that Peterboro would undertake the shipment of a car of provisions to the destitute miners in Nova Scotia, organized themselves into a committee and set about getting supplies and making provisions for its being transported to Nova Scotia.

They have interviewed the cereal mills, wholesale groceries, some retail groceries and others, and have secured about half a car of flour, cereals, groceries, etc. They are now appealing to farmers, market gardeners and citizens in general to contribute sufficient to fill the balance of the car. Those who have vegetables, such as potatoes, carrots, turnips, etc., or apples, would confer a favor on the committee if they would deliver them to Cooney and Jopling's storage warehouse, Simcoe Street, opposite the Lock Company, when they will be properly taken care of, and placed in the car for shipment. Any citizens who desire to contribute in the same manner, or by cash, may do so to any of the following gentlemen, and they will procure groceries or provisions of some kind with the money. It is essential that this car gets away just as speedily as possible on the C.N.R. and those who are considering helping in the matter will be doubly thanked if they make their contributions early.

The gentlemen who have interested themselves are Messrs. Chas. Rishor, Walter J. Oke, Roland Denne, R. H. Turner and others.

A FREE BEAUTY CLINIC OPENED

Out-of-Work Girls Get a Chance to Impress Possible Employers.

GOOD LOOKS AN AID

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS

NEW YORK, April 1.— That beauty is no longer regarded as a luxury, but a necessity, is evidenced by the fact that New York now boasts a free beauty clinic.

It was opened purely for the jobless girl.

Any girl out of work who feels her neglected appearance is one of the reasons she doesn't get employment may come here and have free beauty treatments until she is facially reclaimed.

Naturally the clinic is doing a rushing business and the engagement book is dated up months ahead with the names of stenographers, actresses, motion picture aspirants, and women who are unemployed.

Beauty Essential.

According to Dorothy Gray, who opened the clinic, good looks, grooming and a general air of prosperity and self-confidence are just as much a part of the working girl's equipment as the technical knowledge of her particular job.

"The pretty girl has the advantage all around," Miss Gray says. "She gets the job ,the promotions and the invitations to get married.

"This isn't unfair, but quite as it should be. The pretty girl considers being attractive a part of her job. She puts more into it than the girl who believes that just pounding the typewriter or keeping books is all she was hired for.

"What makes a girl pretty is a good skin, sparkling eyes, well-kept hair, carefully kept hands, and a neat, youthful figure. These are the results of care and of sane living.

"The opposites, the muddy complexion, dull eyes, dead hair and general untidiness are the results of dissipation and mental sluggishness.

The Makeup.

"To do her best work, a woman must be sure of herself. She must know she looks right so she can forget her appearance and give her attention to business. She isn't going to powder her nose every ten minutes if she actually knows how to make up in the morning so that she looks right all day."

The girl who has been out of a job for some time is usually out of money, Miss Gray finds, hence when she needs beauty treatments most she cannot afford them. She knows her face is deteriorating as well as her clothes. Enter the inferiority complex. Pretty soon she has lost confidence in her ability, too. Getting a job becomes a real problem when you reach that state of mind.

Besides the free clinic, Miss Gray maintains one of the most fashionable beauty salons in the city in the expensive Fifth Avenue section.

"All women are not beauties. I know," she said. "There are many defects beyond the power of cosmetics, just as there are many beyon the power of surgery. But beauty is a relative term, and there are no women who cannot be greatly improved and given the effect of attractivness an charm. That is the mission of the free clinic."

A "DRY" BIBLE.

"Cake of Raisins" Substituted For "Wine" Says Paris Report.

PARIS.—A new "teetotal" version of the Bible is promised from America.

The "New York Herald" announces the publication by Messrs. Scribners of two volumes of a shorter Bible, edited by two Yale professors and the Y.M.C.A., in which the festive passages are all "dry."

"Wherever the word "wine" occurs in the King James' version, raisin cake now takes its place. Thus, I. Chronicles xvi., 3:

"And he dealt to everyone of Israel, both man and woman, to everyone a loaf of bread and a good piece of flesh and a flagon of wine."

A powerful story — one which not only entertains but makes folks think, is told in "School for Wives," the Victor Hugo Halperin production which comes to the Royal Theatre Thursday for a run of three days. It's the story of a wealthy girl who marries a poor artist, renouncing her father's fortune because it is "tainted."

An excellent cast, headed by the always popular Conway Tearle, interprets the various roles. The picture is said to be a welcome combination of thrills, color, action suspense and romance. It is admirably directed.

Financial difficulties were not the sole cause of the rift on the matrimonial sea of Richard Keith and Betty Lynch (Conway Tearle and Sigrid Holmquist) in the early years of their union. They didn't get along happily for the reason that both had entered upon marriage with little thought and no preparation.

"SCARAMOUCHE" AGAIN GETS THE CROWDS.

Last night the Royal was again filled with a representative audience of Peterboro's best citizens.

"Scaramouche" was the magic word that did it. Everywhere this picture is hailed as the best product of the studio for the year 1924.

The same musial accompaniment used in the New York run is well played by the Royal Orchestra under Mrs. Foster's direction, and helps materially in bringing out the varying moods of those troublesome times in France. Patrons who demand the very best should not overlook "Scaramouche," which closes its engagement to-night.

AT THE GRAND

THE ORIGINALS in "STEPPING OUT"

"Stepping Out" is the title of the brand new revue presented this season by the ever popular ORIGINALS, Canada's own soldier entertainers, the cast of which comprises many Original Dumbell favorites. Theatre-goers from coast to coast who have witnessed performances of these clever artists before say the new show is unquestionably the best of all the soldier productions, it is one continuous scream of laughter throughout.

The "Boys" will be in town again on Good Friday and Saturday, April 10, 11, at the Grand theatre with some smashing song hits, brilliant skits and sketches, and the usual merrymaking numbers so popular with Originals' shows. "The Love Trail" and "The Dancing Lesson" are two of Gene Pearson's big hits this season, while his latest gowns are dreams of the modiste's art, more beautiful and brilliant than ever. Gene Pearson is this year recognized as the greatest male soprano before the public. The leading comedian is the inimitable Bob Anderson, already an established star whose easy natural humor is a riot, it is a long time since Canadian audiences have seen a better exponent of humour, and also a long time since we have had one so versatile, as John Willie Shufflebottom, and in the song numbers "With his toes turned Up" and "That's another one gone," Bob is a scream. His appearance as an old woman telling about her departed husband simply stops the show with laughter. Another extremely popular member of the Original's Company is Lionel Broadway, the new juvenile.

The revue opens with a re-union of a number of ex-service men and swings along in the same snappy manner as all other Original shows. One part of the programme conveys a musical comedy while the last half is in the form of revue. Allan Murray's dancing; Leonard Young's portrayal of the dignified "Duchess"; The singing of the magnificent quartette; Norman Blume's characterization of the frolicsome curate; and Jimmy MacDonald's breezy funmaking, are all delightfully refreshing and new and old friends alike are assured of one rare treat of the season in "Stepping Out."

AT THE REGENT

BEING A MOVIE STAR NOT ALL SUNSHINE, SAYS VIOLA DANA, AS SHE SINKS EXHAUSTED

Being a screen star is not all fan letters and newspaper interviews. Viola Dana never labored under that delusion, but she became even more convinced of its fallacy during the filming of her newest Metro starring picture, "Along Came Ruth" which is now at the Regent Theatre.

One espisode of this picture portrays the development of a small town furniture store from what had the appearance of being a run-down second hand emporium into a first-class, up-to-date urban business institution. Most of this metamorphosing is done personally by Ruth, the young girl played by Miss Dana.

Miss Dana swept the floor, washed the windows and dusted and moved furniture for two entire days, at the end of which her hands were blistered and her finger nails torn. At the end of the second day she felt as still and sore as if she had just carried a bag of flatirons to the summit of Pike's Peak.

"I can only say how glad I am that this furniture store doesn't specialize in bank safes," said Miss Dana wearily as she rested her remaining hundred and ten pounds in a luxurious Morris chair.

In addition to Miss Dana the cast of "Along Came Ruth" includes Walter Hiers, Gale Henry, Tully Marshall, Adele Farrington, Raymond McKee, Brenda Lane, Victor Potel, DeWitt Jennings and Nelson McDowell. Winifred Dunn wrote the screen adaptation from Henry W. Savage's stage play by Holman Day. Edward Cline directed the picture which was photographed by John J. Arnold.

HERO OF UNCLE SAM'S WEST BECOMES BANDIT OF JOHN BULL'S PAST

Tom Mix Abandons Cowboy Togs to Turn Desperado in Silks and Laces

HE'S "DICK TURPIN" NOW

His Latest Film, Here Tomorrow Sows Him as Swordsman and Romancer.

Tom Mix's latest picture depicts the stirring deeds of England's famous robber, Dick Turpin, and because of Dick's bold attacks and dashing escapes this new William Fox picture is as full of thrills as an egg of substance.

That the "Robin Hood of the Road out-guessed, out-fought and out-rode the officers of the law follows as a dramatic certainty and the story closes with Dick and his lovely bride safely at home in France.

Students of the stirring era when Swift Nick, Fielder, Rust, Oates, Rose, Peace, Palmer Crippen, King and Turpin rode the roads and robbed coaches and houses will at once appreciate the possibilities of Turpin's life for a delineation by Tom Mix.

Dick was younger than the other famous rascals of his time, far less brutal, far gayer and far more generous to the poor. He robbed the haughty Lords and laughed at their anger and as he took the purses of the lovely ladies he smilingly swept the ground with the plumes of his hat in graceful obesiance. He dressed like a London dandy and nightly took his life in his hands by visiting the White Hart Inn in Drury Lane to sip his ale. There he was known as John Palmer, Barrister—a good fellow and a spender with a well-lined purse.

In this picture titled "Dick Turpin," extra care was taken with every detail, for it will rank as Tom Mix's masterpiece, being far more elaborate and far more expensive than anything in which Mr. Fox has presented him. Director John Blystone surrounded him with a powerful cast. Alan Hale has the great role of Tom King. Kathleen Myers, who is acclaimed one of the most beautiful women on the screen, has the leading feminine role; Philo McCullough has that of "Lord Churlton," James Marcus is seen as Squire Crabtree, and Bull Montana as Bully Boy a fighter of the Old School, is at his ugly best.

"Dick Turpin" will be the feature attraction at Capitol Theatre tomorrow, and it is promised as an extraordinary novelty replete with thrills and Tom Mix with a bag of brand-new tricks.

VETS TO HOLD CHURCH PARADE

Anniversary of Second Ypres Battle to be Marked — St. Luke's Church.

FAVOR DAYLIGHT.

The regular monthly meeting of the local branch of the G.W.V.A. was held on Monday evening when a good number was present. The Commander, R. E. Layfield, occupied the chair.

It was unanimously decided to hold the annual church parade at St. Luke's Anglican Church this year. This service is one of the most important of the year, as it commemorates the Canadians' first entry into the great World War, and is commonly known as the Second Battle of Ypres anniversary. All ex-service men are requested to keep this parade in mind and meet at the G.W.V.A. Hall at 10 a.m. Sunday, April 19th.

The branch also went on record as endorsing the daylight saving plan.

The membership campaign draw for next half-yearly dues and new members was launched. It was decided to hold the draw on the night of the social evening for all veterans and their friends, which will be held on April 30th. A good programme has been promised.

It was decided to discontinue the euchre drives for the season, and resume them again in October.

The question of pensions and other matters affecting ex-service men were discussed at some length.

BLOOD STAINS SUGGEST CRIME

Wentworth Police Believe They Are on Trail of Murder.

DESERTED FARM.

HAMILTON, April 1.—Blood stained walls in a deserted farm house near Albion mills, have led the Wentworth County Police to believe that they are confronted by another murder mystery.

Detectives investigating to-day found the floor of the old house smeared with what seemed to be human blood, while wisps of hair were to be seen on the walls. There were indications that a heavy body had been dragged down stairs.

W. A. Taylor gave the information to the police last night after he had investigated the story told him by a frightened farm hand.

Deputy Chief Sayer of the city force, visited the house, and found gruesome indications of a crime.

WOULD PUT SYSTEM INTO THE LANGUAGE

Engineer Says No One Living Has Mastered English Tongue.

WINNIPEG, April 1.—To put system into language by eliminating all silent letters from its written and spoken forms, is part of the plan of Alfred Norland, engineer of Seattle, Wash., for taking the unessentials out of English and making it into a universal tongue.

He has embodied his plan in a booklet entitled, "Fundamentals of Time, Labor and Production." In this book, Mr. Norland states that users of the English language, has a spoken and written tongue; that English is beyond understanding; has no reason in it; that no one has ever succeeded in mastering as it exists now, and that it would take years to do so.

To put system into the English language, both through the written and spoken medium, Mr. Norland would completely eliminate all silent letters. That alone, he claims, would reduce writing and printing 10 per cent. He would also change the symbols somewhat in form. There is a suggestion of even going so far as to adopt a sort of shorthand system of writing in whole phrases.

Mr. Norland also has a plan for a new system of arithmetic known as the "two" system, to distinguish it from the decimal system. In the tables of measures, for instance, gallons, quarts and gills would be known as Kubans, grosskan, kan, ladle squirt, etc. Imagine going into a shop and asking for a "squirt" of milk.

The inventor of the new three "R" sees no difficulty in changing from the present system to the one he proposes. He states the latter could be mastered in two weeks to a month.

DEATH OF M'ILMOYLE AND WOMAN MAY BE AN INSOLUBLE MYSTERY PROFESSOR TELLS AUTHORITIES

No Trace of Poison or Gas in Bodies, Food or Air of Room.

SEARCH FRUITLESS.

Disposition of Estate of Peterborough Man Presents Problem.

TORONTO, April 2.—(Canadian Press.)—A searching analysis of the organs of Nathan McIlmoyle and Mrs. Rose Kahn, the pair found dead in the house at Fort Erie beach on March 11 last, has failed to throw any light whatever upon the cause of the double fatality. Prof. L. J. Rogers, provincial analyst, who has been engaged in the work for more than two weeks, reported yesterday to Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney General, that no trace of poison had been found in the stomach of either, or in the food in the house, nor of any carbon monoxide poison in the air of the room.

McIlmoyle's widow and family live near Peterborough, Ontario. Mrs. Kahn's husband is a well to do merchant of Buffalo, N.Y. McIlMoyle left a will in which he provided that his estate of some $6,000 should go to Mrs. Kahn and family should he predecease her. As both had been dead some time before found and the latest development makes the mystery more impenetrable than ever. The disposition of the estate seems to present a knotty problem.

SWOLLEN RIVERS THREATEN TOWNS

Serious Menace of Floods in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

WINNIPEG, Man., April 2.—(Canadian Press).—Manitoba and Saskatchewan are facing one of the most serious flood situations in many years, residents of many districts in the affected areas having been forced to leave their homes, while railway transportation has been badly disrupted by washouts and inundations.

The swelling waters of the Assiniboine River have reached threatening levels and Portage la Prairie, which suffered greatly from floods two years ago, again is menaced by the rising stream. Part of the town already is under water and to protest its roadbed through the district, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company late yesterday, rushed 200 men in an effort to divert the water's course. Ice jams near Miniota, Man., have considerably aggravated the situation and at this point the river is reported to be rising at the rate of six inches an hour.

The turbulant Wascana waters have receded sharply and the worst of the spring flood near Regina, Sask., is now believed to be over.

Wednesday the swollen stream continued to recede slowly and now is more than 18 inches below the record level established at noon Tuesday.

Mail, bread and groceries are still being delivered to homes by boat, in the flood zone delivery rigs and mail men go to the edge of the water and from there their journey is continued in craft of all kinds.

ROAD MENDING STARTS.

Marmora-Deloro Road Receives Spring Attention—Will Please Motorists.

MARMORA, April 2.—Road operations in this district commenced on Tuesday with the scraping of the Marmora-Deloro road. This attention will be very much appreciated by the many motorists who have occasion to patronize this road.

PREVENT ACCIDENTS.

C.N.R. Will Endeavour to Divert Road From Dangerous Point.

KINGSTON, April 2. — (Special.) —An engineer from the Dominion Railway Board is at Finlay station, on the Canadian National Railway, a short distance east of this city, to take up the matter of a road diversion at this point, which was the scene of an accident a short time ago when three people met death when their auto was struck by a train.

WAREHOUSE BURNED.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., April 2.—(Canadian Press).—The warehouse of the Matthews Sash and Door Factory was destroyed by fire here yesterday. The fire was prevented from spreading to the mill and other buildings. A stock of $20,000 worth of lumber was in the warehouse.

Girls Blamed By Windsor Magistrate For Theft Of Automobiles By Students

WINDSOR, Ont., April 2.—(Canadian Press).—About 100 students of Windsor Walkerville Technical School were sternly lectured by Magistrate Gundy in Police Court yesterday when they all attended court to hear sentence passed on their fellow students who pleaded guilty to stealing automobiles. After Mr. Gundy freed Hugh B. Noble, 17, and Roy W. Douey, 16, on seven years parole, he told the girls present it was often their fault when boys were caught stealing automobiles.

"In most cases it is because the young fellow who has no car of his own wants to take one of you girls for a drive," he declared. "My advice to you would be to find out for certain whether the boy owns the car before you accept the invitation. It probably will save both of you trouble if you do."

James O'Meara, 16, was remanded until Saturday for further investigation after he admitted having been guilty of driving a car away on a former occasion.

FIRE BRIGADE GIVES DISPLAY

Underwriters' Inspector Makes Visit of Inspection to Peterborough.

PRESSURE GOOD.

L. D. Walker of the Canadian Fire Underwriters Association came to town today and put the Fire Brigade through its paces. Without notifying the fire chief, he and Mayor Turner and Alderman Jones went out to Box 35 at the corner of Hunter and Park and turned in an alarm. Two minutes later Chief Gimblett in the little red devil was on the scene, followed in thirty seconds by the big truck. Three and one half minutes after the alarm was rung in the horses were there with the ladder truck and a line of 200 feet of hose had been laid and put in action.

Adjournment was then made to George street between Hunter and Simcoe streets where a pressure test was made. Thirteen lines of hose each 250 feet long, were laid from seven hydrants. Before they were turned on the gauge registered 105 pounds pressure. After all the lines were in action the pressure was 78 pounds. The nozzle pressure was between 45 and 50 pounds indicating a flow of 250 gallons a minute from each line or a total of 3250 gallons a minute.

Mayor Turner and Chief Gimblett expressed themselves as being well satisfied with the showing of the firemen. Ross Dobbin, superintendent of the Waterworks Department said that the department had made a very good showing and it was as good a test as they had had.

SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.

King George Home and School Association Regular Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the King George Home and School Association was held last evening in the kindergarten room of the school, with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. E. Scott, occupied the chair. The banner for this month was won by Miss Eastwood's room.

A brief business session was followed by an interesting programme, which included two choruses by Miss Eastwood's class, a duet with mouth organ and Hawaiian guitar, by the Misses Cramm and L. Naish, a vocal solo by Miss Constance Lewis; instrumental selections by Mrs. James Ellis and Allan Lewis; a reading by Jean King, and a very interesting talk on English Schools and England generally, by the English exchange teacher at the King George School, Miss F. Williams. At the conclusion of the programme, refreshments were served by the committee in charge of Mrs. J. W. Ebbs.

Engineers Use Geophone In Effort To Ascertain If Miners Still Living

....NEWCASTLE, Eng., April 2—Military engineers yesterday brought to Chatham a geophone, an instrument constructed on the principle of the stethoscope, in the hope of being able to ascertain from sounds below if any of the 38 miners who were caught in the Montague Colliery by a rush of water several days ago, were alive. Nothing was heard through the instrument, and this was taken by the people of Scobwood, where the mine is located, as confirming their fears that all the men and boys below have perished.

Today was the first time the geophone, which was much used during the world war, was applied to a mine disaster.

WIFE MISSING; HUSBAND HELD

Supposed to Have Sailed for Old Country Last September.

NOT SEEN THERE

HALIFAX, N. S., April 2—The mysery of the missing war bride, Mrs. Duncan Gammon, whose husband is being held here by the police because his story describing his taking his wife to Quebec last September where she embarked to visit her parents in England could not be confirmed, had approached no nearer solution yesterday morning. Chief Palmer said he would hold Gammon indefinitely while investigations were in progress. A description of the missing woman is being broadcast.

According to Gammon's story to the police his wife advised her parents she would visit them in England and he drove her in a car to Quebec last September where she embarked on a steamer, the name of which he did not know. He said he returned to Halifax with his two infant children which were placed in homes. He was driving a small car. The parents in England advised that they had heard nothing from their daughter since her letter last summer advising of her intended visit.

The couple met and were married while Gammon served overseas with the Canadian forces in 1918.

ITALY FAVORS FIVE WAY PACT

No Faith in Practical Possibilities of Geneva Protocol.

LIKES IDEALS.

ROME, April 2 — (Canadian Press).—According to information which the Italian Foreign Office says is mainly accurate, the Italian Government favors the idea of a five-power security pact. Italy has no faith in the practical possibilities of the Geneva protocol though she fully appreciates the lofty ideas that inspired it. The Italian Government favors the continuation of conversations now proceeding toward a general understanding among Rome, London, Paris and Brussels to which Germany would be asked to adhere.

COTTAGES READY FOR SETTLERS; KINDLY WELCOME UPON ARRIVAL

Complete Preparations for Reception of Seven Families Due in Winnipeg Today— 100 Families Under New Settlement Scheme.

WINNIPEG, Man., April 2—F. J. Freer, District Superintendent of the Land Settlement Board said last night, that preparations were complete to welcome the settlers' families who landed from the S. S. Canopic at Halifax recently and who were due to arrive here today. Seven families will be placed in Manitoba.

He described a welcome typical of that being accorded by the various communities to the settlers. When P. H. Bird, from Newton Poppleford, Devon, England, arrived at the town of Manitou with his wife and four children, a reception committee of five escorted him to his new home, a cottage, which had been entirely prepared for immediate possession. Four other families have been accorded a similar reception by the Manitou townsfolk.

Mr. Freer said he had received advices from the London office Wednesday which made it appear doubtful whether more than 100 families would come over under the settlement scheme this year.

The advices said that while the London office was swamped with applications, the thorough examination into the suitability of the applicants made it impossible to pass more than 100 monthly.

PRAIRIES WELL WATERED FOR NEW CROP

Almost Clear of Snow and Weather Conditions Unusually Favorable—Some Ploughing and Seeding Reported.

WINNIPEG, April 2.—(Canadian Press).—With the prairies almost cleared of snow and weather conditions unusually favorable, farmers at many points in the west have commenced preparation of their land for the 1925 crop.

Where the floods have not been troublesome, ploughing has started on a small scale while scattered districts report seeding operations underway. Manitoba farmers have been the first to report progress along these lines, seeding being well advanced by several farmers around Douglas and Cretna. This marks the earliest start in Manitoba for many years.

Reports from Central Saskatchewan indicate that seeding will become general within ten days. Ploughing has commenced along the Goose Lake Line in the Tessier and Harris districts.

Favorable reports come from Alberta, the land being reported in excellent shape for early cultivation, providing present weather conditions, continue, operations will be fairly general next week.

Throughout the three provinces, the winter's precipitation was well up to the average and good moisture is reported form all points with conditions favorable to rapid germination.

DRUNK IN CAR; PLEADS GUILTY; 20 DAYS IN JAIL

Millbrook Man Picked Up By Provincial Constable Maker in Wreck.

FINED $200, TOO.

Magistrate Issues Warning to Future Offenders—Go the Limit.

Because he was drunk in charge of a car yesterday evening, Ormand Grey of Millbrook was today sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley to 20 days in jail, and because he had liquor in his possession in a public place a fine of $200 and costs was imposed. The former charge was under the criminal code and the latter under the O.T.A.

Grey, it was said, was found about six miles out the gravel road at 4 o'clock yesterday, in an intoxicated condition. He had driven his automobile into a post by the side of the road, breaking the post and damaging his car. He pleaded guilty.

In passing sentence, Magistrate Langley remarked that he would be lenient in this case, but others coming up hereafter will be given the limit. For a first offence the punishment is up to 30 days; second offence up to three months, and subsequent offences up to one year.

POISON COTTAGE HAS A THRILLER; 2 MEN DEAD AND WOMAN MISSING

Body of Man of Mystery Found Surrounded by Poison Bottles.

COFFINS READY.

(By Lloyd Allen, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, April 2—"Poison Cottage" has claimed two victims. A mystery as awesome as though lifted from the pages of one of Edgar Allan Poe's thrillers, has been uncovered in the respectable King's Cross neighborhood, in the heart of London.

Picture a huge, vacant house set on a scraggly lawn behind a high forbidding wall, a few mouldering gravestones, a portion of an old cemetery, obscured by rank weeds in one part of the yard.

Behind the large house a cottage with curtained windows.

In the smaller house two men clad in pajamas were found dead. One of them was Granville Cooke, well-to-do son of the anatomist, who 25 years ago conducted Cooke's School of Anatomy in the larger of the two structures. The elder Cooke was stricken with heart disease while lecturing his students on that subject. The other dead man was Selwyn Foster, whose face was familiar both in Limehouse and the West End.

Coffins in House.

About the bodies of the men who were believed to have been dead a week, were scattered poison bottles. One room housed two lead coffins. A gas stove in the kitchen was turned full on, but the police believe the men died from poison rather than gas.

Today a cordon of police has surrounded the premises, ripping up floors, digging about the yard. What the officers wish to find is known only to Scotland Yard. It is reported that at the inquest the noted Sir Bernard Spillsbury will take a hand in plumbing the mystery.

Cooke posed as a "man of mystery," his acquaintances said today. He frequently boasted that he possessed enough poison to kill half of London, and was a student of horrible diseases. It was reported that both Cooke and Foster had been secretly mixing in Underworld affairs and had been convicted of fraud. His mother said Cooke had been slightly insane since the war, when he was injured in a fall from a plane.

Meanwhile the city is being searched for Cooke's wife. Fourteen months ago, she moved with her husband into the grim cottage. She left later and has not been heard from since. Recently he had been entertaining in the little alley home, but the parties were "for men only." Yet stories of violent quarrels, punctuated with white hot curses, have escaped the half acre enclosure in which "Poison Cottage" is set.

ARREST WITNESS.

Marion Wadley Held in Indignity to Dead Body Case.

OSHAWA, April 2. — (Canadian Press).—Marion Wadley, the girl who gave evidence against Mrs. Forshaw, who was charged with offering indignity to a dead body, the infant child of Mary McLaren, of Oshawa, formerly of Cobourg, while living on a farm at Thornton's Corners, has been arrested on a nominal charge of vagrancy.

At the preliminary hearing of the case against Mrs. Forshaw, Miss Wadley, 24 years old, gave evidence for the Crown.

The Crown received word that the Wadley girl was about to leave the city, and as she was a material witness, caused her arrest.

STOP FOOTBALL GUESSING.

WINNIPEG, April 2.—(Canadian Press).—Stay of proceedings was entered in Police Court yesterday in all the charges against all the weekly publications conducting football guessing competitions. This action was taken on the assurance from the promoters that the competitions will be definitely discontinued.

I'm An Unskilled Laborer Pleads Speeding Archduke When Fined 20 Shillings

VIENNA, April 2 (Canadian Press).—"I am an unskilled laborer, and must provide for my wife and two children," pleaded Archduke Leopold, when arraigned for speeding his motor cycle last night and knocking a man down.

The Archduke explained that he was employed nightly to rush motion picture films from one theatre to another, and had no time to lose.

The victim of his motor cycle said in court. "I don't want any compensation. The defendant is the victim of hard luck," but the Magistrate fined the Archduke twenty shillings.

CHURCH UNION BILL ACCEPTED

Committee Adopts Report of Sub Committee—Minister Knox Jointly.

ANTIS OBJECT.

TORONTO, April 2.—(Canadian Press).—After one hour's discussion, the Private Bills Committee of the Legislature, by 43 votes to 17, this morning accepted the Church Union Bill as prepared by its subcommittee.

Hon. F. W. Nickle reviewed the chief clauses in the drafted bill, for the division of church property. The bill makes provision for a commission of three, one representing the non-concurring congregations, one represented the United Church, and the third to be selected by these two. This commission will have power to review conditions in any locality not above 50,000 population. The commission may settle property matters to the extent of seeing that minorities get buildings. The commission is also given power to enforce any award that it makes.

Regarding Knox College, Mr. Nickle said that neither group at the moment was anxious to accept Queen's Theological College because both wanted an institution. A solution therefore had been found in the distribution of the assets of Knox College. "What the committee asks is that Knox College building be given to the continuing Presbyterian Church, and that for a term of three years the United Church shall have the right of joint occupation, and during that term the income from the endowment of approximately $350,000 shall be available for the maintenance and upkeep of Knox. There shall be a division of property, half and half, between the two groups, and then after three years of joint occupancy of Knox, only an income of one-half shall be paid to the United Church until the Dominion commission deals with the whole problem of endowment of Knox and when that matter comes before the Dominion commission, the continuing Presbyterian Church will be charged with the value of Knox as found by the commission." Referring to Caven library, the committee is of the opinion that the library should be vested in a board of trustees who shall be charged with the maintenance and upkeep of the library in Knox building.

There are rumors that the Church Union Bill will come up on the floor of the House and be the subject of a prolonged debate. Non-concurring Presbyterians are not satisfied with the draft bill adopted this morning by the Private Bills Committee.

QUEEN WATCHED AT WALES' FIRST LEVEE

Kept Eye on Prince Through Small Windows in the Throne Room.

LONDON, April ' — The throne room at Buckingham Palace where the Prince of Wales held his first levee, his father, King George, not being well enough to appear, is flanked on one side by some small windows, hardly noticeable by those in the throne room itself.

Nobody seems to have noticed that when Wales, looking very resplendent though rather shy in his uniform of a colonel of the Welsh Guards, was receiving 70 diplomats, officers and ministers, his mother, Queen Mary, was watching him through one of the windows. No women are ever present at a levee and her actual presence therefore was not possible. Wales evidently fulfilled his first monarchial duties to perfection for his mother beamed approvingly throughout.

Spring Is Here.

SERVICE OF LEGISLATORS IS NOT ADEQUATELY REWARDED, AVERS FERGUSON DEFENDING INCREASE

Government Increases Sessional Indemnity From $1,400 to $2,000.

WORK 12 MONTHS

Cabinet Ministers Receive $2,000 Boost to $8,000 in New Bill.

TORONTO, April 2.—(Canadian Press).—The Legislature yesterday afternoon made considerable headway with a variety of legislation. The Prime Minister introduced a bill providing for township school boards instead of sectional boards. He explained that he would withdraw the bill after second reading after there had been expressions of opinion, and the public had become acquainted with it.

The Premier also introduced a bill increasing the salaries of Cabinet Ministers from $6,000 a year to $8,000, and the sessional indemnity of members of the House from $1,400 to $2,000. He explained that when good men joined a government for public service they did so at considerable sacrifice, and that their services were worth what was now proposed.

"If we are to secure efficient men we must pay them so that they will not be worried," said the Premier. Regarding increased salaries for members, he said that the public had the wrong impression in thinking that they only worked three or four months a year.

"They work 12 months a year and are always the first to contribute to any function of any kind in their ridings."

There was no further discussion, although it is expected that two or three Progressive members will oppose the measure on second reading.

Race Track Tax.

Hon. W. H. Price, Provincial Treasurer, secured second reading for his bill increasing the per diem tax on half-mile race tracks from $2,500 to $7,500, the same as that on mile tracks. When there is less than $1,100,000 bet on the half-mile tracks during the seven days of the meet there will be a rebate of $2,500 a day.

Mr. Sinclair thought the tax should be based on the attendance, while W. E. Raney said it should be a flat rate of $7,500 a day without any rebate at all. He said he would move this amendment when the bill went into committee.

Mr. Sinclair asked the Premier regarding articles in the papers stating that the Government was having difficulty with the Government of Quebec in building the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway into Rouyn. The Premier said he thought the whole thing was a misunderstanding but promised that he would make a statement to-day.

F. W. Wilson (Windsor) asked the Premier when his resolution favoring government control of liquor was to be debated. The Premier said he could not set a definite date but that Mr. Wilson could be given an opportunity to discuss the matter before the session ended. Peter Heenan (Labor, Kenora) asked if the Government intended to give some relief to the starving miners in Cape Breton. The Premier replied that this was the first suggestion he had heard regarding the matter. However, it would receive consideration.

Highway Amendments.

The amendments to the Highways Act proposed by Hon. Geo. S. Henry were given second reading. He said that the difference in levies on counties would be made more equitable. Some of them now pay 60 per cent. and others 40 per cent. The Department will also take over the classification of roads so that there will be no hitch between counties. At present the Government pays 40 per cent. of the cost of bridges over 80 feet in length. Hereafter they will pay the same proportion on bridges over 50 feet. He also got second reading for the bill providing that the Government may charge five per cent. interest on monies over due from municipalities for road work.

Attack on Heenan.

In speaking to his resolution for $5,000,000 for Northern Ontario development, Hon. Jas. Lyons, Minister of Lands and Forests, attacked Peter Heenan (Labor, Kenora). He said that Mr. Heenan was a better representative in the Legislature of E. W. Backus than of Labor.

If Mr. Heenan had wanted to be a friend of the settler and of labor, why did he not ask Mr. Backus to buy pulpwood from the settlers and to stop exporting power from Fort Frances to United States while the Frances mills went idle, asked Mr. Lyons. Mr. Lyons declared that Mr. Heenan had over-ridden the for-

"It is the intention that Dodge Brothers, Inc., shall continue to be conducted as an independent concern, without change in policy or personnel of management."

BLACKHAND ARTISTS CAUGHT IN TORONTO

Small Bomb Exploded to Force Payment of $1,500.

TORONTO, April 2.—(Canadian Press).—The sequel to the exploding of a small bomb in the rear of Michael Bernardo's home at 63 Robert Street last Friday and the subsequent demand of alleged blackhanders of $1,500 from Bernardo, under threat of further outrage on Bernardo's home and person, is the arrest of Faustino Manfredo and Raffaelo Emiglio. The arrests followed the discovery of a home-made bomb, a sawed off shot gun, a dirk knife and a large number of cartridges in Emiglio's home. The two men appeared in Police Court yesterday and were remanded.

GARAGE IS PART OF A RESIDENCE

Can Legally Keep Liquor There, Says Winnipeg Magistrate.

WINNIPEG, Man., April 2. — A garage is part of a man's residence under the Manitoba Liquor Control Act, but the owner cannot keep liquor there legally unless proof is forthcoming that it was purchased from the Government Commission. This ruling was given by Magistrate Sir Hugh John Macdonald here recently.

The case in point charged a resident of North Winnipeg with having liquor in a place other than a private dwelling. The accused was fined $200 and costs or three months in jail. A large quantity of alcohol was found in the defendant's garage.

THE GUMPS—HIS FIRST FALSE STEP

CAMPBELLFORD SYMPATHETIC.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 2.—Campbellford is not jealous of Meyersburg in its possession of a music loving calf that listens to the radio and blatantly voices its disapproval when static breaks in. This town is rather inclined to extend its sympathy to its neighbor. As a freak that calf is no great shakes. When some records are put on the phonographs here there are plenty of discerning dogs, licensed and otherwise, that howl most dismally.

It is a fact of universal history that everything great in mental achievment whether in art, literature or civilization is due to the stimulus of faith in the Divine."

Miss Effie Webster Remembered at Pre-Nuptial Tea.

LAKEFIELD, April 2. — Miss Elizabeth Thomson entertained about twenty-five lady friends at her home on Monday evening in honor of Miss Effie Webster, whose marriage takes place next week. When the guests had assembled, Mrs. Millage sang a solo appropriate to the occasion, after which Miss Hunter played the wedding march, which gave the signal for two dainty little maidens (Misses Phyllis Morrison and Dorothy Sutton) to carry in a large white basket topped with carnations, tied with a huge bow of white ribbon, and containing a miscellaneous shower of gifts from the ladies. Miss Webster, though much surprised, thanked the ladies gracefully for their kind remembrance. The remainder of the evening was spent in progressive euchre, at which Mrs. H. J. Sutton won the first prize.

After the serving of dainty refreshments, the party broke up with thanks to Mrs. Thomson and her daughters for a very jolly party and many expressions of good wishes to the bride-to-be.

A special feature was a spelling match in which Misses Elsie Kidd and Mina Young captained the opposing teams, which were large, as everyone took part. The contest was keen and the interest continued to the very last. Rev. P. L. Jull gave out the words, using St. Mark's Gospel as a text book.

Want Bridge Built.

A deputation from Ontario and Simcoe waters went to Ottawa last Tuesday to interview the Minister of Railways and Canals, in reference to the Narrows bridge at Atherly. As the bridge is on the Trent Valley Canal system, it is thought by those interested that the cost of a new bridge should be borne by the Dominion government. A new bridge is absolutely necessary, it is stated, to take care of the increased and heavier traffic over the road. The question of who should stand the cost of the new bridge on this section of the county road system, has been before the councils of the two counties for some time.

RAID ON COUNTERFEITERS NETS $150,000 WORTH OF BAD BILLS

Biggest Ever Made in Canada —Plates, Press and 7 Men Raken.

500,000 PAPERS.

MONTREAL, April 2.—(Canadian Press).—Sweeping in front the front and back doors under cover of darkness at 4 o'clock on Wednesday morning, a large squad of men of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police seized $150,000 worth of counterfeit $10 bills, at least 500,000 cut papers of the same size ready to be printed, a foot and power-driven printing press of up-to-date design, plates and other paraphernalia, and arrested seven men in a farmhouse some three miles beyond L'Assomption in Girard Parish.

The raid, which was a complete success, was the biggest by far of any ever undertaken against counterfeiters in Canada, the second biggest being that of Isle St. Therese, a few years ago, when something over $100,000 in counterfeit bills was seized.

The men under arrest are: Joseph Beaudoin, farmer, aged 60, and his five sons: Pierre Paul, Joseph Raphael Maximilien, Alfred Joseph, Isidore Mederic, and Gustav, owners of the farm, and Denis Viger, of Montreal, the latter of whom is accused of having fabricated the plates.

RACE HORSE DOPED.

Favorite at San Diego Collapsed After Defeat.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 2.—Chilhowee, famous Kentucky race horse, was poisoned shortly before running the Coffroth Handicap at the Tiajuana track last Sunday, it is indicated here yesterday in the statements of track veterinarians, owners and trainers, who have been conducting an investigation. Chilhowee was at no time a contender during the race, although he was a top-heavy favorite.

Following the race, the horse was returned to its stable and fell in a heap with a fever of 104 degrees, Ernie and Harry Hart, owners, declared.

Trainer Dick Watts and Jockey Fred Sharpe attended to the preparing of the star for the race. Veterinarians who have been attending the horse state that all indications point to poison having been administered.

After the running of the race it was with great difficulty that the horse was returned to his stall, according to the Hart Brothers.

Chilhowee was said to be an extremely sick horse today and in a state of utter exhaustion.

Detectives have been employed to guard the horse, and are aiding in the investigation, Hart Brothers stated. Jockey Club officials are lending every co-operation.

Ontario, he said, was by far the greatest producer of pulp in the Dominion.

COUNCILLORS HEAR LECTURE ON ROADS

Statute Labor— Less Townships Represented at Meeting—Engineer Spoke.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 2. — Reeve Grills, accompanied by all the other members of the Seymour Council, Dr. G. A. Hay, the clerk and Ernest Brunton, township road superintendent, attended a meeting in Belleville yesterday at which an address on road building was delivered by H. Jardine, one of the engineers of the Highway Department. Other Councils in attendance were Murray of Seymour, Rawdon, Thurlow, and another township in Hastings county. Only townships that have given up the statute labor system were represented at the meeting.

Engineer Jardine gave practical instruction in the matter of building groads, expressing just what the Department requires of the townships before the special grant is paid. Mr. Jardine has the oversight of the township and county roads, in the five townships represented at the meeting and when any of these are faced with a difficult problem in highway construction or in the building of bridges, he is ready to come to them and advise them in the matter.

The Department pays a gant equal to 30 per cent. of the amount expended by the townships and also pays half the salary of the superintendent, one condition being that the latter must not be a member of the Council.

Transformer Burned Out.

One of the transformers in the municipal lighting system burned out last evening and the stores in the section of Front street south of Bridge street, were plunged into darkness as sudden as it was intense. The accident was all the more unfortuntae as Wednesday night is the one evening in the week when the stores remain open until 10.30. In less than half an hour the damage was repaired and the lights burned as usual.

True Blues at Service.

on one of its chief citizens—the mayor of Glace Bay.

Mr. Duff retorted that he did not know that the mayor of Glace Bay was one of Nova Scotia's chief citizens. "Anyone who will deliberately, for his own political purposes, allow women and children to starve, is no good citizen of this country," he insisted.

Incensed at McClurg.

Mr. Woodsworth: "May I ask about the vice-president of Besco, who said that the people would not stand the gaff."

Mr. Duff: "I want to say that if I was on the directorate of Besco, I would have kicked Mr. McClurg out of Cape Breton the minute he said that." Proper conditions would not exist until men like McClurg were kicked out of the company, he declared. He advocated a cleanup of the company and that McClurg be sent about his business. "He is not fit to have charge of anybody; I would not put him in charge of a hen yard, let alone 12,000 miners in the county of Cape Breton." He went on to say that the 15 members of parliament from Nova Scotia were quite competent to deal with the situation in Cape Breton and there was no need for other people to interfere.

Mr. Woodsworth interjected that as a Canadian he had a right to protect the interests of other Canadians.

Mr. Duff agreed that it was a free country, and that Mr. Woodsworth had a right to say anything he liked, but when the member for Centre Winnipeg interfered with another member's constituency, the other member would probably object. Mr. Woodsworth might think that he represented Labor, but he (Mr. Duff) represented a large number of laborers in the county of Lunenburg.

Adjournment of the debate was moved by Hon. R. J. Manion, (Conservative, Fort William.)

The sugar crop of the world will be 14 per cent. greater this year than last, according to official estimates.

THE PROPER COURSE.

The Ontario Government is very wise in its decision to accept the motion of the Liberal Provincial leader that Peter Smith, Charles Matthews and the Home Bank directors be called as witnesses before the Public Accounts Committee for examination as to their knowledge of the commissions said to have been paid by the bank in connection with the now famous bond deal with the Province.

It may be that none of these officials will be able to furnish evidence that will be of value in tracing the mysterious $42,000 still unaccounted for.

But the mere fact that they are to be called for examination strengthens the position of the Government as it clears them of the charge that their chief motive is to block a full inquiry into the Home Bank transaction.

Had they persisted in the attitude that no further steps would be taken along this line unless definite charges were made the administration would have had great difficulty in convincing the people of the Province that they were not seeking to block a trail that would lead back to the former Conservative regime in Ontario.

In fact, this indictment could not have been avoided in any other way than by the course now apparently chosen of inviting a full investigation.

INCREASING THE OVERHEAD.

The supplementary estimates of the Ontario Government include the sum of $66,000, which item represents an increase of $600 in sessional indemnities for each of the 111 members of the Legislature.

The proposed salary boost for the Cabinet Ministers is not covered in the latest estimates, and may possibly be abandoned for the present, but the jump in indemnities is to go through as scheduled.

It is not likely that it will be a controversial question in the House.

Members who find it difficult to hit a common ground when any other subject is under discussion usually have no trouble in reaching unanimity when the item before the House means money in the pockets of all of them.

It may be that the present indemnity is none too high—it is below that paid the Quebec legislators, who receive $2,000, as against $1,400 paid to the Ontario members—but, however that may be, the present is not an opportune time to add $66,000 to the overhead of the Legislature.

When a general reduction of expenditure is regarded by the electors as vitally necessary, the public is, to say the least, not elated to know that their representatives have decided that their services are worth $600 more than last session.

A PUBLIC BENEFACTOR.

A prominent niche in the Hall of Fame should be reserved for the New York youth who had the courage to forcible object to the reading aloud of motion picture titles by a man sitting behind him.

True, the gallant young man is suffering from three knife wounds in his chest received in the fight that followed, but he should have the satisfaction of knowing that the gratitude of the great majority of theatre patrons both in his own country and in Canada is his.

We have all suffered from the same cause.

There are many nuisances that have to be endured in a moving picture theatre, the late comer, his first cousin who leaves early and climbs all over your feet on the way out, the loving couple, the hungry patrons who audibly munch peanuts or oranges, the gum-chewing individual, the flapper who powders her nose during the performance, the half-wit who thinks it the acme of humour to make a kissing sound whenever the screen depicts a love scene, the man who laughs loudly at the wrong time—these are some of the pests that are nightly encountered.

But the worst nuisance of all, the one responsible for the most frayed nerves and homicidal impulses is the man—or woman for that matter—who has the reading-aloud complex.

The New Yorker who took the law in his own hands and tried to squelch the pest would be honourably acquitted by a jury of almost any twelve motion picture patrons in the country.

DIDN'T KNOW NEW ONTARIO.

A Toronto man who had been to California, Florida and England, on pleasure, within the last five years, asked us a few days ago where Michipicoten was, says the Sault Ste. Marie Star.

He described Yellowstone Park. We asked him if he had ever seen the Agawa Canyon, nine miles long. No, he hadn't; he didn't know where it was. Had he ever been to Algonquin Park? No.

He knew about the redwoods of California, but he had never seen the great white pines of Algoma, those magnificent monarchs of the forest that bring back the Canada that we used to know.

Had he seen the great sand beaches of Lake Superior?

Had he been down into the Hollinger with its 65 miles of underground railway, out of which ninety millions of dollars have come?

Had he made the canoe trip on the Mississauga River, with its 40 miles of rapids—now arranged so that even women may go into this paradise?

Had he fished in one of Algoma's unfished lakes where pioneers would give them their own good fare for $2 a day?

No, he hadn't seen any of these things; he knew nothing of this part of his own Province and his own people here.

And we couldn't blame him, because the fault was our own—our's and other Canadian editors!

It should be our care to get our own people interested in themselves, but instead of that we fill our columns about Hollywood, The Breakers, Atlantic City and the other dubious foreign resorts, with the result that our own folks troop off to foreign climes and neglect their own gardens.

When Canada does begin to develop itself, are we going to keep on keeping our people running away to foreign resorts? If we could get Canadians interested in Canada—in the Maritime Provinces, in old Quebec, in Ontario and in the West, we would be doing the country a notable service.

TRIAL BY MOB.

However much it may be deplored by ultra moralists of the type who are continually adding to the Ten Commandments, public interest in criminal trials is not in itself either irrational or unwholesome. It is true that, for a certain class of people afflicted with an unhealthy appetite for sordid revelations and unsavory details, our criminal courts possess a peculiar fascination, which is to be regretted; but, essentially, their appeal is to the human interest that is never indifferent to the fate of the unfortunate, or to the drama of underworld life.

Recent trials of importance in Ontario and Quebec have, however, revealed a tendency that invites comment, a tendency on the part of an increasing section of the public to constitute itself a sort of court of appeal that openly challenges the verdicts of the judicial tribunals and, on occasion, seeks to set them aside. Of late, we have become too familiar with the type of individual who, in the street car or the office, airs his views upon this or that case and, with the assurance of an oracle, proclaims what he would have done if he had been on the jury, and so forth. To him, apparently, it matters not that all he knows about the case, of which he so airily disposes, has been gained from abbreviated newspaper reports of the evidence, and that the verdict of the jury, and the decision of the judge, which he challenges, have been based on a careful study of all phases of a matter in which he had no part.

Like the poor, these wiseacres are always with us, and, perhaps, it would not be necessary to take them seriously if they stood alone. But there is another class, scarcely less assertive, who, from misguided sentiment or sympathy, make a hero or a martyr of the convicted criminal, and who, setting at defiance the findings of the courts, assume to themselves the responsibility of interfering with the course of justice. Well meaning though they may be, and animated by the best of motives, their attitude is as indefensible as that of those whose prejudice against a prisoner leads them to regard his acquittal as a miscarriage of justice.

In Scotland, in the olden days, there was a system known as "Jeddart justice," under which they first hanged a man and tried him afterwards. In some parts of the United States they have not entirely abandoned the practice of lynch-law by which a man may be sent to his doom without any trial at all. And to place at the bar of public opinion and re-try a man who has "tholed his assize," though less summary, is a process reprehensible only in a minor degree.

It is certainly contrary to all conception of British justice and even of British fair play. It breeds suspicion, and leads to unwarrantable and often cruel conclusions. And, worst of all, it constitutes a grave reflection upon judges, lawyers and juries alike, that is calculated to bring the law and its administration into contempt.

Those people, who set themselves up as a court of appeal, ignore the provisions of the Criminal Code, and forget that, once the law is set in motion, it must take its course. In no country in the world is a man charged with an indictable offence assured of a fairer trial than in Canada. Our judges are beyond reproach. Able lawyers are retained for the Crown, on the one hand, and for the defence on the other. "Good men and true" are carefully selected to act as jurors, and are sworn to do their duty regardless of personal opinions or prejudices. Every opportunity is afforded for hearing both sides of the case, and the application of the law to the evidence submitted is clearly stated.

If a verdict is reached that seems open to challenge, there is the opportunity of appeal to a higher court. If there is the appearance of a miscarriage of justice, the law provides a remedy. If clemency is desired, it can be sought and, if the circumstances warrant it, obtained without the intervention of a public swayed by emotion and ignorant of all the facts. And, whatever the verdict or sentence may be, it is a verdict or sentence based upon the honest and fair consideration of evidence which "the man in the street" has not heard and, therefore, cannot properly weigh.

In these circumstances, the tendency, noticeable of late, to hold a public assize on cases that have been tried in the courts, is as dangerous as it is stupid. Trial by jury may not be a perfect system, but it is infinitely preferable to trial by mob.—Ottawa Journal.

A DEBILITATING CHARITY.

There is little to be gained out of further controversy aroused by the soldiers' bonus, as devised by Washington and a number of State Legislatures. There is present and future usefulness, however, in pointing to the practical results of another experiment in giving people something for nothing. The consequences do not end with the gift—that is where they begin. In 1908 the British Parliament adopted the policy of old-age pensions. The then Chancellor of the Exchequer told the House of Commons that the first payment would require £6,000,000, with a subsequent maximum of £7,000,000. There were the strongest econome objections to the plan, but it went into effect, as a relatively small item in the expenditures of a great nation. For the British fiscal year 1924-25 the cost of old-age pensions was £24,000,000, or four times the original estimate. In spite of these doles pauperism in Great Britain has enormously increased as a consequence of the war, while an improvement in trade in 1924 did not reduce the million and a quarter persons in receipt of unemployment pay.

All these devices result in creating exactly the pauperism they profess to cure. The moral ties are loosened. It is a filial duty for the child to take care of the parents in old age, but that obligation has been destroyed. The test of actual need has been abolished. All stigma of pauperism is denied, but the recipients of old-age pensions in Great Britain are paupers nevertheless, however their official standing may be juggled. The sons and daughters who should take care of them, in a responsibility deeper than citizenship itself, have been morally weakened. The national self-respect is lower, and it is deteriorating as the pension list increases. There is not a statesman today, outside of the short-sighted and economically ignorant labor-socialist class, who does not deplore the consequences of a pension policy so lightly undertaken. The State of Pennsylvania is flirting with the question. The next period of depression is certain to bring it to the front. So far as the great British experiment is concerned, it has done little real good and incalculable harm.—Barron's.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, April 1—Considering the heavy runs of cattle this week, over 8,000 having been received so far, trade is not so bad after all, though it might be better. There were 1,000 left over from yesterday, and another 1,000 in today, made a big offering for the mid-week market. Trade was again a little slow, as might be expected, with the export buyers practically out of the market since Monday, except for a few odds and ends. Export steers are quoting 25c lower, and plain common butcher stuff is off about the same amount. The comparatively few choice butcher steers and heifers are steady and unchanged.

Calves draggy.

Lambs uneven ,a few choice tops going up to $16, but against is the fact that a shipment of 600 choice western lambs sold to the abattoir at $13.90.

Hogs steady at yesterday's decline to $12.50 f.o.b.

EGG PRICES

OTTAWA, April 1. — The egg market continues easy with in some instances a slight shading in prices. The Chicago market is down 1-8 cent, but this will not particularly influence Canadian markets now, as home supplies are sufficient to meet all demands.

Toronto—Extras, jobbing 34, firsts 33, seconds 30.

Quebec Jobbing, extras 37 to 38, firsts 33, seconds 34.

CHICAGO GRAIN —

CHICAGO, April 1—Export buying estimated at 1,250,000 bushels of wheat and 1,000,000 of rye helped to give a strong upward trend to the wheat market today. Closing prices for wheat were unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 3 1-2 cents higher. May 1.49 1-4 to 1.49 1-2, and July 1.37 1-2 to 1.37 3-4, with corn unchanged to 3-4 cent up; oats show- 1-4 to 1-2 cent gain, and provision sat an advance ranging from 20 to 50 cents.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, April 1.—Sterling exchange rates were quoted here today as follows:

Sterling demand $4./7 5-8.

Sterling cables $4.78.

MONTREAL GRAIN.

MONTREAL, April 1—There was no marked improvement in the trade volume in Canadian grain in the Montreal market for export account today, which was attributed to the fact that few firm bids were received and only sales of odd loads of wheat, oats and barley were made for April-May shipment.

There was some demand from the United States buyers for bran and shorts in the millfeed market, but as prices bid were 50 to 75 cents per ton below working basis, no business was transacted. The market on the whole was quiet and prices were unchanged. The demand for rolled oats was quiet.

Egg Price Steady.

A fairly active business was done in eggs in a wholesale jobbing way, there being an improved demand from grocers and other dealers for supplies to meet immediate wants. There was no change in prices, but the undertone was easy on account of the more libaral receipts and the prospects for lower value in the near future. The receipts were 3,256 cases, as compared with 2,544 for the same day last week, and 3,833 for the corresponding day a year ago. The stock of fresh eggs in store in Montreal on April 1, 1925, was 5,287 cases, which showed an increase of 2,656 cases, as compared with the same date of the previous month, and a decrease of 2,086 cases with a year ago, while the stock of cold storage eggs were 222 cases larger than last month, and 519 cases in excess of 1924.

The feature of the butter trade today was the announcement of the stock in store in Montreal on the first of April of 82,156 packages, which showed an increase of 11,523 packages with the same date last year, while the stock of dairy butter was 74 packages larger than the previous month, and 111 packages above 1924.

Dairy Trading.

The receipts of butter in Montreal today were 131 packages, as compared with 421 for the same day last week, and 138 for the corresponding day a year ago. Early in the day the tone of the market was steady at the late advance noted and some further business was done, but later in the day when the stocks of creamery butter on spot were announced which proved to be of a very bearish factor on account of the large increase at this period of the year when the new make season is about at hand the feeling in the market was easier and the opinion of some in the trade was that prices would decline in the very near future.

The stock of cheese in store in Montreal on April first was 43,480 boxes, which showed a decrease of 3,484 boxes, as compared with the previous month, and a decrease of 19,745 boxes with a year ago. The English stocks of Canadian cheese, according to cable advice- received here, showed a decrease of 26,600 boxes, as compared with the February first, and an increase of 800 boxes with the same date last year.

The receipts of cheese in Montreal were 88 boxes, as against 4,131 for the same day last week, and 36 for the corresponding day a year ago. The market was without any new feature to note, business being rather quiet on account of the small supplies available and prices rule firm with fodder made Western No. 1 white and clored quoted at 22 1-2 to 23 cents per lb; No. 2 grades at 21 1-2c.

You will have a real musical ability, which if you should care to develop would make you a notable musician. RABBIT HEADED CALF.

Strange Animal Born on a Saskatchewan Farm Recently.

WINNIPEG, April 2 (Canadian Press)—Mark Twain's "Royal Nonesuch" had nothing on the rabbit-headed calf, which William Proulx, of Winnipeg, recently received from his father, who farms in the St. Front, Sask., district.

The animal resembles a rather large jack rabbit, but for its reddish-brown color. It has legs, eyes and mouth like a rabbit and is minus a tail. It was born of a normal cow, but died shortly after birth.

A LOVE EPIC OF THE FAR NORTH

"The—Police, perhaps?" persisted McTaggart.

"Why, yes—of course—the Police," said the stranger, looking straight into the Factor's eyes. "And now, M'sieu, as a very great courtesy to the Law I'm going to ask you to send a bullet through that beast's head before we go on. Will you? Or shall I?"

"It's the law of the line," said McTaggart, "to let a trap robber rot in the traps. And that beast was a devil. Listen——"

Swiftly, and yet leaving out none of the fine detail he told of the weeks

"You poor devil!" he said, the smile going out of his face. "You poor devil!"

and months of strife between himself and Baree; of the maddening futility of all his tricks and schemes and the still more maddening cleverness of the beast he had at last succeeded in trapping.

"He was a devil—that clever," he cried fiercely when he had finished. "And now—would you shoot him, or let him lie there and die by inches, as the devil should?"

The stranger was looking at Baree. His face was turned away from McTaggart. He said:

"I guess you are right. Let the devil rot. If you're heading for Lac Bain, M'sieu, I'll travel a short distance with you now. It will take a couple of miles to straighten out the line of my compass."

He picked up his gun. McTaggart led the way. At the end of half an hour the stranger stooped, and pointed north.

"Straight up there—a good five hundred miles," he said, speaking lightly as though he would reach home that night. "I'll leave you here."

He made no offer to shake hands. But in going, he said:

"You might report that John Madison has passed this way."

After that he travelled straight northward for half a mile through the deep forest. Then he swung westward for two miles, turned at a sharp angle into the south, and an hour after he had left McTaggart he was once more squatted on his heels almost within arm's reach of Baree.

And he was saying, as though speaking to a human companion:

"So that's what you've been, old boy. A trap robber, eh? An outlaw? And you bent him at the game for two months! And for that, because you're a better beast than he is, he wants to let you die here as slow as you can. An outlaw!" His voice broke into a pleasant laugh, the sort of laugh that warms one, even a beast. "That's funny. We ought to shake hands, Boy, by George, we had! You're a wild one, he says. Well, so am I. Told him my name was John Madison. It ain't. I'm Jim Carvel. And, oh Lord—all I said was 'Police.' And that was right. It ain't a lie. I'm wanted by the whole corporation—by every danged policeman between Hudson's Bay and the Mackenzie River. Shake, old man. We're in the same boat, an' I'm glad to meet you!"

CHAPTER XXVIII.

Jim Carvel held out his hand, and the snarl that was in Baree's throat died away. The man rose to his feet. He stood there, looking in the direction taken by Bush McTaggart, and chuckled in a curious, exultant sort of way. There was friendliness even in that chuckle. There was friendliness in his eyes and in the shine of his teeth as he looked again at Baree. About him there was something that seemed to make the gray day brighter, that seemed to warm the chill air—a strange something that radiated cheer and hope and comradeship just as a hot stove sends out the glow of heat. Baree felt it. For the first time since the two men had come his trap-torn body lost its tenseness; his back sagged; his teeth clicked as he shivered in his agony. To this man he betrayed his weakness. In his bloodshot eyes there was a hungering look as he watched Carvel—the self-confessed outlaw. And Jim Carvel again held out his hand—much nearer this time.

"You poor devil," he said, the smile going out of his face. "You poor devil!"

The words were like a caress to Baree—the first he had known since the loss of Nepeese and Pierrot. He dropped his head until his jaw lay flat in the snow. Carvel could see the blood dripping slowly from it.

"You poor devil!" he repeated.

There was no fear in the way he put forth his hand. It was the confidence of a great sincerity and a great compassion. It touched Baree's head and patted it in a brotherly fashion, and then—slowly and with a bit more caution—it went to the trap fastened to Baree's forepaw. In his half-crazed brain Baree was fighting to understand things, and the truth came finally when he felt the steel jaws of the trap open, and he drew forth his maimed foot. He did then what he had done to no other creature but Nepeese. Just once his hot tongue shot out and licked Carvel's hand. The man laughed. With his powerful hands he opened the other traps, and Baree was free.

For a few moments he lay without moving, his eyes fixed on the man. Carvel had seated himself on the snow-covered end of a birch log and was filling his pipe. Baree watched him light it; he noted with new interest the first purplish cloud of smoke that left Carvel's mouth. The man was not more than the length of two trap-chains away—and he grinned at Baree.

"Screw up your nerve, old chap," he encouraged. "No bones broke. Just a little stiff. Mebby we'd better—get out."

He turned his face in the direction of Lac Bain. The suspicion was in his mind that McTaggart might turn back. Perhaps that same suspicion was impressed upon Baree, for when Carvel looked at him again he was on his feet, staggering a bit as he gained his equilibrium. In another moment the outlaw had swung the pack-sack from his shoulders and was opening it. He thrust in his hand and drew out a chunk of raw, red meat.

Like notes in music, various colors produce either harmony or discord. Right color combinations have been reduced to a science.

Light colors generally brighten our spirits while drab, dark colors depress. These effects are especially noticeable in rooms where we work. The kitchen is a pleasant workshop when painted or enameled in white, ivory, pale green or other light shades.

Colors in our bedrooms have a distinct effect upon our day's outlook. We speak of "getting out the wrong side of bed," but there is not apt to be a wrong side in a bright, cheery room that seems to draw in sunlight!

Paint and varnish always preserve property but the quality of lasting beauty rests in our choice of colors.

ACCIDENT AWARD TO BE APPEALED

COLBORNE, April 2.—The case of Mrs. Jessie Hodges and Dr. J. E. Alyea, as next friend for his son Clifford, against the C.N.R., which was disposed of at the spring session of the Assizes in Cobourg, has been appealed by the railway company, against whom a verdict for heavy damages was awarded.

Mrs. Hodges had a son killed over a year ago when a truck in which he was riding with young Alyea was struck at a crossing here by a fast C.N.R. engine. Alyea was severely injured.

Mrs. Hodges asked for $10,000, and Dr. Alyea sued for the same amount on behalf of his son.

The jury, after hearing the evidence, awarded Mrs. Hodges $5,000 and Alyea $2,500. The father was allowed $1,100 for the loss of his truck and for medical attendance for his son.

If the appeal is sustained the case will be tried again at the Fall Assizes in Cobourg.

OUTSIDE AID FOR NOVA SCOTIA'S MINERS RESENTED BY MARITIME MEMBER OF HOUSE AS MEDDLING

"Interference" by Rest of Canada is Unnecessary and Unwelcome to "Proud" Nova Scotians, Asserted Wm. Duff in Reply to Miss Mac Phail.

TIME NOT ARRIVED FOR CHARITY

Lunenburg Member Denounces Vice-President McClurg of Besco as Unfit for Position, Having Charge of 12,000 Miners.

OTTAWA, April 2. — Angrily pounding his desk, interrupted over and over again, William Duff, of Lunenburg, in the House yesterday made a bitter reply to the story told by Miss MacPhail on Tuesday, of conditions in the mining fields of Cape Breton.

He declared that Mr. McClurg, vice-president of the British Empire Steel Corporation should have been kicked out of Cape Breton for his "stand the gaff" interview.

"He is not fit to have charge of anybody," exclaimed Mr. Duff. "I would not put him in charge of a hen yard, let alone 12,000 miners in the county of Cape Breton."

"The quicker the shareholders of the British Empire Steel Corporation get together and reorganize the quicker there would be industrial peace in Nova Scotia.

Mr. Duff admitted that there was distress in Cape Breton, but he sharply challenged the conclusions reached by Miss MacPhail.

The conditions were such, he said, as might be paralleled in any large city. The people of Nova Scotia were proud and resent interference from the outside.

"I say," Mr. Duff went on, "that the time has not yet arrived when the people in other parts of Canada need worry themselve about the people of Nova Scotia, without consulting first the Province of Nova Scotia, and, secondly, the duly elected representatives of that province in this House."

Money Unacceptable.

"Does that mean," queried J. L. Brown, of Lisgar, "that the subscriptions collected in Ottawa to relieve suffering are unacceptable or that we have unduly interfered in this matter?"

"I think that is the meaning," Mr. Duff replied, "and I think the people of Ottawa had better look after the poor within their own gates with the money that they have subscribed for the so-called destitution in Cape Breton."

Mr. Brown came back with a query whether Premier King had not given a splendid lead with his private contribution to the Cape Breton funds.

Given in Good Faith.

"The Prime Minister," retorted Mr Duff, "has the biggest heart in the country." Mr. Duff had no doubt the people of Ottawa had subscribed in good faith but they would have been better advised to consult the representatives of Nova Scotia, who knew the real conditions, and knew what could be done to give relief.

He observed that the town of Glace Bay could borrow for relief purposes, and referring to the mayor of Glace Bay, said, "Anyone who will deliberately, for his own political purposes, allow women and children to starve, is no good citizen of this country."

The miners were to some extent themselves to blame for the present condition of affairs. They had, he said, in the last four years, paid two million dollars to the U.M.W., yet this organization had not come to the relief of the miners and their families.

Mr. Duff (Liberal-Lunenburg) failed to see that Wednesday's remarks of Miss MacPhail (Progressive-Southeast Grey) had anything to do with the budget. He hoped therefore the speaker would exercise the same leniency with him. During the past seven weeks a great deal had been said about the situation in the coal mine area. Miss MacPhail had said that the miners were proud. "It must not be forgotten," he stated, "that not only the miners are proud, but the people of Nova Scotia are proud, and were resentful of undue interference from the outside."

Continuing, Mr. Duff said: "I say the time has not arrived yet when the people in other parts of Canada need worry themselves about the people in Nova Scotia," without first consulting the province of Nova Scotia and the members from there. Conditions in Cape Breton had been portrayed in parliament in a very much worse light than they actually were; but one could go to other parts of this country and find conditions in a less satisfactory state than those depicted in Nova Scotia.

No Union Help.

Miss MacPhail had stated that she had met the mayor of Glace Bay. The Mayor was a Labor member in the Nova Scotia Legislature. And there were other representatives of Labor in that house. She had also described the number of people she had found hungry after a three weeks' strike but did not comment on how many she had found who were not hungry. Some accounts of the suffering in Cape Breton should be taken "with a grain of salt and soup." The miners in Nova Scotia had paid $240,000 into the U.M.W. funds during the year 1924, and yet the members of that organization had not come to the relief of the miners and their families.

"That is a nice organization for the poor miner!" said Mr. Duff. The men had paid in the past four years two million dollars into the funds of the United Mine Workers of America. The miners should be looked after with their own money.

Miss MacPhail had deplored the houses she had found, where there were but two bedrooms, a sitting room and a kitchen. "How many grandfathers of men in this house were brought up in houses with anything more than two bedrooms, a sitting room and a kitchen? These conditions exist everywhere," said Mr. Duff.

Says Agnes Gullible.

Miss MacPhail was certainly gullible, said Mr. Duff, when she let the Mayor of Glace Bay and his truant officer tell her that a poor miner was paying $20 a month for a house with a leaky roof; they actually paid about $2 a week. "I don't know why the Mayor of Glace Bay should put the hon. member for Southeast Grey in the hands of a truant officer, anyway."

Mr. Woodsworth asked if Mr. Duff had read the official reports on the sanitary conditions in the mining camps.

"Who is to blame for these conditions?" asked Mr. Duff. "The Labor mayor of the town of Glace Bay, and the Labor mayors of other towns," replied Mr. Duff, in answering his own question. The mayor of that town should have called his council and voted money for relief.

Town Pledged $5,000.

Miss MacPhail interrupted at this point to say that the city council had met, pledged all it could, and raised $5000 for relief purposes.

Mr. Duff replied that if Miss MacPhail knew more about Nova Scotia she would know that under the laws any town could borrow for relief purposes 1-2 of 1 per cent of its total assessment. Yet Miss MacPhail claimed that the Mayor of Glace Bay had done his duty.

William Irvine (Labor-Calgary East) asked if Mr. Duff would make the same speech in Glace Bay as he was making in the house.

"Anyone who knows me knows I would make the same speech anywhere. To use the language of the member who spoke last night, I wouldn't give a damn where I made it."

Miss MacPhail rose to deny having used such language, and Speaker Lemieux rose from his chair.

"Alright, Mr. Speaker," said Mr. Duff, "I withdraw it. It wasn't parliamentary, but it was snappy."

Mr. Duff said that Miss MacPhail had insinuated that the Provincial Government of Nova Scotia was afraid of Besco (the British Empire Steel Company.) He failed to see why any government or person who wanted the votes of the people of Nova Scotia should be afraid of the British Empire Steel Corporation. The strike affected the whole of the Province of Nova Scotia and if Premier Armstrong did not do the right and proper thing in trying to get the miners back to work every constituency in his province would have something to say about it at the next election.

Duty of Municipality.

It has been contended that the provincial government should jump in, and provide relief in the mining districts. In Nova Scotia, said Mr. Duff, there was a statute providing that poor relief must be supplied by the municipality. The municipalities were authorized to assess the necessary taxation in order to provide this relief. The British Empire Steel Corporation paid 70 per cent of the taxes in the striking area, so if the mayor of Glace Bay was so anxious to help the strikers all he had to do was to call a special meeting of the council, vote the necessary funds, and assess the company for 70 per cent. of the money, as about 20 per cent. of the remainder would be paid by the business and professional men, the miners would only have to meet ten per cent. of the taxation.

Mr. Duff declared that he was anxious to protect the good name of Nova Scotia and see that no outsiders came in to interfere.

"Until such time as the town of Glace Bay does its duty by these women and children; until such time as the province comes to their relief it is not for anyone to get up on the floor of this House and ask for money, for subscriptions, from anybody."

Mr. Irvine asked how the good name of Nova Scotia was to be protected if Mr. Duff passed aspersions

TRAPPER FOOLED.

OMEMEE, April 2 — All Fools' Day took in many jokes. Possibly the best in Omemee was on a High School youth, who this year is making his first attempt at trapping. Thus far the rates have not been plentiful but a few have been caught. When the owner of the trap went to view his own, on April 1st, he found not a big rat with a costly pelt but only the carcase with a large tag around its neck bearing the words "April Fool."

Fox In Trap

Mr. Percy Parsons had the good fortune to find a fox in one of his traps this week. The animal was dead when found; having died from drowning.

LEAGUE HEAR OF WATER POWERS

Illustrated Lecture Given to Millbrook Young People.

WELL DISTRIBUTED

MILLBROOK, April 2.— The Young People's League held its weekly meeting on Monday evening, the "Wide Awakes" C.G.I.T. group being in charge of the programme.

A lecture on "Canada's Water Powers", with an accompanying set of slides, proved most instructive and interesting. The natural resources of the Dominion fall under three heads: (a) Permanent and inexhaustible; (b) Semi-exhaustible and renewable; (c) Non-renewable and exhaustible. Water power comes under the first class; forests, furs, and fisheries under the second; and minerals in the third.

Canada has already developed three million horse power of the forty million now known to be available from hydraluic sources, and present indications would seem to show that five and one-half million will be in use for industrial purposes by 1940. There are, however, immense resources along the line of hydraulic energy, throughout the Dominion, which have not as yet been even explored.

In terms of coal necessary to develop the power now in use, twenty-nine million tons would be required costing about $300,000,000, most of which would have to be sent out of the country. The export of hydro-electric power energy does somewhat to offset the amount of coal Canada has to import annually for industrial and heating purposes.

A comparison of the provinces shows that while Ontario and Quebec lack coal, they are particularly rich in water power; British Columbia is the only province which has both coal and water power to a considerable degree; the Maritime provinces have excellent water power sites and has also Manitoba; southern Alberta and southern Saskatchewan lack power but have coal supplies.

The primitive type of water-wheel in use in the 16th century to pump water for the city of London was shown on the slides, and the improvements traced until the evolution of the modern turbine. The immense generators in use at Niagara Falls, where Canada has already almost completely developed the 1,000,000 horse power which is her share of the hydraulic energy produced at this point, were also illustrated.

Were it not for water power, the mines of Northern Ontario could not be profitably worked, owing to transportation charges, most of these being served by the Ottawa river, or its tributaries. The rivers of British Columbia of glacial origin, with their tremendous vertical descent, technically known as 'head', when harnessed for commercial use, will enormously increase the nation's producing power and wealth.

Wisely administered, under Federal and Provincial governments, Canada has an abundant supply of hydraulic power not only for her present requirements, but for future needs, for many years to come—a potential source of wealth that will means much in her national development, and the standing she will eventually obtain as one of the great commercial countries of the world.

Producers' Association.

The recently-organized Millbrook Producers' Association, which has opened headquarters in the store formerly occupied by J. L. Byam, is making satisfactory progress considering the short time it has been in operation.

Last week, the first in its new premises, fifty cases of eggs (1500 dozen) were shipped, and on Monday of this week forty additional cases (1200 dozen) were expressed to Toronto.

In order to reduce charges, no attempt has so far been made to collect the eggs, the farmers bringing them into headquarters here and receiving initial cheque in part payment upon delivery at the store.

M. McDowell is the manager in charge. The local merchants are co-operating with the Association to further ensure its success.

Euchre Party.

The progressive euchre party, held in the I.O.O.F. Hall on Monday evening, when the officers and members of "Golden Sheaf" Rebekah Lodge, No. 176, were hostesses, furnished one of the most enjoyable social occasions of the season.

Fifteen tables were in use for cards, a much smaller number than is usual when the Rebekahs entertain, the Lenten season, the rather unfavorable state of the roads, and the fact that many of the farmers are now busy with the annual maple syrup making time, probably accounting for the decreased attendance. However, those present were unanimous in their decision that the evening's entertainment was all that could be desired.

A new system of scoring the games was in use for the first time and proved quite an improvement on the old method of "punching" the winners' cards.

Miss Cora Braithwaite won the ladies' first prize (large box of bonbons); Mr. S. Braithwaite and Mr. Herb Syer were tied for the gentleman's first and played a fivepoint game to decide the issue, the former winning; the prize was a safety razor set.

Mrs. F. W. Smith and Mr. F. N. Alcorn received the consolation prizes, a hint of Easter being evident in the attractively-decorated chocolate fowl presented to them with due ceremony.

Supper was served at 11 p.m., and many of the guests remained afterward and enjoyed a dance before the gathering finally broke up.

Personals.

The many friends of Mrs. (Dr.) Rea will be glad to learn that she is recovering satisfactorily from the accident by which the ligaments of her right foot were severly strained, on Friday of last week. An unexpected step downward, while walking on Cavan street, led to the fall and the injury, which was very painful for a time, making it difficult to place any weight upon the hurt member. The swelling is disappearing, and Mrs. Rea can now walk about the house with comparative ease.

Mrs. Harry Armstrong, of Toronto, is visiting her mother, Mrs. S. Eakins, arriving from the city on Tuesday.

"No – I've not boiled any garments since"

"A friend suggested that I stop boiling the clothes I washed and try Rinso, which I did, with such delightful results that I have not boiled any garments since then.

"I found that Rinso is excellent for removing finger prints from white paint and for washing all woodwork.

"It has cut my house cleaning troubles in half and consequently I felt that it was only your due to know that Rinso has a much bigger work to do in our house than just to clean the dirt from our laundry."

The makers of Rinso receive many such letters as this. For Rinso not only does the family wash merely by soaking—it is also excellent for many household duties, such as cleaning woodwork, scrubbing floors, etc. Order Rinso today.

A LOVE EPIC OF THE FAR NORTH

"The—Police, perhaps?" persisted McTaggart.

"Why, yes—of course—the Police," said the stranger, looking straight into the Factor's eyes. "And now, M'sieu, as a very great courtesy to the Law I'm going to ask you to send a bullet through that beast's head before we go on. Will you? Or shall I?"

"It's the law of the line," said McTaggart, "to let a trap robber rot in the traps. And that beast was a devil. Listen——"

Swiftly, and yet leaving out none of the fine detail, he told of the week

"You poor devil!" he said, the smile going out of his face. "You poor devil!"

and months of strife between himself and Baree; of the maddening futility of all his tricks and schemes and the still more maddening cleverness of the beast he had at last succeeded in trapping.

"He was a devil—that clever," he cried fiercely when he had finished. "And now—would you shoot him, or let him lie there and die by inches, as the devil should?"

The stranger was looking at Baree. His face was turned away from McTaggart. He said:

"I guess you are right. Let the devil rot. If you're heading for Lac Bain, M'sieu, I'll travel a short distance with you now. It will take a couple of miles to straighten out the line of my compass."

He picked up his gun. McTaggart led the way. At the end of half an hour the stranger stooped, and pointed north.

"Straight up there—a good five hundred miles," he said, speaking lightly as though he would reach home that night. "I'll leave you here."

He made no offer to shake hands. But in going, he said:

"You might report that John Madison has passed this way."

After that he travelled straight northward for half a mile through the deep forest. Then he swung westward for two miles, turned at a sharp angle into the south, and an hour after he had left McTaggart he was once more squatted on his heels almost within arm's reach of Baree.

And he was saying, as though speaking to a human companion:

"So that's what you've been, old boy. A trap robber, eh? An outlaw? And you beat him at the game for two months! And for that, because you're a better beast than he is, he wants to let you die here as slow as you can. An outlaw!" His voice broke into a pleasant laugh, the sort of laugh that warms one, even a beast. "That's funny. We ought to shake hands, Boy, by George, we had! You're a wild one, he says. Well, so am I. Told him my name was John Madison. It ain't. I'm Jim Carvel. And, oh Lord—all I said was 'Police.' And that was right. It ain't a lie. I'm wanted by the whole corporation—by every danged policeman between Hudson's Bay and the Mackenzie River. Shake, old man. We're in the same boat, an' I'm glad to meet you!"

CHAPTER XXVIII.

Jim Carvel held out his hand, and the snarl that was in Baree's throat died away. The man rose to his feet. He stood there, looking in the direction taken by Bush McTaggart, and chuckled in a curious, exultant sort of way. There was friendliness even in that chuckle. It touched Baree's head and patted it in a brotherly fashion, and then—slowly and with a bit more caution—it went to the trap fastened to Baree's forepaw. In his half-crazed brain Baree was fighting to understand things, and the truth came finally when he felt the steel jaws of the trap open, and he drew forth his maimed foot. He did then what he had done to no other creature but Nepeese. Just once his hot tongue shot out and licked Carvel's hand. The man laughed. Some accounts of the suffering in Cape Breton should be taken "with a grain of salt and soup." The miners in Nova Scotia had paid $240,000 into the U.M.W. funds during the year 1924, and yet the members of that organization had not come to the relief of the miners and their families.

"That is a nice organization for the poor miner!" said Mr. Duff. The men had paid in the past four years two million dollars into the funds of the United Mine Workers of America. The miners should be looked after with their own money.

Miss MacPhail had deplored the houses she had found, where there were but two bedrooms, a sitting room and a kitchen. "How many grandfathers of men in this house were brought up in houses with anything more than two rooms, a sitting room and a kitchen? These conditions exist everywhere," said Mr. Duff.

Says Agnes Gullible.

Miss MacPhail was certainly gullible, said Mr. Duff, when she let the Mayor of Glace Bay and his truant officer tell her that a poor miner was paying $20 a month for a house with a leaky roof; they actually paid about $2 a week. "I don't know why the Mayor of Glace Bay should put the hon. member for Southeast Grey in the hands of a truant officer, anyway."

Mr. Woodsworth asked if Mr. Duff had read the official reports on the sanitary conditions in the mining camps.

"Who is to blame for these conditions?" asked Mr. Duff. "The Labor mayor of the town of Glace Bay, and the Labor mayors of other towns," replied Mr. Duff, in answering his own question. The mayor of that town should have called his council and voted money for relief.

Town Pledged $5,000.

Miss MacPhail interrupted at this point to say that the city council had met, pledged all it could, and raised $5000 for relief purposes.

Mr. Duff replied that if Miss MacPhail knew more about Nova Scotia she would know that under the laws any town could borrow for relief purposes 1-2 of 1 per cent of its total assessment. Yet Miss MacPhail claimed that the Mayor of Glace Bay had done his duty.

William Irvine (Labor-Calgary East) asked if Mr. Duff would make the same speech in Glace Bay as he was making in the house.

"Anyone who knows me knows I would make the same speech anywhere. To use the language of the member who spoke last night, I wouldn't give a damn where I made it."

Miss MacPhail rose to deny having used such language, and Speaker Lemieux rose from his chair.

"Alright, Mr. Speaker," said Mr. Duff, "I withdraw it. It wasn't parliamentary, but it was unhappy."

Mr. Duff said that Miss MacPhail had insinuated that the Provincial Government of Nova Scotia was afraid of Besco (the British Empire Steel Company.) He failed to see why any government or person who wanted the votes of the people of Nova Scotia should be afraid of the British Empire Steel Corporation. The strike affected the whole of the Province of Nova Scotia and if Premier Armstrong did not do the right and proper thing in trying to get the miners back to work every constituency in his province would have something to say about it at the next election.

Duty of Municipality.

It has been contended that the provincial government should jump in, and provide relief in the mining districts. In Nova Scotia, said Mr. Duff, there was a statute providing that poor relief must be supplied by the municipality. The municipalities were authorized to assess the necessary taxation in order to provide this relief. The British Empire Steel Corporation paid 70 per cent of the taxes in the striking area, so if the mayor of Glace Bay was so anxious to help the strikers all he had to do was to call a special meeting of the council, vote the necessary funds, and assess the company for 70 per cent. of the money, as about 20 per cent. of the remainder would be paid by the business and professional men, the miners would only have to meet ten per cent. of the taxation.

Mr. Duff declared that he was anxious to protect the good name of Nova Scotia and see that no outsiders came in to interfere.

"Until such time as the town of Glace Bay does its duty by these women and children; until such time as the province comes to their relief it is not for anyone to get up on the floor of this House and ask for money, for subscriptions, from anybody."

Mr. Irvine asked how the good name of Nova Scotia was to be protected if Mr. Duff passed aspersions

ACCIDENT AWARD TO BE APPEALED

COLBORNE, April 2.—The case of Mrs. Jessie Hodges and Dr. J. E. Alyea, as next friend for his son Clifford, against the C.N.R., which was disposed of at the spring session of the Assizes in Cobourg, has been appealed by the railway company, against whom a verdict for heavy damages was awarded.

Mrs. Hodges had a son killed over a year ago when a truck in which he was riding with young Alyea was struck at a crossing here by a fast C.N.R. engine. Alyea was severely injured.

Mrs. Hodges asked for $10,000, and Dr. Alyea sued for the same amount on behalf of his son.

The jury, after hearing the evidence, awarded Mrs. Hodges $5,000 and Alyea $2,500. The father was allowed $1,100 for the loss of his truck and for medical attendance for his son.

If the appeal is sustained the case will be tried again at the Fall Assizes in Cobourg.

LEAGUE HEAR OF WATER POWERS

Illustrated Lecture Given to Millbrook Young People.

WELL DISTRIBUTED

MILLBROOK, April 2.— The Young People's League held its weekly meeting on Monday evening, the "Wide Awakes" C.G.I.T. group being in charge of the programme.

A lecture on "Canada's Water Powers", with an accompanying set of slides, proved most instructive and interesting. The natural resources of the Dominion fall under three heads: (a) Permanent and inexhaustible; (b) Semi-exhaustible and renewable; (c) Non-renewable and exhaustible. Water power comes under the first class; forests, furs, and fisheries under the second; and minerals in the third.

Canada has already developed three million horse power of the forty million now known to be available from hydraluic sources, and present indications would seem to show that five and one-half million will be in use for industrial purposes by 1940. There are, however, immense resources along the line of hydraulic energy, throughout the Dominion, which have not as yet been even explored.

In terms of coal necessary to develop the power now in use, twenty-nine million tons would be required costing about $300,000,000, most of which would have to be sent out of the country. The export of hydro-electric power energy does somewhat to offset the amount of coal Canada has to import annually for industrial and heating purposes.

A comparison of the provinces shows that while Ontario and Quebec lack coal, they are particularly rich in water power; British Columbia is the only province which has both coal and water power to a considerable degree; the Maritime provinces have excellent water power sites and has also Manitoba; southern Alberta and southern Saskatchewan lack power but have coal supplies.

The primitive type of water-wheel in use in the 16th century to pump water for the city of London was shown on the slides, and the improvements traced until the evolution of the modern turbine. The immense generators in use at Niagara Falls, where Canada has already almost completely developed the 1,000,000 horse power which is her share of the hydraulic energy produced at this point, were also illustrated.

Were it not for water power, the mines of Northern Ontario could not be profitably worked, owing to transportation charges, most of these being served by the Ottawa river, or its tributaries. The rivers of British Columbia of glacial origin, with their tremendous vertical descent, technically known as 'head', when harnessed for commercial use, will enormously increase the nation's producing power and wealth.

Wisely administered, under Federal and Provincial governments, Canada has an abundant supply of hydraulic power not only for her present requirements, but for future needs, for many years to come—a potential source of wealth that will means much in her national development, and the standing she will eventually obtain as one of the great commercial countries of the world.

Producers' Association.

The recently-organized Millbrook Producers' Association, which has opened headquarters in the store formerly occupied by J. L. Byam, is making satisfactory progress considering the short time it has been in operation.

Last week, the first in its new premises, fifty cases of eggs (1500 dozen) were shipped, and on Monday of this week forty additional cases (1200 dozen) were expressed to Toronto.

In order to reduce charges, no attempt has so far been made to collect the eggs, the farmers bringing them into headquarters here and receiving initial cheque in part payment upon delivery at the store.

M. McDowell is the manager in charge. The local merchants are co-operating with the Association to further ensure its success.

Euchre Party.

The progressive euchre party, held in the I.O.O.F. Hall on Monday evening, when the officers and members of "Golden Sheaf" Rebekah Lodge, No. 176, were hostesses, furnished one of the most enjoyable social occasions of the season.

Fifteen tables were in use for cards, a much smaller number than is usual when the Rebekahs entertain, the Lenten season, the rather unfavorable state of the roads, and the fact that many of the farmers are now busy with the annual maple syrup making time, probably accounting for the decreased attendance. However, those present were unanimous in their decision that the evening's entertainment was all that could be desired.

A new system of scoring the games was in use for the first time and proved quite an improvement on the old method of "punching" the winners' cards.

Miss Cora Braithwaite won the ladies' first prize (large box of bonbons); Mr. S. Braithwaite and Mr. Herb Syer were tied for the gentleman's first and played a fivepoint game to decide the issue, the former winning; the prize was a safety razor set.

Mrs. F. W. Smith and Mr. F. N. Alcorn received the consolation prizes, a hint of Easter being evident in the attractively-decorated chocolate fowl presented to them with due ceremony.

Supper was served at 11 p.m., and many of the guests remained afterward and enjoyed a dance before the gathering finally broke up.

Personals.

The many friends of Mrs. (Dr.) Rea will be glad to learn that she is recovering satisfactorily from the accident by which the ligaments of her right foot were severly strained, on Friday of last week. An unexpected step downward, while walking on Cavan street, led to the fall and the injury, which was very painful for a time, making it difficult to place any weight upon the hurt member. The swelling is disappearing, and Mrs. Rea can now walk about the house with comparative ease.

Mrs. Harry Armstrong, of Toronto, is visiting her mother, Mrs. S. Eakins, arriving from the city on Tuesday.

"No – I've not boiled any garments since"

"A friend suggested that I stop boiling the clothes I washed and try Rinso, which I did, with such delightful results that I have not boiled any garments since then.

"I found that Rinso is excellent for removing finger prints from white paint and for washing all woodwork.

"It has cut my house cleaning troubles in half and consequently I felt that it was only your due to know that Rinso has a much bigger work to do in our house than just to clean the dirt from our laundry."

The makers of Rinso receive many such letters as this. For Rinso not only does the family wash merely by soaking—it is also excellent for many household duties, such as cleaning woodwork, scrubbing floors, etc. Order Rinso today.

TRAPPER FOOLED.

OMEMEE, April 2 — All Fools' Day took in many jokes. Possibly the best in Omemee was on a High School youth, who this year is making his first attempt at trapping. Thus far the rates have not been plentiful but a few have been caught. When the owner of the trap went to view his own, on April 1st, he found not a big rat with a costly pelt but only the carcase with a large tag around its neck bearing the words "April Fool."

Fox In Trap

Mr. Percy Parsons had the good fortune to find a fox in one of his traps this week. The animal was dead when found; having died from drowning.

PAN-AMERICAN STOCK IS SOLD

RETAINS INTEREST

NEW YORK, April 2.—(Canadian Press).—Control of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company passed yesterday from Edward L. Doheny, chairman of the board, and members of his family, to a syndicate composed of the banking firm of Blair and Company, interests identified with the Chase banking group, together with British interests represented by Lord Inverforth, and the Standard Oil Company of Indiana. While the consideration was not stated, the new group acquires 501,000 shares out of the 1,001,536 of the voting stock outstanding, the market value of which, based at yesterday's closing price of 76½, is $38,326,500. Mr. Doheny and members of his family held this stock in the name of the Petroleum Securities Company.

The new interests have organized the Pan-American Eastern Petroleum Corporation, which was incorporated in Delaware last Thursday, to hold the shares of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company thus acquired. The authorized capitalization of the new corporation is 250,000 shares of preferred stock at $100 par value, and 1,000,000 shares of common stock of no par value.

The new company also acquired the stock of the British-Mexican Petroleum Company, Limited, which was for several years important as the European fuel marketing connection of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company. Half of this stock already was owned by the Mexican Petroleum Company, a Pan-American subsidiary, but under the reorganization plan the new Pan-American Eastern Petroleum Corporation obtains the other half, which has been closely held by British interests.

Mr. Doheny retires as chairman of the board of directors of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company, but remains chairman of the board of directors of its California subsidiary, the Pan-American Petroleum Company. Under the reorganization plan, this subsidiary will eventually be taken over by a new company to be known as the Pan-American Western Petroleum Company in which all stockholders of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company will be allowed to participate.

PELTS BRING $1.85

CAMPBELLFORD, April 2—Trappers are having a very successful season to judge from the number of pelts that are reaching the market here. So far more than twice as many have been offered as reached the market during the corresponding period last year.

One dealer is paying $1.85 for rat skins, a drop of 40 cents over the prevailing price last year.

MANY TREES WERE TAPPED AT WARSAW

Some Bushes Have Over One Thousand Trees Tapped.

WARSAW, April 2.—Quite a lot of syrup has been made in this district. A good many large bushes of eight hundred trees have been tapped and one of one thousand, one of eleven hundred and one between eleven and twelve hundred trees.

Several small bushes of one hundred and fifty to three hundred trees just on the farms are tapped. So far as has been reported the smaller bushes have already yielded about one gallon to ten trees, so there is much hard work in connection with the manufacture.

A few bushes are not tapped at all.

Frogs were heard since last Wednesday. Even a meadow lark has been heard and seen, and orioles are flitting around.

Cars are running on the boundary, but they are cutting it badly.

The Dummer road into the village is having some much needed repairs, but on the main corner in the village the road is very rough, large bare stones are washed clear of earth.

Ploughing has begun on several farms.

Church Services.

The sacrament of the Lord's supper was observed in Warsaw and Cottesloe Presbyterian churches yesterday. Considering the weather there were good congregations. In the evening Mr. Atkinson assisted Mr. Weir, whose sermon was the story of our Saviour from the time of His arrest until His final condemnation.

Next Sunday evening the service is in charge of the Woman's Missionary Society. Their annual thank offering will be taken up on Easter Day.

There will be no church service in the Presbyterian church next Sunday morning. Mr. Atkinson has arranged with Mr. Cox for his people to attend the regular Anglican service.

The Presbyterian Ladies' Aid held their regular meeting last Thursday afternoon.

Rev. W. Atkinson has gone to Toronto, where he will remain until after the marriage of his younger daughter Jean, on Tuesday of next week.

The Orange Lodge postponed indefinitely the entertainment they had announced for Friday evening.

EDSEL FORD MAY FLIVVERIZE THE AIR BUT HAS NEVER BEEN UP IN A PLANE

By ERNEST L. LYNN.

DEARBORN, Mich. April 1.—"Today," said Edsel B. Ford, "we are on the threshold of a new and great industry, just as 25 years ago the automobile industry was just beginning to open up."

I had asked him whether it was true—as current report had it—that Ford had started the manufacture of airplanes and was intending to "flivverize" the air.

"Ford is not making airplanes—not yet," said Henry Ford's son. "It is true that an experiment has been going on on Ford ground here at Dearborn, and several planes have been turned out.

"But get this straight—Ford didn't make those planes. The Stout Metal Airplane Co. made them. There is Ford money behind it, but there also is money from many other interested individuals."

"And if the experiment proves a success?"

"Then," said Ford, "it is entirely conceivable that we will go into the airplane business on a big scale. Whether this experiment proves a success or not, there eventually will be Ford airplanes anyway. Why not? We make just about everything else, don't we? You know, we made one airplane about 18 years ago—just as an experiment—and ran it with a Ford engine."

Will Make Planes.

So in a nutshell the situation with regard to Ford airplanes is just this, according to Edsel: Ford is not making airplanes yet, but will some day. Whether it will be a plane like the present "experiments" remains to be seen.

And if the all-metal plane does come up to expectations then it is entirely likely that the Ford organization will branch out in the airplane industry in a big way.

The Stout Metal Airplane Co. is making all-metal monoplanes. Later on it will also make all-metal dirigibles. Specifications for the latter are drawn and work is nearly ready to start.

According to Edsel Ford, the monoplane will carry conservatively a 1,500-pound pay load and maybe a 2,000-pound load at a speed of 100 miles an hour. Several have been made, the last two being the first "production" models born.

When you talk to Edsel Ford you somehow feel certain that he has made up his mind definitely to go into the manufacture of airplanes in a big way. Of course, he doesn't say so flatly. He admits it is entirely possible but he makes no predictions.

But you feel that way because you find out he knows so much about airplanes. He sat and talked such things as "lift" and "load" and "stress" and "resistance" until it is plainly to be seen that he has made a thorough study of aeronautics.

"Do you pin your faith in the all-metal plane?" he was asked.

"Absolutely."

"Why?"

"For the same reason that you have all-metal locomotives. They are rugged. Besides there are no wires and struts and projecting fuel tanks to offer big wind resistance. They are more efficient. Their "lift" is greater. Another thing, with an all-metal plane you don't need a hangar. How long would an ordinary plane with fabric wings last if constantly exposed to the weather?

"Of course, the all-metal plane is more expensive than the other type. We figure that, with big production, it might be possible to bring the selling price down to $5,000. You'd hardly call that cheap. It wouldn't exactly be 'flivverizing' the air."

Has Work to Do.

One naturally wonders whether the success of Henry Ford with automobiles has not inspired his son with the ambition of some day carving his own name indelibly on some other great industry—airplanes for instance.

When I asked Edsel Ford that he laughed.

"Well, the automobile field has not become saturated yet. There's plenty of big work here for me if I just 'carry on.' However, I'd be foolish to say flatly that we are not eventually going into the airplane industry in a big way, because it is in its infancy. I just don't know yet."

"Would you like to?"

"Well, you can say I'm an aviation enthusiast. Oddly enough, I've never gone up yet. You see, I promised my wife not to go up until I had converted her to my own views on flying.

and embodying several departures from the original design. One of these now is being tested in the United States air-mail service. The other is on the flying field in Dear-

BUFFALO TREK IN BOX CAR NOW

Too Many Now in Wainwright Park, So Some Must Move.

8,000 NOW IN PARK.

OTTAWA, April 2 (Canadian Press).—The next great trek of the buffalo from the Western plains will be by box car, if it takes place at all. The herds at Wainwright National Park have increased, it is reported, beyond the number which could be supported in a dry season. The government it is learned, is considering the possibility of shipping a thousand or more head from Wainwright to the Wood Buffalo Park Reserve in Northern Alberta. It is proposed to trans-ship only young buffalo, as it has been found impracticable to ship the older stock.

The Federal Department of Interior has opened negotiations with the railways as to the charges on such freight.

It is estimated that no more than 5,000 head should be held at Wainwright, as the total number which the range can support. At the present time, despite the slaughterings of many hundreds of the animals, teh national park holds in excess of 8,000 head.

THE GRENFELL LABRADOR MISSION.

No. 5. Nursing and Nutrition Units.

One of the most encouraging and helpful features of the Grenfell Mission work, to-day, is that carried on by our nursing and nutrition units. Preventive medicine, we call it, and it certainly is the most constructive kind. In between the regular hospitals cottages have been erected where a graduate nurse and companion are in charge and from which radiates most helpful influences. These nurses go as far afield as twenty-five miles in each direction, along the coast, visiting all the homes and keeping tab on the health of the community. They instruct in simple means of keeping well, instruct mothers how to feed babies and under-nourished children, nip epidemics in the bud and generally act as guardian of community health and morals. Constructive activity, it is, which will bear fruit in sturdier bodies, cleaner morals, and happier homes and families in the days to come. These nurses are all called "sister" on the coast, and they surely are "big sisters" to all who need their assistance, good example and mental stimulus.

The nutrition units are all volunteers and consist of doctor, dentist, graduate nurse and social service worker, who travel together along the coast in summer. A stretch of coast is allocated to each unit. There were four such last summer. They go into every home and community, make a survey of conditions, take a census of families, health conditions, etc., distribute food to the old, sick, or under-nourished, as they go, and do everything in their power to alleviate suffering and improve conditions. Later, they report their findings to the nearest Grenfell doctor who can then visit the same families on his winter round and render aid. The nutrition work is financed by the sale of Christmas cards each season. Surely this preventive, constructive phase of Dr. Grenfell's Mission will commend itself to the public and will erceive not only our sympathy, but our practical help, as well.

All who are interested in the work of the Grenfell Labrador Mission are reminded that the annual membership fee is only $2.00, which includes the quarterly magazine, Among the Deep Sea Fishers.

Subscriptions may be received by The Examiner, or may be sent to Mrs. Gerald A. Wood, local treasurer, Box 990, Peterborough.

ORANGEMEN'S SOCIAL.

Campbellford Lodge Hold House Warming in New Hall.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 2—Members of L.O.L. No .526, who have been in possession of their new quarters in the Turner Block for about a month, held a formal opening Tuesday evening when members and their friends enjoyed a social evening together. The credit for the arrangement of the entertainment is given to Harry Cassan who was allowed a free hand by the members of the committee appointed by the lodge for that purpose. The rooms are spacious and tastefully fitted up and the lodge has found a pleasanter home than it has occupied since its organization.

Two hours or more were taken up with the playing of progressive euchre. Mrs. Charles Hawkinson won the prize, a glass tray, for lone hands and Mrs. Thomas Free, drew a fine potted plant in bloom for winning the most games.

The gentlemen winners of prizes were Charles Ackerman, who carried off a box of cigars and G. Ayrhart who was awarded a silk necktie for lone hands.

After the games of euchre had been decided J. A. Anderson was called to the chair and a short musical and literary programme was rendered. James McDowell and the Blue and Ayrhart Orchestra furnished several selections of instrumental music and short addresses were made by Robert Bibby, W.M., and Charles H. Davidson.

VERDICT REVERSED.

Montreal Advocate Wins Appeal—No Proof of Guilt.

MONTREAL, April 2.—(Canadian Press).—By a unanimous decision, the Court of Appeal yesterday reversed the verdict whereby Ludger Catellier, advocate, had been found guilty of receiving $1,000 to aid in the recovery of an automobile, stolen at Syracuse, N.Y., without exercising diligence in bringing the thief to justice.

Judge Bernier, President of the Court of Appeal, said that the Crown had made no proof of the guilt of the appellant.

JACK RABBIT MENACE.

Killing of Coyotes Permits Rabbits to Increase Rapidly.

CALGARY, Alta., April 2.—(Canadian Press).—The jack rabbit has multiplied so rapidly in Alberta that it has become a distinct menace to several districts throughout the Province, according to W. H. Fletcher of Brant, Alberta, who has petitioned the Department of Agriculture to encourage their eradication.

Mr. Fletcher attributes the increase of the jack rabbit to the wholesale slaying of coyotes, which animal largely maintained itself at the expense of the rabbit. Mr. Fletcher suggests in his letter that the bounty for coyotes be discontinued and it be made a criminal offence to kill this beast. He believes that Alberta ultimately will be faced with a serious condition, similar to that which confronted Australia unless something is done to kill off the jack rabbit and measures taken to preserve its natural enemies.

REGINA, Sask., April 2.—(Canadian Press).—Commercial tests of briquetting Saskatchewan lignite coal are to be made in Czecho-Slovakia and Germany. It is expected that the tests will take between six and eight weeks and that the results will be known in time to permit remodelling of the Beinfait plant in June, if the tests prove as successful as anticipated.

Fifty tons of the Beinfait product have been shipped in barrels to St. John. The coal will be loaded into a steamer for Rotterdam and will be tested under the Stinnes and Thyseen systems in Germany and the Britefeld-Danek systems in Czecho-Slovakia.

Investigations pursued for several months have led the private interests, considering acquisition of the Beinfait plant, to the belief that the three systems mentioned are the most modern and practical.

"Germany burns practically no raw coal now," said T. M. Malloy, commissioner of the Provincial Bureau of Labor and Industries. "That country certainly has had more experience in the briquetting of various kinds of coal commercially than any other," he added. "It has therefore been decided to conduct practical tests in commercial plants that have been operating for years successfully with foreign coal to see whether or not these systems can be applied to Saskatchewan coal in a manner ensuring commercial success."

RAIL REVENUES DROP.

Decline of $2,969,469 in January By Two Lines.

OTTAWA, April 2.—(Canadian Press).—Gross revenues on Canadian railways decreased by $2,969,469, or 8.9 per cent. in January, a report from the Bureau of Statistics shows. Lighter freight loadings and a slight decrease in passenger traffic is reported by both railways. The Canadian National had an operating deficit of $126,982. The Canadian Pacific showed a decrease in the net operating revenues of $171,298. Both had a small increase in the operating rate.

The twin shingle saves both Time and Money

National Marketing for CANADA

Canada can get every necessary of life in her own country.

A Movement Which Promises to Sweep the Dominion. Some Instances Where it Would be of Assistance. Every Province is Interested.

"National marketing" is a phrase that may attain the status of a Canadian slogan. Coincidentally it is appearing in print and in speeches with a recrudescence of "trust busting" agitation on both sides of the international border. The lances of the crusaders are tilted against private concerns making profits for individuals. National marketing implies trusts also; but its advocates argue that these would be public trusts for the direct or indirect benefit of all. It is worth noting that in Britain, where the co-operative movement is strong and also in New Zealand, there are developments of a similar character to those proposed for this country.

Canada is likely to see an expansion of the national marketing idea that will make it a lively question in every province. Success will depend upon the extent to which the scheme is supported. If it has to depend upon purely local efforts it can never give more than indifferent satisfaction. This must be a Dominion-wide scheme with no more politics in it than there is in a cup of water, if it is to get anywhere. It must apply to all that Canada has to sell in quantity. Above all it must have an eye to the home market as well as that abroad. Making a market for Canadian wheat, fish, cattle and coal in other lands is good business. Neglecting the market at the door and thus encouraging foreign nations to look after it, is bad business and poor advertising.

Sentiment is a fine national asset, but trade is the life of any country. Expressions of sectional claims and requirements have emphasized that in Canada of late. The problem is to co-ordinate the resources of the various provinces to the national requirements, as well as to those abroad.

Take coal as an instance. Welsh and Scottish anthracite coal have been brought into Canada for several years now in fluctuating quantities. Quebec and Ontario have furnished markets for it, and smaller quantities have been disposed of in some of the other provinces. To some degree this British coal may assist in making Central Canada less dependent upon United States supplies. But Canada has enough coal within its own borders to obviate reliance upon any country in the world, and to give a fuel supply for expanding industry and increasing population for centuries to come. Getting it to the home markets at commercially profitable rates is the question for solution.

Canadian Coal for Ontario

A definite answer is in the making. Official announcement has been made in the Ontario Legislature of the hope that the province will receive 100,000 tons of Alberta coal after May 1. It was intimated that coal in large quantities might also be brought in from the Maritime provinces. Thus the East and Alberta may combine to very largely settle all of Central Canada's troubles and anxieties in the matter of fuel supplies. British Columbia also has tremendous coal resources. The West, therefore, has no problems on that score comparable to those of the central sections of the country, where the matter of distance from the Canadian coal-fields is the greatest obstacle to overcome, and one that gives the wonderfully well organized and convenient United States coal trade a great initial advantage.

It is difficult to impress by the mere citation of statistics; people like visible evidences. But the statement on the authority of the Geological Survey of Canada, that Alberta alone has seventeen per cent. of the coal resources of the world is emphatic enough. Put in another way, it is estimated that Alberta has an actual and probable coal reserve of over one million million tons! A series of circumstances, which may be better left to discussion and analysis by those on the spot, has given American coal, on occasion, opportunity to go into the Western Canadian field and seriously compete with the home product. A recent propagandist for Alberta coal told Ontario folks that five to six thousand men were employed at the mines for about one-half of the year. With the Ontario and Quebec market open to them he argued that employment for miners would be practically continuous, and that a trade aggregating $20,000,000 a year could be built up. Reciprocal advantages to Central Canada are obvious. Apart from assurances of a steady coal supply, it would mean great things for makers of certain foods, machinery, tools, clothing and the like in the older parts of the country.

Sea Fish Another Item

Salt water fish is another item on the national marketing program that is beginning to interest interior Canada very much. On the Atlantic and Pacific, Canada has the finest deep sea fishing grounds in all the world. Sea fish are popular in many parts of the country not adjacent to the ocean. Refrigeration transportation has helped to enhance that popularity. A lower freight rate will expand the area and volume of demand. The Maritime provinces were recently granted such an assistance. Central Canada as the first to benefit, will be interested in the results. No one wants to see the railways of the country operating at a loss; consistently large shipments of fish should eventually give better profits to the carriers. What goes on in respect to the Eastern and Central parts of the country, should be paralleled in respect to the Pacific and large areas of the Western interior.

United States tariff laws are partly responsible for the revival of interest in the home market for sea fish. It is not the first time that Uncle Sam's big stick has driven Canada out of his markets, and compelled the seeking of new places for trade and barter. This phase may be left for argument by politicians and economists. But folks who come from Britain or have visited the Old Land, and know its love for fish and accessibility to fishing grounds, may be surprised to learn that a trial shipment of 12,000 tons of fresh sea fish from our Maritime provinces was recently landed there and found a ready sale. Other shipments have followed with success. There was active co-operation by several interests to land that fish in acceptable condition in a country that cannot be fooled about anything edible that comes out of the sea. This is no place for details about water tanks and other equipment that figured in the vehture. It was, in a sense, an illustration of national marketing and its possibilities to which there are no bounds. There is that much in common between coal and fish.

For Agriculture Too

Along comes the Agricultural Inquiry Committee of the Ontario Legislature with a report dealing primarily with its own province, but not hesitating to take in the national field. Its main recommendation in the interests of the farmers of Canada is a "Canadian national marketing commission" which should handle every agricultural product except grain. The latter because of its tremendous volume, should, in the Committee's opinion, be a distinct export. An all-the-year-round fast ocean vessel service to Britain, with experts there and in the United States keeping in touch with both markets; proper storage facilities at Maritime ports, and all the facilities that would be embraced in a great private concern doing enormous export business, are urged. The co-operation of organizations in all of the provinces, and of the Dominion government, which would all be represented on the Commission, is emphasized as essential to keeping up all-the-year-round exports to the British market, and the proper routing at the right time to home markets. The very simplicity of the proposals make them worthy of consideration.

Coal, fish, agriculture, are links in the proposed national marketing chain. The last named of them would probably be put first by expert students of the problem; it embodies so much of Canada's trade. The Canadian Council of Agriculture favors the principle of such marketing. It has especially considered it from the point of view of unifying the activities of the co-operative marketing agencies throughout the country. That would be a first step in any national plan, of course. One might be permitted the opinion that the next, and a vitally important one, involves the taking to heart of the lesson that no part of Canada can suffer or prosper without every other section feeling it.

Fruit and Dairying

Horticulturists, or as the man on the street would say, the fruit men, are moving toward national marketing too. British Columbia folk seem to be taking the initiative in this regard; the national marketing idea is certainly wide-spread. Ontarians already know a good deal about British Columbia fruits. Some varieties are, perhaps, better known than their own. That has been brought about by energetic private enterprise; nationally directed much more might easily be accomplished. The fruit growers of the East are no less alert than their Western brethren in this matter. Fruit is another Canadian product that may become better known to Canadians, as well as abroad, if and when national marketing ceases to become just a saying and is a concrete fact.

There is a similar story to tell regarding dairying in which there has long been more or less successful co-operation. Canadian dairy products have made their mark in many lands. There are still wider market possibilities for them. Not so many years ago men who expressed the belief that Canada could oust Denmark as a dairying adjunct of Britain, were regarded as visionaries. They are no longer so classed. The Canadian dairy can compete with any. It is up to the minute in all that pertains to cleanliness, but there are some times lessons to be learned from other countries in respect to the manner in which its products are moulded, wrapped and packed. Most Eastern Canadians have been so accustomed to regarding the prairie provinces as "wheat mining areas," that occasional news of their development along dairying lines, comes as a surprise. How many folks to the east of the Great Lakes are aware that Saskatchewan last year produced over thirteen million pounds of butter, and in addition to fresh butter every month, including those of the winter, had a marketable surplus all the year round? That is the kind of a country Canada is getting to be. The backbone of the dairying industry is the East, naturally, and it will probably continue to be. But there is far more mixed farming in the West than the folks in the East usually give it credit for.

A little thing like making cheeses, one pound to five pound sizes, a scheme planned in the Ontario Agricultural College, showed some merchants a way to greatly increased trade.

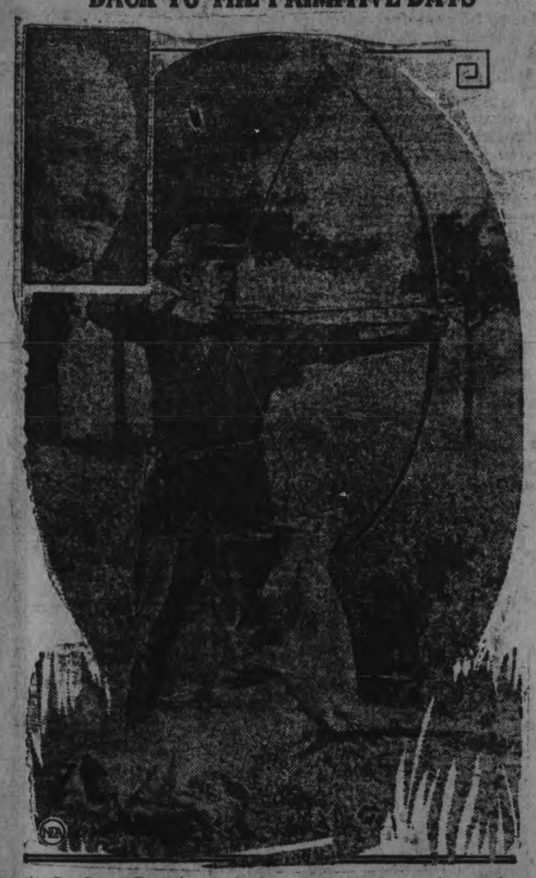
Maple Sugar Too

In another section of the country where the sugar maple is plentiful, it has been suggested that like many other Canadian products it is suffering from the way in which it is exposed for sale. The difference between the attractive sizes and wrappers of chocolate bars and like candies, and "the nakedness" in which maple sugar is offered, is emphasized. It is believed that a wide market awaits Canadian maple sugar at good prices, if it is well made. In late years improvements have been made in equipment, and the grade of maple sugar and syrup alike are superior. But in the matter of preparing it for and putting it on the market, methods are still archaic.

Coal, fish, agricultural and dairying products, and fruits, are all in the list that would be handled under a system of national marketing. Wood products, the output of our mines and other natural resources would naturally have a place. There will be criticisms, objections and difficulties in the way, of course. Any one who seriously considers the matter could think of a hundred obstacles. But it will be interesting to watch the development of the movement which seemingly has gathered too much momentum to be turned aside as something which may well await a more opportune time. Coming at a period when all indications point to an expansion of industry and business, it points to increasing effort to advance Canadian trade at home and abroad, in which all provincial and federal governments, as well as many private organizations will take a part. As a bonne entente movement, nation-wide instead of being confined to two or three provinces, national marketing would seem to offer much. If it also is of assistance in breaking down the barriers of sectionalism, so much the better. Trade has a way of doing that when properly handled.

There is so much more in Canada's store-house than most of us dream of. We could supply much to our own people that is bought abroad.

BACK TO THE PRIMITIVE DAYS



Dr. Saxton Pope drawing his bow while at his feet is shown a deer slain by a single arrow, the shaft having completely penetrated the body. Inset is Stewart Edward White, novelist.

NEW YORK — "No other white hunters ever received the respect from the African natives which you will receive."

This is the prophecy of Carl Akeley, America's best known hunter and taxidermist, to the party just now setting out for East Africa to hunt big game with the bow and arrow.

The hunters are Stewart Edward White, the author, who already is known as one of the greatest of African hunters with firearms, Dr. Saxton Pope, professor of surgery in the University of California, and Arthur Young of San Francisco, sportsman and photographer. In the lion country of Tanganyika they will meet Leslie Simson, another veteran hunter.

Black native hunters are accustomed to the "magic" of civilization by which a thunderbolt is hurled into a lion or elephant at long range. They have even seen a safety first white man shoot from a steel-armored car. But this party is going into the jungle almost as the Nandi tribesmen go with their spears to fight the beasts by their own courage and quickness and strength of arm.

The white hunters already have slain mountain lions and the fierce Kadiack bear of Alaska with their weapons. They draw the same yew bow as did the Englishmen of the Hundred Year's War when the French litirgy contained the special petition, "O Lord, preserve us from the English archers."

"It is simply a romantic adventure," says Dr. Pope of the trip. The professor is celebrating his twenty-fifth year of teaching and has a son who is now a medical student. But the bow has made him at least as young as Robin Hood.

"I've never been so eager and excited over any trip before," admits Stewart Edward White.

"Hunting had lost its thrill for me. I could go out and by means of chemistry produce an explosion which took the life of a wild animal. It was mechanical and sure. It didn't appeal to me any longer, and I saw myself retired and writing psychological novels.

"Then I found out about archery a little more than a year ago. Hunting is a manly and sporting proposition again. You can look your game in the eye and not be ashamed. You get the thrill of personal achievement. We shall have rifles on this trip—as life insurance—but we are going in really to gratify the 'mighty hunter complex,' which is hidden somewhere in every man and to pit our own strength against the jungle."

White and Young were introduced to the bow and arrow by Dr. Pope. And Dr. Pope, by Ishi, son of the last chief of the Yana Indians from near Mt. Lassen.

"Ishi stepped right out of the stone age," Dr. Pope tells us.

"He was brought down to the university by a professor of anthropology in 1911 and was purely primitive. He and I became like brothers. I learned his language. Ishi told me once, 'The white man is a smart boy, but he doesn't know much.'

"Ishi knew the out of doors. He could call squirrels out of the treetops and foxes out of the brush. He interested me in archery.

"Archery is a man's game. To draw this bow of mine requires a pull of 82 pounds. I saw Art Young win a bet once when a strong husky from an iron foundry couldn't draw his bow. A curator in a museum once offered to put on an old suit of chain mail and let me shoot at him. I told him to wait. We put the armor on a box, and I shot an arrow clean through it, front and back.

"We have killed rabbits on the run, fish as they swam and, occasionally, quails in flight. Young killed a moose with only one arrow. We have stopped grizzly bears as they charged. Our party has killed 14 bears with arrows, including six grizzlies. Five of those grizzlies were killed by only one arrow each, and not one lived more than half a minute after being struck. I have shot a buck deer on the run at 80 yards. The accurate hunting range of a bow and arrow is 150 yards, not feet, and it will shoot a distance of 300 yards."

More than 18,000 workers are employed in one district of China, making "Irish lace."

Very few men marry their first sweethearts. That is the reason there are so many happy couples in the world.

Cats are one of the few animals that cannot throw off water easily. They always "get wet to the skin."

STRANGER Than FICTION

By BERTRAM REINITZ.

SHE WAS a wistful and charming little actress. The delicate cast of her features and the slender, graceful lines of her figure were winsomely childlike. Theatrical impresarios were quick to detect her compelling appeal. They saw capacity houses mirrored in her crystal clear eyes and envisioned "standing room only" in her smiles.

The public greeted her with a warmth that was akin to affection. She received unruffled the colorful by-products of histrionic success—encores, notices, flowers and suitors. Among the last were men who could have given her wealth and social position. She gently told them that she did not aspire to the high place they offered her. She was already in love. The air castles of an eager young author were more attractive to her than fine edifices of stone and mortar.

He, too, was achieving distinction and its material rewards. The day drew near at hand when their ethereal palace would take tangible shape in a cozy cottage—open fireplace, breakfast room, garden and all.

His exhiliration rippled through his work, giving it new popularity. She was entrancingly radiant in her happiness. Delighted audiences rejoiced with her.

He bent every effort to speed his progress. When she warned him not to overdo, he said he intended to relax only when he could do so in the big easy chair in their living room. He was pale after an unusually long task.

She asked him, just to gratify her whim, to let a physician prescribe a tonic for him. He protested, then laughingly assented. The doctor examined him and said gravely that a tonic would not help much. He saw the youth's weariness was due to a malignant growth. With good care and good fortune, he said, the young man might live ten months or a year.

TO THEM the sun had gone into eclipse. The anxious manager who besought her to continue in her part discovered that his demure heroine had concealed from him a high capacity for anger. You can never tell about those quiet ones, he vouchsafed to the members of the company, assembled to hear his report.

The unfinished manuscripts of the stricken youth were folded away in a drawer and forgotten. Two careers had ended just on the threshold of succes

The lovers would not accept the verdict of the first physician as final. Nor did they believe the second or the third. They denied even the judgment of the tenth. These doctors—what could they possibly know about this particular case? Suppose there did exist something that might snap the thread of life of an ordinary man? Could it prevail against love such as theirs?

Yes, it could, the twelfth physician told them. So they went further.

Specialists recommended a treatment that could be obtained only in the capital city of another nation, many miles away. The lovers made the journey. The patient racked with pain, summoned strength to return her comforting smiles. Those smiles of hers now demanded the best of all her theatrical training plus all of her courage. She smiled to keep him from despair.

They came with hope and remained to be disillusioned. The treatment failed. The suffering of the patient grew more poignant hourly, and her anguish was intensified with his. Her smiles had lost their healing. With all her art she could no longer stimulate confidence.

His pain was ceaseless, relentless. It forbade sleep. It allowed no restful moment. It made of a stalwart youth a writhing wraith, with just enough life left to endure the torment. When transfusion was ordered, she gave of her none too ample supply. It was a heroic but futile sacrifice.

As his resistance lessened, he could find solace only in thoughts of the end. That alone would bring him relief.

He saw death as a verdant oasis and himself as a famished desert traveler. He confided his thoughts to the girl. He asked why death tarried. Could it not be hastened? That revolver in the bureau drawer—a slight pressure on the trigger, he whispered, and she would have told her love for him in accents far stronger than mortal woman had ever uttered.

She shuddered, horrified, and held her hands tightly over her eyes as if to shut out the spectacle conjured up by his suggestion. She fled from the room.

The next day the physician shook his head again. Times beyond counting he had said there was no chance of recovery, no help for the man's suffering. The boy might last a week.

That night a pistol shot brought a policeman, among other people, to the door of the sickroom.

He saw the frail, almost gaunt figure of a girl, swaying unsteadily. Her right arm was extended stiffly in one direction, while her face, with dully staring eyes, was turned in another. Her right hand clutched a pistol from which smoke still curled.

Her lover was dead on the bed, smiling.

THE TRIAL was brief. The prosecutor said to the defense counsel that he wished he might change places with him. The jury did not leave the box to reach its verdict, not guilty.

This story is not fiction. The facts in the case were given in a dispatch from Paris a few days ago in these words:

"A jury today acquitted Mlle Stanislawa Umiska, the beautiful young Polish actress, who shot her fiance and compatriot, the author, Jean Zysnovsky, at his own request, to save him from further agony, when he was lying at death's door."

NUDES IN MIXED CLASS

Nude girl posing before mixed class of Priory Gate School.

Great controversy has arisen in England over the posing of nude children of both sexes before mixed casses of their own age.

At the Priory Gate School, Walsham-le-Willows in Suffolk, boys and girls of the elementary grades take the art class work together and the more advanced draw studies in the nude.

Models for the lessons are taken from the class and very often both a nude boy and a nude girl are on the model stand at the same time.

Those in charge of the school assert that such classes promote good morals rather than impair them.

WORRY POISONS SAYS HYGIENIST

Danger to Us When Emotions Gain Mastery—Speech Broadcast.

NEW YORK, April 2. —A talk broadcast recently by the State Department of Health from Station WGY at Schenectady was prepared by Stanley P. Davies, Executive Secretary of the New York State Committee on Mental Hygiene, on the subject, "How Is Your Mental Health?" Mr. Davies emphasized the necessity of taking as good care of the mind as of the body. This can be done by giving it wholesome mental food, such as good friends, good plays and happy associations, mental rest and recreation being properly apportioned, he said.

"Do we ever stop to realize that there is such a thing as mental health as well as physical health," said Mr. Davies, "and that the health of our minds is even more important than that of our bodies? We ourselves, our very personalities, are part and parcel of our minds. If our mental health fails us, we are less than we might be; we fall short of being our true selves, or doing our best work, and of getting the greatest amount of joy and satisfaction out of life.

"Life, after all, is a matter of using a certain amount of vital energy, which we find inside of ourselves. Our minds are given us as a means of directing the ways in which this energy is spent. The normal person uses his mind to direct this energy into channels which will be useful to him. He spends a necessary amount of it in working in order that he may provide for his everyday needs. He spends a certain amount of it in reading and education so that he may increase his knowledge. He spends a certain amount of it in physical exercise and other forms of recreation so that he may not grow stale from too much work.

Bad Mental Habits.

"There are certain bad mental habits that many of us fall into, which consume a great deal of our precious energy in useless and wasteful ways. Yet these bad mental habits are things that are more or less within our power to control. Indeed, we must make every effort to overcome them if we are to count for the most in the world.

"One of the most common of these wrong mental habits is worry. Is there any one of us who is not given to this more or less? Worry, the doctors, tell us, actually throws a poison into the system, whereas joy is a genuine tonic to mind and body. Sometimes we have real things to worry about. More often the things we let worry us are largely imaginary.

"If there is a real basis for your worry, get busy and do something about it. The very endeavor to do something about it, even if not entirely successful, will tend to relieve your mind. Action is one of the best ways out of a spell of depression. If your worries are purely imaginary, then make it a point to get your mind on something else of a happier nature. Drive the worries out by filling your mind so full of cheerful things, that there will be not room left for them. Make it a point to find some interest outside yourself. Try to make your religion, of whatever creed it may be, a vital thing which will be a source of mental strength and poise. Get a good hobby and become really absorbed in it. Learn again, if you have forgotten, how to play. Put your mind more frequently on the needs of the other fellow, forgetting about yourself.

"President Emeritus Eliot of Hagvard is now 90 years of age. He was asked recently how it was that he had attained such a happy, forceful, mentally vigorous old age. He replied, 'Above everything else, I give credit to this, that I have always maintained a calm disposition expectant of good.'

"The same may be said of other moods. We must not let such unwholesome emotions, as anger, fear, jealousy, envy, rage, hatred, &c., become so much a part of us that they control us instead of our controlling them. If we let our emotions run away with us, then we are no longer masters of ourselves and we are getting pretty far away from mental health.

"There are many other undesirable mental habits that might be mentioned. I want to make this special point. If you or members of your family are not in the best of mental health, if your own efforts to improve the situation are of no avail, bear in mind that there are physicians who are skilled in the promotion of mental health to whom you can go. You should be just as ready to consult a specialist about a mental or nervous strain as you do the oculist for eye-strain. More ready in fact, for what is more important than your mind? If you wish advice on where to find a mental health specialist or clinic, write to the Committee on Mental Hygiene, 105 East Twenty-second Street, New York City.

"I cannot impress too strongly this great message of mental hygiene. Our dispositions are not things that are fixed, like the color of our eyes. They can be modified more or less, if we will do something about it. It is not easy to get rid of a wrong mental habit and put a right one in its place. But it can be done and the result in increased happiness and efficiency is well worth the effort.

"Treat your mind well. If you take good care of your body by means of proper food, rest, recreation and medical attention when you are ill, see that you do the same ior your mind. Give your mind wholesome mental food, such as good books, good friends, good plays and happy associations. Give your mind the rest it needs and the recreation it needs. See a mental specialist if your nerves are frazzled, or you feel mentally worn out. Remember, if you wish to be master of your own destiny, you must first be master of your own mind."

DOES EVERY MEAL CAUSE YOU DISTRESS?
If It Does You Should Take Burdock Blood Bitters

Mr. M. P. Eldrige, Beaver Harbor, N.B., writes:—"I was troubled with my stomach for some time, and everything I ate seemed to distress me I tried many different medicines, but without any results. Finally I was advised to try B.B.B., and after having taken several bottles I was completely relieved of my trouble. I can now eat anything I wish, thanks to B.B.B."

Burdock Blood Bitters puts the stomach into perfect shape by promoting proper digestion; and during the past 46 years it has been on the market has made a reputation, second to none, for relieving all stomach troubles.

FIGHTING GERMS.

Systems Must Be Kept at Fighting Pitch in Readiness.

"Quite a bit of truth in what you say of people feeding themselves germs," Mr. Mann agreed with his wife.

"But what about these germs not being able to live out in the open air?"

"Well, most of them will live an hour of two in the least," she replied.

"And it does not take that long for them to be transferred in these days of modern living conditions."

"Incidentally, March is the worst time of the year for influenza and colds and pneumonia," Mr. Mann ventured.

"Probably the germs would not be able to get such a death grip on people if their systems were not run down by the hard arduous living conditions of winter.

"There are two ways of fighting off disease. Keep germs out of your system, of course, and then by proper food, sleep, exercise and general care of the body make the system so strong that germs cannot get a hold.

"As for me, I am going down to see a doctor and see of I need toning up a little bit."

FRY FOR CANADA

OTTAWA, Ont., April. 2 (Canadian Press).—The Department of Marine and Fisheries collected over 741,000,000 fish eggs during the fall season of 1924. These eggs are now undergoing incubation in the various hatcheries from coast to coast and the resultant fry will be distributed in suitable waters throughout Canada. The collection according to species is as follows:

Atlantis salmon	33,198,900
Speckled trout	3,789,000
Brown trout	79,800
Landlocked salmon	1,500
Salmon trout	29,754,000
Whitefish	543,980,000
Cisco	26,920,000
Sockeye salmon	100,513,000
Spring salmon	2,327,500
Steelhead salmon	46,700
Coho salmon	207,800
Chum salmon	228,000
Kennerly's salmon	40,000
	741,086,200

An interesting point in connection with the collection at St. John hatchery, New Brunswick, is that over 1,000,000 speckled trout and over 79,000 Brown trout eggs were taken at the ponds from parent fish, which themselves have been reared at this point from the fry stage.

NEW YORK, N. Y., April 2 (United Press).—

"In speaking of hats," said Madame McPats,
As she donned a Spring model of lizzard,
"I'm not very noted and shouldn't be quoted
But I know hats from A up to Izzard!

"A crown's not worth a cent
If it hasn't a dent,
And a street hat is slim as to brim;
While for real Summer wear
A sunshine of hair
Is a flat as a pancake on trim.

"There are laces galore
Formed like jabots of yore,
And wee veils of black or dark blue,
But the best style, by heck!
Has a brim at the neck
That covers the hoyish hair-do!"

Hats are like hives this season. One can never tell where they are going to break out—in trimming. Shingled locks are responsible for the continuation of the current vogue of small-shaped felts and straws, but these invariably have more trimming than formerly. There are vari-colored pom-poms of ostrich placed at the very tip of the crown, feather fancies and perky ribbon bows placed at one side of the brim, colored taffeta silks and ribbon appliques on crowns, velvet appliques on straw, folded, dented and ridged crowns and other trimming details.

Hats must be either small and head-shaped or very large. The medium-sized bonnet has no vogue whatever this season. Crowns are coming down, or rather, the high crown is dented and folded until it has the appearance of a low crown. Shapes must conform closely to the head. Brims for street-wear continue small and many of the newer models are cut longer in the rear than in front and turn upwards with the slightly drooping short front-brim. Most models have some sort of brim at the back of the neck to cover the bobbed hairline. Generally, where the front brim rolls slightly up off the face and back brim is about three-quarters of an inch wide and fits tightly to the neck. The fringe of bobbed hair never shows beneath this season's models.

* * *

Flowers are the most important trimming, although there are many ribbon and lace trims. Hats using flowers of self-shade or ombre effects—several shades of the same color matching the hat—are newer than brilliant color combinations. For instance, a felt hat of golden yellow has three graduating ones of yellow tulips placed at one side of the crown and falling over the brim. The flowers are tinted with gilt here and there as a means of brightening the effect. Many floral trimmings show a touch of gold or silver tinting. The solid color hat especially favors this tinted idea.

Gold kid is likewise a favorite trim on felt or kid models. Already one sees white kid hats trimmed on crown and upper brim with small appliques of gold or silver leather. Again the same idea is carried on by using colored taffeta appliques on white kid, the taffeta being outlined with white angora wool. Applegreen felts, appliqued with silver kid, outlined with gray angora wool, are smart for sports wear.

Ostrich fancies are among the new trimming notes which are placed either at the top of the crown or at one side of the brim. Flowers are either banked at one side of the crown or droop over the brim at one side. Often two huge silk flowers are used as a side trim, one being placed on the top of the brim and one underneath the brim. This forms a softening effect for the face.

Tucks are often used as a crown trimming running from the centre front to the centre back. Many straw models have the straw crown pressed to resemble tucks.

* * *

Summer velvet has been introduced this season as a combination with straw. Sometimes the entire brim is made of velvet, which matches in color the straw of the crown. Several large horsehair shapes have huge leaves and flowers of black velvet appliqued on the crowns and extending over the brim.

As to colors, pasted shades seem to predominate and all wood or neutral tones are good. Red flowers are a popular trimming, although the entire red hat is not as popular as softer rose shades. Brown, green, fushia, black and blond shades are many.

QUEER TRIAL OF COINS IN LONDON

Samples of All Coins Made at Mint Are Weighed and Assayed.

LONDON, March 31 (United Press). —Of all the weird, technical, sensational and other judical trials held in the empire of Britain, the oddest has just commenced. It is the annual "Trial of the Pyx," dating back at least 700 years.

Fifteen special jurymen are sitting in judgment in the trial, which concerns the testing of coins from the Royal Mint and will be open until May.

When gold coins are being struck at the Royal Mint or its branches in Australia and South Africa, one coin in every 2,000 is set aside for "trial by Pyx." For silver, the proportion is one coin in every 198 pounds sterling minted this latter being the equivalent of approximately $990.

The trial derives its designation from the Pyx—box or chest—in which are deposited specimen coins. The specimens are removed from the mint's output before the coinage is weighed into bags for issue to the public.

All the members of the jury are Freemen of the Goldsmiths' Company, the historic guild of goldsmiths, and to be selected as a juryman is considered a great honor for leading bankers and skilled assayers. Westminster Abbey has "chamber of the Pyx" where the trials formerly were held, but they now take place at Goldsmiths' Hall in the financial district.

After the Pyx chest has been brought into the hall in the custody of officers of the mint, it is opened in the presence of the jury, who proceed to examine the coins in regard to their number, weight, and fineness. Assays are taken from a bar formed by melting a number of coins, as well as from separate pieces.

The verdict release the officers of the mint from their responsibility in regard to the coinage and affords the public a guarantee that the standard of the currency is well maintained.

It is very seldom that any coin is found "guilty," because of the extreme care taken at the mint before the money is put into circulation.

GUARD OF LIQUOR GUESSES HE'LL QUIT

Is Tired of Being Bombarded With Barroom Jests.

NEW YORK, April. 2.—Being funny—that's all they think about. And the funny thing about it is that they ain't funny at all. They ought to mind their own business and leave me mind the liquor.

As may be construed from even these few words, Mr. Haggerty was indignant. He said that being indignant had become a regular thing with him since he took to guarding truckloads of whisky case goods in transit from the Government warehouses to the central distribution points where with withdrawal permits came to get it.

Mr. Haggerty sat disconsolately on a case of Golden Wedding Rye. A case of Johnny Walker on top of a case of Three Star Hennessey provided a comfortable resting place for his elbow. Piled about him on the huge truck were big boxes bearing conspicuously the names of virtually all of the best sellers of those days when the quotation on whisky preferred was ten cents a drink, except in the more gilded cafes, where it was two for a quarter.

Offhand, it might seem that spending the working day in such a setting would constitute no unendurable hardship. As a matter of fact, Mr. Haggerty admitted that it was the environment as much as anything else which had induced him to convoy intoxicants by the case when it was no longer permissible for him to retail them by the glass.

He had been bitterly disappointed, he said, and if he had to do it over again he'd dispense soft drinks instead of escorting hard ones. It had not occurred to him, he said, that agreeing to ride around with a truckload of liquor was in reality contracting to listen to the sorriest attempts at wit and humor that ever assailed the defenseless ears of mortal man.

Mr. Haggerty said that he had learned about New Yorkers from his job. His new-found knowledge was not at all flattering to them, he averred. He alleged that there was a gigantic conspiracy on foot to infuriate him to such a degree that he would rend the cases stick from stick and scatter their contents to the waiting throngs.

The Jests of the Crowd.

"Being funny," Mr. Haggerty reiterated, "is this town's biggest industry. It's far bigger than the clothing trade. New York people don't seem to have anything else to do. Whenever we have to stop because of the traffic almost everybody who happens to be passing gathers around the truck, reads the names and the cases and makes what he hopes are funny remarks.

"I should say that half of them lean on the tailboard of the truck and say, 'Make mine straight,' or 'Just one more, if you insist,' or 'See what the boys in the back room will have.'

"They want to know what happened to the brass rail for their feet.

"They have stood there and told 7,918 jokes in a single day. Maybe not quite that many, but I thought it was mere.

"They tell me to take off my badge and put on my apron and get busy. I don't know how they can tell that I used to be a bartender. I never saw them before.

"They hand me cards and tell me to stop at their place if I ever have a load of real beer aboard.

"They look through the slits in the cases and then glance up at the sky and tell me that it looks like rain.

"They ask me how much I have to pay for the job.

"They want to know if they can call on me at home, and say that they will gladly bring the ginger ale.

"They think it is clever for three or four of them to try to take cases away at once and get me nearly crazy stopping them.

"The guy who said that New Yorkers were always in a hurry must have seen one of them trying to dodge an automobile. Their average speed is about sixty stops a minute, and my truck is one of the sixty. They gather around it as if they were paid to do it. They don't include only messenger boys. Hundreds of them look as if they ran banks or laid bricks or sold dresses.

"I guess I'll quit pretty soon," concluded Mr. Haggerty, sadly. "A night watchman is wanted over at the warehouse. It's a lonesome job, but being lonesome is something I crave right now. I've had enough company lately to last me twenty years."

PRINCE FEARS WEIGHT.

Consults Doctors to Avoid Stoutness.

LONDON, April 2—The Prince of Wales, who is still under 31 years of age, has already begun to fret a little with the fear that he may suffer from embonpoint, say persons close to the royal family.

Just prior to the beginning of his voyage to South Africa and South America he was examined by several specialists, it is declared and when the trip ends he will be gone over again, being anxious to discover just what effect these ambassadorial jaunts have upon his physique.

During several of his previous tours he took on some weight, and as he has a dread of achieving a figure suggestive of the lines of his grandfather, Edward VII, he has made up his mind to keep tab on on himself with the aid of several well known specialists.

Among the gymnastic apparatus on board the battle cruiser Repulse, now bearing the Prince southward, is a sensitive scale upon which he will record his ups and downs.

Meanwhile there is little cause for anxiety according to the doctors, who have given it as their opinion that the Prince, need not worry about overweight as long as he keeps up the pace he set before his departure, when his almost daily routine was a fox hunt in the morning, official duties in the afternoon and dancing for many hours in the evening.

FARM NEWS AND PROBLEMS

FARMERS' LIFE LESS RIGOROUS THAN PIONEERS'

Have Better Machinery, Less Work and Shorter Hours.

MODERN METHODS

More Social Life Than in Old Days, But They Drift to Cities.

By ALEX McGREGOR

"Are the young men of today better farmers than their fathers were?" was the subject of a debate held at a community gathering in the Burnbrae district recently. It seems that the weight of the arguments advanced was in favor of the affirmative and the judges so rendered their decision.

How is such a test to be applied? If financial results are to be accepted as conclusive then it must be apparent that the young men of today do not measure up to the attainments of their fathers. If improvements made in the appearance of farms and buildings are to be taken into the reckoning then the honor must again be given to the men, who after years of successful effort, of unremitting toil, have laid down the burdens of life and are resting from their labors, either in quiet retirement or in the cemetery.

For Three Generations.

Three generations have lived on the farms of Seymour township since the first settlers came. There were the pioneers, the men and women who lived in tents or in the open air until a log cabin could be constructed, and who had to conquer a wilderness in order to make a living. There were few failures among the pioneers in spite of the difficulties which they faced.

How many of the young men who today are living on the farms their grandparents cleared would face such a proposition? Even with the better living conditions, the labor saving that machinery has brought about, the shorter hours of work, the young men have created one of the most serious economic problems of the day by incessant migration to urban centres.

Sons of the Pioneers.

Many sons of the pioneers, the fathers of the present generation of young men on the land are still carrying on. In nine cases out of ten these could claim an affirmative answer to the question that was the subject of the debate referred to. They took up the task that their fathers laid down and were not satisfied to only reap what another had sown. It was the first two generations who made Seymour township—and the Province of Ontario, for that matter, what it is today, conquered the forest, cleared the land, put up the rail fences after infinite toil and erected the comfortable dwelling houses and the modern farm buildings. There has been very little building in the rural districts during the past two decades. The reason given is that costs of labor and material are excessive, but the ratio between these costs and the prices for farm produce is about the same as it was in the days of the second generation.

It was the sons of the pioneer, too, who introduced modern methods, who started the dairies and built the cheese factories and who made sacrifices that they might improve the breed of their horses and cattle. Occasionally there may be found a survivor of the advance guard of Canadian farmers, who lived to be able to take an active part in the initiation of these modern movements.

The Modern Social Life.

The present day young farmers may truthfully say that they are finding life less humdrum than their fathers did. They certainly labor less strenuously, they have greater sound opportunities and every live agricultural community these days has an athletic club of some sort. Yet in spite of all these so-called advantages the fact remains that the young people of today have more bodily ailments, are less vigorous and are dying at an average age far below that which was attained with marvelous physical vigor by their toiling ancestors to whom the weekly church service, or the occasional bee was the only relaxation known.

The young farmers of today have advanced in education, in social accomplishments and in the enjoyment of life, but to their fathers must be awarded the crown for financial achievement.

Be It Ever So Lauded There's No Place Like Canada Say Farmers Who Return After Trying United States And Find Opportunities In Dominion Are Unexcelled

OTTAWA, Apr. 2, Special.—Additional examples of farmers returning to Canada from the United States, for the reason that the Dominion offers better opportunities for success, are quoted by the Department of Immigration and Colonization. Within the past few weeks the Agent of the Department at Detroit has reported the following instances:

Arthur Stevenson, an Englishman, with his wife and family, of Ypsilanti, Michigan, farmed nearly 11 years at Luseland, Saskatchewan. A few months ago Mr. Stevenson went to the States with the idea that he could make more money there, but he has been disappointed in this respect. He and his family are now satisfied that farming is the best and most profitable life—and are returning to Luseland where they will farm again. Stevenson came to Canada from England 18 years ago.

Walter MacDonald, of Detroit, a native of the United States, farmed in Saskatchewan for seven years. About a year ago he sold out and went back to the States where he has been working in factories. "I am tired of the factories and want to get back on my own," said Mr. MacDonald, who is leaving to take up land in Alberta.

F. W. Greig went to the United States four years ago after farming with his father at Prince Albert, Sask. He failed to find the attractive opportunities that he expected in the factories where he worked, and has made arrangements to return with his wife and two daughters to take up a farm near relatives in the Prince Albert district.

Willis Mitchell, a native son of Ontario, went to the States seven years ago, but has not found conditions there to his liking, so he is going to farm. He is joining friends at Grand Prairie who are doing well, and he intends to farm there.

W. F. McCutcheon farmed for six years at Lacombe, Alberta. In 1921 he went to Chicago. He has now decided he could do better on the farm and is returning to his former place which, during his absence, has been kept going by his brother.

The Canadian Government Agent at Great Falls, Montana, reports the two following examples:

George W. Hodgins, Choteau, Montana, is 51 years of age and Canadian born. Mr. Hodgins moved from Bruce County, Ontario, and homesteaded at Claresholm, Alberta, for seven years. On his farm he grew forty to fifty bushels of wheat to the acre and about eighty bushels of oats. In 1912 he sold out for over $12,000 in cash, which was made out of a quarter section in seven years. The following year he went to Montana to Teton County where he homesteaded one quarter section and bought another half section and put in from 400 to 500 acres in grain every year. "I have given Montana a fair trixl for farming," he said. "I have made it through the dry years and had crops but lost everything I had." He has now rented a place at Speers, Saskatchewan, to commence farming there over again as he says he has learned from experience it is hard to beat the opportunities which lie in Western Canada.

In 1902, Mr. John C. Brown, now of Great Falls, Montana, went to Alberta. He took up farming at Riball, in the Cardston district. He had good crops every year during the period he lived there. He found the soil very fertile, the climate very healthy, the law of the best, and the schools good. He has seen 62 bushels of No. 1 Northern per acre. He has had forty bushels of No. 1 Northern per acre by just stubbling it in. Mr. Brown sold out in 1918 and went to Great Falls, Montana. He has now decided to return to Canada as he considers it the best farming country at all odds.

Regularity In Management Counts In Poultry Game

Regularity of management is one of the "little things" that affects egg production.

Chickens are creatures of habit and are accustomed to lay in the same nest every time, roost in the same spot every night, and eat at the same feed hopper.

If there is no regularity of methods or care, the hens do not know what to expect, are thrown out of their routine and do not lay as well as they should.

Crowding, together with dampness and soiled condition of the house, will cause lowered production. Cleanliness goes hand in hand with high production.

Other little things that count are ventilation, the care of the feeder, the water supply, the type of feed hopper, and whether or not the mash and grain mixture is appetizing.

Production Of Baby Beef Is Subject Of Experiment

In his annual report for 1924, Mr. C. F. Bailey, superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Station at Fredericton, N.B., records the result of an experiment in the cost of producing baby beef. Two steers, one a third cross Shorthorn and the other a third cross Ayrshire, were fed in order to compare the merits of dual purpose shorthorn steers with steers of the dairy breed for the production of baby beef. The method of feeding was the same as that used for dairy heifers except that the ration was more liberal. Statistics given in the report show that dual purpose Shorthorn steers cost less per hundred pounds live weight than steers from the dairy breed; that dual-purpose Shorthorn steers have a higher dressing purpose, and that dual-purpose Shorthorn steers' carcasses have a higher percentage of high-priced meat.

Electricity Helps To Raise Chickens

Use of electric light to make hens lay often has led the way to use of electricity to make chickens grow faster.

Prof. J. S. Hughes has shown in a series of experiments that violet ray treatment makes chickens mature earlier.

Experiments have been conducted with pens of chickens hatched at the same time and fed similarly, half of which developed naturally and the other half under the violet ray treatment. The results proved the advantage of the violet ray treatment.

IDEALISM AND PRACTICALITY ESSENTIAL TO SOCIETY WORK

Horticultural Society Can Do Much By Linking Two Effectively.

COMMUNITY EFFORT.

There are many ways in which the Horticultural Society can commend itself to the interest and support of the community in which it operates. Public service must be the actuating principle underlying all activities. The individual working in his garden, however much private gardens taken collectively contribute to the public well-being, is not the only concern of the Society; its influence and encouragement must extend beyond the garden gate and out into the highways and public places.

Is there an eyesore in the town—a weed grown or rubbish strewn lot or a bit of unkept public land that offends the sight of every passer by? Let not the Horticultural Society content itself with saying that something ought to be done about it. The Horticultural Society is the natural leader in all schemes of civic beautification, and should take the initiative. Plan the improvement first and if the space is to remain indefinitely unbuilt, use permanent materials, such as the hardy flowering shrubs and herbaceous perennials. Having done a definite piece of work, the Society will have enlisted public good-will and established its title to be regarded as one of the constructive forces in the community. Many municipal councils are recognizing this fact and making grants to help the work along.

In almost every locality there are neglected grounds surrounding hospitals, schools and other institutions. The rehabilitation of such grounds has been undertaken by horticultural societies with most satisfactory results to the community and to themselves. Whenever anything practical has been proposed the money to pay for labor and materials has been forthcoming.

Churchyards are beautified under a mutually advantageous arrangement by which church members join the Horticultural Society and the Society expends their membership fees upon trees, shrubs and perennials with which to adorn the grounds surrounding the sacred edifice.

With the rapid multiplication of horticultural societies in rural districts an impetus has been given to the policy launched by the Ontario Horticultural Association looking to the cleaning up and beautification of country cemeteries, many of which, through years of neglect, have fallen into a sad state of disorder. The township horticultural society that undertakes a work of this kind makes an appeal to the sensibilities of the whole community.

Every society should stage at least one flower, fruit and vegetable show—more, if possible. The show establishes direct contact with the public and encourages gardening by projecting meritorious productions into the limelight of popular appreciation.

Juvenile work is greatly helped by the distribution of seeds to children but the society's responsibility does not end here; provision must be made for supervision of planting and after care.

Alliances with service clubs and organizations such as the Women's Institute, Women's Council, Rotary and Kiwanis, have proven to be veritable boosters for the horticultural society.

Membership campaigns take a variety of forms but the society with a real live executive, a definite programme, and an alluring premium list will not lack for members. Idealism and practicality go hand in hand in the conduct of the successful horticultural society.

DISTANT STARS HOTTER THAN SUN

Scientist Calculates Temperatures of Many Heavenly Bodies.

WASHINGTON, Apr. 2.—(Associated Press).—Estimating the diameters of ten of the brighter stars by separating their heat into a long spectrum and measuring the heat of the different colors and then calculating the probable temperatures of each of these heavenly bodies, was the work of Dr. C. G. Abbot, director of the Astrophysical Observatory of the Smithsonian Institution, during a recent series of field experiments, whose results have just been made public.

A star, having nearly three times the heat of the sun, was among those observed by Dr. Abbot. This was Beta Rigel, having an estimated absolute temperature of 16,000 degrees centigrade, compared with the sun's 6,000 degrees centigrade. Other stars observed with a greater temperature than that of the sun were: Vega, absolute temperature, 14,000 degrees centigrade; Sirius, the brightest star in the heavens, 11,000; Procyon, 8,000. The other stars were Capella, 5,800; al debaran, 3,000; Beta Pegasi, 2,850; Betelgeuse, 2,600, and Alpha Herculis, 2,500. The last two have an estimated diameter 500 times greater than that of the sun.

Dr. Abbot used in this work a radiometer, constructed under the direction of Dr. E. F. Nichols, pioneer in measuring the heat of the stars. Utilizing the giant telescope at the Mount Wilson Observatory in California, with its 100-inch reflecting lens, Dr. Abbot was enabled to obtain fairly accurate measurements of the heat of the different colors, even far into the infra-red. Curves were drawn, indicating the spectral distribution in the radiation of blue, white, yellow and red stars, and estimates of their probable temperatures were made.

BIDDING BRISK AT CATTLE SALE AT BOWMANVILLE

Fourth Annual Sale of Pure Bred Holstein-Fresian Stock.

HIGHER AVERAGE.

List of Animals Sold, With Buyers and Prices Given.

MILLBROOK, April 2.— The fourth annual sale of pure-bred Holstein-Fresian cattle, under the auspices of the Durham County Club, was held last week at Bowmanville, and proved one of the best sales of the month.

L. E. Franklin was auctioneer, and the attendance of local and outside cattle breeders was fairly good, bidding was brisk, and prices on the whole satisfactory. Forty-three head of cattle were sold at a total amount of $4,342.50, an average of $101 per head—not a bad average considering the young stuff offered. Heifers not freshening before the fall did not bring as much money as they were worth.

Last year the total sales amounted to over $6,000, the 19 cows bringing an average of $170 each.

Three young bulls this year averaged $143, as against $135 at the 1924 sale. The top price was $225 for a seven-month-old bull from L. C. Snowden's consignment. This figure was given by the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, which was the largest buyer at the sale. The O.L.C. is clearing out its grades and replacing same with an accredited herd of pure-bred Holstein cattle. Nine females and one male went under the hammer to this institution.

The top price for a female was paid by F. Hubbs, of Bloomfield, who gave $230 for a year-old cow consigned by A. J. Tamblyn of Orono.

MANY SPECIES OF INSECTS DO HARM TO CROPS

Destruction Due to Demand For Food For Growing Myriads.

HIGH BIRTH RATE.

Some Were Harmless Until They Reached Cultivated Fields.

WASHINGTON, Apr. 2.—(United Press).—Thousands of species of insects are engaged in the war with man.

There are those which destroy the mightiest pine trees and those which destroy rose bushes; those which destroy furs and woollens in the household, and those which destroy cattle in the fields; those which destroy lawns shade trees, golf courses, and kitchen gardens and those which destroy the nation's most important crops.

Their destructiveness is due to their insatiable search for food. Most insects multiply at an inconceivable rate because in the ordinary workings of nature few of the thousands or millions of offsprings of one pair of insects ever grows up. But the millions of larvae produced by one male and female in the course of a season eat voraciously during their early lives, even if they fail to complete their life history. It is this excessive birth rate even though it may be accompanied by a relatively high death rate which requires so stupendous an amount of food to sustain the insect population.

Of the myriad species of insects the following are among the better known and may be taken as illustrations of the general scope of the insect menace.

The Cotton Boll Weevil.

The boll weevil infests most of the cotton belt of the South, causing an annual damage of nearly $300,000,000. The adult weevil hibernates during the winter, but during the summer produces many generations of offspring which, in the larva stage, feed upon the squares and bolls of cotton plants. The cotton production of the country would have been entirely destroyed were it not for certain natural enemies of the weevils—parasites which feed upon the larva, other insects which destroy them, birds which eat them, and periodical hot spells which kill a proportion of the young. Measures taken by man, including poisoning with calcium arsenate and regulating the preparation of seed and time of planting, have materially aided in repressing the depredations of the boll weevil, but the insect remains the greatest problem of the cotton planter.

Japanese Beetle.

The Japanese beetle was accidentally introduced in Burlington County, New Jersey, in 1916. Like the boll weevil, it does not seem to have been a serious pest in its original environment, but it has already become the most dangerous insect menace in New Jersey and Pennsylvania. It eats almost everything green from young fruit to weeds. Measures so far taken have failed to restrict its rapid spread and it is feared it may become as important as crop menace as the boll weevil.

European Corn Borer.

The corn borer was introduced from Hungary or Italy in 1909 and has already become a corn pest of prime importance. At present it has been identified only in portions of New England, New York and the borders of Lake Erie. Aside from attacking corn by tunnelling in the stalk and in the actual ears, the corn borer attacks many other forms of economic plants, including beans, beets and celery. The department is taking drastic steps to prevent the spread of the pest to the great corn region of the middle west.

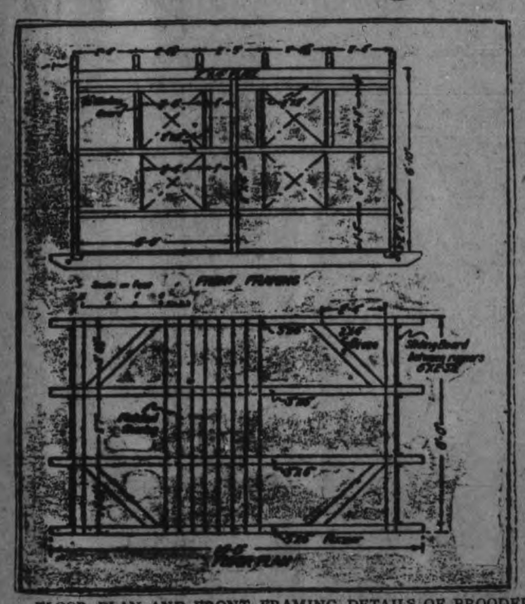
Codling Moth.

The codling moth is the most notable example of the hundreds of insect pests which cost apple growers approximately 20 per cent of their crop annually. The larva of the moth burrows through the apple, either totally destroying it or spoiling its commercial value.

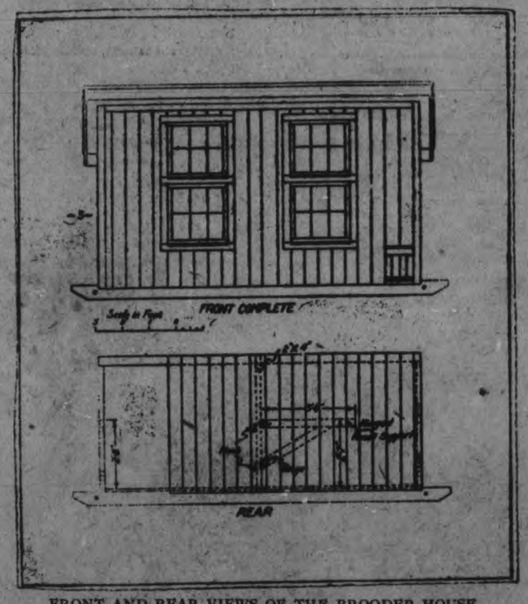
Cattle Tick.

The cattle tick, formerly prevalent through most of the south, injures cattle by blood sucking and by transmitting "tick fever." It has been placed under some control by rigorous quarantine and dipping methods. Nevertheless it constitutes a menace to cattle which must be constantly guarded against and apart from the loss of cattle causes an important economic loss due to the necessity of preventive measures.

Details of a Light Portable Brooder House



FLOOR PLAN AND FRONT FRAMING DETAILS OF BROODER HOUSE.



FRONT AND REAR VIEWS OF THE BROODER HOUSE.

ITHACA, N.Y., March 30.—A light portable poultry brooder house, that can accommodate from 250 to 300 chicks, has been planned after years of study by the poultry department of Cornell University.

It is shown in the accompanying plans and details.

The rigid construction of the house permits its removal from place to place with a minimum of strain on the framework.

A successful brooder house must have plenty of air, provided by a system which can be controlled easily. The ventilation system used here allows a movement of air near the roof which will remove the heat accumulated there without causing a draft near the floor.

During the early part of the brooding period both front and rear ventilators should be closed, but as the chicks grow and the season becomes warmer, the front upper ventilator may be opened, and later the rear ventilator. Even on very warm days the inside temperature will be much cooler due to the use of these ventilators.

Keep House Cool.

A cool house during the summer, especially at night, will do much toward helping rear fine quality pullets. The lower windows may be opened on good days, during the brooding period, thus providing the essential direct sunlight.

The list of material needed for this house follows:

4 3"x6"x14' runners (chestnut or hemlock).
2 2"x4"x16' runners.
6 2"x4"x12' braces, joists, plates, studs (chestnut, hemlock or yellow pine).

HEALTH TESTS FOR HUSBANDS

Doctor Urges Same Care for Human Stock as Animals Get.

WOULD EXAMINE ALL

TORONTO, April 2.—(Canadian Press).—That the question of health examination for those about to marry as advocated recently by Dr. G. W. Ross, M.R.C.P., in an address on "Marriage and Disease" given before the Toronto Social Hygiene Club at Sherbourne House, is of widespread national and international interest, has been shown by a number of requests for a repetition of this paper, which have come from distant points in both Canada and the United States. The opinion expressed by this medical authority was that if we were as careful of our human stock as we are of our own livestock most of the problems dealt with in his address would tend to disappear.

"I would not withhold marriage from any man," he said, "who had submitted to thorough treatment and yet couldn't present a blood scientifically pure, if he would undertake to follow my instructions implicitly.

"Unfortunately decent men deliberately seeking advice constitute a small majority. The man of humanity moves on in some indiscriminate fashion, neither guiding itself nor being guided. Even public opinion is of little avail unless it becomes vitalized in restraining legislative actions, for laws are often designed for those that can't or won't think for themselves—for their own good and for the advantage of the body politics.' I have repeatedly seen splendid families plunged into a sorrow worse than death through the misguided interference of dull-headed people, both lay and professional.

"Let us now review the vastly important question of compulsory health certificate for marriage. This certificate would naturally embrace all deterent disorders, such as tuberculosis, drug addiction, mental instability or a family history of insanity or epilepsy, etc., as well as vencreal disease, and curiously enough, were it not for the inclusion of venereal disease, compulsory health certificate for marriage might easily be accepted by the community and our law-makers. Both, however, rebel at compelling young and usually innocent women to submit to the indignity of a thorough examination.

"Let the state demand that each of the contracting parties should furnish the issuer of marriage licenses with a simple statement, signed by a physician in good standing, to the effect that he was interogated and examined the applicant, and that so far as proclivity to hereditary disorder or an existing infectious disease and general health, he or she is entitled to marry; or perhaps the physician might simply state that he knows of no barrier of health or heredity to the proposed union of so and so. What could that accomplish? Nothing, little or much, depending entirely upon the earnest co-operation of the medical profession.

"But will they co-operate? Undoubtedly! For surely lay-people realize that the medical professoin as a rule is composed almost exclusively of men of a high moral standard, who, by their training, their practice and their tradition, are united in their desire and determination to prevent disease by every available means. What has been done in controlling smallpox, malaria, typhoid fever and so on stands to the credit of the medical profession, and is an absolute guarantee of good faith. They are ready and willing to co-operate in any feasible plan to assist in control and if possible in the eradication of disease. Let the Legislature and the people but give them the opportunity!"

MILLION FOR HEAT CONTROL DEVICE

Thermostat Cuts Off Current When Irons, Etc., Get Too Hot.

NEW YORK, April 2.—The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company has acquired the United States rights to a new type of heat control device, invented by John A. Spencer of Revere, Mass., for more than $1,000,000. The device, known as the Spencer thermostat, will be used to regulate automatically the temperature of electrical apparatus and its first application will be in a new automatic flat-iron.

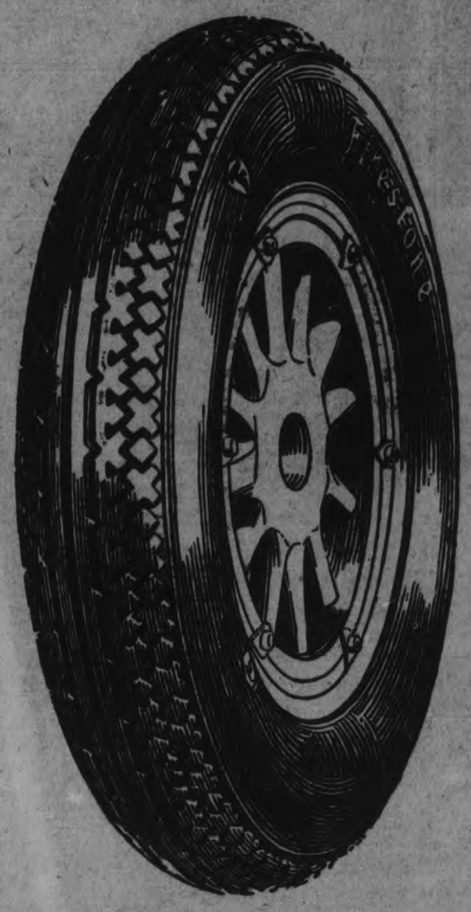
According to Westinghouse engineers, electrical heating apparatus will be revolutionized by the use of the Spencer thermostat. An iron in which it is used, for example, will heat up to the most efficient temperature and then with a click the current will automatically be cut off. The iron then will start to cool, but before it gets too cool for satisfactory use the current will again be clicked on. The process is repeated indefinitely, so that the iron is always kept at the proper working temperature and cannot get dangerously hot. Similarly, coffee percolators, water heaters, etc., using the device can be boiled dry without damage, for as soon as the temperature begins to rise the current is cut off. It is also planned to use the device on motors, generators and other electrical machines to prevent overheating.

The principle on which the Spencer thermostat acts is said to be so novel that it has received the first basic patent on quick acting thermostatic bi-metal devices that has ever been issued by the United States Patent Office. In Mr. Spencer's case it was being able to apply his observations of the action of a steam boiler which he tended years ago in a Maine lumber camp that resulted in his recent invention.

Spencer, then 15 years old, was employed on the night shift in the mill, and in addition to making periodical tours of inspection he had to maintain the fire in the boiler. The boiler had a rounded clean-out door which was constantly changing shape with a loud snap or click. At times it would be convex, then concave, influenced by the change in the degree of heat within.

Several years after, when Spencer had acquired a knowledge of mechanical principles, he recalled the action of the boiler door and was impressed by the fact that no one had utilized the principle of it. Realizing that it had practical value, after a series of experiments he worked out a formula for a combination of metals that best suited the purpose. The Spencer thermostat was the eventual result.

ONLY GUM-DIPPED CORDS Give You This EXTRA Strength, Safety, Comfort and Mileage



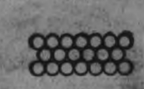
Gum-dipping is an exclusive manufacturing process developed by Firestone that has revolutionized all standards of tire performance. Gum-dipping insulates every fibre of every cord with live rubber giving extra stamina and flexing endurance to the cords. Gum-dipping so strengthens the tire carcass that blowouts, tread and ply separation are practically things of the past. Gum-dipped cords ride easier, last longer and provide safety on the road. Gum-dipping is the very foundation of balloon tire success, for balloon tires must have a super-strong flexible side wall.

You need not be a tire expert to understand the advantages of gum-dipping. These simple tests developed on the road and in the laboratory tell you the gum-dipped story in a nutshell.

Gum-dipped Cords cost no more because Firestone has perfected the process to a point of efficiency and economy. Insist upon Gum-dipped Cords from your dealer or specify them on your new car. You'll get more service from your car, more mileage from your tires; you'll experience more satisfaction and your operating costs will be lower than ever before.

How Gum-Dipping Guards Against Internal Heat

When a tire is on the road the individual cords will rub together and generate destructive heat and friction unless they are insulated. Gum-dipping puts an extra coating of rubber on every cord, separating it from the others and preventing friction and wear. This extra rubber also acts as a bond between the plies preventing ply separation.



Enlarged section of ordinary fabric. Note how cords touch and rub.

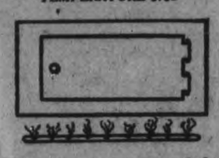
Gum-Dipping Makes Tires Last Longer

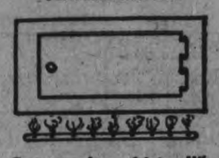
Gum-dipping waterproofs every cord and prevents it from absorbing moisture—even moisture from the air. Ordinary cord fabric absorbs moisture from the air or from road water if the tread is cut. This lessens its ability to resist heat. The combination of moisture and the heat generated in the tire when running deteriorates the cord fabric unless it is gum-dipped as this test shows.

BURNER OVEN NO. 1 TEMPERATURE 212°



Contains gum-dipped fabric which won't absorb moisture. When removed gum-dipped fabric is unchanged—has all its strength.

BURNER OVEN NO. 2 TEMPERATURE 212°



Contains ordinary fabric. When removed fabric has turned brown like cloth on an ironing board. Is brittle and weak.

The same thing happens when a tire is running on the road. The only difference is that the heat is generated by road action instead of in the oven.

Gum-Dipping Gives Extra Strength

Cords in a tire are bent constantly backwards and forwards by road action. The stronger the cords the longer they resist this bending—in other words the longer the tire lasts. This test shows the extra strength of gum-dipped cords and explains why they give more miles.

Gum-Dipped Cord Ordinary Cord

Two pieces of cord are stretched between two supports and flexed by a revolving arm with an action the same as the cords receive when on the road. Gum-Dipped Cord stands practically twice the amount of flexing as an ordinary cord—in other words a Gum-Dipped Cord is twice as strong. This extra strength gives added mileage and makes practical balloon tire construction with its thin side wall.

Gum-Dipping Stops Deterioration from Tread Cuts

Gum-dipping soaks every cord in pure rubber and makes the cord waterproof. When treads or sidewalls are cut, ordinary cords will take up water from the road by wicking action. Water or moisture inside the tire rots the carcass. Gum-Dipped Cords being waterproof will not absorb water.

Ordinary Cord Shaded area shows how it has absorbed moisture. Gum-Dipped Cord Waterproofing has prevented absorption of moisture.

This diagram shows the result of an actual road test: Two tires, one with gum-dipped cords the other with ordinary cords, were purposely cut and driven several thousand miles on wet roads. The gum-dipped carcass was unaffected by moisture. In the other, the tread was loose and the cords had commenced to separate.

THE FLUE EPIDEMIC

"Why did the first wave of influenza over the country cause so many more deaths than the many epidemics since?" Mr. Mann of Anytown asked.

"The reason lies in the fa.. that the human body, when attacked once, builds up a strong resistance in order not to be caught unprepared the next time," Mrs. Mann explained.

"Itis something like locking the door after the thief has already made a haul, except that the question of disease is much more important.

"Measles do not cause nearly so many deaths as they did when they first attaocked society."

Scientists have learned this, and come to the assistance of humanity with vaccinations. A person is vaccinated against smallpox.

The vaccination causes sickness, in fact the result is a slight case of smallpox.

It is enough, however, to start the fighting agencies of the body to preparing for a general onslauht of the disease germs.

The result is that thereafter when the person comes in contact with smallpox, the person is not affected. The body has built up an immunity gainst the disease.

STORY OF THE DODGE BROTHERS

Plant Sold for $105,000,000, a Monument to the Brotherly Love of John F. and Horace E. Dodge—Struggled And Died Together.

DETROIT, April 2.—The sale of the Dodge Brothers' plant marks the passing into strange hands of a gigantic industrial enterprise renowned the world over as a monument to brotherly love.

John F. Dodge and Horace E. Dodge were mighty manufacturers, but the essence of their amazing rise to industrial success and its rich rewards was a spiritual kinship so binding that no friend of theirs was surprised that John died, Jan. 14, 1920, while nursing Horace thought a dangerous illness and that Horace died, Dec. 10, 1920.

From earliest childhood John and Horace Dodge never were separated. Both were born at Niles, Mich., and throughout their school and play days they were as inseparable as during the years of their manufacturing triumphs. It was while school boys at Niles that they built in their father's machine shop the first bicycle ever seen in their home town.

Struggled Together.

In the eighties they came to Detroit and together struggled through years of poverty and ever-threatening failure that would have whipped youths less courageous and energetic than they.

Their first employer here was "Tom" Murphy, manufacturer of the Murphy boiler. Six months after he started work, John was a foreman. In the early nineties they entered the employ of the Canadian Typrograph Co. at Windsor, and from this connection was born the firm of Dodge Brothers.

For two years they operated the typograph company under a lease and in that plant manufactured the Evans & Dodge bicycle, known in that day as the "E. & D."

The partnership of brothers and chums was destined to make multimillionaires of both, but the early years were harassed by desperate vicissitudes.

Courage and Genius.

In 1901 they came back to Detroit, their Windsor effort a financial failure. They brought with them for their second tilt at fortune in Detroit, a sound store of mechanical knowledge, a wealth of courage, a genius for hard work, a few dollars and an abiding faith in the ability of each other.

They opened a machine shop on Beaubien street between Fort street east and Lafayette avenue, where they employed 12 hands. When John and Horace Dodge died in 1920, more than 18,000 men were building automobile in their Hamtramck plants.

Modest prosperity came their way after a time. In 1905, they outgrew the Beaubien street quarters and moved to a larger plant at Monroe avenue and Hastings street. The first Dodge factory in Hamtramck was started in 1910, and that structure became the nucleus of the mammoth automobile plant that passed out of the possession of the Dodge family this week.

During the remaining decade of their lives John and Horace Dodge, shoulder to shoulder, fought their way up ward in the automobile industry with Henry Ford, W. C. Durant and John N. Willys.

First Auto Contract.

Their first contact with the automotive world happened in 1902, when the Olds Motor Co. gave them a contract for 3,000 sets of transmissions. Such a contract would not make a ripple now, but in those days it was an impressive order.

Soon afterward came an order for parts from the Ford Motor Co., and that proved to be a significant day in the history of the Dodge fortunes.

As the years whirred by, more orders came from Henry Ford and at one time the growing Dodge Brothers machine shop was chiefly occupied in filling contracts for the Ford Motor Co. Just how it happened never has been told, but during these years John and Horace Dodge came into possession of a large block of Ford stock.

The version current in Detroit relates that the Dodges accepted Ford stock in lieu of cash payment for some of these contracts. Be that as it may, in the summer of 1919 John and Horace Dodge sold their Ford holdings to Henry and Edsel B. Ford for $25,000,000.

A Famous Suit.

During the intervening years it had netted millions in dividends and had afforded the basis of the Ford-Dodge suit, in which the minority stockholders of the Ford Motor Co. forced in court a division of profits of the Ford plant.

John and Horace Dodge began to manufacture automobiles bearing their own name in 1914, after a period in which it had made Ford parts exclusively. During 1913, it was said at that time, Henry Ford paid the Hamtramck plant $10,000,000 for engines and other automotive parts.

Coincident with the news that Dodge Brothers intended to build their own automobile came the announcement that hereafter the Ford Motor Co. would make its own parts, a proclamation that marked the beginning of the expansion which Henry Ford now is extending to the utmost sources of raw materials.

War Expansion.

The basis of the Dodge automobile industry was a plant that employed 3,500 men early in 1914. This plant expanded prodigiously during the World War and still more soon after the death of its founders, built and sold 225,104 automobiles last year.

It was the boast of Frederick J. Haynes, veteran Dodge executive who succeeded to the presidency after the passing of his chiefs, that the firm made and sold 1,250,000 automobiles during its first decade, more than 1,000,000 of which were still in service at the end of that 10-year period.

Among the manufacturing exploits of which John and Horace Dodge were proudest was the success with which they built thousands of recoil mechanisms for the French 155-mm, howitzers, after ordnance experts the world around had declared such delicate items of machinery never could be manufactured by the swift production methods of American industries.

The years when the Boydell Building housed their little machine shop were times of early and late toil for each of the brothers. During the daylight hours the twain either worked in the shops or tramped the streets in search of contracts.

Busy until Midnght.

At night, after the employes had gone home, they invariably returned to the shop to work until midnight.

Horace toiled over designs, plans, textbooks, tracings and mechanical textbooks, while John balanced the accounts and maintained the correspondence with customers.

These were habits which the passing years and the rising flood of wealth failed to change, although eventually their great plant at Hamtramck was placed under a business organization so thorough and competent that its momentum could carry it through indefinite absences of the chiefs.

Until the last, Horace was the plant superintendent and manufacturer, and John was the business head of the firm.

The equality with which they shared life and drank its cup of success, each for the other, was revealed by the estates left to their families. Horace Dodge's estate was appraised at $37,186,588, and John Dodge's at $36,942,727, a bookkeeping difference so slight as to be almost incalculable.

Kiwanis Saved Boy Who Becomes Known As "Tube Baby."

GASTON AS HE LOOKS TODAY AND AS HE DID WHEN FIRST FED THROUGH A TUBE.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 2. — Gaston Rutledge, 5, "the Tube Baby" who has not tasted food in three years, will soon be able to eat like any normal child.

This little fellow, who has been kept alive by food administered through a tube leading into his stomach, is having a new throat made.

Success of the operation is forecast by the fact that already he has been able to swallow tiny bits of fluid food.

Three years ago Gaston, son of a Memphis auto mechanic, swallowed lye that he found while playing in the yard of his home.

The powerful chemical seared his throat, and stricture developed that closed the throat completely.

He did not receive medical attention for some time and was slowly starving to death when the Kiwanis Club became interested in him and agreed to finance an operation.

Surgeons cut through his abdomen and inserted a rubber tube. When the child was hungry he was fed through this tubing.

But Gaston grew too rapidly to be kept alive by such a method and doctors decided to build a new esophagus—the passage from the throat to the stomach.

The esophagus is being made from part o fan intestine. It is brought up from the stomach over the breastbone and just under the skin to a point below Gastons chin, where it joins the throat.

Twice each week Gaston goes on the operating table. More than 300 times the little tot has had the anesthetic mask fitted over his face and has woke up with a raw and bleeding throat.

He knows, however, that he is being benefited, and takes much interest in his frequent operations.

"Aw, they're fixing my throat up fine," he says in a typically boyish and slightly husky voice.

Gastin prattles on, much as any other boy, about when he will start to school, and Evelyn who lives next door, and how he is going to get in on the marble tournaments when he gets well.

And what he's going to be when he grows up—"Guess I'll be a doctor," he says. "I like doctors and nurses."

STREET GOWNS TO BE SHORT

Short Skirts, Long Sleeves and High Necks Feature New Models.

FULLER SKIRTS

By HEDDA HOYT,
Fashion Editor of the United Press.
(Written for the United Press.)

NEW YORK, N.Y., April 2 (United Press).—Certain facts are established in Spring fashions, namely, sleeves will be long, skirts short, necklines high or finished with scarf and skirts fuller. Waistlines remain as they are, either minus quantities or low-placed affairs that are suggested rather than accented.

The street frock is a bit more important just now than other types, since it is the street frock which we shall soon be wearing, either with or without a coat. This season's frock is tailored in effect, but not severely so, since there are always jabots, circular insets, fanciful sleeve trimmings, etc., which add the chic which the too-tailored effect often lacks.

Tailored effects are noted in the high necklines. Simplicity of design is stressed in most cases and materials are of soft, pastel weaves rather than of heavier materials and bright coloring. Perhaps the simplest of frocks which is meeting with success is the one made of cashmere in soft blues verging on powder tones, golden browns, tan, brick or rust shades. It is fashioned with a high upstanding collar and buttons at the rear from collar to hem. A pleated apron appears at a low waistline in front being attached to the frock with a various string belt of self-material which ties at one side. Having this silhouette in mind one can suggest many little details which make this simplified model more attractive. For instance, one frock of this type is made of lacquer red kasha and uses a narrow band of black satin extending down the back to augment the chic of the back fastening.

The collar is about an inch and a half high and has a turn-down cuff of black satin and the sleeves are likewise finished with a narrow black cuff. The pleated apron has two bands of satin at the border, while the string belt is of the lacquer. Tiny silver buttons trim the strip of black which extends from neck to hem in back and one may also add them on the turn-down cuffs or collar and sleeve. No prettier combination can be imagined, and black, red and silver is one of the decrees of Paris at present.

Many street frocks are made in coat effect with reverse, circular godets at the front of the skirt, high upstanding collars, etc. Jabots are equally popular on the street frock. Often the jabot begins at the high collar and is carried down the front of the gown to the hem. A navy blue twill frock uses such a jabot made of white crepe de chene bordered in blue polka dots, the entire jabot being pleated in fine pleats. A touch of red may be added to the jabot used on the navy frock since red and blue are popular combinations.

There are so many street models that one cannot attempt to describe them but it is safe to say that the better class garments all have long sleeves and a more dignified neckline than the batteau shapes of last year. Sleeves may be tight-fitting and beginning from a narrow armhole, they may flare in circular effect from the elbow, or be very full affairs, terminating in a snug wristband suggesting peasant sleeves. The more dressy the frock the more ornate the sleeve may be. Tailored types should attempt none but the slender-fitting sleeve, however.

When one finds discomfort in the high neckline, one can obtain the effect of one for street wear by attaching a scarf of self-material at the rear of the rounding neck and throwing it about the throat. Several very lovely black frocks use black scarfs lined in white or blond satin which tie in a bow knot at one side of the neck. It is often more interesting to use a scarf of dull finished material if the gown itself is of lustered material or one may reverse this order.

Whether the sleeve be long or short, the glove of the season for street wear is the gauntlet. For afternoon wear the white gauntlet is again being worn. Light colored suedes are still popular, although lately smartly-gowned women seem to be returning to the white glove. Cuff ornamentations, appliques, cutouts, etc., are not as popular as plain gloves.

While many of our colorful and decorated gloves come from Paris, one rarely sees the Parisian wearing any but the plainer types and these are invariably in shades in keeping with the color of her costume. The white glove is, of course, the exception to that rule, since white may be worn with any color.

THE WAY TO RELAX IS TO EXERCISE

Relaxation of Mind and Body Necessary for Health.

By S. MILDRED STRAUSS.

Relaxation is just as important to health and beauty as breathing, sleeping and eating, and should be just as natural.

But in this very hectic jazz age, when each of us is trying to cram all she can into her 24-hour day, relaxation has become a lost art and must be relearned.

Relaxation of body and mind must be simultaneous. You cannot relax your muscles if your mind is tense with problems and worries. And you can never be truly beautiful unless you can have the poise and charm that comes from mental and physical control.

Begin With the Mind.

Begin your relaxation in your mind. Walk about slowly, thinking of your body as a lump of clay, formless and inanimate, and imagine you are very heavy and that your arms, hands, knees and head are dead weights.

As you impress this picture on your consciousness your body will become very tired, your knees will bend, and you will gradually sink nearer and nearer to the floor until finally your body is huddled up like a lump of earth, your head on the floor, your chin touching your knees and your arms flat, your hands touching your feet.

If you are sufficiently heavy and droopy, even your facial expression will relax, and any wrinkles in the face will disappear.

It Isn't Simple.

This sounds simple, but it isn't. It will take considerable practice before you can become as apparently lifeless as you should.

When you feel you have been thoroughly rested, stretch first the right leg, then the left, then both, drawing the body upward and downward without raising the head from the floor.

Shift your position so that the head rests lightly on one arm, then raise first the right and then the left leg from the floor as high as you can from the hip, the rest of the body flat on the floor.

Raise the right arm, then the left, from the floor from the shoulder. Then raise both arms upward without raising the body. Then raise both the arms and legs from the floor, letting them sink back slowly under perfect control.

Have Exercised, Too.

Combined with relaxation, you have exercised the muscles of your arms, legs and trunk that get little play in the ordinary pursuits of life. Keep this up and you will find a decided decrease in the measure of your waist and hips.

Here is a test whereby you can determine how thoroughly you relax:

Lie in a flat position with the spine touching the floor and draw up the knees slowly so they touch the breast, and with the aid of the hands help the heel of the foot to touch the thigh. Relax the hold of the hands and if the body is relaxed the legs will fall immediately and heavily to the floor.

DAIRYMEN DRUM UP TRADE.

BERLIN, April 2.—(Associated Press).—Berlin drinks to-day only a little more than one-half the quantity of milk it consumed before the war. The reason evidently is that the use of milk substitutes still prevails. A municipal exhibition is planned to bring milk back to its former popularity.

HEART WAS WEAK NERVES ALL GONE

Mrs. J. H. Hallenbeck, 117½ Welland Avenue, St. Catharines, Ont., writes:—"I was in a gas explosion; it left me with a weak heart, and my nerves were all gone. I suffered everything; couldn't sleep, or endure any excitement, and when left alone I felt as if I could scream. I took dizzy spells, often falling and bruising myself. My mother read about your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and bought me a box, but having taken so many different kinds of medicine it just seemed that I did not have any confidence in any of them. I took one box of H. & N. Pills, and felt so much better I continued with them until I had used five boxes, and after I had taken them I did not need any more. I cannot praise, or recommend, Milburns Heart and Nerve Pills too highly after all they have done for me."

Winnipeg Mother Finds Ideal Remedy for Colds of Children

A Vaporizing Salve which Relieves Colds Over Night and Croup in Fifteen Minutes. Nothing to Take—Just Rub It Over Throat and Chest.

Mothers everywhere will be interested in the experience of Mrs. W. Butterfield, 627 Carydon Ave., Winnipeg, Man. Mrs. Butterfield tried the new external remedy for colds, Vicks VapoRub, when it was first introduced in Winnipeg and writes:

"My three-year-old boy, William, became very sick with what seemed to me like a pneumonia cold accompanied with indigestion. He was a very sick boy for two weeks. One night I grew alarmed—he breathed so quickly and was so restless. I rubbed him with Vicks VapoRub and the result was gratifying. He breathed more easily and I was able to get a little sleep myself. The next two nights I again rubbed him with Vicks with still better results and he became as bonny as ever. I surely appreciate Vicks VapoRub and shall use and recommend it at all times."

Vicks is just as good for adults. It is the direct treatment for sore throat, tonsilitis, bronchitis, catarrh, head or chest colds. When rubbed over throat or chest, Vicks has a two-fold action. Internally it is inhaled as a vapor and at the same time, externally, absorbed like a liniment. This double action seldom fails to give immediate relief.

FLOWERS BLOOM IN DARK.

This new Paris dress won't do for the flapper who is not averse to "a kiss in the dark." A large phosphorescent flower, just below the waistline, is its only decoration.

USE THE HANDKERCHIEF

"If I had children like those Smith children, or a husband like Jones, I certainly would begin teaching them what to do with their hands," Mrs. Mann of Anytown declared.

"Those children forever have their fingers in their mouth, and their father is not much better. He picks his nose, because he is too lazy to use a handkerchief.

"If there is a cold in the community, or measles, or any other disease, those children are almost sure to get it.

"They deliberately put germs in their mouths.

"And if they have colds, or other infections of the nasal and oral passages they are most certain to transmit the infection to others."

"Why so emphatic? Explain yourself," Mr. Mann interjected, looking up from his paper. "Often I forget to use a handkerchief myself."

"Well, if you do, it is your own fault," replied his wife.

"There are always plenty of clean handkerchiefs here and I put them right out where you can get them.

"And, say, while you're talking about handkerchiefs, I want you to quit using them to shine your shoes."

"All right, all right, but what were you saying about Jones and his children?"

Money AT WORK

The modern budget system has given executive time for constructive thought.

Before the budget system came in, the average executive was so swamped with the minor details of his business that he had very little time for anything else.

The budget system changed this. Now an executive makes out a budget. Each department head has authority to spend so much money for certain things. The only time he needs to approach the executive for an O.K. is when something unusual turns up.

In every highly successful business the executive must have foresight and ability. The budget system gives him a chance to use his foresight and ability.

SALVATION ARMY PRISON.

LONDON, April 2. — (United Press). — General Bramwell Booth, head of the Salvation Army, has asked the government to let his salvationists run one of its large prisons, a large lunatic asylum and a large workhouse. He proposes that the government continue, to take care of matters relating to the punishment of prisoners and the regulation of other inmates, while the Army manages and controls the internal operation of the institutions.

POLISHED BRASS OUT.

Is Not Now Fashionable Because of Expense of Upkeep.

LIVERPOOL, April 2.—(Associated Press).—Brass work, with which the front doors of most British homes have been adorned for centuries and which contributes to the furnishings of numerous offices, is going out of fashion because of the expense involved in keeping the fixtures shiny. Many new buildings in Liverpool and elsewhere in England are going up without brass or copper decorations.

WINTER CROPS ARE PROMISING

Reports to Department of Agriculture Are Very Favorable.

FODDER PLENTIFUL.

The following is a summary of reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Spring seeding has commenced. A number of farmers in Essex have sown oats and barley while one field has been reported seeded in Perth. Early vegetables such as beets, carrots, spinach and peas have been sown in Welland at least two weeks earlier than last year. Owing to fear of the Corn Borer and to aid in its control, indications are that the acreage of corn will be considerably reduced in the chief producing counties. The seeding of spring grain in those districts will be heavier. Winter crops look promising and while dry April winds sometimes prove very harmful, farmers feel that the danger from alternate freezing and thawing has probably been passed. The maple syrup season has not been productive and little more is expected.

Hastings Report

Fodder supplies are generally plentiful. The Hastings Representative reports that in some sections of that County where sufficient roughage used to be rare, the adoption of alfalfa and sweet clover has ensured farmers an abundant supply of this kind of food. Good fat steers in Bruce have been selling at $8.00 to $8.50 a cwt. while Kent reports the sale of a choice lot at $8.90. Grass cattle of quality have been changing hands at from $7.50 to $8.00 a cwt. in the grazing sections of Western Ontario. The farmer's horse trade has been very active. One dealer in Brant has been selling on the average about seven horses a day. There is a keen demand for farm labor with a fair local supply of help which, however, is quite inadequate. Few immigrants have been placed to date.

JONAH'S FAILURE.

Burnbrae Pastor Criticizes Present Day Reluctance to Support Missions.

BURNBRAE, April 22.—Rev. D. A. McKenzie gave the seventh and final address of his series of sermons on the Prophets on Sunday. He spoke from the Book of Jonah, taking as his text, "Now the word of the Lord came unto Jonah saying, "Arise, go to Nineveh, that great city and cry against it; for their wickedness is come up before me."

Mr. McKenzie stated that there were four pictures in this book; the first that of the great heathen city of Nineveh with over 120,000 of population sunk in the depths of sin and wickedness; the second, God calls Jonah to deliver the city, and Jonah flees to Tarshish to escape doing his duty; the third, God's voice and power call Jonah back and he preaches the gospel of destruction against Nineveh; the fourth, Jonah goes outside the city to await its destruction and is very angry because God spares the city after the people repent of thier sins.

Mr. McKenzie laid special stress on the important lessons and truths to be learned from this little book. He spoke of duty as being the voice of God, and whenever one felt that it was their duty to perform some service, it was the call of the Divine Spirit. Speaking of Jonah's dislike for his work in Nineveh and his attempt to flee from it, the preacher stated that the same condition existed to-day. People had time and money for almost everything in life but missions. There seemed to be a special aversion to supporting the spread of the gospel to other lands. Jonah was angry because the city was not destroyed, but that was God's way to forgive the repentant sinner.

Mr. McKenzie hoped that the congregation had derived some good from this study of the Prophets. The work had been a great inspiration to him, and he hoped to continue this same line of thought at some later date. The next services will be preparing for Easter.

Choir Busy.

The choir is busy practising for the Easter services under the leadership of Mrs. John Thompson. Practice was held on Monday evening.

Young People Met.

The Young People's Guild met in the basement of the church on Monday evening with a good crowd in attendance. A number on the programme were unable to be present, but a splendid paper on "Service" by Mrs. (Rev.) McKenzie was enjoyed by all.

A Shower.

A miscellaneous shower was held in honour of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Shillinglaw on Tuesday evening, at the home of the bride's parents, English Line. A number of friends from Burnbrae and Menie attended.

EUROPE'S MURDER THRILLER.

Amalia Leirer

BUDAPEST, April 2.—As all America discusses the case of Dorothy Ellingson who is now on trial for the murder of her mother, so does all Central Europe discuss the trial of the slayer of Amalia Leirer.

The murder was particularly atrocious—and the interest in it has been heightened by the fact that the slayer of the beautiful Hungarian girl was her stepfather— her mother being his third wife.

He is alleged to have killed her in a fit of jealous rage over the attentions she received from the youthful suitors who, attracted by the girl's beauty, followed her in droves.

FRECKLES

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckleface, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable concern that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any drug or department store and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine, as this strength is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove your freckles.

CROWN MAY BE SUED.

Bill Introduced to Take Away the Ancient Privilege.

LONDON, April 2.—(Associated Press).—The historic British law which provides that the Crown may not be sued will be discussed in Parliament in the near future when a bill is introduced calling for its alteration.

A committee of jurists has prepared an outline of the bill which would knock out the ancient law altogether. The proposal as considered by the jurists is that the Crown should be as liable as any other employer for acts committed within the scope of an employer's authority.

AUNT SUSAN'S VISIT ATTRACTS A CROWD

Knox Church Filled to Greet Her and All Pleased With Her Doings.

Knox Church Lecture Hall was well filled last night for the play, entitled "Aunt Susan's Visit," which was put on under the auspices of the teachers and officers of the Church School. "The best yet" was the verdict of every one present.

"Aunt Susan's Visit" is a comedy in four acts. Aunt Susan Tibbs of Peppers Corners, kind-hearted, old-fashioned and eccentric, decides to visit her nephew in the city, whom she has not seen for years. Her old-fashioned appearance, ways and ideas cause much mortification to her nephew's wife, who has high social ambitions, and to other members of the family. Her nephew's deep regard for his aunt, and the fact that he is the sole heir, make it necessary for the other members of the family to tolerate her presence until the influence of her goodness and helpfulness is recognized, and results in bringing the whole family and all with whom she comes in contact to a higher plane of living.

The play will be repeated to-night. Any one failing to see this play will miss a real treat.

The following is the programme:

LIVES IN TRANCE.

South African Woman Semi-Conscious For Fifteen Years.

RIETFONTEIN, South Africa, April 2.—(Associated Press.)—Scientists from England who have heard recently of the case of a woman here who has been in a trance for 15 years may come to Rietfontein to make extensive investigations with the hopes of helping the victim. The woman is Miss Anna Swanepoel, of Lichtenburg, age 35, who became unconscious in 1910 when she was notified of the sudden death of her fiance.

Not once, according to the attending physicians, since that time has the woman been fully conscious. After 11 years in her own home, under the care of relatives, she was taken to a hospital where attendants administer food and water every two hours.

A FATAL "COMRADE."

LONDON, April 2 — (United Press).—Three Danes at Irkutsk, Siberia, resented being called "comrades" by their cab driver. One of them shot him dead.

TELLS OF TORNADO.

G. W. Mulligan Reads Interesting Letter in Gospel Hall—Writer Coming Here.

At the regular gathering in Gospel Hall last night, Mr. G .W. Mulligan read a letter from Mr. Hugh Kane, who happened to be in the city of Frankford, Illinois, on the day that the tornado cut a mile-wide swath through the city.

Mr. Kane said one could see men, women, horses and cows flying through the air like birds, great buildings tossed about like toys. Then, on the heels of the storm, explosions and fire followed. Hundreds were burned to death and the fields strewn with dismembered bodies of human beings, the whole making a sickening spectacle.

It was remarkable that the Gospel Hall, where Mr. Kane was holding meetings, escaped entirely. Not a single member of the assembly was injured or a shingle moved from the roof. None of the members or their children or homes were injured in any way, and all were free to render first aid to the stricken. A railroad train in motion, was carried in a directly opposite direction to that in which it was travelling.

Mr. Kane expects to be in Peterborough some time in May, and will then recount further experiences in the tornado belt.

LONG SUIT SETTLED.

Compromise Made to End Case Begun 300 Years Ago.

PRAGUE, April 2. — (Associated Press).—A law suit concerning a large tract of standing timber which was begun 300 years ago has been settled, it was announced recently. The land in question was formerly claimed by the wealthy family of Schoenborn, of Velke Lucky.

As a result of a compromise, part of the forest acreage is to be sold for the benefit of the Ruthenian peasants of the district, while some 4,000 acres are awarded to the Schoenborn heirs who have been fighting the case through the various courts all these years.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

DUTY ON WHEAT.
Hamilton, Ont.

To the Editor:

Dear Sir,—Canada's increase of duty on slack bituminous coal, was met by the U. S. transportation companies the next day.

Why not adjust Canada's transportation rates, so as to supply Canada's needs with her own coal at least, whether we export much or not and avoid sending $100,000,000.00 of our own good money away after it?

The U. S. duty on Canadian wheat has now been in effect about two years or more, and we have not met it yet.

Why not an export duty of say 30c. and the United States will meet this immediately, by reducing theirs to that extent?

Why not Canada have the $30,000,000.00 and the United States $12,000,000.00 instead of the United States having it all?

Canada produces the wheat, and is entitled to the whole value of it.

Yours truly,
W. O. SEALEY.

"ASBESTOS."
Hamilton, Ont.

To the Editor:

Dear Sir,—Its positive fire-proofing and heat conserving qualities, make it indispensable for many uses, which are constantly increasing.

Last year we exported about $9,000,000.00 worth, (the trade report don't seem to give raw and manufactured separate), but I understand it is largely raw.

With Canada possessing 35 p.c. of the world's known supply, why should not Canadian labor convert it into finished and useful products.

Why not an embargo or export duty, upon its raw and partly finished products.

Neither weather or insects, or moth or rust will corrupt, (but we cannot complete the biblical sentence) because exporting raw material of this nature, seems like approaching legalized stealing the Canadian workmen's wages, and giving them to foreign workmen in other countries, without any recompense whatever.

It should and must provide work or taxes, I perfer the work.

Yours truly,
W. O. SEALEY.

End Catarrh Germs In Three Minutes

Chronic catarrh, no matter how bad, and cases of bronchial asthma now yield instantly to the amazing discovery of a French scientist. This drugless method called Lavex eliminates the germs in three minutes, yet is positively harmless to the most delicate tissues. Your head and lungs are cleared like magic. Sufferers are relieved in a single night.

To prove it and to introduce Lavex to ten thousand sufferers in one month, I offer, to send a treatment free and postpaid, to any one who will write for it. No obligation. No cost. If it banishes your Catarrh you can repay the favor by telling your friends—if not, the loss is mine. No matter what you have tried, just send me your name and address for this generous free treatment and prove that you can be rid of catarrh.

UNIQUE TALENT TEA.

Home of Mrs. C. Cuffe and Miss S. Robinson Was Scene.

A very unique talent tea was held recently at the home of Mrs. C. Cuffe and Miss S. Hamilton, 175 Hunter street east, when the hostesses contrived a striking arrangement with two tables, one showing an old-fashioned guest tea, the other a modern buffet luncheon. The ladies at the old-time table were dressed in old-fashioned costumes, and drank their tea from eight-sided saucers, but in spite of this inconvenience, the table with the larger cookies and biscuits and seats around it had the preference. There was a good attendance and the handsome sum of $30 was made and donated towards the work of the Ladies' Aid Society of Mark Street eMthodist Church.

"The Story of Petroleum"

A famous film

The fascinating story of a substance more valuable than gold, explained and demonstrated by W. A. P. Schorman, Petroleum Engineer, to be shown at

Victoria Hall, Mon., Apr. 6th

at 8 p.m.

PETROLEUM—the name that means life or death to the nations—the possession of which means supremacy or servitude in war or commerce.

Petroleum—a product that is of vital interest to every man, woman and child in Canada.

See how prehistoric animal and vegetable matter has been transformed into petroleum, the 20th Century wonder product.

How the pioneers locate the likely deposits of petroleum bearing sands. How they raise the derricks and sink the shafts. How they blast out the oil pockets. How gushers act. How the oil is pumped up from hundreds of feet below. How it is stored. How they lay pipe lines across hills, valleys or rivers. How the oil is forced through hundreds of miles of pipe lines to refineries far distant from the producing wells.

How the "Go Devil" chases dirt out of the pipe lines. How the oil is received at the refineries and how by many distilling and refining processes, calling for vast and costly mechanical equipment, they produce gasolene, benzine, lubricating oils, fuel oils and petroleum coke, all from the original "crude".

An Educational Film—yes—but a film that grips your attention. Shows how man has conquered one of Nature's greatest sources of energy — Petroleum.

Admission is FREE but by Ticket Only.

Tickets may be obtained while they last from our Peterboro dealers: Story & Webster, B. W. Manning, House's Garage, Dawson & Johnson. Look for the British American Oil Pump.

CHAPMAN'S FATE IN JURY HANDS

Spectacular Defendant Denies Presence Where Patrolman Was Killed.

MURDER CHARGE.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 2. — (Canadian Press). — Gerald Chapman's fate—his guilt or innocence on a charge of murder—will be in the hands of the jury within a few hours. Both prosecution and defence rested their cases at 1.30 p.m. to-day after the spectacular defendant had been on the stand for more than an hour.

Chapman this morning took the stand in his own defence on the charge of having murdered Patrolman James Skelly in New Britain last October 12. Chapman, cool and collected, speaking in clear tones, denied he had been in the Davidson and Leventhal store in New Britain at any time. It was in this store that Skelly was murdered.

Under cross-examination, he refused to be rushed into answers at the hands of State Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn.

HARTFORD'S GREATEST THRILL—Crowds jam the street of this conservative old city as the closed car (indicated by arrow) bearing Gerald Chapman, drives from the court house.

DUTY ON FOX SKINS.

MONTREAL, April 2 (Canadian Press).—The feature of the second day's sale of the Canadian Fur Auction Sales Company, Limited, here yesterday was the purchase by Canadian buyers of 190,410 muskat and southern muskrat skins.

Due to the fact that there is an import duty of 50 per cent. on all silver fox skins, entering the United States, American buyers were not anxious to take up offerings of 1,500 skins.

The price of marten skins suffered a slight decline over that of the mid-winter sale.

Sales follow: Southern muskrat, 84,830 skins, advanced 10 per cent, the top price being $1.26 for No. 1 extra large and large skins. Muskrat 105,580 skins, no change, the top price being $1.78 for eastern Canada skins.

PACKING OF LIQUIDS.

Post Office Department Warns of Danger of Breakage.

Reports have been received at the Post Office that mail matter is frequently being damaged by liquids, which was contained in glass bottles, not properly packed, resulting in their being broken in transit.

The public is cautioned, therefore, against mailing parcels containing liquids, unless the parcel is properly packed. Liquids and oils must be enclosed in glass bottles hermetically sealed. Each bottle must be placed in a special box of wood or of strong corrugated cardboard containing sawdust, cotton, or spongy material in sufficient quantity to absorb the liquid in the event of the bottle becoming broken. Such parcels should be marked: "Fragile—With Care."

GOSSIPERS JAILED OR FINED

Several Scandal-Mongers Convicted in Kentucky Under a Law That Prohibits the Circulation of False And Harmful Rumors.

Kentuckians must watch their tongues these days. Free speech has a string to it. Speech is not free which traduces another; it must be paid for. Under a new law the scandalmonger is punished through the pocketbook or a term in jail.

Even idle gossip had its dangers. There is a limit to garrulity and a curb on small talk.

If Lieut.-Governor H. H. Denhardt (the "Brig.-Gen. Denhardt who had charge of the effort to rescue Floyd Collins from his cavern prison at Cave City) had not run behind his ticket by thousands in the last election, Kentucky would have no anti-gossip law. He came near being defeated, and he attributed his bad showing to a whispering campaign. It was said by his political enemies that he was a Ku Klux candidate and that he was hostile to organised labour. He had been sent as a commander of State Militia to maintain order during a strike, and his methods at that time gave some colour to the latter rumour.

Denhardt has risen to his present post against odds. The son of a Bowling Green shoe cobbler, he got an education under those difficulties which are said to be good for young Americans, became part owner of a daily newspaper in his home town, and began to take an interest in Kentucky politics. After he went to the brink of disaster in the State election he persuaded State Senator McElroy, of Lebanon, to introduce at the last session of the Legislature, the present so-called "Anti-Gossip law."

The purpose of the new Bill was to reach persons who indulged in oral defamation, but not publicly. The real purpose apparently was to protect politicians from the sometimes ingenious but more often stupid bibble-babble which goes from mouth to mouth during campaigns, gaining in volume and malice as it travels, but not getting into the newspapers.

It is now a matter of common knowledge that in the 1920 Presidential election that State was saved to the Democratic column—even while Tennessee, a part of the "Solid South," was being lost—by a slanderous whispering campaign against Warren G. Harding.

"Any person or persons," says the new law, "who circulate a report or make a false report, or scatter a false rumor of a slanderous or harmful nature concerning any person, officer or candidate for any office, shall be deemed guilty unless he or she can show reasonable grounds for the report or furnishes the name or names of those who supplied the information upon which the rumor was based. * * *" Penalty, $10 to $100, or ten to fifty days in jail, or both.

New England prescribed the ducking stool for women gossips, the pillory for men. Nowadays Delaware alone preserves, in the whipping post ,a reminder of robust Colonial discipline. Kentucky punishes malicious cackling in the conventional way. This is not to say that she is more gossipy than other States; the Eighteenth Amendment was not adopted first where drinking was most prevalent.

The first conviction was at Owensboro. A farmer woman bearing a lumpy sack, went into town on a morning train and at the station encountered an acquaintance, who asked her what was in the sack. A policeman was standing beside him when he put the question.

"This is how I handle my white mule," said the woman, laughing. (In that country corn whisky which has not been ripened in the barrel or artificially colored is called variously "white mule" and "white lightnin.'"

"You'd beter be careful or the officers will get you," her acquaintance warned her.

"I'm not uneasy," she retorted. "You can take any Owensboro policeman around the corner and give him a dram and get by. The police go 50-50 with the bootleggers here."

Passengers, traveling salesmen and hangers-on about the station laughed at this spirited defiance of the policeman and he went to see Police Judge Robert E. Watkins about it. Then it was that the anti-gossip law was uncovered. It had been passed without so much as a ripple of attention in the press or elsewhere.

A warrant was issued, the woman was arrested and released in $200 bail, and at her trial said she had heard that a certain officer in Owensboro got 25 cents a gallon on whisky sold by bootleggers. She couldn't, or wouldn't, tell who had said it; but on cross-examination she admitted that her mother had said the Sheriff got the graft. The mother went voluntarily into court later and denied it.

The Police Court jury of six men (each of whom received his 50-cent fee only in case of conviction) not only found the woman guilty but recommended the Sheriff be investigated and that if the statemnet about him was false she be prosecuted for that also. The recommendation was beyond its province and was not followed. A fine of $10 was imposed and the farmer woman inserted an advertisement in the Owensboro newspapers expressing regret that the penalty had not been $25, the lowest sum on which an appeal could be taken. She said she was advised the law was unconstitutional.

In another more recent case at Owensboro there was an acquital. Mrs. S. B. Hinton was found not guilty by a jury in Judge R. L. McFarland's court of uttering a slanderous statement, after C. T. Daniels, Jr., who had caused the warrant to be issued, introduced two witnesess who said they had heard Mrs. Hinton say he was dishonest. Mrs. Hinton testified she didn't remember saying anything of the sort, but that if she had said it, 'twas so, and she produced a clipping from an Evansville newspaper about the arrest of Daniels there, in addition to telling of certain dealings between him and her. The jury was out only five minutes.

In another case, at Hazard, an appeal has been taken. A man there was fined $25 for saying intimate, twenty years before, with a woman of his congregation. The higher court has not yet acted on this decision. If this goes to the Supreme Court and the law is declared constitutional, Kentucky may take more notice of it; and so may other States.

Gossip runs like a scarlet thread through all literature. What was Iago but a gossip when he whispered to Othello about good name in man and woman? "Vanity Fair" abounds in gossips, and Diana of the Crossways, no less than Tess of the d'Urbervilles, was ruined by them. If Richard Feverel hadn't listened to gossip he and Lucy might have been quite happy together, and one of the loveliest romances of all time might have ended happily.

Gossip as an Art.

It isn't quite fair, after all, to call the Kentucky statute an Anti-Gossip law, for gossip hath its victories no less renowned than history. Lytton Strachey has demonstrated that it can be made an art; he has set the tongue of the world to wagging with small talk about certain eminent Victorians—not the least of them Victoria herself.

Gossip is the condiment of conversation. It need not always be venigary, it may pep up intercourse talk, it may pep up intercourse between man and man. In all the array of essayists who have told us how we should communicate our thoughts, theories and convictions, one to another, what one has warned us against gossip? They might as well tell us to take our oyster neat or our roast beef without salt.

Gossip, in the opinion of the Kentucky Legislature, is fundamentally bad. If we dissent, we may expect to be silenced in somewhat the same fashion as the company which tittered at one of Dr. Johnson's remarks. Boswell (who gossiped to the extent of four fat volumes on a single subject) tells us that Johnson said a certain woman had "a bottom of sound sense"; and that those who were talking with him began tittering at the phrase, to his great indignation. The doctor glared around upon them. "A woman of fundamental sound sense, then," he said; whereupon his hearers grew grave as the tomb.

INDICT HANEY.

Grand Jury Brings True Bill —15 Counts on New Indictment.

TORONTO, April 2. — A sensational surprise was sprung by the Crown in connection with the Home Bank prosecutions when the Grand jury presented a true bill against Michael J. Haney ,former President of the Home Bank, on charges laid under the Bank Act, the counts numbering 15 on the new indictment

The indictment alleges that Haney as president of the Bank on five occasions made false statements on the bank's condition with intent to mislead the Minister of Finance.

Blackheads Go Quick By This Simple Method

Blackheads—big ones or little ones—soft ones or hard ones—on any part of the body go quickly by a simple method that just dissolves them. To do this get about two ounces of peroxine powder from your druggist—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly for a few seconds — and wash off. You'll wonder where the blackheads have gone. Pinching and squeezing blackheads only open the pores of the skin and leave them large and unsightly—while the simple application of peroxine powder and the water dissolve them right out, leaving the skin soft and the pores in their natural condition.

PRIDE GOETH BEFORE A FALL.

BOSTON, April 2.— When the Lone Wolf, notorious "boudoir burglar," gets out of jail he is going to tear up his correspondence school certificate, chuck his detective books away, and forget all about his courses in finger-printing.

For too much education along these lines developed his ego. And too much ego led to his capture.

For months the police of the Back Bay district, Worcester and Providence had been baffled by this bed room burglar. He would break into an apartment, tie his women victims to their beds, ransack their homes, and then stop leisurely and write his name with soap on a mirror.

When the police would come they would find the carefully written name: "Lone Wolf," but no other clues.

The game became too easy. The burglar became more daring. He decided to goad on the police.

In his last robbery he stopped to leave a clear fingerprint on the neck of a ginger ale bottle.

The police were too dumb to find it, he reasoned. Wasn't he smarter than they? Hadn't he finished several courses in correspondence school detesting? Didn't he know all about fingerprints? Wouldn't he give them the razz?

He did for a short time. But his conceit gave him away.

With the fingerprint as their lead, Boston detectives ran down their quarry. They crawled into his window, as stealthily as he ever climbed through the windows of his victims' homes, and nabbed him in his bedroom.

But this time no "Lone Wolf" was soaped on the mirror. It was recorded on the police blotter, as the alias of James E. Walters, also known as Frank Stevens in Richmond, Va.

BEIGE AND TAN SPRING COLORS

Neutral Shades Are Popular For All Occasions.

USED AS TRIMMING

By HEDDA HOYT
Fashion Editor of the United Press
(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, N. Y., April 2. — (United Press).—Beige, tans and blond shades are the favorite ones for spring. These neutral tones are popular for evening wear, as well as for street and day wear. Scarcely any type of gown disregards these lovely soft shades which are becoming to almost everyone. Of course, there are many shades of beige and these various shades have many names so one must choose a shade which is becoming to one's coloring, as it is not always easy to wear a neutral color.

The woman who has lots of color can wear neutral shades as well as she can brilliant ones. Thus beige in most tones is becoming to her. The pale or sallow woman finds that she must choose pinkish beige or blond shades. When she chooses to wear beige that is on tannish tones, she must enliven her costume with color. Black and beige are favorite combinations, so much so, that one rarely sees a black frock these days that is not trimmed with beige. There are lace collars and cuffs of beige on black satin, beige lace insets in circular skirts of black frocks, beige collars and beige furs on black coats, etc. A most brilliant color combination is preferred by the woman who requires high color in her costume, such as beige combined with red, rose or green. Many simple street frocks of beige or tan have lapels or jabots of vivid contrasting color. Often where a colorful jabot adorn the frock, the jabot is worked in silver stitchery or set onto the frock with tiny silver buttons.

As for afternoon frocks, those of blond satin are most popular for dressy occasions. These are simple little affairs usually made of crepe or satin, with flaring hemlines, formed by circular insets or pleating. Most of these frocks are unrelieved by color or trimming and their lines are straight and slender except for the flare at the hem.

For evening wear we have still another version of beige, a light flesh shade which is so nearly the color of the flesh that from a distance one can scarcely perceive where the neckline begins or sleeves end. Several were worn at the opera recently and the effect was startlingly nude, since milady seems to fade into her gown. Satin is the material used for these evening gowns and lines are simple and necklines low and rounding and untrimmed. One seems to be molded into these slender, simple frocks.

Shoes and hosiery, of course, match in color the shade of the gown this season, hence the popular blond satin shoe and blond hosiery is chosen for the beigt outfit. For street wear, one may also choose the patent leather shoe with beige insets and connect the gown with the shoe by wearing beige hosiery.

Beige colored fur is the most popular fur shade this spring and one sees coats of every color trimmed about the hemline in light fur. Yellowish tones are also popular. Collars of long coats are decidedly minus fur this year, since fur is worn only at the hem.

While millinery is runnings to pastel colors and to very brilliant ones, there are many light tan shapes in felts and straws which are worn. One sees large horsehair hats of tannish shade more often than one sees brighter colors or black. It is predicted that the large hat will predominate for dress wear this summer, while the small shapes will rule for street wear.

Gloves also turn to beige shades this season. One rarely sees a white glove these days, since light tans, and beige tones are worn on the most dressy occasions. Beige gloves with petal cuffs of brick or bright red are popular and it is not unusual to see beige gloves stitched in red.

The woman who follows the beige vogue in its many shades will find that it is very easy to wear. She will never be at odds as to matching her costume with hat, gloves or footwear, since all beige tones blend well together.

A FINE COMPLEXION.

Can Be Had Through Keeping the Blood Rich and Pure.

A girl's complexion is something more than a matter of concern to her vanity. It is an indication of the state of her health. Pallor in a growing girl means impurities in the blood. Mothers should be watchful of their daughters complexions, and see to it that these signs are corrected—not covered up.

When a girl in her teens becomes pale and sallow, especially if, at the same time, she shows an inclination to tire easily, a listlessness and inattention to her work or studies, she needs Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a tonic which directly and specifically corrects the condition from which she is suffering. A chemical analysis of the blood of such a girl would show it to be deficient in just the elements that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can supply, but the physical signs are plain. The girl with a bad complexion, or who suffers from occasional headaches, who is easily tired and breathless after slight exertion, should begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once. A good appetite sparkling eyes and rosy cheeks follow the fair use of this medicine.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TEACHERS WIN SCHOOL HONORS.

JEWISH COMMUNITY HAD SOCIAL EVENT

Pleasing Programme in Hebrew School Hall on Water Street.

The Jewish community met in the Hebrew School Hall on Water Street last night for a social evening.

Mr. Moses Fine presided. Short addresses were given by Rev. P. Lavine and Mrs. L. Green, the former taking his subject from the second chapter of Isaiah. Mrs. Green is the representative in this district of the Hadassa Chapter. This chapter is an American medical unit, operating in Palestine.

Several vocal numbers were given by Miss L. Black, accompanied by Mr. J. Nazimok.

During the course of the evening, refreshments were served by several young ladies effectively dressed in white dresses with blue collars, blue and white being the representative colors of the Jewish nation. The hall carried out the general color scheme of blue and white, having several Jewish flags and several Canadian flags, the former representing their native land, the latter the land of their adoption. Over all this predominated the Shield of David, the emblem of the Jewish nation.

The young ladies serving refreshments were the Misses S. and D. Lavine, L. and F. Black and Dorothy Fine.

Prayers were offered for King George and Lord Balfour, the originator of the Balfour Declaration. This Declaration is the form of prayer which the Jewish people offer up for the British nation.

The ladies added the finishing touch to the evening's amusement by dancing what is called the "Hatikvah."

At 11.30 the gathering broke up with the singing of "God Save the King."

LIGHTER BODIES ARE IN DEMAND

Perfect Automobile Described by Automotive Engineer —Speedily Coming.

EASIER DRIVING

By ISRAEL KLEIN.

Wanted—A substitute for plate glass' lighter, less brittle, not easily scratched, equally as transparent and cheaper.

To the person who can invent a formula for such a product a fortune is promised, in the automobile industry alone.

The plate glass substitute specified is one of the many improvements required before we can say we have brought out the perfect automobile, says Herbert Chase, New York automotive engineer, in a talk before the Society of Automotive Engineers.

The perfect automobile which Chase has in mind he describes as a relatively light car, capable of averaging 30 miles on a gallon of gas with reasonably high maximum speed and such other characteristics that would insure easy handling in traffic and easy parking. Besides, such a car would be attractive, reasonable in price, and of assured durability and dependability.

Requirements.

To produce such a car, Chase suggests these improvements:

1. Engines capable of high torque at relatively low speed and with high fuel economy.
2. Gearless, or continuous torque, transmission infinitely and automatically variable.
3. Much lighter axles or their replacement by flexible members that form part of the suspension system.
4. Considerably lighter frame.

Body Needs.

5. Effective and long-wearing brakes, perhaps for all wheels.
6. Easily detachable tires, giving maximum riding comfort.
7. Lightweight, noiseless, enclosed body, with comfortable adjustable removable seats having back rests that move with the passenger; well ventilated yet weather-tight and fitted with a heater; finished inside and out with durable material that can easily be kept clean.

Easier Driving.

8. Springs to give maximum riding comfort with freedom from squeaks, rattles and vibration.
9. Safe and easy steering system free from wheel wobble and shimmying.
10. Cooling system that can get warm quickly and yet maintain a uniform temperature for the engine.
11. Central lubricating system serving all wearing parts and requiring to be filled not oftener than once every 1000 miles.

Practically all of Chase's suggestions are based on the need of a light car and comfort in riding.

NEW USE FOR GERMAN PROPAGANDA

The Boomerang of "Zeebrugge" Inspiring Film of the British Navy

A series of motion pictures taken by German U-Boat officers and intended originally as pro-German propaganda is a remarkable feature of the latest New Era Film, "Zeebrugge," which is a dramatic reconstruction of one of the most glorious episodes of the Great War.

The reason for the Zeebrugge enterprise was the then increasing toll of British shipping being taken by U-Boats working from the Belgian coast. The Germans, up to the time of this raid, believed the U-Boat would starve us into surrender. They were very anxious that America should see the deadly U-Boat in action ,and for this purpose a film was prepared. This picture, taken from a U-Boat, shows amazing scenes of the sinking of British merchantmen. It was placed on board a U-Boat which set out to carry to New York the film which was to keep America out of the War! But this U-Boat never reached New York. It was captured by the British before its voyage had been well begun. In this way a picture planned to impress the Americans with the invincibility of Germany was seized and remains the most overwhelming evidence of the barbarity of U-Boat warfare.

The New Era Film, "Zeebrugge," has been described by naval experts as being absolutely true to the facts of the raid as carried out on the morning of St. George's Day, 1918, and has been acclaimed by every critic as the greatest dramatic masterpiece ever seen on the screen.

This picture also holds the unique distinction of being the only film so far which has been patronized by their Majesties the King and Queen, who it will be remembered, paid their first visit to any cinema when they saw the first public presentation of "Zeebrugge" in London.

GIBBONS SIGNS TUNNEY FIGHT

Both Claiming Dempsey's Title—Bout Set For June 12 at Polo Grounds.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Tom Gibbons, veteran St. Paul boxer, and Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, were signed yesterday for a 15-round decision bout at the Polo grounds on the night of June 12. They will fight at catch weights, and hence Tunney's title will not be at stake.

Matchmaker Jimmy Deforrest, of the Polo Grounds A. C., which will promote the battle, said the match would be for the "world's heavyweight championship." Gibbons, he said, had made this stipulation in view of the New York State Athletic Commission's action in returning his $2,500 forfeit for a meeting with Dempsey.

"Tom is the logical champion of the world, because Jack Dempsey refused to meet him after he had challenged," said Eddie Kane, Gibbons' manager, who with Billy Gibson, Tunney's representative, signed the articles for the bout. "Tom will defend his title against all comers. Dempsey, we believe, has retired or will retire."

Gibson asserted that Tunney had "just as much right to claim the heavyweight title as Gibbons, and that he contested Tom's claim."

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 81 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

In applying my "straight line" principle in the swing the player begins the forward swing with a general forward movement of his whole body — and by that I mean forward on a straight line, toward the line of flight for the ball.

This movement shifts all the weight over to the left leg. This leg then stiffens and stops the weight movement The left arm, straight clear down with the swing, then sweeps the clubhead down toward the ball. When the clubhead is near the ball the right hand will go into it instinctively. Just as the clubhead meets the ball—not before that—you shoot the left hip right into it. This gives the swing that "drag down" appearance the clubhead always has when you see good golfers swing. It is a drag down—practically all the way with the left arm pulling. The sense of it, however, is that the body moves forward—not around.

BUSH DEAL PLEASES SISLER.

Browns' Manager Thinks He Got Better of Trade With Yank ees.

GEORGE SISLER, LEFT, AND JOE BUSH.

TARPON SPRINGS, Fla., April 2.—Manager George Sisler is tickled to death with the trade that brought Pitcher Joe Bush to the Browns for Urban Shocker.

"I feel that I got all the better of that trade," says Sisler. "I should have given the Yanks about $10,000 in addition to Shocker for Bush to have made that deal even up.

"In addition I got two young pitchers, Gaston, a right-hander, and Girard, a southpaw. I believe these two youngsters will win as many games for me as Shocker will for New York.

"Gaston is ready right now to step in as a big league regular and Girard isn't far away.

"Bush has shown the spirit that I like. He is working for the club instead of pulling the other way. I have turned my young pitchers over to him and he is helping every one of them.

"And don't forget that Bush is about the best right-handed pinch-hitter in the American League."

If the camera doesn't lie Bush is as delighted as Sisler with his new berth.

FOHL CLAIMING NO PENNANT FOR RED SOX

"We Won't Finish Last," Only Prediction He's Willing To Make for Boston Americans.

NEW ORLEANS, April 2.—Manager Lee Fohl of the Boston Red Sox is claiming no pennants for his team, for the time being at least.

When I walked on the field here, shook hands with him and said, "Where are you going to finish this year?" he went on about his work and replied:

"You tell me, I'm listening."

Last year when Fohl took over the Boston Red Sox, I asked him a similar question and his reply was emphatic, also brief.

Expects Great Race.

"We won't finish last. That's the only prediction I am willing to make." Fohl made good on it; the Red Sox finished seventh. When pressed for an opinion as to the coming race, he said:

"Last year I said we would finish last. This year all I am going to say is that I hope we will finish better than seventh."

"Then you expect a great race in the American League, making it difficult to attempt to place the standings of the teams?"

"Decidedly so. Not due to the fact that there are so many great clubs in the race but rather because the teams are so evenly balanced.

"Three clubs stand out in our league—Washington, New York and Detroit. They finished in that order last season and must again be reckoned with.

Policy Is Changed.

"However, Connie Mack may be about ready to put over a drive. The St. Louis club has great power. I managed that team and know. Cleveland has surprise qualities. Collins is certain to get 25 per cent more efficiency out of the Chicago cub and I certainly want to make progress with my team.

"I look for a great race in the American League, with anything possible.

"The policy of our club has been entirely changed. Last season we gambled with veteran players, some of them fading stars. We knew it, but hoped to give the Boston fans a run for their money in our first year.

"For two months they did. Then Harris and Boore suddenly stopped batting, and three or four of the old boys went dead on their feet. That settled the veteran system.

Club Being Rebuilt.

"The Red Sox are being rebuilt. It takes at least three years to make over a ball club. If the experience of Connie Mack is to be accepted as an example, it is nearer 10.

"Already it seems we have picked up a half dozen recruits with promise. If we are as fortunate for the next three years, there is a chance that the Boston Red Sox may be in a position to make some pennant claims in 1928.

"Just now the main thing is to finish better than seventh."

The statement there are more wrecks in Florida than in any other state sounds like an uncalled for crack at the Boston Braves.

Mr. Benny Leonard was showered with eggs just as he reached this line in his act, "I'll always be a champion to my mother." It is presumed he promptly changed it to, "I'll always be an omelette to B. F. Keith."

With both Firpo and Carpentier as members of his stable, Mons. Descamps would easily qualify as the P. T. Barnum of the fight trade.

A bottle of carbolic acid fell and broke over the head of a rookie left-hander in the Cleveland camp. "That's what you call giving him the acid test," commented Lefty Wiseman.

In another month or so the annual bathing contests will have got under way again, or under waves, as the case might possibly be.

Seven new reforms are to be introduced in football next fall, but we suppose you'll still have to go to the speculators for tickets on the 50-yard line.

PAYMENT IN KIND.

Musician Recounts Stories of Russia During the Famine Year.

TORONTO, April 2.—(By Canadian Press).—A bottle of perfume and two pair of stockings of pure texture were the gifts of Russia to Cecilia Hansen noted Russian violinist, where she played with Zacharoff before Zinoviev and other dignitaries at an official concert in Petrograd before her escape into Central Europe. Mr. Zacharoff received as his reward a high hat and a safety razor.

Miss Hansen said in an interview after the concert here. "On another evening we were billed for a concert. There was no fuel in our home, and to heat it I had to carry wood two miles during the afternoon," she said. "We appeared that evening in concert, and received two pounds of butter, three pounds of bread and one pound of sugar. It was during the famine year, and when people heard about the amount of food we had received they became envious and invited themselves to our home."

LACROSSE TROPHY BY MAYOR MEYERS

For District Competition at Campbellford Sports Day May 24.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 2.—Mayor Meyers announced his intention to donate a silver cup to be competed for by lacrosse teams in this district—the towns included being Campbellford, Hastings, Havelock, Marmora, Stirling, Madoc and Tweed. The trophy is to be played for every year at the celebration held on the Fair Grounds, under the auspices of the Seymour Agricultural Society, and passes into the permanent possession of the team that wins it three years in succession. It is believed that the Mayor's gift will go a long way toward restoring lacrosse to its one-time place of honor here, as the favorite form of athletic sport.

The first play for the Meyer's Trophy will be held on the 25th of May next. The members of the team taking second place will receive handsome sweaters as prizes from the Fair Board.

Sports Programme.

The committee on sports, of which T. J. Horkins is chairman, has about completed arrangements for their part of the programme on Victoria Day. There will be horse races, including a free-for-all, a 2.30 class, and a farmer race, if nothing occurs to prevent the carrying out of present plans.

The Tug of War.

The star event of the day will be in the tug of war between a team from Percy Township and the Burnbrae champions. Instead of putting up a cup or other trophy as a prize it has been decided to give a prize to each member of the winning team, as this arrangement meets with the approbation of those who are likely to take part.

A special committee has been appointed to secure the services of the Northumberland Regiment Band ofr the day.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

ABOUT ROGERS HORNSBY

The main attraction on the St. Louis Cardinals' roster is Rogers Hornsby, naturally. Hornsby is the big punch, the real power, as it were.

For the past five seasons he has topped the old league in batting, establishing a new modern mark last year by hitting .424. And what is more, on the majority of his rampages he has led the rest of the field on an average of close to 30 points.

Hornsby is one or the greatest batters baseball has produced. And were he a left-handed hitter he would doubtless boost his clouting mark considerably.

Much of Hornsby's success has been due to the care he take of himself. He's always in good condition is hi own trainer, and i a strict disciplinarian. Moreover, he practices what he preaches.

WATCH THEIR RECORDS

"Too many athletes devote their attention to records rather than condition," says Rogers. "And the cardinal sin is the way they eat.

"Many a baseball player with cleverness and ability insists upon eating a big meal before he trots out on the field. Baseball and all other athletics are full of excitement. And the result of entering into an exciting pastime with an overloaded stomach tells in the end."

Hornsby, besides being the big noise in the Cards' camp, is also as hard a worker as there is on the entire squad. He is the first one on the field, as a rule, and one of the last to leave.

He takes a short period off at noon to eat a couple of sandwiches and drink a bottle of milk, then he's all set for a strenuous afternoon. There isn't much breakfast for Hornsby during practice or playing seasons, either. But at night he's ready for a real dinner.

The Hornsby system for keeping fit has other commandments. He doesnt' smoke, chew or drink. Neither does he play golf, tennis or other athletic games.

DOESN'T LIKE MOVIES

A quiet corner in a hotel lobby or his own room suits him better than a movie. He doesn't care for movies and seldom attends. And he's not sure that constant movie attendance wouldn't in time dim the old batting eye.

Hornsby is a living example of the old adage anent a shoemaker sticking to his last. He's a baseball player, keeps in shape for baseball, and the records prove that he's some what of a success at the game, too.

Baseball would indeed be better off if it possesed more fellows of the type of Rogers Hornsby.

GOLF WIDOWS

Somebody answers the telephone bell, and shortly says, "Sure, that's all right." As a result, someone knows just as well that she'll eat all alone that night.

Somebody else is just walkin' around and getting the fresh open air; socking a golf ball all over the ground with a spirit that's peppy and rare.

Spring is the season when golf's due to start, so the habit is running once more. Dad plays the game and the "golf widow's" part is harking to dad tell his score.

Father goes driving, with golf clubs of course, while his wife, it can safely be said, would much'y prefer, with an auto or horse, he would take her on driving instead.

GATE BOTHERS MEN IN COUNCIL

Alnwick Resident Demands Removal of Gate Across Road.

PATHMASTERS NAMED

ROSENEATH, April 2—Alnwick Township Council held their March meeting in the town hall Roseneath on Saturday, March 28th, with Reeve Mauncey in the chair and all the councillors present, namely: Messrs. Parker, Gimlin, Braithwaite and Brown.

Archie Mauncey interviewed the council in regard to putting a wire fence along the front of his property and received the usual grant of one-half the price of the wire.

Communications were read as follows: from the Department of Land and Forests regarding planting trees on waste land for woodland purposes, the council to buy the land and the department to furnish trees and plant them.

Notification of a special meeting in Victoria Hall, Cobourg, on April and, regarding county roads system. These were received and filed.

From E. G. Shearer stating that the gate across the force road leading to his farm was an obstruction and inconvenience and if the said gate was not removed he will take proceedings to collect damages as long as it is closed.

An agreement was drawn up last summer and signed by the township officials whereby Mr. Jos. Kelly was given permission to put a gate across the road leading to Mr. Shearer's so that his cattle could go from the stable to the lake for water without any trouble. This required Mr. Shearer to open and shut said gate every time he left his farm. In the agreement Mr. Kelly agreed to remove gate any time the council required him to do so. At the time the agreement was drawn up both Mr. Shearer and Mr. Kelly were agreeable. For the water privilege which he was receiving Mr. Kelly was giving Mr. Shearer some private concession. Since that time apparently Mr. Kelly has failed in his part of the agreement through some misunderstanding between the two parties and thus Mr. Shearer asks for the council to remove the gate. When this came before the present council on Saturday they asked to have the agreement read which was done by the clerk. The reeve then asked Councillor Parker, who is the only member of the 1924 council sitting at the present board, to state the case to the council. Mr. Parker said that Mr. Shearer, at the time a member of the council, broached the subject at the board, after which Mr. Kelly came and requested same. The council thought it best to have an agreement and so the same was duly drawn up and signed by the reeve, clerk and Mr. Kelly, Mr. Kelly agreeing in said document to take the gate off whenever asked to do so. That gate to be on only from the 1st day of May to the 1st day of October each or every year. He said that last year's council had done what they considered for the best and he didn't think they had done anything out of the way.

Councillor Braithwaite asked was there anything else in the bargain between the two parties. Mr. Parker said not in the agreement but he had heard there was but wasn't prepared to say so.

Reeve Mouncey — "Did Shearer want anything else put on the agreement?"

Parker—"I believe he did."

Gimlin—"Why didn't he come for redress during 1924?"

Braithwaite — "Is there any obstruction upon the road at the present time to hinder Mr. Shearer from travelling along the road?"

Reeve Mauncey—"No. The gate does not go on until May 1st and at present there are twelve feet through which to pass."

Braithwaite — "Can anything be done until the gate is put on?"

Mauncey—"I don't think so."

Gimlin was sorry that Kelly and Shearer couldn't come to an agreement between themselves, but he didn't know that the council required the said road to be opened.

Braithwaite—"I don't think the 1924 council had any right whatever to have entered into this agreement as I think it was Kelly's and Shearer's private business."

Clerk McMillan explained that the 1924 council had hesitated about the matter but at last had granted it to accommodae the two parties as it made no difference to the township but they thought that it was not wise to let anything like this go on privately without agreement for fear of after consequences.

Reeve Mauncey thought it was funny Mr. Shearer had been so anxious to have the gate on and was now so anxious to have it off. He thought Mr. Shearer should have come to the council in person with his grievance and then he could have been questioned regarding the matter and that Mr. Kelly had removed other fences which, if he had to take the gate off, would have to be rebuilt.

Parker—"Nobody told him to remove them." Mr. Parker thought that Kelly was getting a great privilege in water for his stock and that he could afford to be lenient.

Mr. Braithwaite didn't think it was anything extra as he could have it pumped up.

Mr. Parker—"Why didn't he do it then and not cause this township all this inconvenience."

Brown—"If Shearer didn't want the gate on, why didn't he fight it them. I think we had better leave it there for he may change his mind again and want it on."

As no satisfactory conclusion could be arrived at, on resolution of Councillors Gimlin and Brown, the matter was laid over for one month, Reeve Mauncey cautioning all the members to find out all they could about the matter meantime, and be ready to act at the next meeting.

Pathmasters Appointed.

The following pathmasters were appointed:

Beat 1, C. Linton; 2, Jno. Elder; 3, Kyle Brown; 4, Silas Sherwin; 5, Austin Sherwin; 6, Albert Halstead; 7, Wm. Mouncey; 9, Geo. Quatt; 10, R. Greacen; 11, P. Parker; 12, B. Radley; 13, J. T. Drope; 14, Geo. Clarke; 15, T. J. Lamey; 16, W. J. Roberts; 17, Jno. Nichol; 18, Wm. Broadworth; 19, R. Bebee; 20, H. McCracken; 21, E. Thackeray; 22, N. D. Gimlin; 23, Ed. George; 24, F. Brown; 25, C. Franklin; 26, Cecil Roberts; 27, S. Herrington; 28, A. Eddington; 29, Jos. Dunnett; 30, Jas. Down; 31, Jno. Baxter; 32, W. Blodgett.

Fence Viewers — Chas. Down, Thos. McCracken, Wm. Brown, Chas. Sherwin.

Pound Keepers—And. Brown, Robt. Greason and Jas. Gimlin.

A few changes were made in the beats:

Mr. O. Vance was taken off beat No. 11 and put on No. 7, and No. 7 was extended to Varcoe's Corners.

Messrs. E. Gimlin and H. Blodgett and Taylor's farms were taken off No. 11 and added to No. 12, and the road, from English Church corner via Varcoe's Corner to boundary between Robt. Brown's and Taylor farm, to be added to No. 12. Beat No. 16 was extended to the school corner via And. Brown's corner.

Reeve Mouncey and Councillor Braithwaite thought that a separate account should be kept of the 1924 accounts paid by this council. Councillor Parker said when he came in to the council he had to help shoulder the previous year's accounts ,which had to be paid, and he expected that when he retired somebody else would have to pay the ones which he and his colleagues had not paid. So this matter was dropped.

On motion of Councillors Parker and Brown, Reeve Mauncey and Councillors Braithwaite and Gimlin were appointed a committee, to view the Haldimand boundary, with power to act.

The clerk was authorized to sign orders on the treasurer for the following accounts:

T. J. Slade, 2,000 feet pine plank, $78; Jno. Nichol, breaking roads, $4; Wm. Broadworth, breaking roads, $8; P. Parker, breaking roads, $4.60; Rr. McCracken, breaking roads, $5; L. A. Tucker, cleaning pipes, $1; W. Murphy, refund statute labor, $8; Percy Municipal Tel, System $19.

Mr. Burton Roberts is ill with the flu.

ARMENIAN JAILED.

Convicted of Attempt to Fraudulently Obtain Naturalization Certificate.

OTTAWA, April 2 (Canadian Press).—George H. Alexander, an Armenian, of Galt, Ont., was last night sentenced by Mr. Justice Rose in Assize Court to eighteen months in Guelph Reformatory, for having conspired with Mihean Mihrakian, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., to fraudulently obtain a naturalization certificate. Taking into consideration that Alexander had been in jail since February 9 last, the court included this period in his sentence, thereby reducing it by two months. The sentence applied only to the first charge of which Alexander was found guilty last week. A second charge, completed yesterday, resulted in an acquittal.

Bob Anderson, the sensational Lancashire comedian, with the Originals, coming to the Grand, Friday and Saturday, April 10 and 11, with a Good Friday matinee. Mr. Anderson's song hits are "Turned Up", "They Can't Catch Me", and "He Was More Like A Friend Than A Husband."

THEATRES

AT THE REGENT

JACKIE COOGAN IN "THE RAG MAN"—HIS BEST YET.

Child Genius is provided with a Great Story of Comedy and Pathos by Willard Mack.

Back to his "enduring rags" once more, Jackie Coogan will come to the Regent Theatre to-day in his latest Metro-Goldwyn picture, "The Rag Man." Those folks who have been demanding to see the Jackie they first loved in "The Kid" will have their first opportunity, for he is said to have a similar role that gives him just as much chance for pathos and even more for comedy.

The story was written especially for the child star by Willard Mack, and this distinguished playwright has constructed a humorous and thrilling tale as only he can, full of activity, but not crowded with complications.

A Regular American Boy.

In "The Rag Man" Jackie is once more a regular American boy, a lad from the sidewalks of New York. In his other recent pictures he has been wandering all over the map in a variety of roles. In "Long Live the King," he was the Teutonic princelet amid the spectacular settings of a mythical kingdom; in "A Boy of Flanders" he was the pathetic little Belgian artist, and in "Little Robinson Crusoe" he was a kid adventurer in the South Seas. But in "The Rag Man" he is the Jackie that everyone first learned to love, when Charlie Chaplin first brought his genius to the fore.

It is said that Jack Coogan, Sr., who personally supervises Jackie and the Coogan productions, had purposely kept the boy from this kind of a role lest he fall into the rut of being a one part actor. But now that Jackie's versatility is firmly established, the kid is back again at his beginnings. It is said to have been a happy occasion for Jackie and for everyone connected with the production, especially for picture patrons, who like Jackie best in comedy.

Fine Supporting Cast.

The role of Max Ginsberg, the old Jewish "rag man" whom Tim Kelly (Jackie Coogan) befriends and helps, is played by Max Davidson. The role of the crook lawyer, mainly responsible for the unhappiness in the life of the aged junk man, was given to Robert Edeson, erstwhile star of "Soldiers of Fortune" and "Strong heart." To Lydia Yeamans Titus was offered the role of Mrs. Malloy, the "apple woman," and good fairy to Tim Kelly and his partner. And who does not know at least something about Mrs. Titus, who has been a prominent figure in theatricals in England, Australia and America for many many years? William Conklin was assigned the role of the legal adviser and friend of Ginsberg and Ginsberg's little protege, Tim Kelly.

Plot Features Comedy.

In developing the plot of "The Rag Man," Willard Mack urged by Jack Coogan, Senior, has held himself gayly to a comedy scheme. This invests the entire story and is introduced logically to color and enliven it. A bare synopsis of the story does not reveal this comedy quality except to those familiar with comedy genius such as Charlie Chaplin's or Jackie Coogan's to beguile mirth or tears. According to Willard Mack's plot, Jackie becomes Tim Kely, who loses his home when the orphan asylum in which he resides burns to the ground. Tim, as he himself might say, "turns up missing," is reported among those poor unfortunates whom the flames devour.

Cheated out of Fortune.

Years before the story opens old Ginsberg—young then and full of ingenuity and hope, has made an invention and into their pockets flow the gold coins so plentifully as to enrich them "beyond the dreams of avarice."

The story of Ginsberg's misadventures in finances is told to Tim. Circumstances so adjust themselves to the little boy's shrewdness and intelligence that he is enabled to find the missing crooks. How he persuades them to restore to Ginsberg the things that are Ginsberg's is told with amazing directness and infinite charm. Succeeding in his aims, Tim becomes the senior member of the firm of "Kelly and Ginsberg," the largest wholesale handlers of junk in the great city of New York.

"The Rag Man" was photographed by Frank B. Good and Robert Martin.

TOM MIX & KATHLEEN MEYERS in "DICK TURPIN" WILLIAM FOX SPECIAL PRODUCTION

"Dick Turpin" Is Rich in Reminder of Romantic Period of English History.

Unchangeable old London possesses popular taverns and inns today that were famous when George Washington was disturbing the sleep of George the Third and until a few years ago one of the most famous stood at the head of Drury Lane. This White Hart Tavern was widely known from 1630 to 1805. The current engagement of "Dick Turpin," starring Tom Mix at the Capitol Theatre recalls this.

There Dick Turpin, who chose to be known as John Palmer, Barrister, went many evenings to eat the fat chops and drink the rich ale, to meet his friend, Jack Broughton, champion pugilist of England, and to carouse with the wild young noblemen. The gold with which he paid his reckoning was from the Lords and Ladies he had held up on the York Road, for Dick was the most dashing of all England's stage robbers.

Young, witty, handsome, courteous and generous to the poor, this rogue is frequently referred to by English historians as the "Robin Hood of the Road," because much of the gold he took from the rich he gave to the poor.

Gifted in horsemanship to an even higher degree than was the redoubtable Dick himself, Tom Mix has given a touch to the work of Director John Blystone that makes the character of Turpin a classic.

The Originals will appear at the Grand Opera House for Good Friday matinee and Friday and Saturday nights, April 10 and 11, when they will be re-welcomed by their many friends and admirers here after a year's absence. Many of the splendid new hits in the show were brought from London last summer by members of the Company while three of the big song hits were written by the brilliant Canadian composers, Hamilton Harrower, Keith Handyside, and Willard Crocker. "The Duchess Performs" was written by Leonard Young, in addition to several other numbers Mr. Young has specially arranged for this magnificent revue.

OMEMEE, April 2.—News of the death of Robert Boate, ex-reeve of the Township of Emily, came as a great shock to his many friends in village and country. Deceased gentleman, who had reached the age of 75 years, had been living with his son, Mr. Lloyd Boate, on the Ford farm, just south of the village, was in good health until Friday, when he was seized with a heart attack when engaged in assisting to unload furniture, and from which he passed away early Monday morning.

Mr. Boate was married three times, his first wife being Miss Clarke. His second was Miss Ford, to whom was born one son, Lloyd. Later in life, Mr. Boate married Miss McCague, who predeceased him a few years ago.

The Orange funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon, and was very largely attended. The service was conducted by Rev. A. T. Weir, interment taking place in the Emily Cemetery.

FINDS USE FOR LIQUOR PROFIT

Mrs. McClung Says Money Should Care for Victims of Traffic.

EDUCATE PEOPLE

EDMONTON, April 2. — In the Legislature recently Mrs. Nellie McClung, M.L.A., congratulated the government on not giving any share of the liquor profits to the municipalities. The proper thing to do with the profits, she declared, was to take care of those unfortunates who were the victims of the liquor traffic, by the establishment of a home for inebriates, the creation of a general indigent fund for people who have ruined themselves and their families by drink, and by the development of greater facilities to take care of the added number of feeble minded who would grow up outside of the drink traffic.

A second task that fa ed the government, she said, was the institution of a policy of education of the people, so as to minimize drunkenness. She had received "the jolt of her life," she states, when the government which claimed that the liquor traffic was forced upon it, had announced its intention of allowing advertising of liquor in the province.

POULTRY SHOW FOR WEMBLEY

Exhibition of Canadian Live Birds at British Empire Fair.

BUILD UP TRADE.

OTTAWA, April 2 (Canadian Press).—One of the new exhibits this year at the British Empire Exhibition will be one of Canadian live poultry. This exhibit will be put on by the Dominion Department of Agriculture in conjunction with the Association, and the Record of Performance Breeders' Association.

Birds will be selected chiefly from the pedigreed record of performance, and registered flocks, with a few Canadian National Poultry Record specimens of the popular standard breeds. They will be assembled in Ottawa, and inspected by a competent committee before shipped. In addition to the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley, it is hoped that it will be possible to show Canadian poultry at many of the larger agriculture exhibitions held throughout Great Britain. Those birds exhibited at Wembley will be shown in the British Poultry Industry Building, where space has been procured for this purpose.

Canada is now in a position to sell foundation stock which has been carefully bred under the record of performance and registration policies and no other country is able to offer breeding stock for sale that is backed by official records embodying qualities which are somewhat beyond the attainments of private breeders.

A great many sales have already been made to the United States and other countries, and judging by reception which was accorded the Canadian poultry exhibited last year at the World's Poultry Congress, Barcelona, Spain and later at the British Empire Exhibition, there is every reason to believe that the exhibition of live poultry this year will result in the establishing of an export trade between Canada and Great Britain.

BOY FELL ON ROAD UNDER A WAGON

Donald Ferguson Escaped Serious Injury on George Street.

Little Donald Ferguson, whose parents live at 251 George Street, was playing with a small companion, when Fate, in the guise of a white horse and a heavy express waggon, approached along the street. In some manner, the little boy fell under the wheel, and it was a nervous driver who carried the screaming child to his home, blood running from his nostrils. This morning, however, he was almost as good as new. With the exception of a cut nose, a swollen arm and a limping left foot, he was all right. After this, Donald will probably confine his playing activities to the sidewalk or his own front dooryard.

REYNOLDS.—In loving memory of my dear husband, John Reynolds, who passed away 2nd April, 1923.

When I am sitting all alone,
To my heart there comes a longing,

Oft and oft my thoughts do wander
To the grave not far away,
Where we laid my loving husband
Just two years ago to-day.

Ever remembered and sadly missed by his wife.

NURSES' ANNUAL.

Peterborough Chapter Graduate Nurses Hear Address on Goitre.

The regular meeting of the Peterborough Chapter of the Graduate Nurses' Association was held yesterday afternoon in the club room of the Y.W.C.A. There was a fair attendance of members. The president, Mrs. M. Devell, was in the chair. Dr. F. P. McNulty repeated at yesterday's meeting, by request, an interesting address given to the nurses some time ago, on "Goitre." At the conclusion of the meeting, tea was served, with Miss Ada Thornton as convenor.

IN MEMORIAM.

If it were true, that in time we'd forget
How very sad 'twould be.
It seems a long time, since our baby left,
But her memory lives on with me.
In all I do, I seem to see
A phantom sunbeam shining
In my mind's eye, I can see her smile
And hear her childish prattle.
Time passes on as it surely must
No matter how many hearts are broken.
God has placed in our hands a trust
To abide by His will, a token.
Although I try my very best
To carry my cross of sorrow,
It is but a poor success.
God give me strength for the morrow.

Composed by Elizabeth Sherrow, in loving memory of her sister, Margaret, who died April 2nd, 1920, age 5 years.

CONTRADICTORY DIAGNOSES OF THE DOMINION'S CONDITION AND OF THE GOVERNMENT'S BUDGET BY TWO DOCTORS ON OPPOSITE SIDES OF THE HOUSE

"Budgets Are Given to Us to Hide Our Deficits," Declares Hon. Dr. Manion, Conservative, Arguing for Economy and a Stable Tariff Policy.

LIBERALS HOLD POWER AT ANY PRICE

Hon. Dr. King, Minister of Public Works, Says His Department is Carried on at Half the Appropriation of 1914.

OTTAWA, April 3 (Canadian Press).—Hon. R. J. Manion (Conservative, Fort William, in opening his speech on the Budget debate in the House of Commons Thursday afternoon, referred to the suggestion of A. W. Neill (Independent, Comox-Alberni), that the government might give some Protection which would benefit his constituents, although he was a Free Trader himself. This was frequently the case with low tariff men, who wanted special protection for some industry close to home.

The speech of Hon. Charles Stewart reminded Dr. Manion of a statement made by Sir John A. MacDonald, regarding a political opponent who was of most honest appearance. Sir John had said "the good Lord never made a man as honest as you look."

The Minister of the Interior, said Dr. Manion, "fairly oozes respectability, and the more disreputable the case the government had to put forward, the more readily they had him speak for it. A tariff for revenue only such as the minister believed in, was a Free Trade tariff, and could not be called in any sense Protectionist.

In reference to Sir Henry Thornton's statement regarding the new industries of Northern Ontario, which had been quoted in the House, Dr. Manion believed they were mostly pulp and paper industries, and were not affected by the tariff anyway. He pointed out that there had been a riot of unemployed in Sudbury within the last few days.

"I submit that the Budget in its complete absence of any remedies for our discontent is like a train of 15 cars with one passenger." The Government had offered in the Budget a homeopathic dressing of Free Trade and tariff Protection, and an oil dressing of good times to come.

Railway Deficit $62,000,000.

Dr. Manion contended that the yearly railway debt should be taken into consideration in deciding whether we had a surplus or a deficit. According to the Acting Minister of Finance's own figures, Canada this year had really a dificit of $62,000,000.

"If we have many more surpluses such as the Acting Miniter of Finance decribed in his speech the other day, we will be ruined in this country of ours." It had been said that "language is given to us to hide our thoughts," but it looked as if "Budgets are given to us to hide our deficits.'

"If the South Sea bubble, the Home Bank disaster, and 'Get Rich Quick Wallingford,' were rolled into one," we would get something akin to what the Minister of Finance was endeavoring to do. "Now that the Dennistoun case is aff the boards, I am going to keep this Budget speech for light reading on dull days." The people should be given the truth of the financial condition of Canada.

Cost of Living Higher.

The Prime Minister in his Speech from the Throne had laid stress on the necessity in the reduction of the cost of living, yet according to figures furnished officially to him from May, 1924, to February last, there had been an increase in that period of 7.1 in the index figure. The cost of living problem was being solved by the Government in the same manner as it was solving the other question "by making it worse." What we required in Canada was the economic handling of affairs, a stable tariff policy high enough to allow industries to carry on, and efficient immigration policy, and a wise railway policy.

Canada had millions of acres outside of the Prairie Provinces, in Quebec, Ontario and the Maritimes to be developed. There was a stretch of country between North Bay and the Manitoba boundary line, as large as the British Isles and Germany, with natural desources of all kinds. This area formed the gap between the East and the West. The Government might endeavor to bridge that gap, where now approximately only 150,000 people resided, instead of sending all immigrants to the Prairie Provinces. Dr. Manion maintained that there should be less money spending by our railways.

Expenditure and additions to capital account of the Canadian National Railways last year amounted to $118,000,000, or as much as the total receipts of the Dominion of Canada in the year 1912, added Dr. Manion. The Government would do well to enquire into this.

"What would you suggest as a remedy?" asked Hon. Charles Marcil (Liberal, Bonaventure).

Check Expenditures.

"Our foot should be put down on these expenditures," retorted Dr. Manion. Six or seven years ago he had come down to Ottawa a public ownership man, but if things were to go on in this way, he doubted whether he would continue to be so much longer.

The Budget showed a decreased revenue of $52,000,000, and decreased expenditure of $5,000,000, or a little less than ten per cent of the decrease in revenue. Private corporations would try to approximate these amounts to a little more closely, Dr. Manion went on. He quoted figures to show that the C.P.R. had decreased their expenditures by 96 or 97 per cent. of their decreased revenue. The decreased revenue of the Dominion was simply a proof of business depression in this country. In Dr. Manion's own constituency, there were at least two plants closed down because of lack of adequate tariff protection.

Dr. Manion charged the Government with expending money on unnecessary things. The Pulpwood Commission and the Grain Commission had cost the country approximately a quarter of a million dollars and had given very little result. As the Government had appointed numerous other commissions he ventured to suggest that well over a million dollars had been expended in this way to save the Government from deciding things for itself. The Government had no conception of the business depression existing in the country and no conception of its own impotence, Dr. Manion declared. "Nero fiddled while Rome burned, but this Government doesn't even fiddle," he insisted. "It stands aside pouring oil on the flames in the shape of bad legislation."

Dr. Manion quoted President Coolidge in his inaugural address, emphasizing economy as a means of not only saving money, but saving people. Economy was idealism in its highest form. This country should have a tariff high enough to keep every industry going, and to keep our youth employed at home.

Who profits from the tariff policy of the present government? asked Dr. Manion.

Says Farmers Profit.

"The agricultural people of this country," interjected F. Johnston, Progressive whip.

"The Progressive whip profited from this Government, because he got a free trip to Wembley. Never was there a more disgraceful expenditure of public money made in Canada," declared Dr. Manion, amid Conservative applause. Never had there been such stories of business depression at the present time. It was work and wages that were needed in Canada.

This year Free Trade and Protection were both in the same Budget. It was weak inconsistency on the part of the Government. The Government had even refused Mr. Meighen an opportunity to move his resolution expressing the Protectionist principals. Nobody knew what Woman Has Right To Talk.

282 SHIPS SOLD BY GOVERNMENT

Ranged From Obsolete Cruiser to Canoe—Sales Since Armistice.

OTTAWA, April 3—When L. H. Hartell, member of Parliament for Hants, asked for a return showing how many boats of any description had been sold by the Government since the armistice, with full particulars of the money involved, he started a list which yesterday reached the House in a bulky file, showing that 282 craft were sold. These comprise everything from an obsolete cruiser to a canoe. Some fetched tens of thousands of dollars; others as low as $1.25. Even the department of health had sold one boat and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police two. The Department of Fisheries made the most of their turnover because 157 of their 1883 sales were of confiscated craft.

One of the questions asked was whether the government had any more ships for sale. The department of railways has answered this question with a list of 23 vessels of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, available for purchae. Two of these, it is explained, have been sold subject to inspection at Halifax. Two others, the Canadian Miner and the Canadian Sealer have been disposed of since the armistice.

Arrest Cancer For Years By Radium, Says Scientist

LONDON, April 3. — "We are definitely arresting cancer for periods of three, five and seven years among people who have been pronounced incurable by competent surgical authorities," declared Sir William Milligan, Secretary of the Manchester Radium Institute. The present policy was to use knife, but he foresaw a time when with improved technique a radium treatment would supercede surgery.

MINERS' RELIEF THE AFFAIR OF ALL CANADIANS

Nova Scotia Woman Amazed at Speech of Wm. Duff in Commons.

PRAISES MINERS

Have Remained Orderly, Realizing the Eyes of the Dominion Were on Them.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 3. — Edith J. Archibald, who joined with Lieut.-Governor MacCallum Grant in the first general appeal for the relief of destitution in Cape Breton, gave out a statement on Thursday commenting on the remarks of William Duff, M.P., in the House of Commons on Wednesday.

Mrs. Archibald is the wife of Chas Archibald, formerly president of the Bank of Nova Scotia, and lived for many years in the colliery districts of the province. Her statement follows:

"I have just read with feelings of horror and amazement the extraordinary utterances in yesterday's session of Parliament of the member for Lunenburg, William Duff, M.P., in relation to the deplorable state of destitution now existing in the mining districts of Nova Scotia.

"At this stage when the facts of the misery and starvation of thousands of our hard-working and self-respecting fellow citizens and their families are known to the whole Dominion, and have passed from being merely a local or provincial problem, and assumed the proportions of what is undeniably a national calamity, it is little short of a crime that any public man should by his own prejudiced and ill-considered utterances, however incorrect and unfair they may be, seek to divert the stream of public sympathy and assistance from those who are seeking to save the lives of perishing women and helpless little children.

Conspiracy of Silence.

"He may be right in stating that if Premier Armstrong did not do the right thing, every constituency in his province would have something to say about it at the next election.'

"This of course, goes without saying, but he might have added that if the Government of Nova Scotia continues to pursue its present policy of aggravating the trouble by its conspiracy of silence, and its heartless indifference to the appeals of the miners for relief, a very large section of its constituency, with their families, would not be alive to express their opinions with their ballots.

"And Mr. Duff is right also in his belief that Nova Scotia is proud and not anxious to be held up to the rest of the Dominion as being ob-

MAYOR CASTS VOTE TO ALLOW CONSTRUCTION OF GAS TANKS OPPOSED BY ALL EAST CITY

Deputation of Thirty, Headed by V. J. McElderry, is Unsuccessful.

VIGOROUS PROTEST

Council Cannot Undo Its Work is Stand Taken by His Worship.

Mayor J. J. Turner had the last word to say last night regarding the building of gasoline and oil tanks in East City by the British American Oil Company, when he threw the casting vote that broke a tie in favor of permitting the constuction to proceed in accordance with permission granted by the Council in February. V. J. McElderry ably urged the case of citizens in the vicinity who object to the hazard they believe the tanks will bring and the nuisance from fumes and smell they believe attend the operation of such a plant. There were thirty East City representatives present in his support, but the best their united efforts could do was cause a spit among the members of the Council, four to four, and His Worship voted against the city's going back on its agreement with the company.

Alderman Nagle Phelan, running true to form in demanding an unequivocal expression of opinion from every member of the Council, called for a record of the yeas and nays, showing:

To Repeal the Agreement:
Phelan.
Turner
McIntyre
Greene

To Permit Construction:
Jones
Fife
Meyers
Denne
The Mayor

Last night's special meeting of the Council was called to receive the report of a special sub-committee appointed to confer with the British American Oil Company in an effort to secure for it a suitable location elsewhere in the city. In this, the committee was unsuccessful, the only site possible not being viewed favorably by the company. His Worship reported for the committee.

Too Late to Move.

In rendering the report, Mayor Turner said the company would not agree to take the site near the gravel pit, owned by the city, that was pointed out by the Canadian National Railway as the only alternative. The situation had been fully considered and the company, he thought, would go ahead with its building on the strength of the City Council's permission and the permit issued by the City Engineer.

Mr. McElderry pointed out that the residents of East City, not only those residing in the vicinity of the proposed tanks, were almost unanimously opposed to the scheme, and the feeling that East City is being imposed upon is reflected in the minds of citizens residing west of the river. The oil and gasoline tanks are dangerous, and may cause loss of property.

He was authorized by the Fire Chief, he said, to state that he believes the location is very unsatisfactory and unsafe, being too close to the residential section and near the centre of the city. A fire there would be a catastrophe, Chief George Gimblett thinks.

"This," Mr. McElderry commented, is within the knowledge of all of us. It is a thickly populated district, and there are children playing around there. A carelessly lighted match might cause disaster."

Not only the danger is objected to, he continued, but the fumes are considerable and annoying to persons living in the neighborhood. And even the fumes might be dangerous, since an open light within 150 feet might cause an explosion. Mark Street Methodist Church is within a short distance, and if an accident were to occur with the church full of people, it would be dangerous to life.

This section, strictly speaking, is a residential district, and people have the right to expect that it will be preserved to them. The City has passed by-laws prohibiting trade in favored parts, but people in less favored parts of the city are entitled to protection, too. "This," Mr. Mc-

Sympathetic Murderer Wins Freedom In Court

BERLIN, April 3 (United Press).—Another "sympathetic murdered" has been acquitted.

The noted German aviator Muehlnickel, who in 1920 shot a a Russian soldier to end his agony, was freed today by a Posen court.

After the Great War, Muehlnicke joined the Polish army as an aviator, and participated in the Russo-Polish conflict. He came upon a Communist who had been dangerously wounded and the latter begged to be shot. The aviator at first refused, but later agreed. The defence pointed to the Uminska case in Paris as a precedent for acquitting a slayer who killed in sympathy.

FIRE EQUIPMENT OF PETERBORO' IS ANTIQUATED

Criticism of St. Catherine's Department Might Be Applied Here.

SAYS FIRE CHIEF.

Fire Underwriters' Association Inspector Finds Steam Engine Is Obsolete.

That the statements made by Fire Marshal Heaton at the investigation of a fatal fire in St. Catharines could be applied equally well to the Peterboro department, is the opinion of Chief George Gimblett of the local fire brigade. Marshal Heaton said that "in neither man power nor in modern apparatus is St. Catharines possessed of forces adequate to meet a fire of exceptional circumstances." He urged the immediate purchase of a motor ladder truck to replace the horse-drawn apparatus, which he classed as antiquated.

In population and industries, St. Catharines and Peterboro are very much alike. Each has an approximate population of 21,000 and between 70 and 80 industries. The St. Catharines fire brigade, said Chief Gimblett, is the same size as the Peterboro force. They have, however, two stations.

In his report this year, Chief Gimblett urged the establishment of a bungalow fire station in the south ward and the purchase of a motor pumper. This morning L. D. Walker, of the Fire Underwriters' Association, tested the steam pumper of the local brigade, and found it took 18 minutes to get steam up and deliver water at 120 pounds pressure. This he thought was a good showing for such apparatus, but he classed it as obsolete.

In summing up his report, Marshal Heaton said, "The whole point in this connection is that the brigade should be so manned and equipped as to be able to seize every opportunity that offers for the preservation of human life."

PEPALL COMING TO STAND TRIAL

To-day's Decision Ended Legal Battle—Put Up Big Fight.

NO DELAY.

LOS ANGELES, April 3 (Canadian Press.—Andrew H. Pepall, former official of the Ontario Government headed by E. C. Drury, today was held for removal by the United States Commissioner to stand trial at Toronto on charges of embezzlement alleged to involve approximately six hundred thousand dollars. Officers said that there would be little delay in starting Pepall on his way back to Canada.

To-day's decision closed a legal battle that has been waged here for weeks, Pepall fighting strenuously against an order for his removal.

Papall has been in business in Long Peach, near here, since his arrival in California.

Third Attempt To Burn Vacant Toronto House

TORONTO, April 3.—(Canadian Press).—"This is the third deliberate attempt to burn down this building in two weeks," was the statement made this morning by an official of the Fire Department, when spoken to regarding an incipient blaze that was discovered last night in a vacant third roomed house located on Glencastle Avenue, in the northern part of the city. The house, which is an expensive three-storey building with lavish interior decorations, has been vacant for five years.

SPURIOUS BANK BILLS PROBLEM STILL UNSOLVED

Counterfeiters Unload $300,000 Imperial Bank $100 "Notes" in London.

CLEVERLY MADE

"Plant" at L'Assomption, Que., Papered With Canadienne Nationale Bank Bills.

MONTREAL, April 3 — A flood of counterfeit Canadian bank notes menaces Canada. Confiscation of a clumsy, amateur counterfeiting plant and the arrest of seven men alleged to have been concerned with its operation by the Mounted Police Wednesday, does not in any way solve the issue, Beaudry Leman, general manager of La Banque Nationale, and other bank officials declared yesterday.

According to Mr. Leman, the plant located by the Mounted Police at L'Assumption, had never seen the light of circulation. With a face value of upwards of $150,000 and in denominations of ten dollars, two rooms of the house were practically papered with the "bills," but the bills, it is contended by bankers, "would not fool a child."

In the meantime the other plant which started distribution of Banque Canadienne aNtionale bills some two weeks ago is still operating it is stated. That is shown, it is said, by the deposits to the banks in several sections of the Province, and these bills are sufficiently cleverly executed to escape detection except by highly competent tellers.

Simultaneously comes corroboration that counterfeiters are busy getting rid of $100 bills purporting to be issued by the Imperial Bank of Canada. These to a value of $300,000 turned up in London, England, Wednesday and then it was discovered that a batch of $29,000 worth of them had just been reshipped to Canada.

At present there is a division of opinion as to whether the Imperial "notes" are being made here or abroad. Police opinion inclines to the former view. With regard to the Banque Canadienne Nationale there is complete agreement that the point of counterfeiting is in Canada.

DIAMONDS IN STREET.

Stolen From Regina Store and Dropped By Thieves.

REGINA, Sask., April 3 — Passengers getting off an early morning train from the west in Regina Wednesday, were decidedly in luck, for a time. Two stopped long enough on their journey to the nearest hotel to scoop up diamond rings on the street. Later in the day they took the jewels to have them valued. It was then they learned there had been a jewelry theft reported in Regina late Tuesday night. The rings were identified as stolen goods.

CANNERY BURNED.

Loss of $150,000 to Salmon Packing Company.

WRANGEL, Alaska, April 3. — A salmon cannery at Lake Bay, 40 miles from here, burned Thursday. It belonged to F. C. Barnes and company, Portland.

A crew had left Seattle only today on the steamer Jefferson to pack five thousand cases of salmon in the plant this summer. The loss was placed at $150,000.

DRURY IN BOX TESTIFIES ON BOND SCANDAL

Refuses to Express Opinion on Pepall—Smith Never Offered Share.

COMMITTEE INQUIRY.

Former Premier Invested $300 in Peterborough Farm Paper, He Says.

TORONTO, April 3.—(Canadian Press).—E. C. Drury, former Premier of Ontario, testified before the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature this morning that his Minister of Finance, Peter Smith, now in the penitentiary, had voiced suspicions regarding a financial transaction carried out by Thomas McGarry, Smith's predecessor in office. Smith had said to the Premier he was suspicious about McGarry's loan because of the interest spread. Later, said the witness, Smith told him there were no suspicious circumstances. The first conversation was in November or December, 1919.

When the session opened, F. C. Biggs, former Minister of Public Works, said he was ready to make a statement regarding his dealing with the Provincial Securities Company while a member of the Government, which matter is now being investigated by the committee. He was told that he would be given ample opportunity to make a statement.

Never Offered Share.

Questioned first by W. E. Raney, Mr. Drury said he knew very little about the Ridout bond deal which was authorized by Peter Smith, outside of what had been brought out by the enquiry. Answering Col. Currie, the former Premier said Peter Smith had never offered to share anything with him. He had had no suspicions about the Ridout deal at all. Nor had he ever had suspicions about a "toll gate."

Questioned about the bond deal with Aemilius Jarvis, Mr. Drury said Peter Smith had brought Jarvis to a Cabinet meeting and the whole proposal to purchase bonds in England was discussed with Jarvis present. Andrew Pepall came into the matter on Smith's recommendation. Ask what he thought of Pepall. Mr. Drury said he did not want to express an opinion. The Cabinet decided upon a policy regarding bond purchases and details of arranging the purchase were left to the Treasury Department.

Asked again about the Ridout deal, Mr. Drury said one of the profits (said to be $90,000) went into the Government's campaign fund. His own opinion was that Ridout made too much profit on the transaction, but while it was an improvident transaction, he thought it was a straight one.

In the early part of the session Conservative members attacked the Liberal leader, W. E. N. Sinclair, for "trying to make the public believe the enquiry into the alleged toll gate had been smothered." F. W. Wilson (Conservative, Windsor) moved that Mr. Sinclair be put into the witness box to tell what he knew about the so-called "toll gate."

Mr. Sinclair objected, stating that such a motion was contrary to all rules of the committee. Col. Currie said Mr. Sinclair must enter the box or be branded as a liar. The Liberal leader demanded the withdrawal, and Currie replied that he would think so anyway. The Wilson motion was eventually withdrawn.

Pepall Was Mistake.

Mr. Drury said he knew of no moneys being given to party funds or to individuals, he knew nothing of money going to buy an Oshawa newspaper, and he had never heard anything of the Provincial Securities Company until last winter. M. M. MacBride asked Mr. Drury, who recommended M. J. Haney, ex-pre-

WANT NEW FISHING LAW.

Fish and Game Association Ask For Shorter Pickerel Season.

The Fish and Game Protective Association has its membership tickets all ready for those who wish to join and help in its work. They hope to have the open season for pickerel fishing changed to the same dates as for bass and lunge fishing, and are urging this course on the Government. The local Association has not taken up the question of a junior membership, said President C. G. Graham, but the success of this branch in other places has caused them to docket it for consideration at their next meeting.

AUNT SUSAN'S VISIT IS TO BE REPEATED

Knox Church Lecture Hall Filled to Capacity Twice Already.

The lecture hall of Knox Church was filled to capacity for the second performance of "Aunt Susan's Visit," a delightful little four act play, under the auspices of the teachers and officers of the Sunday School. By request, this play will be repeated, the date of which will be announced later.

It would be almost impossible to make special mention of any one person, as all seemed to be particularly adapted to their parts. Aunt Susan (Annie Crocker) took the main part, and her enactment of this role was perfection. As an old-fashioned lady from the farm at Peppers Corners, who came to visit her nephew in the city, she creates many amusing situations, but by her kind motherly interest in everyone, she wins the love of all. The role of her nephew, John Thomas Tibbs, was well played by Howard Hall, who although living in the city for some time, still has a great affection for his aunt with whom he lived in childhood. Mrs. Tibbs (Mrs. E. Huffman) striving to attain a place in society, is disgraced by Aunt Susan's behavior, but tolerates her for the sake of her money, but finally comes to love her. Reba Tibbs (Agnes Wallace), a pretty, popular young lady, inclined to extravagance in dress, aspires to great social position, and finally falls in love with Mr. Guy De Marchmont Goggs (Orville Martin). Mary Alice (Helen Wedlock) the other daughter, who takes after Aunt Susan's side of the family, is a pretty, loveable girl, who along with her father, loves Aunt Susan from the very first. Her sweet winning ways at once attract Senator Smith (George Wallace) and he falls head over heels in love with her, and with the kind aid of Aunt Susan, finally succeeds in winning her.

Other parts that were taken remarkably well were, Mrs. Johnston Highborn (Mary Morton); Mrs. Linda Suggs (Glad. Chambers); Madam Pauline Wizer (Kathie Buchanan); Mrs. Weekly (Linda Blowers); Miss Redlip (Jean Herd); Mrs. Sadden (Mrs. A. Pitchford).

The last act in which a reception is given to Aunt Susan on her departure for Pepper's Corners is a very pretty scene; the dresses, setting and lighting making a lovely effect. At the reception, Miss V. Buckham sang in a clear, sweet voice an old favorite, "Love's Old Sweet Song," and Miss Thompson, a Scotch lassie made a hit with her rendering of two Scotch songs.

Music between acts was furnished by Mrs. McKinnon, Mr. C. Peaker, Miss D. Gillespie and Miss Mc-Cannon.

MAYOR OF GLACE BAY SAYS DUFF HAS 'GROSSLY MISREPRESENTED' CONDITION OF STRIKING MINERS

Invites Member of Parliament to Visit the Town for Own Information.

A FALSE SPEECH

Nova Scotia Members in House Minimize Distress of Cape Breton Miners.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 3.—(Canadian Press).—Mayor D. W. Morrison, M.P.P., of Glace Bay, gave out Thursday the following letter which he has addressed to William Duff, M.P., Ottawa:

"You have grossly misrepresented conditions in the mining districts of Cape Breton. If you have not done this through ignorance, you have done it for the deliberate purpose of minimizing distress and keeping relief away. Your speech was a mass of falsehood and misrepresentation, and it passes my comprehension that a man supposed to represent a respectable and humane constituency should be guilty of such a disgraceful exhibition.

"Conditions existing in the colliery districts of Cape Breton are naked to the eye of any investigator who cares to go there, and no amount of misrepresentation can alter such conditions one iota. You say you are prepared to make in the colliery districts the speech you delivered at Ottawa Wednesday. We urge you to come to Nova Scotia and to the town of Glace Bay, and there investigate conditions for yourself. Every facility will be provided for such an investigation. I will request the Central Relief Committee in the Glace Bay colliery districts to supply a guide, and if after this investigation you can repeat on a public platform there the speech you made at Ottawa, then you are not fit to represent a constituency in any British country.

Appeal By Churches.

"You must understand that heads of the churches of Nova Scotia, clergymen of all denominations, and men of ability, sympathy and independence, have been issuing appeals for relief for thousands who are on the verge of starvation in your adopted province. Do you mean to say that all those worthy Christian people are lying about conditions? Hundreds of them have seen conditions with their own eyes, while you have been content to remain in comfort at Ottawa, and not harass your mind with suffering and privations in the province that is now your home.

"You say that the fifteen Federal members from Nova Scotia are 'quite competent to deal with the situation in Cape Breton,' and that 'there is no need for other people to interfere.' We have been waiting in this province for some sign of that competence and only sign that has come from the 'solid fifteen' has been the speeches of Cape Breton Federal members minimizing distress conditions and declaring that a rail order for the Sydney steel plant would provide employment for every miner in the county of Cape Bretop.

Critical Situation.

"Your colleague, G. W. Kyte, who is supposed to represent Cape Breton County, stated weeks ago that after March 16th there would be no unemployment and no suffering in Cape Breton. This is April 2nd and we have in Cape Breton today the most serious and critical situation with which our people have ever been confronted. If the utterance in Parliament of the Cape Breton Federal members, coupled with your exhibition of Wednesday, are an example of your competence, then it is no thanks to you that hundreds of human being have not died of starvation within the last month. You have asserted your willingness to come down to this country and repeat your speech. I am again urging you to do so. If you accept this challenge your ignorance of conditions in Cape Breton will be cured. If you do not accept it, it will be proof to the people of Canada that you have been wilfully misrepresenting conditions for some sinister purpose. You may take your choice."

NETS AND SPEARS BANNED ON TRENT

Government Will Vigilantly Protect Fish in This District.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 3 — Fish Inspector R. J. Allan has received a communication from the Department, asking him to note well and to enforce rigidly the new regulations which forbid the taking of fish with dip net or spear from the waters of the Trent River. Fishermen in the Trent Valley will save themselves and the officials trouble if they comply with this order when the season opens May 1. This prohibition applies to no other waters in Ontario.

The Government of Canada has spent millions of dollars in the Trent Valley and it is now proposed to get some return for the outlay by making the river a paradise for fishermen and by so doing attract tourists from all part of the continent. To permit angling only will conserve the supply but will leave the field clear for those who fish for sport alone, not for any commercial consideration.

WATCH REFRIGERATOR.

The contents of the refrigerator should be examined daily and no stale food should be allowed to stay there.

MINERS' RELIEF

liged to solicit alms to keep a large section of their best citizens from starvation.

Concern of Canada.

"But as society is now constituted, if one section of the Dominion suffers, and suffers unjustly, and if, furthermore, the situation becomes so acute that while corporations and local governments wrangle as to who is to blame for that situation, and thousands of precious lives are hanging upon the issue—then surely it is up to every Canadian to let his or her heart speak, irrespective of any question of either financial investments or party politics.

"You will, pardon me, I hope, if I refer to the warning note which I, as one who foresaw, out of my personal experience in the past, during many years of close personal intercourse with our splendid Cape Breton collieries, ventured to sound, at the outset of this deplorable deadlock.

Malicious Campaign.

"With all the earnestness of which I was capable, I urged the women of Nova Scotia to prepare for the task of relief and life saving which I felt would swiftly come upon them, not then dreaming for a moment how acute was the need or how terrible the distress, which has since been irrefutably proven to the hilt, over and over again by those in the highest places, whose word is beyond question, and needs not my insignificant corroboration. In the light of the utterances of such as these the vaporings of a Mr. Duff sink into insignificance; nor would they be worth the trouble of refuting, except as they form part of what from the very inception of this relief work has appeared a deliberate and malicious campaign of misrepresentation and belittlement, with the evident purpose of diverting attention of the public from the real need and suffering in our mining towns.

"It is little short of wonderful how in the face of all this undercurrent of opposition our relief fund, of which the Hon. McCallum Grant is the treasurer, has grown, and still continues to grow, from day to day. As the fund grows, the overwhelming need increases. Every day that passes brings more and more piteous appeals to our committee.

Renews Appeal.

"Once more then I appeal to the people of Canada to come to the rescue of the men, women and children, who are being left to a lingering, slow starvation, by the apathy and heartless inaction of both their own and the Dominion government. Up until now th morale of the miners has been splendid. But a daily diet of nine cents per capita is not calculated to do much towards keeping up the courage and spirit of any one; and to be half fed only prolongs the agony of starvation. These people have not had a square meal for many a long day.

"Yet, with food within their reach (did they unhappily decide to take it by violence) there has been up till now no rioting, scarcely any hard words, and order prevails among the crowds of idle dispirited men, who sway all day long up and down the black coal roads of the dreary mining towns in Cape Breton. It is safe to say that what holds them back from rioting is the very fact that the eyes of all Canada are upon them, and that the sympathy and help already extended to them appeal very strongly to their self-respect."

INDIANS BOUND BY GAME LAWS CROWN ASSERTS

CASE ADJOURNED

Defense Claims Indians Exempt From Law Requiring Licenses to Trap.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 3— Whether Indians have the right to trap without the formality of taking out the same license as the white men are requested to pay, is still an open legal question here and a final decision will not be rendered by Police Magistrate Payne until Thursday next. The case against the two Indians, Tom Foote and Joe Sharon, adjourned from last week was again put off. Magistrate Payne desired time to satisfy himself as to whether an Order-in-Council, pased in 1921, is still in force.

When the hearing was resumed in the assembly room of the public library yesterday morning, Major peared for the defendants and Crown Attorney W. F. Kerr of Cobourg for the prosecution. J. W. Coffey of Ottawa, game warden for the Eastern Ontario district, watched the case in the interests of the Department. Both defendants were present as well as Sam Peters, against whom a charge had been laid but as it was shown that he had not engaged in trapping this season the complaint was dropped. The specific charge against the others was that they had not taken out license. It was charged that they were residents of St. Regis, Que., and that being the case they would be required, the prosecution claimed, to pay $50 for the right to trap as against $5 which residents of Ontario are charged.

The hearing attracted a large crowd of spectators. No evidence was heard, the entire session being taken up by arguments of counsel and it was remarked that both sides were inclined to give the Indians a fair show, the onl yobject being to have this disputed point settled one way or the other for all time.

Major Ponton Argument

In his address Major Ponton admitted that the two defendants had engaged in trapping without taking out a license but his contention was that they were exempt. His authority for this statement was an Order-in-Council passed on May 25, 1921, approved by the Lieutenant-Governor, and which granted exemption to Indian trappers providing they secured from the Department a certificate showing their status as bona fide Indians. For failure to secure such certificate there was no penalty mentioned.

Never Bought License.

One of the defendants had trapped for 20 and the other for 10 years in this district. When asked by the inspectors to produce their licenses they showed instead a letter from James Moses, chief of the Iroquois, stating that Indians had a right to trap, shoot or fish without charge so long as water ran and grass grew. The inspectors had always regarded this document as sufficient and no prosecution followed.

The same view was taken by the inspectors at Smith's Falls and Madoc, where the defendants also trapped, and at Prescott some years ago the Indians had consulted a lawyer who assured them that the certificate from their chief was valid.

If, continued Major Ponton, the Indians had violated any law they had done so ignorantly. This fact was not sufficient to excuse them but they were uneducated Indians and as such were entitled to consideration.

Asked For Discharge

Major Ponton asked for the discharge of both defendants. He insisted that under the Order-in-Council referred to they were exempt from the payment of a license fee. Their only failure to comply with the regulations was neglecting to secure a certificate of their status and for this failure there was no penalty. Had these certificates been secured. Major Ponton said he would have a perfect case.

Compliments Officials

Major Ponton wished it to be understood that nothing which he said was intended as a reflection on the fish and game wardens. The people of the Province are to be congratulated upon the high standard of these officials and the fidelity with which they discharge their duties.

At this stage District Inspector Coffey explained why it was that R. J. Allan, who is serving his second year as inspector, did not in 1924 proceed against Indian who trapped without a license. No such action could be taken without the consent of the Department. Mr. Allan had sent in a report of conditions last year, but no advice or reply was received by him until the present season opened.

Mr. Kerr Replies

Mr. Kerr's argument was brief. He was of the opinion that the Order-in-Council cited by Major Ponton was no longer in existence and that if it were the exemption applied only to the hunting of beaver and otter. By neglecting to secure certificates of their status the defendants had failed to comply with the law and were liable to a fine even if exempt from a license fee. In any case, Mr. Kerr said, he was advised by Inspector Coffey that if the defendants were found guilty the Department would be satisfied with the minimum fine.

Residents of Ontario

Major Ponton claimed that the defendants were residents of Ontario where they spent at least 10 months every year, living at St. Regis, Que., only for the other two. The prosection concede this point so that if oFote and Sharon are required to take out licenses they will be charged only $5.00 each. They have $50 each in the hands of the court and in the meantime are permitted to carry on their trapping operations.

In order to ascertain whether the Order-in-Council of 1921 is still in force Magistrate Payne decided to reserve his decision until Thursday of next week. Major Ponton said that if convinced that the Order-in-Council had been cancelled he would have advised the defendants to plead guilty.

"The government doesn't know anything about its own bill," added Mr. Sinclair. "This House gives the government too much power to itself, and we have no right to delegate authority for legislation to the government. The bill on its face is unconstitutional, and on a par with the gasoline tax bill recently passed."

Bill Unconstitutionlal.

The Premier said there would be difficulties in collection as there were in all taxes, but that the principle was right and therefore should receive the support of he House. Mr. Raney said he was warning the government that the bil was unconstitutional, unless it became a direct tax collected by the issuing of stamps to be used for the tax with the purchase of every drink. The bill was given second reading, how-

Hon. J. R. Cooke, Hydro Commissioner introduced a bill providing that Hydro retail stores shall be subject to the same taxation as any other retail place; that power liens shall not have priority over mortgages, and that $620,000 deferred interest on the Nipigon power plant be paid back to the government.

Silent on T.N.O. Branch.

The Premier said that he was obliged to postpone his statement about the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, and the criticism in Quebec until later, as nothing was to be gained by saying anything at the present time. He repeted, however, that the difficulty had arisen because of misunderstanding.

A VALUABLE PUBLICATION.

The annual report of the Royal Bank of Canada, which has just been issued, not only gives complete and detailed reports of the annual meeting and of the year's operations of the bank but, in addition, contains a large amount of most interesting information in regards to Canada.

It quotes many statistics supplied by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, Ottawa, relating to population, agriculture, trade, minerals, manufacturers, forest products, transportation, fur farming and other Canadian activities, and should be of much value for reference purposes.

The report contains a list of the articles admitted free under the Canadian customs tariff, the text of the Canada-West Indies trade agreement, a study of wholesale and retail prices in Canada, a list of commercial failures, the railway and canal traffic returns, Canada's trade returns, the figures in regard to the field crops and livestock resources, and many other statistics of considerable interest and importance.

Altogether it presents in a convenient and concise way a wealth of information in regard to Canada and the Royal Bank in doing a public service of much value in issuing such a well-prepared pamphlet.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

The action of the Directors of the Peterboro Horticultural Society in passing a resolution declaring that the society believes that the interest of the development of horticulture will be benefitted by the instituting of a daylight saving measure in Peterboro, strengthens the demand upon the City Council for the adoption of summer time.

The Great War Veterans' Association has also approved of daylight saving, and the action of such organizations and the number of names that are being attached to petitions favouring the scheme indicate that popular opinion is much more strongly behind daylight saving than was the case several years ago when the proposal was rejected when submitted to the people.

The Council will likely deal with the matter on Monday night, and it is to be hoped that if the city fathers do decide that the daylight saving plan should be given a trial here this summer that the mistake will not be made of adopting it for too long a period.

There is little to be gained by extending daylight saving any later than Labour Day, and the general opinion seems to be that it should not be put into operation until the middle of May, thus making the extra hour of daylight period of three and a half months in duration.

STILL GOING UP.

Ministers of the Ontario Cabinet, with the exception of the Premier, are to receive a salary increase of $2,000 a year, besides sharing in the indemnity increase that is to be paid to all members of the Legislature, according to a bill introduced on Wednesday.

At present the Ministers receive a salary of $6,000 and a sessional indemnity of $1,400.

Under the new schedule their salary will be $8,000 and their indemnity $2,000, a total remuneration per annum of $10,000.

In introducing the bill Premier Ferguson vigorously defended the increase of the Ministers' salaries and of the indemnities of the members.

His Government was taking full responsibility for the bill, he declared, and if the people are not satisfied with this action they can turn the administration out at the next election.

So that's that.

It may be that some of the Ministers were making a sacrifice in accepting a Cabinet position at $7,400 a year, but no difficulty has been experienced in the past in getting capable men to serve the Province, even when the remuneration was less than the present salary, and electors may have some difficulty in convincing themselves that all members of the present Cabinet are worth $10,000 a year, or that the individual member of the Legislature should be paid $2,000 for three months' attendance at Queen's Park.

The increases add $80,000 to the cost of government—an addition that seems inconsistent with the desire of the people of the Province that economy shall prevail in the transaction of public business, and one that will not be of much assistance to the Provincial Treasurer in his ambition to attain a balanced budget.

LITTLE MOUTHS ASK FOR BREAD.

"Thousands of little mouths are asking for bread."

That is the most significant sentence in the latest appeal of the Glace Bay Relief Committee for funds with which to take care of the families of the Cape Breton miners.

It shows how necessary it is that relief should be sent to the victims without delay, and justifies the action of the local people who are planning to despatch a car-load of provisions to the suffering families.

Whatever may be the real facts as to the issue between the company and its employees, the plight of the miners and their families should touch every heart.

There may be many others who look at the situation as did Miss Agnes MacPhail, M.P., before she investigated the conditions.

Before visiting the district she could not understand how the workers' families could be reduced to starvation in three weeks.

She soon found the answer.

She discovered that for the past four years work in the mines has been scarce, and that for a year and a half there has been almost no work.

No wonder, then, when credit has been denied the miners, that they have been brought to a state of complete destitution.

The people of this country have never been found wanting when their assistance has been asked for by victims of great catastrophies in far-off lands.

Here are thousands of Canadians in real danger of starvation; they cannot be deserted now, especially when many of them are men who did not desert Canada and the Empire when the bugles sounded the call to arms back in 1914.

A car-load of provisions from Peterboro will be of material assistance, and the committee should have no difficulty in quickly securing the necessary supplies.

At the same time the Relief Committee is in urgent need of cash—$9,000 is wanted for the rations for this week.

The Examiner will be glad to receive and acknowledge subscriptions towards this most worthy fund.

IS A COLLEGE EDUCATION WORTH WHILE?

Is the growth of university training improving men and women? This question, as old as the spread of education itself, is again in the realm of controversy. In the United States it has become a subject of almost bitter debate, and, extraordinary as it may seem, the weight of opinion appears to be that many colleges, under existing conditions, turn out more wastrels than good citizens, that they are filled with sons of the "idle rich" students who, in the words of one educationist, are "time-wasters, money-wasters, character-wasters and energy-wasters."

As in most public discussions, the controversialists go to extremes. They argue from a particular instance to a general conclusion; forget relative values; and, in many cases, destroy their own arguments.

No one now condemns education. Everybody admits that an educated man has wider opportunity for being a good citizen, for achieving moral, spiritual, material and intellectual happiness than a non-educated man. Therefore, seeing that universities are the most efficient organized agencies from which education may be derived, it necessarily follows that a man who has been graduated from a university is better off than he would have been had he not gone to a university.

There are, of course, exceptions. There are young men who, unquestionably, use universities as social adjuncts, and there are others, perhaps, whose particular temperaments and intellectual bents would find more of development and expression in other ways. But it is impossible to make rules for exceptions.

In education, as in everything else, society has to have regard not for the few but for the many. In other words, the question to be considered is whether, taken all in all, universities, even under the most undesirable circumstances, are not a vast improvement over the absence of universities? When one puts the question that way—and there is no other clear, logical way of putting it—there is not and cannot be doubt as to the answer.

Let it be admitted, for the purpose of argument, that there are "wastrels" at universities. What guarantee exists that they wouldn't be worse "wastrels" outside universities? If the youthful scion of some wealthy family cannot be kept from wastefulness and intellectual and physical slothfulness by the academic halls of some seat of learning, why suppose that he would eschew his Pierce-Arrow or his Cadillac and become a model of industry and serenity in some other atmosphere. Surely he is of the clay that would go to the devil anyhow—maybe more quickly outside!

It is sometimes said that a college education is not necessary to success—statesmen like Ramsay MacDonald and Lloyd George, great captains of industry, are pointed to as examples. But these men prove nothing. They are, to begin with, exceptions; and who doesn't doubt but that they would have been greater exceptions, greater and more useful men, had they possessed university educations? Ramsay MacDonald himself has said that nothing that he has ever achieved in any way compensated for his loss of a university training; and who can doubt but that Lloyd George would have been a much greater man with fewer gaps in his knowledge? It is not enough to answer that Ramsay MacDonald without a university education is a better man than many of his contemporaries with university educations. The real point is how much worse those contemporaries would have been without a university education.

No one contends, no one ought to contend, that a university will create brains. Men are not born equal. But, on the other hand, while it is in some measure true that education takes out, rather than puts into a head, the unchallengeable fact remains that, all other things being equal, the individual with a university education is superior to, and more efficient than, the individual without one. Or, to put it another way, a man, no matter what the gifts, talents, or brains of his birth, will unquestionably secure greater realization from them because of a university education.

There are some who do not understand what education means. They confuse it with instruction. But education is more than instruction. It is more than memory of a lot of dates. It is more than a mere knowledge of books. It is more than information about contemporary events. Education is capacity to think. Education is that conception of life which comes from a depth and continuity of knowledge of the origin and purpose of existence, from a philosophy of history which enables one to weigh and judge human values, to think things through to the truth, to separate what is enduring and logical from what is superficial and false.

Room for argument may exist as to whether our universities, whether our whole educational system, are so constructed as to always impart education of this kind. Yet as between them and the sort of education that is secured by the so-called "self-made man" there can be no comparison. "A little knowledge," said Pope, "is a dangerous thing;" and there is little more pathetic than the half-instructed, illogical, cocksure man who, without the intellectual discipline of a university training, and with tremendous gaps in his knowledge, feels secure in the citadel of his education.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

According to the prohibitionists, England every day and in every way is getting wetter and wetter.

The Alberta Legislature having passed a resolution calling for the abolition of the Government House is now at a loss to know the resolution is to be carried out.

As the Globe points out, the latest crash in wheat prices has no relation to supply and demand. The marke is merely shaking out more speculators before it reaches its equilibrium.

With the ball teams and the wild geese both heading north, it may be safely assumed that spring is really here.

March not only went out like a lamb, but acted that way during most of its sojourn. On the whole, the third month gave a most excellent performance, which, it is to be hoped, will be emulated by April.

A THOUGHT.

HOW TO BE A FAILURE.

Of course no one need follow all of these suggestions to become a failure. Almost any one of them will do the work.

Spend all the money you earn. Fritter away your leisure time. Wear a scowl instead of a smile. Cultivate "put-it-off" habit. Disregard small or large obligations. Never see any good in other peole. Choose ignorant or bad companions. Put most of your confidence in luck. Scoff at system and take things easy. Cut the corners of the "Square Deal." Let your natural inclinations rule you. Wallow in resentment in other's success. Bother not with acquaintances at bank. Be careless of your prsonal appearance. Do not choose any fixed goal of ambition. Be careless of detail and responsibilities. Lose self-control. Clog your goal of ambition. Be careless of detail and responsibilities. Lose mind with hate. Regard your work as a bore, don't study it. Indulge in the feeling that you "know it all." Have no consideration for the rights o. others.

WINNIPEG LIVESTOCK

WINNIPEG, April 2.—Livestock receipts: 680 sale cattle and calves, 1,800 hogs and 46 sheep and lambs.

The trade in cattle was very dull. Prices were weak.

Packers were bidding from $11.90 to $12.00 for thick smooth hogs, for 25 cents below the close of yesterday. The few good lambs on offer sold up to $13.00.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, April 2.The relentless thrusts of bear traders were renewed on the wheat market here today, May delivery breaking 6 7-8 cents in a session of chaotic and erratic trading. The nearby futtre closed at $1.43 1-2, but at one time went as low as $1.41 3-4. The ueferred future suffered proportionately, July dropping to $1.42 3-4, a loss of 7 1-2 cents while October declined 5 1-2 cents to $1.25 1-2.

There were a few reactions, ranging between one and three cents, but those bulges were temporary and difficult to maintain. The market virtually slumped under its own weight, the buying power being extremely weak throughout. Exporters and millers sidetracked the market and speculative interest lagged.

EGG PRICES

Egg markets generally are lower. Receipts show a heavy increase. There is a surplus of eggs in Toron-

BRANDON FLOOD INVADING HOMES

FARMERS USE BOATS

WINNIPEG, Man., April 3—Flood conditions in Manitoba along the Assiniboine River were more alarming Thursday, and at Brandon, the stream had overflowed its banks transforming the low-lying country into a veritable lake. Residents of these flats have abandoned their homes, while others are preparing to leave as the swelling waters extend to their area.

At Portage La Prairie the situation is becoming increasingly critical and much property damage has already been caused. For many miles west of the town a huge ice jam has formed ,and workers have been busily engaged dynamiting this jam in an effort to guard against repetition of the disastrous floods of two years ao. In many parts of the surrounding country farmers have been forced to resort to boats and rafts as a means of conveyance.

The grave situation along the western course of the river has caused apprehension in Winnipeg and preparations are being made by the local authorities for the onrushing torrent which is expected to follow the release of the ice barrier.

Improved conditions are reported from the flood districts Saskatchewan, the waters having subsided appreciably during the past twenty-four hours.

THIRD WINDSOR CHURCH THEFT

'Anglican Records Taken Under Religious Impulse Man Confesses.

RETURNED THEM.

WINDSOR, Ont., April 3.—(Canadian Press). — Declaring he was moved by a religious impulse, Herman Durki, 23, confessed yesterday that he stole important historical documents from All Saints' Anglican Church here Wednesday. Durki called early Thursday at the home of Rev. S. E. McKegney, rector of St. Alban's Anglican Church at Ford, who is carrying on the parish work of All Saints, and told him he had repented of his actions and wanted to return what he had taken. He took the rector to a vacant house on the outskirts of the city and recovered the documents, which included a record of baptisms in All Saints' Parish for many years, a book showing the activities of the rector in his work among the parishioners and many Bibles and hymn books.

"I was urged by the Holy Ghost to break into the church and take away the records and anything else I could find of value to the church," he said. "I am sorry now."

Durki was taken to police headquarters at Ford, where he repeated his story, but no formal charge was made because Mr. McKegney refused to file a complaint against him.

All Saints' was the third church looted this week. Thieves broke into St. Alphonsus' Roman Catholic Church, opposite police headquarters, Monday, and robbed the poor boxes. During services at Central Methodist Church, a few blocks away, a diamond ring valued at several hundred dollars, a gold watch and a small quantity of money were taken from the purse of a woman.

CHAPMAN PROSECUTOR.

State's Attorney Hugh Alcorn, who is prosecuting the case against Gerald Chapman in Hartford, Conn., for the murder of a New Britain, Conn., patrolman, has the record of never having lost an important case. As he led his witnesses through testimony that is slowly placing the noose about Chapman's neck, Chapman said: "That man is murdering me."

"Buy only pure laundry soap — it's real economy"

says Mrs Experience

"Many women, I've found, choose their laundry soap merely because it is extra hard or because the bar is big and bulky—regardless of the soap's quality.

"As for myself, I always insist on Sunlight Soap, because I learned many years ago that it is more economical to use only pure laundry soap, and I believe that Sunlight is the only pure laundry bar soap made in Canada. Every bar of Sunlight carries a $5,000 Guarantee of Purity.

"And as every bit of Sunlight is pure cleansing soap, it cleans quickly with very little rubbing, and a little of it goes a long way. For washing clothes, dishes and general housework give me Sunlight every time. Sunlight doesn't make the hands rough and red, either." Lever Brothers Limited, Toronto, make Sunlight.

BIG PROFIT ON FERGUSON BEER AT 5C A GLASS

Provincial Treasurer Estimates Profit to Retailer of 110 Per Cent.

SECOND READING

Opposition Attacked Method of Taxing Beverages as Unconstitutional.

TORONTO, April 2.—Although not pressing for a formal division, the Opposition groups in the Legislature Thursday afternoon fought the proposed beverage tax strenuously. Both W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader, and W. E. Raney, Progressive leader, expressed the opinion that the bill as brought in by the government was unconstitutional, declaring that it was in the form of an indirect tax and therefore beyond the jurisdiction of the province. Several members of the Opposition wanted the tax on soft drinks struck out, and promised that when the bill reached the committee stage they would move an amendment to that effect.

Hon. W. H. Price, Provincial Treasurer, in introducing the bill, said the tax would be ten cents a gallon on 4.4 beer. He claimed that a gallon of beer could be sold to the retailer for 35 cents a gallon and with the tax would amount to 45 cents. In a gallon, he said, there were 20 eight-ounce glasses of beer which at five cents would mean one dollar a gallon or a profit of 110 per cent. He wanted to show, he said, that beer could be sold at five cents a glass. The tax amounted to one-half cent per glass and on soft drinks one-sixth of one cent. On wines, the tax would be 50 cents a gallon. Last year 370,229 gallons of native wine were soldf for consumption in the province, and based on this, the government would get $185,000 revenue from the proposed tax on wines. He estimated about $200,000 from the tax on soft drinks and three millions on the tax on 4.4 beer.

"Ostrich" Regulation.

H. Fisher (Liberal, West Ottawa) said the bill was another piece of "ostrich legislation," because it left nearly everything to regulation and even the government itself did not know how it was going to collect the tax.

K. K. Homuth (Labor, South Waterloo) said the bill was unfair in its taxation of soft drinks. It would play havoc with soft drink manufacturers because people would make their own drinks upon which there was no tax. He thought the tax on beer all right, but would rather see it collected on license fees than on beer itself. He thought the treasurer optimistic about the revenue to be derived on a beer tax because although other provinces raised large amounts, they were taxing "real beer" and not 4.4.

E. Proulx (Liberal, Prescott) supported Mr. Homuth, and said that by taxing soft drinks the government was taxing the drink of children. He could also see tremendous difficulties in administering such a tax.

Sinclair's Objection.

"The government picked the last thing in the world they should have to tax when they landed on soft drinks," said Mr. Sinclair. "They know that they must tax 4.4 beer, so they just included every kind of a drink in the tax." He argued that the tax could never be collected at soda fountains nor from the purchaser of soft drinks, and if it could not be collected from the purchaser, then the tax was not legal. He could not see where the estimated revenue could be raised.

Mr. Price interjected that he had been informed that last year 25,000,000 gallons of two and one-half per cent. beer were sold and thought

CHURCH UNION BILL ACCEPTED

Committee Adopts Report of Sub Committee—Administer Knox Jointly.

ANTIS OBJECT.

TORONTO, April 2.—(Canadian Press).—After one hour's discussion, the Private Bills Committee of the Legislature, by 43 votes to 17, this morning accepted the Church Union Bill as prepared by its subcommittee.

Hon. F. W. Nickle reviewed the chief clauses in the drafted bill, for the division of church property. The bill makes provision for a commission of three, one representing the non-concurring congregations, one represented the United Church, and the third to be selected by these two. This commission will have power to review conditions in any locality not above 50,000 population. The commission may settle property matters to the extent of seeing that minorities get buildings. The commission is also given power to enforce any award that it makes.

Regarding Knox College, Mr. Nickle said that neither group ,at the moment was anxious to accept Queen's Theological College because both wanted an institution. A solution therefore had been found in the distribution of the assets of Knox College. "What the committee asks is that Knox College building be given to the continuing Presbyterian Church, and that for a term of three years the United Church shall have the right of joint occupation, and during that term the income from the endowment of approximately $350,000 shall be available for the maintenance and upkeep of Knox. There shall be a division of property, half and half, between the two groups, and then after three years of joint occupancy of Knox, only an income of one-half shall be paid to the United Church until the Dominion commission deals with the whole problem of endowment of Knox and when that matter comes before the Dominion commission, the continuing Presbyterian Church will be charged with the value of Knox as found by the commission." Referring to Caven library, the committee is of the opinion that the library should be vested in a board of trustees who shall be charged with the maintenance and upkeep of the library in Knox building.

There are rumors that the Church Union Bill will come up on the floor of the House and be the subject of a prolonged debate. Nonconcurring Presbyterians are not satisfied with the draft bill adopted this morning by the Private Bills Committee.

TEACH PEDESTRIAN HOW TO WALK RIGHT

Should Keep to Left—Try This at Your Next Corner.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Now the pedestrian is shown how to walk!

For his own safety, the American Aptomobile Asosciation has had a plan drawn up telling him just how to cross the street, on what side-walk to walk and how to avoid the danger point in traffic.

According to studies conducted by the A.A.A., the safe side of the street for pedestrians is the left side, or the one on which he faces the traffic coming toward him on the same side. This is true also on country highways.

By walking on the left side, the pedestrians has a clear view of vehicles approaching him.

BAREE, SON OF KAZAN

by James Oliver Curwood

A LOVE EPIC OF THE FAR NORTH

"Killed it this morning," he explained to Baree. "Yearling bull, tender as partridge—and that's as fine a sweetbread as ever came out from under a backbone. Try it!"

He tossed the flesh to Baree. There was no equivocation in the manner of its acceptance. Baree was famished—and the meat was flung to him by a friend He buried his teeth in it. His jaws crunched it. New fire leaped into his blood as he feasted, but not for an instant did his reddened eyes leave the other's face. Carvel replaced his pack. He rose to his feet, took up his rifle, slipped on his snowshoes, and faced the north.

"Come on, Boy," he said. "We've got to travel."

It was a matter-of-fact invitation, as though the two had been travelling companions for a long time. It was, perhaps, not only an invitation but partly a command. It puzzled Baree. For a full half-minute he stood motionless in his tracks gazing at Carvel as he strode into the north. A sudden convulsive twitching shot through Baree; he swung his head toward Lac Bain; he looked again at Carvel, and a whine came out of his throat. The man was just about to disappear into the thick spruce. He paused, and looked back.

"Coming, Boy?"

Even at that distance Baree could see him grinning affably; he saw the outstretched hand, and the voice stirred new sensations in him. It was not like Pierrot's voice. He had never loved Pierrot. Neither was it soft and sweet like the Willow's. He had known only a few men, and all of them he had regarded with distrust. But this was a voice that disarmed him. It was lureful in its appeal. He wanted to answer it. He was filled with a desire, all at once, to follow close at the heels of this stranger. For the first time in his life a craving for the friendship of man possessed him. He did not move until Jim Carvel entered the spruce. Then he followed.

That night they were camped in a dense growth of cedars and balsams ten miles north of Buch McTaggart's trap-line. For two hours it has snowed, and their trail was covered. It was still snowing, but not a flake of the white deluge sifted down through the thick canopy of boughs. Carvel had put up his small silk tent, and had built a fire; their supper was over, and Baree lay on his belly facing the outlaw, almost within reach of his hand. With his back to a tree Carvel was smoking luxuriously. He had thrown off his cap and his coat, and in the warm fireglow he looked almost boyishly young. But even in that glow his jaws lost none of their squareness, nor his eyes their clear alertness.

"I'm a bad one, old chap," he chuckled. "You haven't got it on me—not a bit."

"I'm a bad one, old chap," he chuckled. "You haven't got it on me—not a bit. Want to know what happened?" He waited a moment, and Baree looked at him steadily. Then Carvel went on, as if speaking to a human. "Let's see—it was five years ago, five years this December, just before Christmas time. Had a Dad. Fine old chap, my Dad was. No Mother—just the Dad, an' when you added us up we made just One. Understand? And along came a white-striped skunk named Hardy and shot him one day because Dad had worked against him in politics. Out an' out murder. An' they didn't hand that skunk! No, sir, they didn't hang him. He had too much money, an' too many friends in politics, an' they let 'im off with two years in the penitentiary. But he didn't get there. No—s'elp me God, he didn't get there!"

Carvel was twisting his hands until his knuckles cracked. An exultant smile lighted up his face, and his eyes flashed back the firelight. Baree drew a deep breath—a mere coincidence; but it was a tense moment for all that.

"No, he didn't get to the penitentiary," went on Carvel, looking straight at Baree again. "Yours truly knew what that meant, old chap. He'd have been pardoned inside a year. An' there was my Dad, the biggest half of me, in his grave. So I just went up to that white-striped skunk right there before the Judge's eyes, an' the lawyers' eyes, an' the eyes of all his dear relatives an' friends—and I killed him! And I got away. Was out through a window before they woke up, hit for the bush country, and have been eating up the trails ever since. An' I guess God was with me, Boy. For He did a queer thing to help me out summer before last, just when the Mounties were after me hardest an' it looked pretty black. Man was found drowned down in the Reindeer Country, right where they thought I was cornered; an' the good Lord made this man look so much like me that he was buried under my name, so I'm officially dead, old chap. I donst need to be afraid any more so long as I don't get too familiar with people for a year or so longer, and way down inside me I've liked to believe God fixed it up in that way to help me out of a bad hole. What's your opinion? Eh?"

A TIP FOR THE HOME-COSTUMER

Beautiful Frocks Which Can Be Copied Shown By Importers.

NEW WEDDING GOWNS

By HEDDA HOYT
Fashion Editor the United Press
(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, N. Y., April 3.—(United Press).—One of the prettiest frocks in this season's collection of imports, is one which may be copied by the home dressmaker or the woman who does her own sewing.

The frock is made of cocoa-brown chiffon and is trimmed with ruching of fringed taffeta ribbon of cocoa shade. The frock has the usual slender body with a three-tiered skirt and long flaring sleeves. The tiers begin above the knees, extending higher on one hip than on the other. Each tier is bordered with fringed ruching and the sleeves which are snug at the armhole and flaring at the wrist are bordered in ruching.

A flat bow of ribbon adorns the left shoulder and is matched by a bow on the right hip, where the slightly raised upper tier begins. The hemline is straight in spite of the fact that the two upper tiers are higher on the right hip than on the left, since the lower tire is cut in one with the frock.

Anyone who understands how to make the shired ruching can make a duplicate of this lovely frock. Of course, one can use taffeta ribbon fringing each edge of the ribbon, but this is more costly and requires more time than fringing taffeta material which comes by the yard.

One and one-half yards of taffeta are all that are required for the ruching. One cuts the taffeta in two or two and one-half inch strips, sews the strips together so that they form one long strip. Then with the dull edge of the scissors, one frags the threads of the bias edge to form a fringed edge. This is very quickly and evenly done. When both edges of the strip are fringed, run a shirring through the center of the strip to give the desired fullness and baste on the frock. Then stitch the ruching to the frock with the machine keeping the stitch in the center of the strip. If the ruching is sufficiently fringed, the effect will be as soft as that of fur or feathers.

No longer is the white wedding gown forced upon the bride. Manufacturers of bridal outfits are conceding to the vogue for color and are introducing gowns of "Bridal Blush", a soft shell pink in preference to dead white and it is certainly a more flattering color than white to most women.

Where the frock is short and of heavy enough material to be worn without a petticoat, little matching bloomers of silk are worn. Usually the bloomer extends just below the knee and it is of the exact shade of the frock.

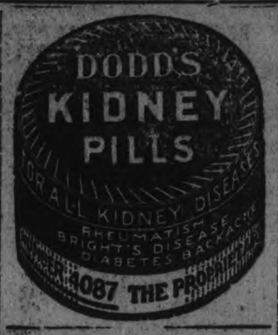
So popular has the pleasant blouse become, worn with the suspended skirt, that the peasant tunic in solid color embroidered in contrasting shades has come into vogue. Bright red tunics which requires but two or three inches of underslip beneath their hems are made with peasant neckline, full, embroidered sleeves shirred into a wristband and general peasant silhouette. Red seems to be the most popular tunic color although there are many blues, taupes and greens.

Just a little newer than the felt hat is the hat on similar lines made of silk bengaline or belting ribbon. Felts have killed themseves with popularity and the smart women prefer the silk hat that is made to appear as simple and as chic as the felts.

Ensemble costumes worn this week at Atlantic City are mostly of neutral shades, such as grays and tans. Tunics worn with them are of solid color or of figured materials.

Handmade shawls of cream colored wool with bright designs and deep fringe are worn over white cloth sports frocks at the Winter resorts.

Chinese embroidery is used on many smart street frocks. Mandarin skirts are combined with black satin and are appearing on Fifth Avenue these early Spring days. One attractive girl wore a simple black satin frock, beltless and with straight lines, with panels of blue Chinese embroidery set in the front and rear of the skirt. The upper portion of her frock was untrimmed, but was cut on mandarin lines with set-in kamona sleeves and up-stand the neckline which tied togteher in front with narrow blue cord. A yellow mandarin skirt was made into a straight-line tunic and worn over a scant blown satin slip.



HALDIMAND COUNCIL

Town Hall at Grafton to be Wired for Electricity.

COBOURG, April 3.—Haldimand township council met at Grafton on March 20, members all present, and Reeve Peter Haig presiding.

A communication was read from the Highway Department, stating a special meeting would be held in Victoria Hall, Cobourg, on April 2, at 2 p.m., to discuss important matters pertaining to township road improvement, and requested the presence of the reeve and councillors.

Upon motion by Messrs. Haig and McKenzie the clerk was instructed to give notice that tenders for wiring the town hall for electric lighting will be received by the council up o 1:30 o'clock p.m. on April 4, 1925. Plans and specifications may be seen at the Clerk's Office or Standard Bank.

Mr. F. Lawless, chairman of the Library Board, interviewed the Council re moving the Library from the Council Chamber. So far the Board had not decided upon a room. They expected to make the move in a short time.

Upon motion by Messrs. Harnden and Hoskin the Library Board was granted an extension of two months time to make arrangements for moving the Library, less if possible as Council requires the room for township purposes.

Upon motion by Messrs. Hoskin and McKenzie, the reeve was authorized to sign orders for payment of a number of accounts.

GOVERNMENT BEER AMENDMENT PILOTED THROUGH COMMITTEE

To Become Effective on Proclamation—Changes Were Voted Down.

DATE UNCERTAIN.

TORONTO, April 3 (Canadian Press). — Undergoing its final assault at the hands of the opposition, the Ferguson Government's measure for 4-4 per cent beer was piloted last night and early this morning through the committee stage in the legislature. Its passing was by no means uneventful. From all quarters of the House amendments confronted it only to be voted down by the Government members.

The legislation was under charge of Attorney-General Nickle who championed the measure as one for which the Government was taking the responsibility in respect to its proving in the interests of truest temperance.

Against this attitude Hon. Mr. Raney persisted in his view that the 4-4 beverage nullified the O.T.A. and proposed amendments which would exclude its sale first in those places which had local option before advent of the temperance act, and secondly, in those places which voted dry in October last. Both amendments were lost by overwhelming majorities. Mr. Raney then moved an amendment restricting the alcoholic content of beer to two per cent proof spirits, one half per cent less than the present O.T.A. standard but this too was lost. The Labor group also had several suggestions to offer. Karl Homuth (South Watererloo) urged that sale be by British subjects only. Peter Heenan (Kenora) wanted sale of the beverage by the glass limited to standard hotels and also urged that the hours of sale be restricted and that Sunday sale be prohiibted. Mr. Heenan further moved that doctors' prescriptions be abolished. Of this grist of proposals, all were rejected except one concerning hours of sale, which was allowed to stand oves.

Attorney General Nickle stated it was not the Government intention to allow the general sale on Sunday or after eleven o'clock on week days.

Venders would have to be standard hotels, well conducted restaurants or grocery stores.

It was also stated that the bill would become effective on proclamation which leaves indefinite the date at which stronger beer will become available. Regulations have to be drafted and other arrangements made.

WEST NORTHUMBERLAND MAY BE MERGED WITH THE EAST RIDING

Redistribution to Make Up Additional Representation For Cities.

SOME ARGUMENT.

TORONTO, April 3.—(Canadian Press.)—Western Ontario will suffer the net loss of four or five seats, it is expected, in the forthcoming redistribution to make up additional representation for Toronto, Hamilton and Ottawa.

Bruce will drop one member and presumably Centre Bruce will disappear. There is no longer much doubt about one of the three Greys passing out, and probably it will be the centre riding, now represented by Col. Carmichael, which will go. Argument will be put up against making two ridings out of three in Huron, but the centre may have to go. The bulk of Wellington West and East may be amalgamated as North Wellington. These ridings are represented by W. C. Chambers and W. E. Raney. In that case the south will be augmented.

Hamilton will get at least three members, instead of two and the Wentworth ridings may be merged as population is light. These are represented by T. J. Mahony and F. C. Biggs.

Brant will continue as two ridings but there may be some adjustment of Brantford suburbs.

In the east it is likely that West Northumberland, represented by Sam Clark, dean of the House, may be merged with the east riding. Lennox and Addington may be amalgamated and one of the Simcoes may be dropped, as there are four, none heavily population.

The redistribution committee will meet to-morrow.

PTOMAINE POISONING BLAMED FOR FORT ERIE DOUBLE DEATH

Bodies of McIlmoyle and Mrs. Kahn Had Same Symptoms.

JURY'S VERDICT.

RIDGEWAY, April 3. — That ptomaine poisoning was the cause of the deaths of Nathan McIlmoyle, of Fonthill, formerly of Peterboro, and Mrs. Rose Kahn, wife of a prominent Buffalo business man, whose bodies were found in McIlmoyle's cottage, near Ridgeway, on March 11, was the verdict of the jury last night at Coroner R. S. Stackhouse's inquest.

Dr. G. R. Stewart performed the post mortem on the bodies the day after they were found. He said he believed that they had been dead for ten or eleven days. He noticed some stuff on Mrs. Kahn's mouth, apparently vomit. There was no evidence of vomiting on the man, however. The two bodies had similar symptoms —the lungs were contracted, and there was evidence of poisoning.

Crown Attorney Cowper read Prof Rogers' report on the analysis of the stomachs, showing no indications of gas or other poisoning; but Dr. Stewart gave it as his opinion that ptomaine poisoning was the most likely cause of death, taking all the circumstances into considertion.

Ptomaine poisoning leaves no trace, he said.

MAYOR CASTS VOTE TO ALLOW

Elderry said, "is a positive menace in that community."

Nothing Can Be Done.

Mayor Turner complimented Mr. McElderry on the way he had presented the case, but regretted that nothing could be done. The request from the company came to the City Council in the regular way, and the permission was given. The City Engineer issued a permit. The railway company gave notice to tenants to vacate. Now the Council cannot undo what it has done.

Mr. McElderry: If the company took an arbitrary stand of that kind, you could pass a by-law curtailing the amount of gasoline to be stored in any particular part of the city. If you pass a by-law saying that only 100 gallons of gasoline could be stored, you could still have the whip hand.

Mayor Turner: They are not taking an arbitrary stand. They have done everything square and above-board and are going to be friends all around. The Council did not jump hurriedly into the decision. I conferred with the City Engineer and saw the layout of the land, and came to the conclusion that there would be no detriment.

The company will be an asset, beautifying the grounds, cleaning up old buildings, and improving the property. This protest is just two months too late; we have given our permission, and they will go on.

Mr. McElderry: If the City Council took a stand against it, I don't think the company would go ahead in the face of it.

Up to Council.

Alderman Phelan declared it up to the Council to take a hand to stop the construction of the tanks. "I figure we can," he said, "if not one way, then another. The first duty of the City Council is to the ratepayers.

"It has been said the Council weighed the matter carefully; I don't think we did. I know I didn't, and other Aldermen have told me they didn't. We took it that everything was all right, and that there would be no objection raised.

"I think the people should be protected. Personally I don't care whether the British American Oil Company comes here or not."

Mayor Turner: It's too late now to do anything.

Alderman Phelan: Its never too late. I move that the resolution of February 2, permitting the establishing of gas and oil tanks be rescinded. If this motion carries I am prepared to introduce a by-law limiting the amount of gasoline that can be stored there.

Alderman McIntyre (seconding the motion): I wouldn't want that oil company at my place, and you wouldn't either, Mr. Mayor. I don't believe we are too late.

Alderman Turner: It seems to me that the company doesn't want to find another location.

Alderman Fife said he would not vote for the motion, believing from the standpoint of fair dealing, the company should be allowed to proceed.

The vote was taken, and the meeting immediately adjourned.

EGYPTIAN DRESS IN CAMPBELLFORD

Miss V. C. Harris Returns From Mission Field With Interesting Story.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 3. — A large audience in the Parish Hall last night had a living picture of social life in Egypt when half a dozen members of Christ Church, arrayed in the different male and female costumes that are orthodox in that country paraded up and down the aisle. The various garments were unique, not to say grotesque, and those who volunteered to wear them for the purpose of illustrating the styles in Egypt required expert assistance before they could don the strange attire. A long blue gown worn by A. J. Jenkins gave that gentleman the appearance of a sanitary meat dealer in business garb. Mr. Jenkins succeeded in getting himself into his gown only by drawing it over his head and making a series of diver-like motions. It apparently has never occurred to the Egyptian tailors to construct such articles on the same general principles as the work of the Occidentals as occurred to inventive geniuses among the latter after nearly ninety centuries of sartorial inconvenience. The other garments used in the illustration embraced those worn by the veiled Egyptian women of different grades of society as well as of children of the upper classes.

Sixteen Years a Missionary.

The director of the above ceremonial, which proved both amusing and instructive to the audience, was Miss V. C. Harris, who is visiting here and who has spent 16 years as a missionary in Egypt under the auspices of the Anglican Church, in the laborious attempt to convert the Moslems to the Christian faith. Miss Scott has retired permanently from the field, with a successful record to her credit. Her energy and sincerity her devotion to her life-work was beyond question, but like all missionaries who have labored in the foreign field, she met with discouragements. Among the chief of these was the suspicion of the natives that those of the Christian faith were not sincere in their professions. For example, during the Great War they could not understand why the so-called civilized countries of the world should be locked in deadly strife, with only one purpose, and that to kill each other, while they themselves were at peace.

Miss Harris, who was introduced by Rev. G. C. Clarke, rector of Christ Church, spoke entertainingly for nearly two hours. Her address was illustrated with lantern views of scenes in Egypt, Sam. Clegg operating the apparatus. Several hymns were sung, Miss Gertrude Maynard presiding at the piano, and a liberal collection was taken up.

DOUBLE FUNERAL COBOURG TRAGEDY

Father and Son Buried—Reason For Death Can Only Be Conjectured.

COBOURG, April 2.—The double funeral of W. H. Beare and his son, Henry Beare, whose tragic death on Monday shocked all Cobourg, took place yesterday afternoon, from the family home, corner of Darcy and Perry Streets. Many citizens lined the main street as the two hearses, bearing all that was mortal of father and son, passed through to the Cobourg Union Cemetery. It was an odd coincidence also that it was in one corner of the grounds of the Union Cemetery, upon some property that was recently acquired by the cemetery company, that the dreadful tragedy took place.

The services were conducted by Rev. Adam Hamilton, pastor of the Cobourg Congregational Church, and he was assisted by Capt. Murgatroyd, of the Salvation Army. The deceased man's mother, an old lady now said to be past ninety years of age, has long been a faithful member of the local Army Corps.

Deceased's wife has been seriously ill since the tragedy, and her three daughters, the remaining members of the family, are here from Toronto with her.

When Chief Ruse and Coroner Terris were notified of the discovery of the bodies, by Mr. Ellison, caretaker of the Cemetery, and went to the scene of the tragedy, Mr. Beare's overcoat and inner coat are said to have been hanging on a door in another room from that in which the bodies were found. On the window sill of the latter room were placed a double set of false teeth. It is further stated that an empty razor case was found by the police in Mr. Beare's overcoat pocket. A razor stained with blood, it is said, was found on a shelf about seven feet from the floor near the body of the parent.

Nothing to Indicate Reason.

Up to the present, nothing has been discovered that seems to account for the terrible deed. The most general supposition is that the father was greatly worried over his son's condition, which was not normal. Possibly he thought that his action would put the child beyond suffering. It is stated that the family life was harmonious and deceased's domestic relations happy.

Mr. Beare was seemingly in very good health, and it was not thought that he was noticeably despondent. It is further stated that the family was in comfortable circumstances.

The cuts inflicted upon the two bodies were quite similar.

It is stated that Mr. Beore left his home about 9.30 o'clock on Monday morning, with the intention of taking his son to a chiropractor. About ten o'clock they are stated to have been seen going up Division Street in direction of the cemetery. When they did not return to dinner, Mrs. Beare became somewhat alarmed and went out to search for them. She further reported their absence to Chief Ruse shortly before that officer received the call to go to the cemetery. Mr. Beore is stated to have left no word or note of any kind to explain matters, and the real cause for the sad deed can only be conjecture.

NO EXTENSION OF LINE INTO ROUYN FIELD

Quebec Has Spent Money on Development of Mineral Resources.

SAYS TASCHEREAU.

And Cannot Allow Sister Province to Reap Benefits of Expenditure.

QUEBEC, April 3 — (Canadian Press).—The attitude taken by the Province of Quebec in the matter of the entry of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway Company into the province of Quebec to tap the mineral regions of this province will not be changed. Premier Taschereau yesterday received Hon. Mr. McCrea, Minister of Mines of the Province of Ontario.

What happened at the interview is summed up in a clear cut statement which Premier Taschereau gave.

"We discussed the legal and business aspects of the project urged upon us, involving permission for the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway Company to enter Quebec so as to tap the Rouyn district," said Premier Taschereau.

"We told the honorable minister from Ontario that there was no feeling of hostility whatever by Quebec against the sister province. We pointed out, however, that we have been spending two and a half millions a year in the Temiskaming and Abitibi districts in order to develop these districts, such as by way of building roads, aiding colonization and general development.

"We consider," said Mr. Taschereau, "that after the sacrifice that we have made and at a time when we can properly look for some returns to the province for the large outpouring of money, it would be quite unfair that a sister province should tap this district with a view to divert the traffic to Toronto.

Mr. Taschereau added: "We have the assurance that a branch line will be built from O'Brien, on the Transcontinental, into the Rouyn district by the Canadian National Railways and this will be built during the coming season. This will mean that the trade of the district will come to Quebec or to Montreal and that supplies for the district will go from these centres so that some benefit from our efforts will flow back to our own centres."

CONTRADICTORY

the Government's tariff policy was. There were several interruptions during Dr. Manion's speech from the Government benches, to which he retorted "You can go to the country as fast as you like, so far as we are concerned."

If the seven million people of Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia were to have the Protection they wished for, and that Protection was to weigh heavily around the neck of the three Western provinces, then those provinces should receive some compensation in return. England was having difficulty in these days in holding its shipbuilding trade under Free Trade policy.

Power at Any Price.

The present Liberal party was made up of Free Traders, Protectionists, and men like the Prime Minister who had no policy at all. On the Senate question, they did not apparently agree, for the recent speech of the Minister of Railways was quite different from the speeches of the Prime Minister last summer. On the railway question, there was Mr. Euler, who would amalgamate the two great systems in Canada, and Mr. Lanctot, who would give the National Railways away for one dollar.

"For one cent," interrupted Mr. Lanctot. The Liberal principles, declared Dr. Manion, were power at any price.

Dr. Manion declared that according to official figures furnished, $150,000,000 had been spent in one year on imports into Canada of farm products which could be produced here. "Our tariff is too low."

Any statement that there were 20 million unemployed in the United States was "false on the face of it." Never had such a condition existed there. This number would represent one-fifth of the whole population of that country, and "it would be all the fathers of all the families there."

The Liberal party had "as many tariff policies as a centipede has feet." Canada was suffering from a lack of a protective and stable tariff, and its condition compared unfavorably with that of the United States. What was the reason? Taxation here was much higher than it was in the country to the south of us, and the tariff in the United States was about twice as high there as it was in Canada on practically all lines.

Killing Industries.

What was required here was a "cool and a strong hand"; but what we actually had was "a weak head and a hand that cares for nothing but the sceptre of power." The present government was "killing industries." It was helping the Armenians, Czecho-Slavs and everybody but Canadians. "The only salvation for this country is to drive this government, bag and baggage from the Dominion of Canada." We should build up a country and develop opportunities for our boys and girls to keep them here. No country in the world has ever made progress and prosperity except under a protective tariff."

Hon. Dr. King.

Hon. Dr. J. H. King, Minister of Public Works, said Dr. Manion's speech was "a real campaign speech." Dr. Manion had intimated that there was extravagance in connection with our public works. Why not be fair? To-day the Department was administering and carrying on the public works of the country at half the appropriation voted in 1914.
